

THE DEAD STATESMAN.

Funeral Services Yesterday of the Late Newton Booth.

An Eloquent Tribute to His Memory by Rev. J. B. Silcox—Impressive Funeral Services.

The Congregational Church was filled yesterday with a sympathetic throng in attendance upon the funeral services of ex-Governor Newton Booth. The assemblage was a representative one and included many prominent people of the State, while the services, conducted by Rev. J. B. Silcox, were very earnest, impressive and marked in their character and touching simplicity. The music was especially tender and touching by both the organ and choir, the former being presided over by Mr. Dunster, and the choir being a quartet, comprised of Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Howard, Mr. Cohn and Mr. Beardslee.

The services opened with the hymns, "Come Unto Me" and "When Our Heads are Bow'd in Grief." A scripture reading followed by Mr. Silcox, who offered also a very earnest prayer.

When the coffin was brought to the aisle Mr. Silcox stepped from the pulpit and preceded the pall-bearers, twelve in number, to the altar. As the cortege moved up the central aisle the organ played "Funeral March" as rendered by the organist, while the pall-bearers, the relatives and more intimate friends of the deceased marched forward to seats reserved for them near the altar. The pall-bearers were: Hon. W. H. L. Barnes, ex-Governor George W. Stewart, George K. Rich, M. M. Este and P. M. Pixley of San Francisco, and Judge A. P. Catlin, J. M. Lindley, Charles McCreary, P. H. Gray, Albert Hart, William H. Roush and Frank Miller of this city.

The floral decorations, which fairly covered the pulpit and altar and festooned the railings along the aisle, were of the most part white blossoms with scattering bunches of blue and lavender roses. Some of the pieces consisted of wreaths, anchors and scrolls bearing the words, woven in white, with lavender roses. "Peace" was the motto on the "Rest" while a few in France roses were noticeable. On the coffin rested a profusion of lilacs and pink peonies, the casket was encased in rich velvet with mottlings of silver.

TRIBUTE TO THE DEAD.

Rev. J. B. Silcox delivered the following obituary sermon: "They buried him in the city of David among the kings, because he had done good in Israel." This refers to an able statesman of Israel who lived in the days of King Josiah. He was the guiding spirit of the nation. The people loved him for his practical wisdom and his courage. By his counsel and courage many reforms were effected. The people had served showed their appreciation of his character and service by burying him among the kings in the city of David. The honorable burial was the nation's tribute to the goodness of his character and the excellence of his service.

To-day we give honorable burial to a loved citizen and honor his memory because he lived in the land and for the land. This vast assemblage of citizens of all grades and ranks united to honor the memory of a noble man who held in this city and State. We feel in our hearts to-day to say of him:

"He has done the work of a brave man; crown him, honor him, love him. Weep over him tears of woman; stonify his brow above him." As we meet the man and a citizen he is held in high esteem and love and affection. I think I can truly say that the citizen of Sacramento who would honor him, we must never allow ourselves to fall into the error of measuring a nation's greatness by the extent of her territory, the fertility of her soil, the richness of her mines or the extent of her manufactures, but by the intelligence and true of her citizenry, especially of those who are elected to direct State and national affairs. The noble character of the man she chooses to know by the name of Governor Booth is a noble character of the man she chooses to know by the name of Governor Booth is a noble character of the man she chooses to know by the name of Governor Booth.

I cannot, in the short time of this brief service, attempt to review the public life of him whom we mourn to-day. As a man and a citizen he was held in high esteem and love and affection. I think I can truly say that the citizen of Sacramento who would honor him, we must never allow ourselves to fall into the error of measuring a nation's greatness by the extent of her territory, the fertility of her soil, the richness of her mines or the extent of her manufactures, but by the intelligence and true of her citizenry, especially of those who are elected to direct State and national affairs.

Thousands of dollars I spent trying to find a cure for Salt Rheum, which I had for 13 years. Physicians said they never saw so severe a case. My back and arms were covered by the humor. I began to take HOOD'S Sarsaparilla, and the flesh became more healthy. The scales fell off. I was soon able to give up bandages and crutches, and a happy man I was.

HOOD'S PILLS cure liver, constipation, biliousness, indigestion, and sick headache. Try them.

FOURTH WARD REPUBLICANS.

They Organize a Club and Indulge in a "Whoop-Up."

Grove L. Johnson Indorsed for Congress—Enthusiastic Speeches Made—Officers Elected.

The Republicans of the Fourth Ward opened the campaign in style at Twentieth and O streets Saturday night.

There were bonfires and skyrockets and a deafening cannoning in the street, accompanied by music from a five and drum corps, after which the large crowd which had assembled adjourned to the hall and organized the Fourth Ward Republican Club.

OFFICERS ELECTED. H. H. Snow called the meeting to order. He said the object was to form a club and have a general Republican "whoop-up." The formation of the club would be first in order, and nominations for temporary Chairman were called for.

Lincoln White placed in nomination O. W. Erlwine in a complimentary speech. The gentleman was elected by a unanimous vote and with loud cheers.

Mr. Erlwine, in taking the chair, made a patriotic speech. He said he had always been a Republican, but his connection with Republicanism. He had always been a Republican, he said, and hoped he always would be one. He said he was a native born citizen of the Fourth Ward Republican. The Fourth Ward had the reputation of being the most enthusiastic in the city.

Mr. Erlwine proposed nominations for Vice-President and Secretary. N. N. Denton was the unanimous choice for the first place and George P. Koyster for the second.

On motion of W. H. H. Ennis, the temporary officers were declared the permanent officers of the club.

Z. F. Wharton was then called upon for a speech. Like the Chairman, he said he never left at home except in Republican company. The Fourth Ward to-night was the first time he had seen the crowd in the campaign for Harrison and Reid and the Republican party. "Some might say we are commencing a little early," said the speaker, "but we are not getting behind in any longer. Our enthusiasm has reached the explosion point. Republicanism is always in the field, and it is why they are always victorious."

Mr. Wharton then devoted his attention to the National Republican ticket. Two better men could not be found, he said, to lead the party to another great victory. The administration of Benjamin Harrison had been a clean, honorable and dignified one, and the country had risen 10 per cent in the estimation of the balance of the world. The diplomatic work directed by the President had everywhere exposed powers that the United States had a man of the helm who could not be bulldozed. Benjamin Harrison, said the speaker, was the friend of labor; but above all he was the friend of the poor. He was the friend of American commerce abroad as well as at home. He came from a long line of patriots. His great-grandfather was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and Harrison himself had served his country in the late war, and had proved himself an able statesman.

Harrison's opponent this time, continued Mr. Wharton, was a man who had been tried and found wanting. The only thing that ever distinguished Cleveland's administration was his wholesale votes of pensions for veterans of the army, and his marriage.

AN EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE. N. N. Denton was the next speaker. He said he always liked to belong to the best Republican club in town, and now that he had joined the Fourth Ward Club, he was glad to be a member. He wanted it to be the best. The material was good, and all it needed was good management. The first thing to do would be to select a strong Executive Committee. He had charge of the management. He therefore moved that the Chair appoint an Executive Committee of five.

Chairman Erlwine appointed the following named: John Barrett, H. H. Snow, Lincoln White, Harry Bell and W. W. Connor.

Lincoln White being called upon referred to the coming Congressional fight. It was high time, he said, that Sacramento should be recognized in this district, and should have a Representative in Congress. He commended the action of the Republican County Central Committee in instructing the delegates to the State Convention to vote for Grover L. Johnson for Congress. Mr. Johnson, he said, was a man whom every Sacramento citizen knew. He was a man who would do honor to the district and to Sacramento. In conclusion, Mr. White moved that the club instruct the delegates to the State Convention to vote for Grover L. Johnson.

The motion was carried by a unanimous vote of the club. The speaker then addressed the assemblage briefly, but in a patriotic and happy way. He had been a First Warder for some time, but owing to removal was now a Fourth Warder. Already he had become charged with the enthusiasm that pervades that ward and he was convinced that he would do good and good work for the party by reason of his new surroundings. He would do his best to do good.

Short speeches were made by Supervisor George O. Bates, John Barrett, H. H. Snow, Henry Bell and others, after which an adjournment was taken in order that the members might sign the roll.

FRUIT SAMPLES. Those for World's Fair Models May be

At the office of the California Fruit Transportation Company, 106 Second street, may be seen—and obtained by those who wish to use them—small but well-made pasteboard boxes sent out by the Department of Agriculture to Superintendent Appel for use in forwarding samples of choice fruits to be used as models for wax fruit exhibits at the World's Fair.

These boxes are franked by the Post-office Department for this special purpose, and when containing fruit samples can be forwarded to Washington free of cost to the owner of the fruit.

Samples thus sent may bear the grower's name, and when received at Washington in the exhibition. Of course it is expected that only choice samples will be forwarded, such as the Department of Agriculture will be pleased to place on exhibition.

Mr. Appel states that the boxes may be shipped free of charge in his company's refrigerators to Chicago or New York, where they will be placed in the mail and forwarded direct to Washington.

Growers of many fruits who wish to "be in it" at the great World's Fair should avail themselves of this opportunity.

CLUBS WERE TRUMPS. Two Portuguese Have a Lively War Dance at Second and Q Streets.

Manuel Sorres was taken to the Police Station Saturday night, where he still lies in a badly battered condition, the effects of a combat with another Portuguese named Manuel Ferraries. The row occurred at a tough joint in the corner of Second and Q streets, where the denizens of the place are becoming notorious.

Ferraries was arrested by Officer Tolles and confined in the City Jail. Sorres was taken to the great World's Fair and was trying to get work in the railroad shops. He has been rooming up over a saloon at Second and Q and on Saturday night, while he was talking with another man, Ferraries, without cause, quarreled with him and, seizing a heavy oak club, beat him.

In trying to get away, Sorres, who has lost the toes from one of his feet, says he fell and then Ferraries beat him over the head with his hands until he broke his club. He is badly hurt about the head, and one of his hands was cut and lacerated by the blows received in trying to guard his head.

Ferraries says Sorres had a club, too, and that he began the row. Both men were evidently under the influence of liquor. A great deal of interest is manifested in the case by the Portuguese residents, and so many solicitous countrymen called yesterday that James McManis had to finally refuse to admit the latter visitors.

Saturday's Police Court. In the Police Court on Saturday J. M. Hartley, accused of grand larceny in having robbed James Kelleher of a watch and some coin, was discharged. Kelleher had been so drunk that he did not seem to remember what he had been doing or who he was.

Martha Mertens, for disturbing the peace, had her case continued till to-day. The barometrical readings at 5 A. M. and 5 P. M. yesterday were 29.2 and 29.1 inches.
