ISSUED BY THE SACRAMENTO PUBLISHING COMPANY

Office, Third Street, between J and K.

Weather Forecast. Official forecast for the period ending at midnight Wednesday: For Northern California—Fair; warmer, except slight temperature changes in the southeast portion; westerly winds.

CONCLUSIVE TESTIMONY.

We epitomize from the State news reports of the last few days as follows, concerning the practical operation of the new ballot law in California town and city elections. We submit the same to our contemporary, the San Francisco Chronicle, as cumulative evidence that in the words of Galileo, "It does move."

Santa Rosa—Successful; corruptionists checked. Healdsburg—The system gave complete satisfaction. Redding—A decided success. St. Helena—It worked satisfactorily. Ukiah—It worked admirably. Monterey—More than pleased with its workings. Benicia—The system worked admirably. Martinez—It worked admirably. Fort Bragg—Gave eminent satisfaction. Paso Robles—Worked charmingly. San Jose—With entire satisfaction. San Luis Obispo—Most satisfactory. Oakland—It pleased the people. Potter Valley—It succeeded well. Merced—A success. Auburn—With complete success. Santa Cruz—It proved a success.

The dispatches from Ontario, Riverside, Lompoc, San Pedro and Los Gatos do not refer to the operation of the system, but we venture the assertion that when the local papers come to hand it will be found that the law gave entire satisfaction in those places. Had it been otherwise the dispatches would have given the news. In all the instances cited, except one, Oakland, it was the first trial of the system, and it may be assumed that it suffered somewhat by reason of unfamiliarity with the details. In Oakland the regulations of the system were not strictly observed—in fact, the placing and character of the booths were in gross disregard of the requirements of the law—nevertheless the system gave satisfaction there also despite the unfavorable conditions.

THE CHINESE PROTEST.

The protest of the Chinese Minister against the passage of restriction laws by Congress is based on the fact that we have treaty compacts with China which these laws contravene. But, if there were no treaties, the Minister of China would still be found protesting, though he is not unaware of the fact that China never has, and probably never will, freely admit Americans to her territory. She has maintained rigid exclusion against American citizens, admitting but a few and confining them to narrow bounds.

The logic of the policy of China answers and defeats its protest. The treaty compacts certainly do stand in the way. The passage of the Scott Act was an offense to them, as also will be any similar legislation. There is no defense to be made of such treaty violation, except that it is intended to break down the treaty. The nation, through its representative body, has the supreme power to adopt the method of legislation to that end, and though it is not the procedure that should be employed, unquestionably the sentiment of the people favors the restriction aimed at, even at expense of the treaty.

It is not merely a question of our political relations with China; it is the larger one of protection of our own people from the inevitable results of contact with a non-assimilative race; it is one involving the social standing of the laboring people, and touching the question whether we are to have an aristocracy resting upon a cheap-labor basis that is incompatible with the demands upon independent American and self-respecting citizenship.

The question is deeply stirring the American people at this moment whether all immigration to this republic should not be tested by its capacity to assimilate with us and be desirable factors in the building of a nation of intelligent and free people.

It is not the trade of a special privilege or region which is at issue. It is the inertia, the slothfulness of San Francisco merchants, who sit placidly year after year and watch business drift away from them into other channels, and then complain of dulness and hard times. It is the disposition of the mercantile community to make any effort to help itself which is the most depressing phenomenon and the surest exponent of a gloomy future for the city.

Had an interior paper been author of the foregoing expression concerning San Francisco the journals of that city would have charged that it was due to an effort to enkindle animosity between the interior and the metropolis. But the extract is clipped from a San Francisco journal.

A BILL has been introduced in the Massachusetts Legislature providing for an amendment to the Constitution abolishing the property qualification for the office of Governor. It should pass. The only qualification should be citizenship and the will of the people. If they elect an unfit man, they will, by reason of the error, be led to avoid a second mistake. Nor does money possession, or land-holding prove capacity in any candidate. The one test to which we are rapidly approaching, to the exclusion of all others, is standing and good citizenship for all officials.

THE San Francisco Bulletin says that the re-establishment of communication by sea with the rest of the world is a need of that port. Unquestionably—precisely what has been preached to the commercial sense of San Francisco, but the difficulty is that it makes no rational effort in that direction.

Woodland Man Missing. Mrs. A. W. Warner of Woodland called at the Police Station last evening and stated that her husband was missing. They came over from Woodland with their two children yesterday and put up at the Western Hotel. Mr. Warner went out on Monday day and has not been seen since. Mrs. Warner said she had a large sum of money and she feared he had met with foul play.

William Van Valkenberg of Galt says he was married to Nettie Pritchard in this city last Monday.
