TOOK HIS OWN LIFE.

George Brugge Succeeds During a Fit of Insanity.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—Some time last night George Brugge, a well-known citizen, committed suicide in his stable, at 43 Clay street. The corpse was discovered this morning, and removed to the morgue.

Mrs. Brugge believes that her husband was insane when he committed the rash act. His brother is now confined in an insane asylum and his father committed suicide a few years ago during a fit of insanity.

Ever since the death of his father Mr. Brugge had fits of despondency during which he has threatened to kill himself. Yesterday morning, before he left his residence at Harrison street, he told his wife that she would never see him again, as he would end his life. When she asked him what was troubling him, he answered that he had business troubles, but this is denied by his partner, who says the business is in a flourishing condition.

All day yesterday Brugge was around his stable and seemed in good spirits. Just before the place was closed for the night he was seen to climb a blanket and pillow and go into the carriage-shed, but as he was in the habit of frequently sleeping there nothing unusual was thought of it.

This morning his brother-in-law, W. T. Bordwell, who is also his bookkeeper, entered the carriage-shed and found Brugge lying on his back, covered with the blanket, while his head rested on the pillow. In his forehead was a gaping wound, while by his side lay a revolver, with one chamber discharged. The bullet had passed entirely through the head, coming out at the back, and the pillow was soaked with blood. Death must have been instantaneous.

Deceased was a native of Germany, 41 years of age, and leaves a widow and family. This afternoon an inquest was held and the jury returned a verdict of suicide while temporarily insane.

SIR CHARLES SMITH.

Detailed Account of His Experiences With the Sultan.

LONDON, July 21.—A dispatch from Tangier, giving a detailed account of the experiences of the British mission, says: After the attack on the mission the Sultan received Sir Charles Smith in great agitation, and said he must come to the Palace with his people. The Sultan was powerless to protect him at the mission, and he was sure the British would be killed.

Sir Charles replied that the whole mission might be massacred, if the Sultan permitted, but assured him that there would be another British Minister in Fez within a month, accompanied by a better equipped force than the present one, and that there would not be a Sultan in Fez.

Then the Sultan appeared astounded at the manner in which Sir Charles had spoken to him to remain at the Palace. But Sir Charles adroitly changed the conversation to the subject of the treaty, and the Sultan immediately said he would sign it.

Sir Charles then asked for the punishment of the rioters, etc., as already published, and it was readily granted. When Sir Charles was leaving the Sultan accompanied him to the door of the mission, which is a great breach of Moorish etiquette.

When the treaty was finally signed, Sir Charles found certain of the conditions laid down in the treaty, which were nullifying its effect. When he demanded an explanation the Minister of War said the Sultan's orders, however, all horses and mules were stolen. Sir Charles procured a fast horse for a messenger, and hearing of this, the Sultan returned the stolen animals. On the following day Sir Charles departed for the coast despite the entreaties of the Sultan.

In the campaign four years ago he worked as earnestly as any man could for Democratic success. The party was defeated, however, and he was not unaware of the fact that the public always judge a matter of this kind by the standard of success. He regretted severing his pleasant connection with the committee, and assured them that anything he can do for the party he will be glad to do.

It is reported that ex-Secretary Whitney will be made Chairman of the Advisory Committee.

"I'm glad to hear such good news from you," said Hessing, smiling.

"It is so," said Hessing. There is no national reputation who has a stronger hold on the German mind than the name of the leader of the Lutheran voters, there are no doubt 25,000 who will vote for you. That makes a change of 50,000 votes, and will give us a majority of 100,000. There are many German Protestants who are not Lutheran, but upon this question they are all united. With proper organization and campaign education there is no question that Illinois will give us from 10,000 to 20,000 majority."

The board of Aldermen of New York City adopted a new political map, which is said to gerrymander the city in such way as to leave it one sure Republican Assembly district out of thirty.

Secret Conference Between Governor Pattison, President Weihe (the Amalgamated Association of Legal Advice of the Situation at the Point and Soldiers.

Special to the RECORD-UNION.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—As provided in the joint resolution approved June 29th last, President Harrison to-day issued a proclamation appointing Friday, October 21, 1892, the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus, the general holiday for the people of the United States. "On that day," says the proclamation, "let the people, so far as possible, cease all toil and devote themselves to such exercise as may best express honor to the discoverer and appreciation of the great achievements of four completed centuries of American life. Columbus stood in his age as the pioneer of progress and enlightenment. The system of universal education in our age is the most prominent and salutary feature of the spirit of enlightenment, and it is peculiarly appropriate that the schools be made by the people the center of the day's demonstration. Let the National Flag fly over every household in the country, and let the people, by such a solemnity of the people, let there be expressions of gratitude to Divine Providence for the devout faith of the discoverer and of the virtue and wisdom of the people, which has directed our history and so abundantly blessed our people."
