

AT THE PARK.

A "High Old" Horse Race Amuses the Public.

Hagal Makes a Fine Balloon Ascention. But a Somewhat Sensational Parachute Landing.

There was a fair attendance at Agricultural Park yesterday to witness the races given under the auspices of the Capital Turf and Driving Club. The day was delightful and the track in fine condition. The judges and timers were J. W. Wilson and Daniel Flint.

The first race was between W. Ober's Actor, S. C. Tryon's Prince Dan and F. A. Jones' Walter J., the latter a pacer. The former was the favorite at $5 against $2.50 for Prince Dan, and $1 for Walter J.

In the first heat Actor led all the way, notwithstanding a couple of breaks, and won in 2:40.

In the second heat Actor broke on the back stretch, and Walter passed him. On the turn, however, Actor again took the lead. He broke again at the drawgate and fell back. He was coming up fast again near the wire, but left his feet and galloped over the score. Walter was given the heat in 2:38.

The third heat was a very pretty one. Actor and Walter going nose and nose to the half. On the turn Actor broke and came to a standstill, but soon caught up and beat Walter out by a length. Time, 2:30.

The fourth heat was almost a repetition of the preceding one, Actor beating Walter J. out in 2:35.

BURLESQUE ON A TROTTERING RACE. The second race was for an entrance stake of $25 a side, the starters being C. P. Taylor's Riverside, W. Gardner's Gold Eagle, Robert Vumberger's Nellie, W. Laune's Great Scott and Middleton's Cleveland Bay. Riverside brought $3 in the pools against $3 for the field. There were three or four pools sold.

The race was a very amusing one. Riverside went to the front and led to the wire, the others strung out all the way back to the half-mile pole. If the distance flag had been at the three-quarter pole Riverside could have shut them all out, but there was apparently no desire to do it, and all were allowed to get home. Gold Eagle was given second place. No time was announced.

The second heat was of the same character and equally "sensational." Riverside won in 2:50, closely pressed by Gold Eagle on a run.

Nobody waited to see the third heat. After the second heat of the above-mentioned "race" Professor Hagal made his promised balloon ascension. There was not a breath of air stirring, and the balloon, with its double parachute attachment and the balloonist swinging in the air below them, shot upward to a height of 3,000 feet, when Hagal cut loose his parachutes.

He descended rapidly for several hundred feet, when the lower one opened, but the upper one flapped about in the still atmosphere and did not seem inclined to spread. It did open out, however, when the aeronaut had about half completed his descent, but even then it swayed about, and as it looked to those below—came near capsizing the other parachute.

As Hagal neared the ground it became apparent that he would land on the roof of the grand stand, and there was a rush in that direction, as it was supposed he would be precipitated from the roof to the ground, a distance of some fifty feet.

He did strike on the roof, on the twentieth-street side, but had the presence of mind to throw himself flat upon the shingles, and thus managed to save himself from falling to the ground. The lower parachute caught upon a short flagstaff above the roof, while the balloon itself followed in a few seconds and fell about ten yards away and right in front of the main entrance.

Like most men engaged in ballooning, Hagal does not seem to think much of these narrow escapes from injury or death. He said he knew as he came down he would strike on the roof of the stand, but he did not anticipate any danger therefrom. But, had he landed on the slant of a sharper-roofed building, he certainly would have fallen to the ground.

Hagal does not use any hoop at the mouth of his parachutes in order to let in the air to inflate them, as most ascensionists do. He trusts to luck in having them open, his first experiment of the kind having been made last Sunday. He says the hood had caught in a great deal of trouble, generally being mislaid, and he concluded to do without it. He thinks there is no doubt that the air will find its way into the parachute, as it has done, even though its mouth be closed, provided the descent be not too short.

Hagal intends making one more ascension. THE OAK PARK WELL. It will be in operation again Sunday Next.

There were many visitors to Oak Park yesterday who expected to see the pump at the experiment. It was not, however, as stated by some of the committee, when pumping was first begun, that the test would be continued for a couple of weeks.

The pump was not in operation yesterday, however. O. M. Downer, the contractor, stated that his contract called for only a five days' run. Inasmuch, however, as there appears to be a general desire to see the well in operation, Mr. Downer says he will start up the pump again next Sunday for the benefit of the public.

The pump in use is the Byron Jackson centrifugal patent. Mr. Downer is satisfied that, even with so small a well, a pump of considerably greater capacity could not exhaust the well. The present one removes fifteen feet of water per second, but the supply is kept up to its suction-pipe, showing that there is a great body of water below.

The samples for analysis were forwarded to the State Analyst on Tuesday last, and his report is daily expected. CAUGHT AT THE BAY. A Sacramento Burglar Gathered in by the Police There.

Several days ago the shop of a tinsmith named Thompson at Sixth and M streets was broken in by burglars, and a lot of cutlery stored inside was stolen. Thompson reported the matter to the police, and search was made for the property, but without avail.

On Wednesday the police of San Francisco arrested a suspicious-looking character, and on searching him found considerable cutlery. It was shown that the police of this city were informed of the theft, and Thompson went down to see if he could identify any of the property as belonging to him. It was shown that the articles taken from the arrested man, and immediately recognized them as being his own.

The prisoner will be brought to this city and charged with burglary. HE DID THE SINGING. You Sing Garrotted and Robbed of the Sum of Fifty Dollars.

An excellent supper was also provided.

"SACRAMENTO DAY." I Will Ever Live in the Memories of the Visiting Librarians.

A member of the Citizens' Executive Committee for reception and entertainment of the members of the American Library Association yesterday received the following letter from W. L. Fletcher, Librarian of Amherst College. It shows that the visitors have not forgotten their reception in Sacramento. The letter is dated November 21st, and says:

"Dear Sir: I should have written you from San Francisco (as acting Secretary of the American Library Association), acknowledging the receipt of the papers containing an account of our reception in your city. We were all very glad of them, and I wish to thank the committee and citizens for their many kindnesses and good offices. That 'Sacramento Day' (5 A. M. to 5 P. M.) will ever live."
