DEATH OF SENATOR BOOTH. Sacramento-to-day mourns the loss of one of her most distinguished citizens, whose name was closely interwoven with the political and commercial history of the State, and upon whom California had bestowed the highest political honors within her power to confer.

Newton Booth, by the force of his character, the scholarly accomplishments of his mind and the graces of his eloquence, commanded the attention of the State and won the high distinction of elevation to the Governorship of California. A little later this honor was supplemented by his election to the office of United States Senator, which he filled for a full term.

From the time of his arrival in the State Governor Booth was intimately related to the commercial interests of Sacramento. He at no time manifested a disposition to abandon the city, but remained its steadfast friend and earnest champion. He always felt a deep concern in the welfare of Sacramento, and rarely declined, until failing health compelled him, to be an active worker and careful counselor in all local concerns.

While Governor Booth, to the time of his investment with the Senatorial toga, took a very lively interest in the political affairs of California, he did not in the Senate seek to make himself prominent or to aspire to leadership, for which, by oratory and learning, he was believed to be fitted. The Senatorship appeared to have filled the cup of his ambition, and on his return at the close of his term he withdrew himself, much to the disappointment of his political and personal friends, from active political work, and resumed his commercial position.

It is true that in two or three instances his voice was heard in the political campaigns of his party, but at no time with the vigor or spirit of his earlier career. He appeared desirous to be left in retirement and to concern himself only with the affairs of his business and the domestic economy of the city of his home. His habits gradually became more and more withdrawn from public life, and he was evidently content to live in his counting-room and among his books, of which he was a passionate lover, and which he never ceased to regard as the best of companions.

He was a man of fine scholarly attainments, a reader of deliberation and thoughtfulness, an analytical reader, one who at no time lost his love for the classics of his youth and the broad philosophy of letters. He was a liberal man; courteous and kindly at all times, his manner was distinguished by personal dignity, but it did not withdraw him from association with his fellow-citizens or develop in him a haughty spirit.

It will always be regretted by his fellow-citizens that he did not adapt himself by habit to continuance in leading public walks, and that he chose to so much withdraw himself from the rostrum and to avoid the forum of public debate. But the successes of the period of his activity in the broad field of public affairs in the earlier years of his political and literary life, will not pass from the memory of his colleagues or the history of politics and letters in this State. His speeches upon the stump, his orations upon the platform, his polished essays and finished addresses, the fruits of his well-stored mind and his broad and thorough reading, remain in the recorded history of the State as brilliant examples that honored the man, the community of his adoption and the State of his choice.

AN EXPOSURE OF CORRUPTION. An exposure of the corrupt methods practiced in San Francisco to defeat the Restriction Act has just been made by the San Francisco Examiner. Parties were employed to personate those who wished to import a Chinese subject in violation of the law. They got access to a Chinese go-between—a sort of crime broker—also a Chinese lawyer who is a graduate of American colleges, who for coin plans lawlessness, and who is close to the Chinese Vice-Consul. The disguised importers also came into consultation with a Customs Inspector who seemed to be approachable. For a given sum of money paid to the lawyer, they procured a false certificate to be made permitting a Chinaman to land—who was a supposititious individual, of course. They also secured by bribery and corruption the indorsement and approval of the certificate as required by law.

The supposed importers then managed to have the chief parties to the corrupt deal—which, it appears, is a common method—meet in a room in the Occidental Hotel, where the whole story was rehearsed over and over again, and where the blood money was duly paid. But near by were witnesses and officers who heard the whole thing, while copies of the false certificate and of the instructions to the supposed immigrant how to lie to the customs or ship officials, and other matters in writing, were procured. This expose puts it beyond all question that Chinese and whites, and some of the latter subordinate customs officials, have long been engaged in defeating the Restriction Act by perjury, false personation, forgery and other means. It lays bare a home underground route by which Chinese steal in whom the law forbids to come.

The questions of the wisdom or the righteousness of the Restriction Act are not involved; whether or not the Chinaman is desirable in our midst is not a matter of concern in the premises. On these points the position of the RECORD-UNION is well known, and its years of protest against the introduction of non-assimilable elements is a matter of history. But here is proof positive (unless we are to believe our contemporary to have lied throughout, and to have printed a fiction) of cool defiance of a law of the Nation, of shameless venality, of official corruption, and of regular brokerage in lawlessness that demand the immediate attention of the Federal authorities, and ought to result in the punishment of the offenders and the breaking up of their nefarious business.

The Restriction Act is a law of the Nation; Customs officials in subordinate positions are sworn to obey and enforce it; the people's hope that the laws will be made effective must be reposed in the officers who are made the guardians of the legislatively expressed will of the people. When these consort with criminals plotting to cheat the law and bargaining for its defeat and defiance, the safeguards of the people's government in that direction are shaken, and the unhealthy belief is stimulated that it is impossible to enforce the laws whenever corruptionists choose to put them aside.

It would seem that the corruption laid bare by the exposure referred to has one of its roots in the office of the Chinese Vice-Consul of the Chinese Empire, located at San Francisco. If this be established, the Vice-Consul should be, by demand of our Government, displaced. The whole affair is one reeking with rottenness and plated with brazen contempt for the laws of the United States. If the lead touched by our San Francisco contemporary is now well worked by order of the Washington authorities, it ought to result in cleaning out the corrupt corners and breaking up the brokerage in lawlessness, and in such official energy and vigor as will command something more of respect for the laws of the land, especially from aliens tolerated on the soil.

A GOOD INSTRUCTION. The Republican County Central Committee yesterday appointed delegates to the State Convention, who will also be the delegates from this county to the Congressional Convention. The committee unanimously adopted a resolution instructing the delegates to use all honorable means to secure the nomination of Hon. Grove L. Johnson for Congress from this district.

This was wise action and will meet with the indorsement of the Republican party in this county. During all the time in which there has been activity in putting Congressional candidates into the field the RECORD-UNION has proffered no advice, preferring that the candidates should bring themselves to the front. Now, however, since the committee has expressed itself in favor of Mr. Johnson, it is timely to say that it has done well in backing the honorable ambition of so prominent a citizen of the county and so capable a man.

The other candidates are good men; we have no fault to find with them, no disparagement of them to utter. But Hon. Grove L. Johnson is a Sacramento citizen, and has been for more than a quarter of a century a devoted, earnest and fearless friend of the county and the city, but not the less broad-minded as to the State and every material interest in it. By legislative experience, by political training, by mental ability and the vigor of a strong intellect, Mr. Johnson is fitted admirably to represent the district. He is a man of convictions and courage, familiar with every part of the district and its every interest, a champion of progressive ideas, and an advocate of California of the very order she needs in national councils.

He is a man of detail, who, undertaking a duty, discharges it to the latest item. If he is chosen to represent the district he will be a working Congressman, aggressive in all that the interests of California and national honor justify. He is an orator of fine ability and commands attention wherever he is heard; he is familiar with the law and with law-making; he knows the needs of the State, and will be fearless and yet discreet in pushing them upon national attention.

Whenever in the Legislature, Mr. Johnson has, by his skill as a debater, his fearlessness and his indomitable energy, been recognized as a leader, and so he will be in the House of Representatives. Sacramento is entitled by all the equities to a Congressman now. The present generation cannot recall that she has been favored in that way, while all the other leading counties in the district have been given the honor. Mr. Johnson now comes forward as a representative man fitted by native talent, legal acumen, the graces of oratory, legislative experience and political wisdom, to honor the district and the State in the National House. It is the duty and the privilege of Sacramento to now stand for a Sacramento man for Congress, where none of her citizens have been seated.

The Democratic nominee for the Vice-Presidency has a checked record political. "General" Stevenson is just now busily engaged in the attempt to prove that he is a regular line-back, dyed-in-the-wool Democrat. But it remains that in 1878 he ran for Congress under the nomination of the Greenback party, the platform of which he indorsed and which he advocated upon the stump with great energy. He was an inflationist then without any concealment, and fought resumption as a pairie farmerights fire. But the nation "resumed" despite "General" Stevenson. He now stands upon a platform of a decidedly different financial complexion, so that it must be a matter of considerable difficulty for the nominee of to-day to square himself with the nominee of 1878.

Make Yourself a New Body. Purge away the old, diseased and worn-out body, said Dr. Brandreth. Replace the diseased nature of the system with good, simple food, and thus build up a new and sound body in place of one feeble and diseased. Every man should know that he must be "renewed" at least once in two or three years, else he would soon break down completely. This renewing process is easily brought about by purging with BRANDRETH'S PILLS. They put new life into you by cleansing the system.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS are purely vegetable, absolutely harmless and safe to take at any time.

Sold in every drug and medicine store, either plain or sugar-coated.

In Chile, after making elder and wine from their apples, they extract from the refuse a white and finely flavored spirit, and by another process they procure a sweet treacle, or, as they term it, honey.

Special Notices. PAINLESS EXTRACTION OF TEETH by use of local anesthetic. DR. WELDON, Dentist, 814 K and J streets.

"When it begins to stop," it won't hurt so much," says a third. The reason of the ache is in the tooth. BRANDRETH'S PILLS prevent your teeth from decay.

Friday July 15 1892. On July 15, 1892, Withrop Mackworth Praed died in London. He was the author of many comic poems, notable among which was "The Belle of the Ball," of whom he says: I saw her at a country ball; There where the sound of flute and fiddle Gave signals, sweet in that old hall. Of hands across and down the middle; Here was the stuttest spell by which I live.
