THE BALLOT-BOOTH PLANS.

The Trustees yesterday opened three bids and plans for election booths. They all contemplate placing the stalls and guard rail in a rented room, and they range from $5 to $15 each in cost. Two are contemplated to be of wood and one of steel frame.

No action was taken and the settlement of the matter is postponed. Possibly there is some confusion in the minds of the officers as to the reconciliation of two sentences of the law, which at first blush may appear to be contradictory of each other. In fact they are in harmony. One sentence of section 2203 reads: "Shall also provide a sufficient number of places, booths or compartments, at or in which, voters may conveniently mark their ballots so that in the marking thereof they may be screened from the observation of others."

Later in the same section there occurs this sentence: "The arrangements shall be such that neither the ballot-boxes nor the box-booth or compartment shall be hidden from the view of those just outside of said guard rail."

Now what is the obvious meaning and intent of these sentences? Clearly that the people may look across the guard rail, see the ballot-boxes, election board and the stalls or compartments, and who enters them, but shall not see the voter, so that by his handling of the ticket any one can tell how he is voting. Certainly, then he must be screened from observation in his process of marking his ballot.

If the stalls are open-front and the guard rail not more than ten feet away, a boss, or his striker who buys a vote or coerces a voter, who can look into the booth and see to which column the voter moves his arm on the blanket ballot when there are several columns, can compel delivery of the goods, or carry out his threat to coerce.

Of course, therefore, it is intended, not that the work of the voter in marking shall be open to view, but that the booths, the ballot-boxes and the election board shall not be "hidden."

In New York, where the first sentence we quote also appears in the law, the screening of the voter in the stall or compartment is accomplished by an interposing board or plank, sometimes by a swinging half-door, between the public and the stalls. But this simple screen hides only the upper part of the body, so that all can see that there is no more than one person in each stall.

There is no conflict in the law and it is easy to screen the voter and still leave the "compartments" in plain view of the public. One reason for "screening" is this, that early in the experiments of the law it was found that the voter could be compelled by the party coercing him to fold over all the columns of the ballot when there were several columns, but one, while marking, so that the spy could observe that the victim marked as he was directed.

The whole purpose of the law is to give perfect freedom to the voter, freedom from observation, cow, threat or inspection of his ballot; and to secure absolute secrecy as to how he votes. Also, to make it as nearly impossible as may be for the vicious and venal voter to prove that he voted as he promised for coin, so that vote buying will become unsafe investment and be abandoned.

Let the Trustees see to it then, as we doubt not they will, that the voter in the stall is "screened" from observation in his work of marking or stamping his ballot, even if no more than a strip of cloth intervenes to prevent the eye of the outsider penetrating to the shelf.

THE CONVENTIONS FOR CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco business men are throwing a great deal of commendable energy into the effort to secure for that city the session of one or both of the National Conventions of 1892. The same spirit of determination shown in the promotion of the best interests of the whole State would tend to lift San Francisco to a higher level, and to invest it with better business character.

It is to be hoped that the purpose in view in asking the National Republican Convention to meet in California will be attained. If that desire fails, then the work of the leading men of the Democratic party to have the convention of that political organization meet in San Francisco should be rewarded with success.

It will be a good investment for this

State if it pays the way for every delegate. Our selfish interest, and when it is clean it is a noble interest, prompts us to secure for California all possible visitations by representative men of the East. Seeing California is, in the majority of cases, the best proof that can be brought to establish the justice of our claims. A single visit to the State by an intelligent man is worth a packed bushel of pamphlets and immigration literature dumped weekly upon his library table for a year.

Our need is population, with health, ambition and modest or large capital; it is to be drawn from the classes of people able to better their condition by removal. Such we need to convince can find in California broader and better opportunity than anywhere else for the enjoyment of life, with the least contention with the elements, and the highest reward of comfort for the effort put forth to build a home.

The holding of a session of a National political convention here will bring into the State in large numbers the order of people who are representative of the whole Union, and whose accounts of the State will be received upon their return home as verity. It is therefore a creditably selfish purpose that is stimulating the effort now afoot in San Francisco. We wish it success, for it means solid benefit to the State.

DO THE WORK NOW.

Several bids were put in yesterday before the Trustees for riprap work on the front levee for a distance of from 800 to 1,000 feet. The latter bid the Trustees agreed is the lowest and best, and, indeed, according to the figures reported, it is very greatly the cheapest. It should be accepted then, that we may get the most for the city's money, and that the work may be commenced at once.

That appeared to be the judgment of Trustee McLaughlin. He believed in doing at least $12,000 worth of work now. The Mayor, however, hoped by delay and doing part of the work now, and part next year, to save $2,000, but, on motion of Trustee Conklin, the whole matter went over until to-morrow.

It will be bitter economy, regretful saving, if, to save $2,000, we encounter risk and put the people in fear when high waters come. We have fine levees and they are being now raised along the front line to a height that will not be overtopped by any flood waters in the Sacramento. But they ought to be faced where the current impinges strongest against the embankment and all under-cutting absolutely stopped.

The question now before the Trustees is, shall this be done at once? Since we can have fully 1,000 feet completed this season, if work is begun now, true economy bids the Trustees go on, and order the work. The bidder knows his business evidently, for he is taking all hazard about receiving his money promptly. The city, therefore, can well afford to order the work.

Absolutely assured safety given by the proposed improvement, is worth a hundred times the cost of the work. There ought, then, to be no further delay. We reflect the opinion of nine-tenths of the people when we say that the work should be ordered commenced at once. It is no time to practice penny wise and pound foolish economy. Sacramento is shaking off her burdens and rising to a new era of prosperity and growth and we should not imperil it by delay.

The demand of the United States Government that Chile shall express regret and make some sort of apology to this country for the assault upon our sailors at Valparaiso is a just demand. It is wholly aside from and independent of the question whether the Chileans were led to believe that they were wronged by our blue jackets. It is sufficient that our men were the uniform of the United States. The investigation of the matter to ascertain how far, if at all, they were blame-worthy for the riot, or whether the Chilean men were wholly blameless, cuts no figure prelatory to the duty of Chile to express to the United States Government its regret that by Chilean wounding any man in our service fell in time of peace.

The killing is of national concern and cannot be relegated wholly to the local courts, as are other offenses and criminals. It is the failure of Chile, then, to express regret to the United States and offer to make reparation if it is found that our men were blameless that creates the present unhappy feeling. The uniform insulted is an insult to the flag. If intentional, it is just cause for war; if not, and it is the result of mob violence, then it is the duty of the offending power to express regret and promise such reparation as the pending investigation may show to be just. The punishment of the offenders is of secondary importance.

The city police department will be brought to shame if it fails to ferret out the perpetrators of the outrageous assault upon property Saturday night. So many were engaged in the work of destruction that it ought to be a matter of no grave difficulty to get at the truth as to who are the men. If twenty or thirty youths can walk through a thickly settled part of the city and rip up fences and destroy ornamental wood-work upon the homes of citizens, and still all escape detection, the fact will be one that will brand the police of Sacramento with the shame of total incompetency.

THE GROWING EVIL.

How the People Are Crowded Out by Land Monopoly.

[Los Angeles Times, November 7th.]
The Sacramento Record-Union, which is making a campaign against the tendency toward the increase of land holdings in the upper counties, presents a broadside of statistics about Colusa County, from which some startling deductions are drawn. In 1880 the fifty largest landholders in Colusa County held an aggregate of 423,091 acres. The largest of the holdings was 57,000, and the smallest was 2,566. In 1885 the fifty largest holders held an aggregate of 440,709, the largest being 44,361 acres and the smallest 2,485 acres. The increase, therefore, in the aggregate of the fifty largest holdings in the county was 17,618 acres. The fifty largest holders in 1890 aggregated 522,743 acres. The increase between 1885 and 1890 was 73,034 acres. Extending the calculations to include the 150 largest holdings, the Record-Union finds that on an average 150 men in Colusa County increased their holdings between 1880 and 1890 by 1,287 acres each. The question naturally arises, with such a tendency to big holdings as this is, is it possible for any county to be prosperous.

Prosperity Impossible.

[San Jose Mercury, November 8th.]
The Record-Union in its fight against large land-holders has turned its attention to Colusa County, and says that in 1880 there were twenty-five land-owners in that county having over 5,000 acres each, whose aggregate was 2,000,000 acres. In 1885 there were only twenty-two such land-owners, but their aggregate possessions had increased to 2,442,432 acres. In 1890 there were thirty-seven great holdings, with an aggregate of 446,534 acres, being an increase in five years of 118,002 acres. With such a tendency to big holdings as this is, it is impossible for any county to be prosperous.

It is a mistake to try and cure catarrh by using local applications. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system.
