

FAREWELL TO MR. MILLS.

Closing Meetings and Sermons by the Evangelist.

Yesterday Afternoon and Evening's Assemblies—The Work Left to the Local Pastors.

At 12:30 yesterday the business men held their usual meeting in the sixth street M. E. Church. The hymns sung were "More Love to Thee," "Oh! Where Are the Reapers?" and "Draw Me Nearer." Messrs. Henry Tracy, John Jessup, Joseph S. Whitcomb and others led in prayer. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. T. C. George.

The ladies held an enthusiastic and well attended meeting in a room at the right of the main entrance to the Pavilion at 2:15 P. M. Hymns were sung, prayer offered and testimonies given.

The closing of nearly all the leading business houses from 2:30 to 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon gave an opportunity for a great number of young people to attend the Mills meeting.

Mr. Greenwood announced the first hymn, "My Redeemer," and by a liturgical singing, got considerable enthusiasm worked up among those present.

Rev. J. B. Silcox corrected some of the erroneous notions that have been circulated by talking persons who were unable to comprehend the fact that Mr. Mills came to Sacramento without any guarantee of support from the church. Each church represented in the combination will hold a service every evening this week, except on Saturday evening.

There will be a union prayer meeting for both men and women at the Sixth street M. E. Church to-day at noon, and the Florence Mission will resume its usual services to-night.

The invocation was offered by Rev. T. C. George. The congregation sang "Nearer My God to Thee." Rev. J. B. Silcox read from the twenty-fifth chapter of Matthew. "Someone Will Enter the Pearly Gates" was sung, the audience rising.

The text was from the fourteenth chapter of Luke, and was a portion of the twenty-third verse—"And yet there is room." There is still room in the kingdom of God, said Mr. Mills. He believed that every man willing to be touched by the spirit would be saved that afternoon.

There is room for all kinds of people in the kingdom, and also for the educated. Almost every reputable institution of learning in the world is distinctly Christian.

"Out of sixty of the most eminent men of England," said Gladstone, "only five have not been devout Christians." The speaker said that every sort of knowledge is the most useful for the world.

There is room for the young. The speaker thought children ought to be converted before they are born. He considered it an awful crime for parents to keep the little ones out of the kingdom of God.

There is room for the aged. Old age never kept anybody out of the kingdom. It is only a hard heart that does that.

The poor also have room reserved for them. Good Christian people are not absolutely destitute. A pauper, however, can get into the kingdom of God. A man cannot stay poor if he is loyal to Jesus.

There is room for the rich. It is harder for them to enter the kingdom, but they are not excluded. The word "ye" implies that a time will come when there will no longer be room.

Is there an unpardonable sin? The city of Jerusalem was condemned from the moment Christ was crucified. So a man who is spiritually dead while yet living, Jesus Christ says, man may not commit a sin for which he cannot be forgiven.

Of these three things may be said: First, there is no sin against God. Second, man is in danger of committing it. Third, it is a sin against the Holy Ghost.

God says He has given up some people and will never see them again. Some find no place for repentance, though they seek it carefully with tears. "There is a sin unto death," says the Scripture. Any sin persisted in to the end is a sin unto death. The speaker believed that ninety-nine hundredths of lost souls are lost before they die.

Promotion may end at any time. Science, analogy and God's word teach it. Unbelievers may die without concern, but that is a cause for alarm.

If there be any desire in one's heart to be a Christian it ought to be encouraged—it is dangerous to do otherwise.

Mr. Mills hesitated to ask people to stand up at a certain time. Some would be some who would refuse. A large number of persons of all ages rose when the invitation was extended.

Mr. Mills prayed and sang "The Lord God Made Me." He sang "The Lord God Made Me Shine Into My Heart." During the singing of "Almost Persuaded" the congregation cards were distributed by the ushers.

Mr. Mills seemed to speak more eloquently than usual. He was listened to with the closest attention by the vast audience, who were deeply impressed with the earnestness and sincerity of the evangelist.

All those spiritual ideas that have been awakened at this meeting are likely to stay to an after-service. "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" was sung. The pastors made a few brief and appropriate addresses concerning the closing of the meetings in the decision of this question, after which Mr. Mills appealed to those present to indicate their purpose to settle the matter by signing names.

"Ass Me Not" was sung, when Mr. Mills pronounced the benediction. About sixty of the cards were signed.

THE CLOSING MEETING. The closing meeting of the revival services, under the leadership of Mr. Mills, was held at the Pavilion last evening. After the usual number of anthems, Rev. J. B. Silcox made a few remarks in the course of which he explained that Mr. Mills did not come to this city under contract and that the collections taken up for his benefit were purely suggested by the Committee of Arrangements.

An able prayer was next offered by Dr. Frost, and then Mr. Mills made some announcements of meetings to be held at the various churches this week.

Man often thousand than have all the wealth of this golden State.

I thought every one who let this opportunity pass would regret it hereafter. Jesus of Nazareth will have passed by. He told about a man in Chicago who delayed. The Chicago man was so infatuated with worldly success that he neglected to join the church and died in iniquity. He prolonged the last hours of the dying man. He was now in a heavenly mansion, but he finally died gasping. The harvest is passed, the summer is ended, and I am not saved!" He died a Christian, but he was wrapped in a shroud, put into a Christless coffin, carried in a Christless grave and passed into a Christless eternity.

Some thought the gospel had lost its truth, but he stated, was a last call, and he made a most earnest and almost fearful appeal to the unconverted to stand up in confession of conversion.

Quite a number arose in response to repeated solicitations, and the choir and Mr. Greenwood sang as seductively as possible. He next made an earnest appeal, after which the singing resumed and the request cards distributed.

As he presumed the fate of a great many hung in the balance at this moment, he urged everyone to leave no stone unturned for morality, decency or sacred things. Hence everybody stayed awhile longer. The choir sang, "Come, Singers, Come."

After the regular service, Mr. Mills said many people have an idea Sacramento is a wicked city, and the devils' lair. He said that if anyone had any doubts to compare with that of the church of Jesus Christ.

Some thought the gospel had lost its truth, but he stated, was a last call, and he made a most earnest and almost fearful appeal to the unconverted to stand up in confession of conversion.

He thought as God had a right to everything on earth, people should not be afraid to tell the truth about their religion. He touched on denunciations of our day, and he could rarely tell ministers apart, and that he was called everything but a prophet.

Mr. Greenwood once told a strange brother he thought Mills was a Freesbyterian, and he thought he was a Freesbyterian, and he thought he was a Freesbyterian, and he thought he was a Freesbyterian.

After Mr. Mills closed, Rev. R. M. Stevenson, representing the Executive Committee of the city, made a few general expressions of farewell, after which "Jesus Christ, Our Savior" was sung.

As a closing prayer, Mr. Mills made a few remarks. He said he was converted in the wicked town of San Francisco a seventeen years ago. He had been only a few days in this city's business while there, but he escaped.

He and Mr. Greenwood got from here to Southern California for a couple of weeks. He and Mr. Greenwood got from here to Southern California for a couple of weeks.

An able prayer was next offered by Dr. Frost, and then Mr. Mills made some announcements of meetings to be held at the various churches this week.

He then made some remarks commendatory of the Florence Mission in this city, and of the good work being accomplished by missionary work generally, stating that they were everywhere.

The clear and ringing voice of "Jesus of Nazareth Passeth By," which was followed by Mr. Greenwood, who sang "It May Be the Last Time."

Mr. Mills announced his text from the 1st chapter of Deuteronomy, 10th verse—"And We Came to Kadeshbarnea." The people of Israel here spoken of came very near to Canaan, the Promised Land, but never crossed the line. They found God's word to be true—that it was a land flowing with milk and honey—but there were giants there and only two had faith to go on, while 99,000, with their wives and eldest daughters, turned back into the wilderness to perish.

The evangelist here likened the Israelites in the wilderness for forty years to the Sacramento people, who came very near to Kadeshbarnea, and milk and honey, but did not cross the line. He said love of money sometimes kept men away from God—sometimes pride and sometimes simple neglect.

At the close of his sermon he said he did not come here seeking wealth, but souls, and he would rather save the last
