

PROBLED GRANGERS.

They Got Off Wrong, But Are Happy Once More.

The Supervisors Reaffirm Their Opposition to Hydraulic Mining--An Unexpected Report.

There are not a few farmers in this vicinity who slept easier last night than they had for a week or two past. They had somehow permitted themselves to become impressed with the belief that the Supervisors of this county were about to take a step that, in their judgment, would legalize hydraulic mining, and as a result the mountains would soon again bristle with monitors playing their streams against the hillsides.

About thirty of these farmers, who had become thus impressed from something they had read or heard stated, invaded the board room yesterday morning, and held a sort of indignation meeting. It was expected that the three Supervisors who lately visited Iowa Hill and examined some mines there, at the solicitation of citizens of that place and of this city, would report the result of their visit, and it was therefore anticipated that anticipated report which had excited the farmers.

Ex-Senator Roulter was called upon to present a report, and in his opening remarks he referred to the feeling of the farmers on the subject, and said he did not believe the Supervisors would agree to any request to permit the resumption of hydraulic mining in defiance of the injunctions of the United States Courts. Such an act, Mr. Roulter said, would amount to the abandonment of all that the valleys had contended for in the past, and of the legal victories won in the courts.

Speeches were also made by John Rooney, William Johnston, J. E. Camp, J. M. Stephenson and others. Mr. Camp wanted a committee appointed to visit Iowa Hill, and to report with the hydraulic mining question, and offered a resolution to that effect, but subsequently withdrew it until they should hear the report of the committee that visited Iowa Hill.

The hour having arrived for the Supervisors to take up their regular business, the visitors took a recess, and the Supervisors expecting that by that hour they would know the result.

After they left the board-room Daniel Flint appeared and was granted permission to present to the board, on behalf of the Sacramento County Pomona Grange, a memorial against the granting by the board of permission to the hydraulic miners of Iowa Hill to clean up certain mines in that vicinity.

The memorial was very brief. It recited the fact that the hydraulic mining was expected to be made by the next Congress for the improvement of the Sacramento River, and urged the board not to grant the request of the hydraulic miners, for if it did Congress would not make the desired appropriation.

By motion of Mr. Jenkins, the communication was received and placed on file.

THE AFTERNOON MEETING.

At the afternoon meeting there were about thirty persons present, Mr. Roulter presiding. Remarks were made by C. A. Jenkins, George Ohleyer of Sutter county and others. Mr. Ohleyer explained the character of the Anti-Debris Association, its workings and the results achieved. He said there were about two hundred and fifty names on the roll originally, and that $30,000 had been expended in the effort to suppress hydraulic mining. In his opinion there should be a similar organization here to protect the American river. There has been more or less hydraulic mining going on along that river, he said, for the last ten years, and it should be stopped. The law should be enforced, and the best way to enforce would be for Sacramento to have an Anti-Debris Association.

Mr. Ohleyer then reviewed the work of the courts in the hydraulic-mining cases, and claimed that the miners agreed to abide by the result of the famous Gold Run case, but they had not done so.

Referring to the request of the Iowa Hill people to be allowed to clean up their mines, he said he did not know what these men would do, but on the other hand, he would do what he could to clean up the mines never got through with the work.

Mr. Ohleyer commended the action of the Supervisors in visiting the Iowa Hill mines. He believed they now understood the situation in the river, and he would, in their action on the request, do the proper thing. The chief object is not to antagonize Congress as to endanger the granting of appropriations for the improvement of the river. On the strength of assurances from Sacramento citizens that hydraulic mining had ceased, the government appropriated money for that purpose, and it would be a sad thing now to undo all that had been done, by allowing hydraulic mining to be resumed. By refusing to do so, the government would understand that the Sacramento people mean business, and would govern themselves accordingly.

In response to a query from Supervisor Greer, Mr. Ohleyer admitted that the Supervisors of Sacramento County had done all in their power to suppress hydraulic mining, so far as he knew, and the employment of Attorney Devin to aid the board was, in his opinion, a wise action.

Mr. Greer said his desire was to have the fact impressed upon those present that the board had done its full duty in the matter. During the past year some nine mines have been enjoined, and in a few days the board hoped to put a stop to those mines that are now secretly operating in defiance of law.

Mr. Rooney demanded, on behalf of those present, that the Chairman of the board call for the report of the committee that visited the Iowa Hill mines.

Mr. Roulter, in courteous terms, requested the Chairman to call for the report.

Chairman Greer replied that the committee were on the preceding day granted further time to present their report, as a matter of courtesy.

Mr. Roulter said that when he was a member of the Legislature he was ready at any time to explain his position on any and all questions of public import.

Mr. Rooney made another of his excited harangues, demanding that the board be called together and the report asked for.

Chairman Greer informed Mr. Rooney that the board had adjourned until 2 o'clock, and could not be called to order before that hour, which statement had a somewhat soothing effect upon the more excitable visitors, and they decided to wait for the hour of meeting.

THE BOARD TAKES A HAND.

At 2 o'clock the board was called to order, and Chairman Greer asked Supervisor Bates, Chairman of the Hydraulic Mining Committee, if he was ready to report.

Mr. Bates said he was ready, but had a few remarks to make before submitting the report. He said that a great deal of loose language had been indulged in regarding the committee's possible action. In the first place, a petition was filed with the board from a large number of citizens of Iowa Hill asking the board to visit that place and examine the condition of some of the mines there with a view to determining whether or not the same could be cleaned up near the bedrock without doing injury to the rivers or valley lands. This petition was supplemented by one from the leading citizens and business men of Sacramento to the same effect.

Three members of the board went to Iowa Hill, accompanied by Attorney Devin and the reporters of all the daily newspapers, and full and correct reports had been published of what transpired there and what was seen by the committee. He (Bates) said that if it was in his power to allow these miners to work up the few feet of coarse material that remains, in which is contained the gold, without doing any injury to the rivers or valleys, he would do so rather than contest expensive law suits. But he had become satisfied that this was something he had no right, as a Supervisor, to do.

"Some how," said Mr. Bates, "certain parties seem to have got the idea that this committee is going to recommend something that the board had no authority to grant, and there has been talk here this morning of running up over the Yolo bridge, and using shotguns, and all that sort of thing. Now, I'm not a candidate for any office, and these kind of threats scare me as much as the law. I have always been in favor of stopping hydraulic mining, and have voted for every restrictive measure that ever came before this board. I have lived on the Cosumnes River, where I suffered from the effects of hydraulic mining, and I think I know as much about the subject as any of our friends here."

Continuing, Mr. Bates said it really was pretty rough for those people of Iowa Hill to look across the American River and see the gold in the river, and to realize that the Supervisors of this county could not interfere. He was in favor of stopping hydraulic mining and of giving the miners a valley lands, first, last, and all the time.

The board had gone to considerable expense in employing a competent attorney, Mr. Devin, to prosecute hydraulic miners who were violating the law, and many of those who are now so ready to accuse him of being partial to the miners were among the first to kick at that expense. It would be a very absurd thing for him to do—to vote to employ a lawyer to stop hydraulic mining, and then vote to allow hydraulic mining to be resumed. He never had an idea of allowing monitors to be turned loose against the hills, but he had believed it possible for the miners to work up their bedrock, take care of sluicing, and thought it fair to let them do so.

The committee is ready to report," concluded Mr. Bates, "and here is our report."

A COMPLETE KNOCK-OUT.

The Clerk then read the following: "The Board of Supervisors of Sacramento County, California, have received a petition presented to the Board of Supervisors of this county, signed by a number of the leading business men and firms of Sacramento City, asking the board to visit the hydraulic mining mines in Iowa Hill, Sutter county, and which, at the suit of this county, had been enjoined from further working by the United States Courts."

The board, deeming such a request from private citizens to be an interference with the navigable rivers and property of the valley, declined to grant the request, and appointed the undersigned committee for the purpose of examining the hydraulic mines in Iowa Hill, and to report thereon to the board. The committee, consisting of Messrs. Greer, Bates, and Devin, visited the mines referred to on the 27th inst. and returned to the board on the 29th inst.

They were courteously and hospitably received by the people of Iowa Hill, and every effort was made to give them the best of the daily press, visited the mines referred to, and returned to the board on the 29th inst.

were now satisfied, and felt that they could place implicit faith in the board. He hoped that nothing more would be said on the subject.

MR. ROONEY WEAKENS.

John Rooney, who had shown the most feeling in the board, and used some very strong language against members of the board, was not to be outdone by Mr. Doty, and addressed the board in a similar strain. He said he was proud of the board for the action it had taken, and would sound its praises wherever he went. As for Mr. Bates, he stood ready to shed his blood in defense of that gentleman, as he was confident he had been misled in regard to his position on the question that had been at issue.

MR. ROUTHIER ASKS.

Ex-Senator Roulter, as Chairman of the farmers' meeting, then formally tendered the board the heartfelt thanks of all the farmers along the Sacramento and American Rivers for its action.

The visitors then withdrew, and the board resumed its regular business.

COUNTY BUSINESS.

The Supervisors Examine Some Demands--Hospitality. The Supervisors did not do much work yesterday, outside of listening to speeches on hydraulic mining. At the morning session the monthly report of County Treasurer Lyon, for October, was received and filed.

A communication was received from Palmer Bros., offering to accept $300 for the land required for the Oak Park road, in accordance with the conditions mentioned in their communication published yesterday in the RECORD-UNION.

No action was taken in the matter. At the afternoon session, on motion of Supervisor Jenkins, the sum of $500 was ordered borrowed from the swamp land fund for the general road fund, to pay the claim of Patton, for a right-of-way, and that of Pittman, for $200.

The sum of $54 was also borrowed from the same fund for Road District No. 12, to pay the claim of W. B. Black.

While examining bills, Greer came upon one for conveying invalids to the County Hospital, which reminded him of a talk he had had with Superintendent Miller recently regarding a hospital wagon for that use. Mr. Greer said it was costing the county from $60 to $80 per month to send patients out to the hospital, and he believed that two-thirds of this could be saved by having a vehicle at that institution which could make regular trips to and from the city.

Supervisor Bates thought the hospital should have a modern ambulance for that purpose, and on his motion Supervisor Miller was directed to make inquiry and ascertain what such a vehicle would cost.

There were some criticisms made regarding County horse bills, and demands by the County Veterinary Surgeon for inspecting horses in the county. The members all agreed that there was unnecessary extravagance in the use of gas.

As to the bills of the Veterinary Surgeon, it was decided to allow no more unless it was shown that the owners of the animals inspected were not able to pay the expense.

The board took a recess until 10 o'clock this morning.

SMITH'S PISTOL.

The Little Affair at Scheld's Brewery Sunday Evening.

Judge Cravens could see nothing in it to warrant holding him for Assault to Murder.

The examination case of Charles Smith, a tailor, charged with assault to murder, took up considerable time in the Police Court yesterday. The defendant was accused of having drawn a pistol and endeavored to use it to good effect on Martin Anderson, the bartender at Scheld's brewery, at Twenty-eighth and M streets.

Last Sunday morning Smith and a man named Reilly started out to spend the day together. They went into the brewery once or twice during the afternoon and each time drew a schooner each. They visited the place again in the evening and had some beer with them, and then went to work on Smith's brain, and then he became ugly. He threatened to "do" Anderson, the barkeeper, and the latter quietly asked a bystander named Preston to keep an eye on him and prevent Smith from doing any harm, should he draw a weapon.

Finally Smith came up to the counter, and reaching for something in his inside coat-pocket, threatened to kill Anderson. Several parties who were standing near the counter intervened, and in the confusion a pistol was seen in Smith's hand by three of the men present.

The belligerent party was finally induced to board a street-car, and it was while on the car that he again pulled his pistol and threatened to "throw a ball into the building." Those who were standing in front of the brewery immediately dodged behind trees and stayed there until the "bad man" had got out of the way.

The above was about the gist of the testimony given, but Judge Cravens did not think it was sufficient to warrant the holding of the defendant. The same malice shown, nor any reason given for making the assault, and in the absence of material evidence, the testimony was insufficient. He therefore ordered the defendant discharged.

The defendant was represented by G. D. Davis.

Another Social Club.

There was an enthusiastic meeting of young gentlemen last evening for the purpose of reorganizing the Amico Club for the season of 1891-92. An organization was effected, and the following officers were chosen to serve during the season: President, Fred Smith; Vice-President, A. M. Robinson; Secretary and Treasurer, William Bryan; Floor Officer, J. A. Trainer; Executive Committee--L. How, H. Harper, Frank Sullivan and the club officers.

The club will give a series of dancing parties during the winter months at Turner Hall. The opening party will take place one week from next Saturday evening.

Weather Notes.

The Weather Bureau's reports show no rain to have fallen yesterday south of Poplar.

The highest and lowest temperatures in this city were 77° and 48°, with northerly winds during the forenoon and southerly during the afternoon and evening, and generally clear weather.

The barometrical readings at 5 A. M. and 5 P. M. were 30.10 and 30.03 inches respectively.

The highest and lowest temperatures one year ago yesterday were 78° and 46°, and one year ago to-day 64° and 43°.

WORK ON THE LEVEES.

Ten Thousand Dollars to be Appropriated Therefor.

The Trustees Discuss the Matter of Riprapping and Otherwise Improving Front Street.

The Board of City Trustees held a special meeting last evening for the purpose of taking further action in the matter of strengthening the Front-street levee, by riprapping it from W to Y street. J. C. Pierson, who has had the contract for doing the work, and who superintended the work that has already been done, was present and told what had been done during the year, and what, in his opinion, ought to be done to further strengthen the levee. He said there was no need of riprapping from W to Y street, as the bank was lined with willow trees, and there was a splendid base in front of the present levee.

Trustee McLaughlin suggested that the members of the board go down in a body to-day to see just where work ought to be done.

Trustee Conklin said he wanted to see the levee made safe, but he did not favor expending any more money than was necessary. However, he favored expending that was needed to make the city absolutely free from danger. He would like to get an idea of what the cost of the additional work would be.

The Mayor and Trustee Conklin pretty well just how much work was needed, but was in favor of letting a part of the work go until next year. There was some discussion as to whether to riprap from the east as soon as the board would inform him as to what portion they wanted done this year.

J. Carlow of Carlow Bros., who did the riprapping last year, said there was about 700 feet between W and Y streets that needed grading, and that portion north of W was already riprapped.

Mr. Pierson said that in his opinion the levee from P to W street ought to be riprapped from the top down the slope to the Gas Works. They will submit bids next Monday and endeavor to do as much of the work as possible for the amount allowed.

Undine Club Party. The members of the Undine Boat Club are making great preparations for their ball at Turner Hall to-night. The ball has been very handsomely decorated and has never looked prettier than it will on this occasion.

The proceeds of the ball are to be devoted to the fund that is being raised for the purpose of building a new boat-house on the river. The ball will be in all its appointments, fully up to the standard of the Undine Club.

Thieves Make a Big haul. H. Brown reports that on Saturday last his residence, in the alley, between Sixth and Seventh, F and G streets, was entered during the absence of himself and wife, and a haul of $500 was made. While the robbery was being committed they were out inspecting a lot for which they were to pay with the money.

New Pastor for St. Paul's. Rev. G. A. Ottmann, the new pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, arrived from the East last evening, and is stopping at the Hotel House. Mr. Ottmann met the members of the vestry at their regular meeting last evening.

FINE WORK AT LOW PRICES.

Ready-made Clothing of the finest grades has now attained such perfection that when properly fitted it can scarcely be told from tailor-made work, while in style and effect it is frequently superior. The capital, energy and skill of countless large manufacturers are in this industry, and it is not strange, therefore, that each year sees rapid advances made, and that Ready-made Clothing is finding an ever-increasing sale among those who are most particular about their dress.

We have a large assortment of Overcoats and Suits, such as we refer to at $17 50, $20, $25 and $27 50, and will be pleased to show them to any who are interested.

HATS AND BONNETS TO ORDER.

We build a bonnet as a conscientious carpenter should build a house, he buys the materials at the lowest prices and add to them the cost of labor. The total is the price you pay. If the house is particularly handsome and modern, there ought to be no extra charge on that account. If there should be, you will detect it in the itemized bill which the carpenter hands in. This is precisely the principle which we follow out in our millinery work. We have a "construction book" in which is entered the details of every hat or bonnet we make. That book is free and open to every customer. They can see for themselves that the prices charged are in every instance the sum total of the details. Because our Millinery work is brilliant and of an exceptionally high order, we find no reason for tacking on a profit beyond that legitimately made in furnishing the materials.

We have elaborated this idea because it illustrates a principle which we aim to make general in all parts of the store. That is, to so protect customers and hedge them in with safeguards that there is no possibility of their being done an injustice of any kind. We want customers in trading here to feel safe and sure beyond doubt.

DEARLY'S

DEARLY'S

DESPONDENCY IS in many respects a messenger of misery and death. We are careless of our strength, vigor and energies in youth and early life. We use them up in dissipation, and suddenly find ourselves broken down in health, exhausted in brain and nerve power, and left with the physical weakness, strength of ambition. Then follows that terrible despondency that gloom and depression of mind which is a usual result of the over-use of the body. It blots out hope, happiness and ambition, and makes life seem scarcely worth the struggle. It is a disease of the brain, and it is a disease
