

ROUTE A LIVELY SESSION.

Preliminary Titing on the Hydraulic Mining Question.

A Troublesome Road Matter Knocked Out—Supervisor Bates Objects—Advertising the County.

The Board of Supervisors convened for its November session yesterday, Mr. Greer presiding and all of the members present.

Clerk Rhoads read a petition from a number of residents in the vicinity of the Courthouse who want an electric light placed on Seventh street, at the corner of the alley back of the jail, where Robert Allen was murdered by footpads.

Supervisor Bates had his kicking closed on again, and took advantage of this opportunity to express himself. He said the county was already paying out $14 a month for an electric light to illuminate the exterior of the Courthouse, and if its location did not suit it could be moved around to the alley.

Supervisor Bates thought that if sufficient money was available for the purpose of traveling the board should not interfere with the levy as a good thing and would save the county considerable expense.

Mr. Bates explained that he had no objection to the methods adopted by the supervisors. He thought they should at least let the committee submit a report before any howling was done.

A petition was received from several land-owners in Road District 14, asking that money be appropriated from the general road fund for the purpose of supplying lumber for a new bridge on the road which crosses a slough on the way from the Upper Stockton road to the grant line road.

Mr. Bates objected in fact, he was loaded with objections yesterday. He said he had seen Road District 14, and had been given to understand that the bridge was under construction now, and that some old lumber had been secured in the locality which had answered the purpose.

When Mr. Jenkins explained that that was another bridge entirely, Mr. Bates sat down, and voted with the majority for the matter to the Road Committee.

Mr. Bates, when called upon for a report from the committee, remarked that all he had to say was to advise the board not to spend the county's money faster than it was collected.

The petition of John Mackley and others for a new road extending northerly from the end of Sixteenth street, and connecting with the Twelfth-street road, was set down for hearing yesterday, and when Mr. Greer called the matter up Attorney Matt F. Johnson addressed the board on behalf of the petitioners.

Mr. Wise was informed that it was a county road, and that he had the right to improve it. He was advised, however, not to touch it just yet, as the trustees of the particular reclamation district in which this road is located had recently let a contract for raising the levee several feet. This would also include improvements to the road.

John O. Connor, a saloon-keeper, was the next person to obtain an audience with the august body. He had with him an amendment which he wished to add to the liquor license ordinance recently adopted. The amendment classed a retailer of liquor as one who sold intoxicants in less quantity than one gallon, instead of one quart, as the ordinance now reads. He then made a speech, in which he said the quart-measurement system was working a hardship upon honorable dealers. He, for instance, was paying $7 50 a quarter in order to exist, while his competitors took out merchandise licenses for $4, and thus "beat the devil round the bush."

The matter was taken under advisement as the liquor dealers, Mr. Connor said, desired to present more facts to the board.

Chairman Greer called attention to the proposition made some time ago to advertise Sacramento County by inserting a description of its resources in a book now being published by the State Board of Education.

Mr. Bates believed the money expended for such purposes might as well be thrown into the river.

"I do not agree to it," responded the Chairman. "I have faith in our county. I believe if the people of the East knew that we had hundreds of acres of valuable lands unoccupied which could be purchased for from $30 to $100 per acre, our population and wealth would be materially increased. Every county in the State is doing this. It is the duty of Sacramento to be left out would be a disgrace to this board."

"I strenuously object," insisted Mr. Bates, "to imposing upon taxpayers by flooding the East with exaggerated descriptions and pictures."

"I do, too," replied Mr. Greer, "but facts that are in our literature which we send abroad."

Upon motion of Mr. Black the matter was referred to Chairman Greer, with power to act, $15 to be the limit of the expense.

COUNTY LAW LIBRARY. County Clerk Rhoads addressed the board with reference to the County Law Library fund. He said that the last Legislature established a library for each county, and provided that the State should furnish each with a complete set of California reports and the codes. Fees were then collected by the County Clerk when a suit is filed, and this goes to a fund which is used to purchase other books for the library. Mr. Rhoads said he had called the attention of the board to this matter last April, but no action had been taken. He had now collected something like $300, and if the Supervisors did not propose to establish the library he would return the money. There would be no expense to the county, except to fit up a room for the reception of the books. According to the new law the members of the Supervisors, the two Superior Judges, and two members of the bar, to be selected by the Supervisors, should constitute a Board of Library Trustees, and have charge of the library.

Chairman Greer explained that action was not taken on the matter last April simply because the board did not understand the matter.

Mr. Bates said he didn't "honor" for the library in April because he supposed it would entail a big bill upon the county. He was decided to establish the library immediately, and the board appointed Frank D. Ryan and W. A. Anderson as the two members of the board, with the Chairman and the Superior Judges.

ROAD OVERSEER HAMILTON DISTRICT NO. 111 addressed the board, at the afternoon session, with reference to the levee work going on in his district. The levee builders had encroached upon the county road some ten feet, and he desired to place the matter in the hands of the board. He considered it his duty to report the matter.

Supervisor Bates thought that if sufficient money was available for the purpose of traveling the board should not interfere with the levy as a good thing and would save the county considerable expense.

FRABEE'S JURYMEN.

A Claim That They Were Selected for a Purpose.

And Could Not Give a Saloon-Keeper an Impartial Trial—The Case of Henry Kohne.

The trial of Henry Kohne, who has been arrested several times for violation of the ordinance requiring saloons to close at midnight, was begun yesterday in the Police Court, a venire of fifty citizens having been summoned from which to select a jury. Clinton L. White appeared as special counsel for the city to assist City Attorney Hart, and the defense was represented by Grove L. Johnson and W. A. Anderson.

The defense first attempted to get the complaint on the ground that Section 10 of Ordinance No. 175 is illegal, and therefore void, and that it is unreasonable. The demurrer was submitted to the court without argument, and was promptly overruled.

Then the defense objected to the entire venire of takersmen, holding that it had been packed in the interest of the prosecution. It is true that the venire consisted of well-dressed, intelligent-looking citizens who had been summoned there. They looked like the kind of men that a person would expect to like to have sit in judgment upon his case.

The argument was that Officer Frazer, who summoned the jury, was prejudiced against the cause of the defendant and selected only such citizens as he believed would not give Kohne a fair and impartial trial.

A recess was taken in order that the officer might be called to explain. In the course of time the officer arrived, and he was closely questioned by the able counsel for the defense. All that he could say, however, was that he tried his level best to secure a venire of representative citizens. He had no prejudice against the defendant.

The upshot of it all was that Judge Craven denied the challenge, to which the defense noted an exception, and the selection of a jury proceeded with. Mr. Johnson was very rigid in his examination of jurors, several being excused, and it was late in the afternoon before a venire was selected.

Mr. Johnson accepted to try the case were S. H. Davis, John Watt, A. Walter, J. B. White, A. Dasselwood, A. Walker, W. P. Seawright, E. N. Howard, L. W. McArthur, W. Church, George Ritchie and J. C. Devine.

After the usual preliminaries had been disposed of, and such as proving the existence of the ordinance, etc., the case was continued until this morning.

Trustee McLaughlin said the ordinance was one that had been needed for a long time. There were complaints all over the city about the burning of leaves at night, and the smoke at times was suffocating. He believed the ordinance was a good one, and ought to be passed. It was recommended by the Board of Health, and they were supposed to be working for the good of the city.

Trustee Conklin did not think the ordinance was necessary at this time of the year. Arriving to its provisions a person could burn leaves after 10 o'clock in the morning, or before midnight. He claimed that outside of those hours it was impossible to burn rubbish. The dew settles on the leaves and they could not be burned until the sun came out and dried them. He was not in favor of the ordinance because it would be uncooperative. He would rather vote for one that would prohibit the burning of leaves at any time in the streets.

The Trustee finally dropped the subject, laying the ordinance aside, to be taken up at some future time.
