THE NEWS FROM CHINA.

The news from China is of a sensational character, but it is in exact line with expectation. The rebels' strength in Hunan, the most restless of the districts, is said to have greatly augmented; certainly their audacity has increased. Here we have the leaders now openly posting proclamations upon the walls of their towns calling for the destruction of foreigners resident in China and the burning of their dwellings.

It was known a year ago that the rebel secret societies were rapidly increasing in strength and that the Imperial officials were not only doing little or nothing to check them, but were incapable of much resistance. It was believed last summer that the Tartar Emperor so feared the spirit of rebellion that he was willing to have it attain sufficient prominence to excuse him for failure to protect the residents under the treaties with the various civilized Powers. Nothing of recent date has been manifest to justify modification of that opinion. A few ringleaders of the disturbers have been arrested and there have been two executions, but no permanent and effective action has been taken to check the uprising.

Evidently the throne will submit to the expulsion of the foreigners if by so doing it can placate the rebellious spirit and turn aside the assault upon the Imperial Government. It is also evident that the rebels are aware of this spirit of the Tartar dynasty, and hence the boldness with which they announce their intention to butcher or expel foreign residents.

But whatever theory is advanced, it is undeniable that the Governments, whose people are threatened, have sufficient cause to renew the demand of last summer, that the menace be removed. It is unwise to wait until a second blow has been struck and another outrage upon missionaries, merchants and their families is committed. It is a case for prevention assuredly.

We have two ships in Chinese ports, both indifferent affairs. One Pacific cruiser is en route to China now, and a small gunboat has sailed from New York for the same destination. But these will not be sufficient to afford protection to Americans in China. If the rebellion breaks out in arms our people must look for refuge, in the main, to the battle-ships and powerful cruisers of Germany and England.

THE UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA has established a "Department of Journalism." It announces that a competent man will be secured to expound the principles on which newspaper work is grounded and to fit students for practical usefulness in the vocation of journalism. All which is supremely absurd. Colleges which have attempted these departments of journalism have abandoned them after a brief trial. The one principle of all others substructural to the successful conduct of a newspaper, relates to the sale of the goods. The National Editorial Association practically resolved as much. Now the principle, if it is to rank so high, is one concerning which no instruction can be given outside of the newspaper office. The University of Pennsylvania may muster all the "competent" men in the land to instruct its class in journalism, and there will not be two of them agree upon methods, or be able to outfit the student to succeed. Newspapers are not made out of hand, neither are journalists--both grow. Newspaper publishers have and can have no other rules of guidance than the usual business sense rules that govern every action in business generally. Of course there are amenities and courtesies in the newspaper field that gentlemen observe in whatever calling. But they are not to be taught in schools of journalism, but in the common schools of good manners. When the University of Pennsylvania secures its "competent man" we should very much like to look upon him, and learn how he proposes to make practical newspaper men out of university students. We shall await his announcement of the principles on which newspapers are conducted with intense interest. It has been our fortune to run up against two or three college-made journalists, who have in each case been of incompetents. Their school acquired ideas of how to "run" a newspaper have fitted into real newspaper work with about as much nicety as would the cog-wheel of a sawmill shaft into the mechanism of a lady's watch.

CESAR CELSO MORENO is an erratic, excitable individual, and has been an agitator since the sixties. He has taken especial interest in Chinese and Hawaiian affairs, and has managed to keep some sensational phase of the Hawaiian Government constantly before the world. Nevertheless, Moreno is not a fool; he is shrewd, if sensational; persistent, fearless and well posted on Hawaiian affairs. When he says that the evidences indicate English activity to secure control of Hawaii, in case of the Queen's death, he is not far away from exact truth. Mr. Cleghorn, the father of the heir apparent to the throne, is an Englishman, and has just returned from an extended visit to his old home. The princess heir is a young girl and at school in England. What more natural than that Mr. Cleghorn should so exert himself that if his daughter comes to the throne the Regency shall be an English one in sentiment and general aims? Of course, when Cleghorn was confronted with the suggestion by an Eastern reporter, he made a somewhat indignant denial--no one expected him to admit it. It will be the part of common prudence to keep a watchful eye upon Hawaii and the movements of English politicians related in any way to the island kingdom. There is just one thing of all others that the United States Government cannot afford--that is to see the Hawaiian group pass under British control.

DEMAND has been made by the United States upon Chile for reparation for the recent outrages upon American blue jackets. Chile will foot the bill, apologize and salute the flag, as a matter of course. She is in the wrong, and the Junta well knows it. She did not afford our men the protection to which they were entitled when on liberty leave ashore, and no sort of excuse can be made for the failure. Even if so disposed the Provisional Government is in no condition now to fight. The lesson the United States is teaching Chile is needed. Her people have long been hostile to Americans--at least classes of them have--and have not hesitated to manifest their contempt for the North Americans. Punishment and humiliation will teach them that there are certain obligations incumbent upon them that they must discharge toward foreigners, however much they may despise them. Chile cannot remain a nation and refuse to our people there protection and justice.

ANOTHER typesetting machine has been invented, said to surpass all its predecessors, in that it will make type face impressions upon a matrix sheet as rapidly as keys can be touched. It will thus do the labor of twenty men. Assuming it to be all that is claimed for it, it will not really displace typesetters, but it will simply cheapen printing, enlarge its opportunities and result in the employment of profitable labor of more than it may immediately displace. That is the law of labor-saving machinery. It was said that the sewing machine would send thousands to the gate of starvation. What it did do was to immediately increase the number of sewing women for wages, by reason of rapidity of execution and creation of new demands for goods from the needle. The motor railway displaces horses and drivers, but it brings to employment in mechanics a hundred men in new vocations for every ten that are compelled to drop the reins.

MADAME ADAM, the accomplished essayist of Paris, in a Parisian review treats of the diminishing strength of the Triple Alliance. But whatever force or truth there is in her argument is destroyed by the intemperance of her language. In fact, the French woman is imbued with such hatred for Germany that Madame Adam is swallowed up by what reminds one of the virago. She illustrates admirably the truth that there is no strength in vituperation. Thus it is amazing to find so finished a mistress of thought and language, in whose salon some of the most distinguished men of the time have debated public affairs, speaking of evils "lurking in reptilian instands in Germany;" of Emperor William as "the malignant giant that has Prussia in his grasp;" of Salisbury and Caprivt as employing "rotlines in their political schemes." Madame Adam, in short, scolds and vituperates, which is always bad.

It seems to be understood in some quarters that the Iowa Hill miners have asked the Board of Supervisors for the privilege of resuming hydraulic mining that will deposit debris into the American River, and upon this idea it is stated that the Government will not do anything to improve the Sacramento River so long as hydraulic mining is permitted. We do not so understand the request of the Iowa Hill miners. They simply ask the Board of Supervisors to permit them to clean up certain claims, provided the Supervisors are satisfied that in doing such cleaning up they will not do any injury to the rivers. If the Supervisors are so satisfied, we do not see how they can reasonably refuse to grant the permission; but if they believe that debris will be deposited in the rivers they have nothing to do but to deny the request and enforce the law.

THE Chronicle now exhibits its duplicity to the gaze of the State by declaring that the rate on freight west-bound must be greater to San Francisco over a transcontinental line than to Sacramento over the overland road upon which it is situated, because the distance is greater. San Francisco's complaint has been and is that Sacramento is not charged more for the shorter haul than San Francisco for the longer. The Chronicle knows that this is the pith of San Francisco's grievance, and that paper deceives no one by its attempted avoidance of the real purpose of the new agitation.

THERE seems to be a widespread opinion among the citizens of Sacramento that if the Funded Debt Commission does not wish to go out of existence it ought to do something in the way of permitting the city to have the use of enough money to make sadly needed improvements. It has been stated that Judge Beatty is willing to do this under certain conditions. We should like to know from him what his views on the subject are.

The End of Slender.

The following incident recently happened at Newark, Ohio: A band of women, it seems, were going from house to house in that city, in the employ of a certain lacing powder company, trying to discredit every brand of lacing powder except their own. They performed certain social tests, but these, as will appear later, were really tricks to deceive unwary housekeepers. They called at the residence of Mr. Danner, the well-known groceryman, where they were most cleverly caught in their own trap.

It came about in this way: Mr. Danner who happened to be home at the time they called, being well posted in such tricks, knew that the canvassers intended to say the worst things about the most popular brand. He, therefore, without their knowledge, took an empty Royal Lacing Powder can and filled it with the very powder these canvassers were trying to discredit.

The so-called test was then applied to the powder in the proffered can, and, of course, the result announced, with all the assurance of professional charlatans, that the powder tested contained all manner of obnoxious ingredients.

When, however, Mr. Danner informed them that they had really been testing their own powder instead of that of the company, it is unnecessary to say that the uneasiness and astonishment of the "frauds" caused them to move on with unusual haste.

People are becoming weary of these pests of the kitchen, and it is quite rare that they will give audience or opportunity to such plausible tricksters; but it is quite evident that those who do not close their doors to such attempts must expect to be "humbugged."

Nearly four-fifths of the sugar plantations of Hawaii are owned by Americans, it is said.

RAW AS BEEFSTEAK

Baby's Fearful Suffering From Skin Disease Covering Entire Body Cured by Cuticura.

My baby was taken very sick when he was three months old, and in a few days began breaking out. We employed both of the home doctors, but they could do nothing for him. Then we sent for the best doctor in Eaton Rapids, Mich., and he got worse all the time; he took him to Jackson, to a doctor who attends especially to skin diseases, and then he got worse than ever. Then I told my husband we had better try the Cuticura, and he did so. He used it in any way; did not have any idea they would do any good; but in less than two months from the time we began giving them to him he was entirely well, and had a spot on him. His hair began growing right on, and we thought he would always be bald-headed. The Cuticura cured his whole body, face and head, only his nose and eyes, but what was raw as beefsteak. So poor these doctors, when they do not close their doors to such attempts must expect to be "humbugged."
