IMPORTANT STATEMENTS. Elsewhere in this issue we publish interviews with several well-informed men, men having commercial experience and wisdom, upon the question of prices for goods in California and their relation to transportation.

We invite the attention of our readers to the important statements in these interviews, which clearly lay bare the source of the complaining heard in certain quarters against the railways.

It is beyond question true that the difficulty with which California has most to contend is high prices, not freight rates. The exclamation against railroads is a mere cover to the real cause, the high-price-exorbitant-profit idea prevalent here.

A few weeks ago the RECORD-UNION proved by the confessions of San Francisco merchants that goods that can be sold in this State at Chicago, St. Louis or New York prices with good profits are charged far more for here because "everything in California is high."

This is an excuse constantly put forward, though it is one that ought to cause the blush of shame to mantle the cheek of any true merchant.

Somewhat to mask this pitiful plea, it is contended that an additional reason for high prices is high freight rates. As a matter of fact, the freight rate cuts no figure in the case of the great majority of supplies sold at high prices.

It is also a matter of fact that where freight rates—mileage considered, proportionately lower than at the East—greatly reduced on incoming supplies the result would be in no respect beneficial to California dealers, but would only enable Eastern manufacturers to more readily to compete with California manufacturers and merchants.

We are coming to a level with Eastern economic systems, and that the process causes friction is not at all surprising. We must come to the Eastern level and there is no way of escape from it.

Buyers will exercise their right to buy where they can procure supplies cheapest; Eastern dealers, backed by immense trade supported by sixty millions of people, less wages and more economic methods, will sell in our area in successful competition with our own houses, until we are able to meet it by reduction of the cost of production and the conduct of business, and the consequent narrowing of the margin of profits.

The situation is not one of sentiment, nor of theory, but of plain, bare, undeniable fact, to which it is simply futile to close our eyes. Our trade and industry is antagonized to-day more by Eastern competition than by Chinese intrusion.

The first we cannot ever object to, since it is legitimate and resistless. The conclusion is inevitable that we can meet and contest with it only by putting ourselves upon a plane with Eastern conditions.

In so far as this is impossible because of the sparsity of our population, we must submit and buy of our friends on the East, since in trade there is neither sentiment nor favor, the consumer of goods the world over being privileged to buy where he can do so to the best advantage.

THE CASE OF THE CHIEF OF POLICE. With frankly confessed reluctance the Superior Court, Judge Van Fleet's department, has reached the conclusion that a judgment must be recorded against the right of Chief of Police Rodgers of this city to hold his office.

This is the more embarrassing to the court, because it is a defeat of the people. But facts developed at the trial, wholly unknown in the outset even to Chief Rodgers, which appear to justify the conclusion reached by the Superior Court, the opinion of which is published this morning, and that for its clearness, judicial calm and strength will carry with it conviction of earnestness and sincerity of the court in the endeavor to do even-handed justice in the case.

But there is no question now whatever of the citizenship of Chief Rodgers. Since his candidacy was announced he has, by process of naturalization, cured all possible defects in his citizenship. Wherever the appointing power resides, therefore, to fill the office anew—if the Chief shall not appeal, and which is a costly and long drawn proceeding—that authority ought to confirm and give effect to the wishes of the people and reinstate Chief Rodgers in his office.

For Mr. Rodgers in the three months in which he has been Chief of Police has done remarkably well, far better than was even anticipated, for as the RECORD-UNION said at the time, a revolution in such a department cannot be accomplished in any short period; the lax condition that had obtained in Sacramento in the matter of enforcing the laws and police regulations could not be corrected in a month nor in six months; nor could obstacles to good municipal government be swept away in a moment.

Chief Rodgers has effected reforms; he has bettered many conditions; he has succeeded such reforms as the Trustees have put on foot, and has carried out far more effectively than we thought possible in so short a time the determination of the Police Commission to work beneficial changes. Mr. Rodgers has the tide of public sympathy with him, and it is plainly set in the direction of his retention in the office to which the people elected him, and to that end will move upon the appointing power. If it comes to an election again he will be seated by an overwhelming majority.

WAR UPON A CRUEL PRACTICE. Our Dumb Animals, the exponent of the Massachusetts and American humane societies, appeals to the press of the country to exert its influence with all horse-breeding associations to effectually stop the mutilation of American horses by docking, by adopting a rule that no prize shall be awarded to a mutilated horse.

It is a just, reasonable and needed appeal. The practice of sawing off a horse's tail and scarifying the stump to make it stand up in imitation of one kind of English snobbery is one that ought to be frowned down, and indeed ought to be classed among offenses against the law along with other cruelties. The tail of the horse is a necessary appendage with which nature has equipped it. Humane people will not deprive the animal of it, and thus subject it to assaults against which it has no other weapon of defense.

Massachusetts in April, 1889, made it an offense against the law to dock horses, or to assist in the process, and fixed the punishment for such mutilation at imprisonment not exceeding one year, or payment of a fine not exceeding $50. The horse is man's best friend in the animal kingdom, and is entitled to such protection against cruel practices as will preserve to it its natural members that add to its usefulness, beauty and comfort.

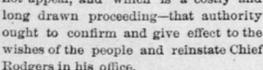

Eighty-two of the leading women of Boston have signed a published protest against the docking practice, and resolved to refuse to ride behind bob-tailed horses or to countenance men who mutilate the animals or drive them. These ladies are now receiving an immense number of names daily supplemental to their protest, and it is, therefore, likely that they will make their voices so heard that the practice will soon cease, at least in New England.

That such a protest means something more than an emotional outburst may be understood from the prominence in science, literature, art and society of the signers, among whom are such women as Mrs. Louis Agassiz, Mrs. Robert Treat Paine, Mrs. Amos Lawrence, Mrs. Robert G. Shaw, Mrs. Charles G. Loring, Mrs. William F. Cary, Mrs. William P. Lyman, Mrs. Richard Codman, Mrs. Cabot, Mrs. Dwight and Mrs. Elliot.

If the women of America will follow the example of these Boston women, generally, the senseless, cruel practice of cutting off the tails of horses will very soon cease, and this heartless cruelty will disappear from the catalogue of crimes against good taste and humanity.
