

THE GROWING CROPS.

Their Condition, as Shown by the Observers' Reports.

It is Thought There Will be Only a Two-Thirds Hop Yield—Peaches are Doing Well.

Following is a synopsis of the crop conditions for the week ending last night, as reported to Director Barwick by the numerous voluntary observers scattered throughout the State, and issued by the State Agricultural Society, in co-operation with the United States Agricultural Department's Weather Bureau Branch.

Humboldt County reports a favorable outlook for most all the crops. In some portions of the county the peach trees are dropping their leaves.

Shasta County reports the fruit prospects as very good in Happy Valley.

The Sacramento Valley, generally speaking, reports all crops as doing quite well. The hay crop will be a good one, although slightly damaged by the local rains of the 8th and 9th.

Red Bluff reports the fruit crop as abundant, and of excellent quality, but from some cause or another (probably late frosts) the raisin grapes are dropping badly.

The same report comes from the Fresno vineyards, the cause of which is unknown.

There has been some damage by the high winds threatening the grain and barley from the heads in the fields that were ripe enough.

As a general rule, the week ending last night has been an extremely cool one for so late in June, and the weather has retarded the rapid ripening of grain, fruits and berries, and prevented a glutting of the markets, which certainly is a good thing for the grower, if not for the purchaser.

About all the fruit that will be more than an average yield will be peaches. Reports from the Butte and Colusa counties speak very favorably of the prospects.

That the season for hops is a peculiar one is generally admitted by all people. Conservative and well-to-do growers do not venture in giving an approximate estimate of what the yield will be, owing to the peculiarities of this season, which are something unknown to growers of long experience.

The coming weather may materially change the present prospects, either for better or worse. Under the present circumstances and conditions the prospective yield may now be estimated at about two-thirds of a crop throughout the entire hop-growing districts of the State.

The cry generally goes up all over the State for warmer and more settled weather. Harvesting has begun in a few localities, and the weather is doing the great wheat belts of the State during this and the coming weeks.

Stanislaus County expects to have new wheat on the market by next Saturday, the 15th. In the Montezuma Hills (Solano County) section the grain will be somewhat shrunken on account of the recent hot wave.

Napa County reports that warmer weather is needed to develop the fruits, and that cherries are being shipped East by the carload.

Alameda County reports barley slightly injured by the hot wave. Haying is completed, and the yield is large. Peaches and plums are doing well. Pears are scabby and ripens rusty.

In Santa Cruz County cherries and prunes were greatly injured by the frosts here in May, and the same was true in May, but late crops were benefited greatly by the late rains. The wheat and barley yield will be below the average, but oats will be good.

In Monterey County the cool weather has been beneficial to grain. The hay crop is light, but fruit promises a good yield.

Nevada County reports the cold weather as retarding haying, on account of the slowness in curing.

San Luis Obispo County reports the heavy trade winds as doing damage to beans by blowing them down or breaking them off.

The heavy thunder and lightning storm in San Joaquin County on the 8th did no apparent damage to hay. Grain is slowly ripening, and harvesting will be, of course, near the usual time.

Stanislaus County expects an average yield of grain. Rye harvesting has been going on for some time, but the grain ripened in spots, thereby making harvesting a slow process.

In Tulare County the continued cool and rainy weather has damaged all crops in the vicinity of Visalia, but the hay will be a fair crop of peaches and prunes. All other fruits are short.

Glenn County, in the vicinity of Willow, reports peaches ripening, and the crop will be an unusually good one.

Amador County reports continued cold weather, with streaks of thunder and lightning, which struck several places in the county. Frosts near Coyoteville have nipped the vegetables and fires are glowing in the mountains. It seems more like autumn than summer. The hay crop in Amador is generally good. The sheep and dairymen are leaving daily with their stock for the mountain ranges, where they will remain for the next three or four months.

The following dispatch from the Observer at Los Angeles shows the condition in Southern California. The westerly winds on the 9th injured the bean crop, necessitating the replanting of the same. The wheat and barley are doing well, while the rain in some localities injured slightly the hay that was lying in the fields. Generally the weather has been fair and favorable.

HEALTH OF THE STATE.

Report of the Secretary of the State Board for May.

Continued Decrease of Fatalities from Respiratory Complaints—Facts About a Leprosy Case.

Dr. J. R. Laine, Secretary of the State Board of Health, in his report for the month of May states that mortality reports from 110 cities, towns, villages, and sanitary districts having an aggregate population of 894,553 show 1,055 deaths from all causes during the month of May. This corresponds to a death rate of 1.31 per 1,000 for May, or 15.72 per annum.

There were 102 deaths due to consumption, 96 to pneumonia, 41 to bronchitis, 8 to congestive pneumonia, 10 to diphtheria, and diphtheria, 17 to cholera infantum, 4 to other diseases of the stomach and bowels, 29 to diphtheria, 11 to croup, 15 to scarlatina, 6 to measles, 11 to whooping-cough, 14 to typhoid fever, 5 to malarial fevers, 14 to cerebro-spinal fever, 31 to cancer, 4 to erysipelas, 56 to diseases of the heart, 6 to alcoholism, 2 to influenza, and 48 to all other causes.

This shows a continued, though small reduction, in fatalities from respiratory diseases.

In January there were 565 deaths from diseases of the lungs, in February 530, in March 360, in April 306, and in May 277. There were 32 deaths in January from la grippe, 29 in February, 9 in March, 2 in April, and 2 in May.

PREVAILING DISEASES. Reports of prevailing diseases from 70 towns and sanitary districts outside of the large cities show 15 cases of acute pneumonia, 17 of pleurisy, 135 of acute bronchitis, 5 of congestion of the lungs, 12 of diphtheria, 6 of diphtheria, 1 of cholera infantum, 42 of cholera morbus, 31 of diphtheria, 6 of croup, 23 of scarlatina, 37 of measles, 83 of whooping-cough, 10 of malarial fevers, 12 of typhoid fever, 39 of erysipelas, 17 of inflammation of the brain, 17 of inflammation of the bowels, 10 of inflammation of the kidneys, 63 of influenza, 77 of neuralgia, 70 of rheumatism and of other diseases.

Measles are reported at Merced and Santa Clara, but are also prevalent in other places. Whooping-cough prevailed in a number of localities in California, was reported epidemic at Riverside and Colusa City, and scarlatina at Merced.

A CASE OF LEPROSY. A case of leprosy was recently discovered in Oakland, which came not long ago from Hawaii. It is the only case reported to the State Board of Health since the discovery of the disease in California, and is the only one reported since the discovery of the disease in California, and is the only one reported since the discovery of the disease in California.

The following resolution by the Oakland Board of Health will show the helpless condition in which any city or county may find itself placed, when brought to confront an unmanageable pestilence. There is appended, also, an extract from a letter by Dr. William M. Lawlor, Quarantine Officer and United States Inspector at San Francisco:

OAKLAND, Cal., June 1, 1892. The Secretary of the State Board of Health of California, San Francisco, Cal.: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 29th inst., and in reply to inform you that the case of leprosy in Oakland, which came from Hawaii, is the only one reported to the State Board of Health since the discovery of the disease in California, and is the only one reported since the discovery of the disease in California.

STATE LAZARETTO NEEDED. The following is an explanatory extract from a letter by Dr. William M. Lawlor, Quarantine Officer at San Francisco:

I have made inquiries as to the case of leprosy that was discovered in Oakland, and subsequently found in the County Hospital. From all that I can learn the patient is still in the County Hospital, and I call attention to the fact that leprosy is not a disease that comes under the head of strict quarantine, such as smallpox or other contagious diseases, but is an easy matter for a person afflicted with the disease to conceal the fact from his neighbors, and in this connection I wish to call attention to the fact that the case under discussion was not reported to the State Board of Health until the following Saturday, although it was discovered as a case of leprosy.

In this connection I would respectfully suggest to the devoting of property of calling attention to the urgent necessity of having a complete hospital for the treatment of leprosy, and the United States Immigration Department to make the examinations of all passengers coming under the immigration laws, and by this means have a double check on all cases likely to be imported into the State. With leprosy the most urgent and comprehensive legislation should be exercised to prevent its introduction, for we are menaced with this disease by the large and increasing number of the Hawaiian Islands of a class of the most insidious and contagious diseases, consisting of the poorest class of Portuguese and Japanese, who have been working under contract.

The resolutions passed by the Oakland Board of Health, with reference to the family, show the necessity of having a hospital established, where such cases could be kept under observation.

It does not matter what legal points this case may involve. It serves to indicate that it must soon become the duty of the State to care for the unfortunate who may be found afflicted with this incurable and loathsome disease, within the borders of its territory, in a manner more appropriate and humane than is the case in this State.

Nearly every county in California has more than once cared for leprosy in pesthouses, but San Francisco has borne the greatest share of the burden. Those counties which have found it inconvenient to erect a pesthouse have kindly assisted the afflicted person to the metropolis, and in this way a considerable number have been cared for nearly all the time, which properly belonged in other counties. Sacramento has had a number of cases. Yrebo had one or two in recent years. Fresno had one not long ago.

The State Board of Health have under consideration a bill, to be presented to the next Legislature, providing for a lazaretto in which to segregate this class of incurables, for all must agree that it is neither prudent nor proper to treat them as they are now being cared for.

Republican State Convention. B. W. Cavanaugh, one of the Sacramento members of the Republican State Central Committee, will go to San Francisco to-day to confer with other members of that body relative to the holding of the State Convention here for the nomination of Presidential Electors.

San Jose is making an effort to secure the convention, and it is expected that the city selected will defray the necessary expenses thereof, such as hall rent, etc.

Brannigan's Slayer. The case of George Smith, better known as "Big Neck," the slayer of Patrick Brannigan, was called in Superior Judge Van Fleet's court yesterday. District Attorney Ryan was engaged in the "Larrupin Jack" arson trial, however, and could not proceed. The case was then continued until to-day.
