

BESELENA'S LETTER.

Late Happenings in the Metropolis of the Northwest.

The Fair Correspondent Dilates Again Upon Street-Car Etiquette--The Democratic Pow-wow.

Last week the Democratic braves held a grand pow-wow and war dance, which lasted two days, ending up with a royal feast.

They didn't offer any sacrifices as far as I could learn, however. I do not doubt they would have relished Republican stew a la mode and Mugwump soup. The spread lasted until the wee sma' hours; wine flowed abundantly and the Tammany braves felt extremely jolly.

They are now arrayed in their war paint and feathers, and intend to win the coming contest or die.

ONLY A LITTLE SUNSHINE. Since the long-continued rains and cloudy weather flowers are very scarce. This is something unusual, as the gardens about town are usually gay with a wealth of brilliant coloring.

The ladies belonging to the Women's Exchange are holding an art loan exhibition in the Marquam building. All the articles exhibited are collected from the homes of our citizens.

Work on our city park has been going steadily on all winter. Nature has done wonders in the way of making this a natural park, and with man's assistance it is becoming very attractive.

STREET-CAR ETIQUETTE. Another chapter for the book of street-car etiquette, of which I spoke last week, might be very profitably devoted to women who stare you almost out of countenance in these public conveyances.

Thus all the evil deeds you ever did in your life arise before you, and you wonder if they are imprinted on your brow in letters of fire. I have tried every way to overcome these stagers, but they have all failed but one, and this one I give for the benefit of my sisters who may be annoyed in the same way.

WANTS ANOTHER HOTEL. There is a fine opening for a modern hotel in Portland. One which would meet the wants of the people of the Pacific Coast. A site could now be bought at a reasonable figure, which would, of course, advance in value in years to come.

pay a splendid interest on the money invested. It can be easily seen that the profits of the hotel itself in ten years would be enough to pay for the whole plant.

In walking down Front street on Tuesday afternoon, a gentleman noticed some barrels of whiskey, marked with the brand, "United we stand, divided we fall," and showing William Penn shaking hands with an Indian.

At the present time our merchants are very much worried about their shipping interests. Since the deepening of the Columbia River bar the current is very swift, and on this account tow boats have not the power necessary to handle the ships.
