

WATCHING THE MINERS.

Two Hydraulic Detectives Who Were Not Very Successful.

The Supervisors Discuss Election Expenses—Folsom's New Bridge Ready for Use.

The Board of Supervisors was in session again yesterday. Mr. Bates was absent again, and during most of the afternoon Mr. Black was away looking after the primaries.

The call issued by the Anti-Debris Association of the Sacramento Valley for a convention of Supervisors and citizens, to be held in this city to-morrow, read, including the resolutions adopted at the late River Convention. The Supervisors will attend the meeting.

Robert T. Devin, special attorney for the county in the prosecution of hydraulic miners, addressed the board in reference to Watchmen Hagle and Elder, who have recently been spying around Gold Run. The men had returned and made their report. The report was turned over to the Supervisors later in the day. It was signed by J. A. Elder, and was as follows:

Pursuant to your request, John Hagle and myself went to Gold Run and vicinity for the purpose of seeing that the injunctions issued by the county against hydraulic miners were enforced. The morning after our arrival we discovered a number of Chinamen working at picking out a trench where dirt had been washed off, but in endeavoring to reach them, they fled. We did not discover that they were using monitors. At Gold Run there is constantly running a large quantity of water, which can be used for mining purposes during the whole of the year. We stopped at the hotel at Gold Run, and after we had been there about five or six days the proprietor informed us that he could not keep us any longer, and we were compelled to move our quarters elsewhere. During the time that we were on the ground, hydraulic mining was carried on. We were constantly employed during the time we were there watching the country, and were supplied by Mr. Devin with injunctions to serve on anyone we caught mining, but during our visit the mines were deserted. We did not discover what we do not know. We were employed in all nine days.

The report was placed on file. Supervisor Miller was asked to know what the board proposed to do about providing clerks to take registrations in the county precincts.

Chairman Greer said he was in favor of placing a clerk in each township, to be compensated at the rate of 10 cents a month.

County Clerk Rhoads doubted if capable could be obtained at the rate mentioned by the chairman. Under the old law 10 cents a month was allowed, and now there was twice as much work of registering a person as there was formerly. Another thing, Mr. Rhoads said that inasmuch as he was responsible for the register, he would insist upon the right to appoint the clerks who were to do the work.

Chairman Greer said that this work was going to prove very expensive. Temporary buildings would have to be erected in some places. The county had had a previous experience in this kind of business, and had to pay dear for the use of even an old abandoned barn that happened to be wanted for election purposes.

After a desultory discussion the board dropped the subject. Notice was received from Warden Abbott of the Folsom Penitentiary that the temporary bridge built across the American river by the prison authorities, to be used until the county's new steel bridge is completed, was ready for use, and the board was requested to inspect it and either accept or reject it on behalf of the county.

Mr. Greer said that the whole board should go to Folsom as soon as possible. Messrs. Miller and Jenkins, the only other members present, declined to go, and suggested that the chairman could attend to the business himself. Mr. Greer, however, declared that he would not go alone, and a resolution was passed ordering the whole board to go. There was no second, however, and he withdrew the resolution in disgust.

Supervisor Black then put in an appearance and helped the chairman out of the difficulty. He voted that the whole board should go.

The board will make the trip this afternoon, and in consequence an adjournment was taken until their return this afternoon.

EARLY-DAY HISTORY.

Interesting Relics That El Dorado Will Send to the Fair.

O. P. Dodge returned yesterday from El Dorado County, whither he had been in the interest of the historical branch of the Industrial Association that is working up an exhibit for the State Fair. He reports having met with the most gratifying success.

The authorities of El Dorado have promised to send a volume of the first records of that county, containing important and interesting papers, such as the first official bonds filed; a list of the first jury panel; papers in one of the first civil suits begun in the county, brought by Packard & Co. against Marshall, the gold discoverer, with a bill of items; and there will also be the original deed given by Sutter to two miles square of land embracing the old Colusa mill; the first mining claims recorded, one being by Fred D. Davenport, formerly of Sacramento.

There will be an interesting collection of relics, including Marshall's vest which he wore at the mill in 1848; also a tripod, level and square made by him from wood and used in the construction of the first old mill.

The first quartz mortar that ever came to the State will be one of the curiosities. It was made in March, 1848, and is known as the "Hangtown" in 1849, and has been used in the development of many of the best-paying mines in El Dorado County.

WHY IS IT SO?

Lower Q Street Not Sprinkled, But Money Regularly Paid For It.

People living along Q street, in the vicinity of Fifth, complain bitterly of the fact that it has not been sprinkled for weeks. They say the dust is about four inches deep, and every breeze drives it into the houses.

The fact that the grade has been lowered, preparatory to the street being graded, does not release the sprinkling contractor from his obligation. He is now drawing large sums of money monthly from taxpayers for work that is not performed.

The Street Commissioner should at once require the contractor to lay the dust on Q street, and if the latter does not do it the trustees should refuse to audit his demands.

SMALL AFFAIRS.

Minor Cases Settled in the Police Court.

John Doe forfeited his deposit of $5 yesterday by not appearing to answer a charge of drunkenness.

Dan Cummings was up for the first time in several days for being drunk. Dan stated that he had actually been at work into town for a day. He made so good an impression that the judge discharged him, which seemed a surprise. He evidently expected the usual confinement in the City Jail, and was rather disappointed as he walked out.

Jim Hee, a tough-looking Chinaman, was arraigned for petty larceny in stealing from C. F. McElroy a painter's outfit valued at $2. The Chinaman pleaded not guilty, saying he found the things in the street, but he talked for much, and the judge found him guilty, suspending sentence until to-day.

Mrs. Cushman was tried for violating ordinance No. 17, in sweeping water and debris from her own porch upon that of her neighbor, Mrs. Henley. Several witnesses were examined without establishing a case, and the matter was dismissed.

Emma Atchinson, the colored girl tried for vagrancy, was sentenced to the reform school at Whittier for four years. Judge Cravens, in ordering her commitment, gave her a very deserving lecture on her disobedience, and said he believed he was doing the best thing that could be done for her.

Democratic Primaries. There was not much stir about the polls during the Democratic primary election yesterday, and no contests. The vote was therefore light. It is claimed that 147 votes were polled in the first precinct and 99 in the second, of the First Supervisor District.

At Oak Hill the delegates elected were Frank J. O'Neill, W. M. Root, James Walsh and John Sticher.

Trotting Like the Wind. The two-year-old Dexter Prince stallion owned by Buckman & Carragher trotted an eighth of a mile on Wednesday in 17 seconds—a 2:16 gait. This simply shows the speed the colts possess, and as the game one, there is a good prospect of his being able to maintain his rate of speed for a mile.

Accident at the Park. A collision occurred at Agricultural Park on Wednesday between the trotting stallion Falrose, driven by David G. Ginn, and a horse driven by G. W. Hancock, Superintendent of the Park. Both horses were considerably injured, and Ginn's sulky demolished.

Two More Voters. Two more foreigners were naturalized by Judge Van Fleet yesterday. They were Luigi Antonio Ruffato, a native of Italy, and Albert Rahn, a subject of Emperor William of Prussia.

SICKNESS, POVERTY AND DEATH. The Sad End of James McPherson, an Engineer.

Four Years an Invalid With a Family to Support—A Fond Father's Touching Letter.

The death of James McPherson, which occurred here on Tuesday, was attended by circumstances of unusual sadness. The deceased leaves a widow and three young children ranging from 9 to 3 years of age who are totally without means.

Mrs. McPherson is, however, an industrious woman and she hopes to be able to support herself and children.

McPherson had been an invalid some four years, requiring his wife's personal attention most of the time. He was a steamboat engineer, and while in good health he was able to maintain his family comfortably, but his illness left them destitute and latterly the Howard Benevolent Association had been assisting them as well as it could with the small means at its command.

The deceased was too proud to acquaint his family with his condition after he became helpless, and it was only a few weeks ago that the father learned where his son was and his condition. This was through a letter from Secretary Richard Dale, who learned of the old gentleman's address and wrote him the facts. In response thereto he received the following touching letter, inclosing a check for $50:

Dear Sir: Your letter written me on Jan. 23 I only received to-day, July 22, and at once reply. I thank you very much for being kind enough to send me a check for $50. I have not seen you for many years, and you may imagine how glad I am to hear from you, and how glad I am to hear that you are still in the world. I am glad to hear that you are well, and I am glad to hear that you are still in the world. I am glad to hear that you are well, and I am glad to hear that you are still in the world.

My dear father, I am glad to hear from you, and I am glad to hear that you are still in the world. I am glad to hear that you are well, and I am glad to hear that you are still in the world. I am glad to hear that you are well, and I am glad to hear that you are still in the world.

Your letter says that if death takes him that you will see his body that night in the earth. Thank you, sir, for that comfort, and I will pay you whatever it costs you. Of course, you will kindly give my son my dearest love, and tell him how sorry I am that I cannot be with him. He knows that I did my best for him. Yes, sir, my love and good-bye, and now that we cannot meet here, I am glad to hear that you are still in the world. I am glad to hear that you are well, and I am glad to hear that you are still in the world.

Those who are wont to think lightly of the Howard Benevolent Association's work among the poor and suffering, will find in this case a most fitting illustration. By day and night, winter and summer, his charities and kind offices invade the abodes of misery and bring relief and cheer to the invalid, while alleviating the pangs of hunger and cold. It should be the pride of every man and woman to contribute to those circumstances which will permit to a suffering and weakling to strengthen the hands of the Howards.

Eleven Stubborn Jurors. M. G. Dandridge was tried by a jury in the Police Court yesterday for selling liquor without a license. The case occupied a good portion of the afternoon, and resulted in the jury disagreeing. The jury stood eleven for conviction and one for acquittal.

Suit on a Note. George Hall has commenced suit in the Superior Court against Mrs. E. Waldron to recover $161.60, alleged to be due on a promissory note and for services rendered.

Taken in Time, even Consumption. The wonderful effects of Dr. Pierce's Medical Discovery. It won't make new lungs—but it will make diseased ones healthy when nothing else will. There's reason for it, too. Consumption is a disease of the blood. It is a disease of the blood. It is a disease of the blood. It is a disease of the blood.

NEILSEN'S EXPERIENCE.

What Happened to an Alleged Seeker for Gold.

He Says He Was Arrested, Thrown Into Prison Without Cause and There Robbed.

Yesterday a man named J. A. Nielsen, who was arrested by some of the police on Sunday night last, was discharged from the City Jail. He made quite a roar because he did not get $25 which he said was taken from him at the time of his arrest. He called at the Record-Union office shortly after his release and complained bitterly of his treatment, saying he was kept in jail for several days, missed water when he wanted a drink and finally lost his money without an examination in court and minus the money he claimed to have had when arrested.

"I came into town last Monday," he said, "from a prospecting trip in the mountains. I had a rifle on my shoulder, in a case, and was not drunk. I was on my way to see a man living in the country, whom I was to consult about sinking a shaft on a quartz ledge, and stopped in the rolling-mills for a while. I had gone but a short distance up the railroad track when I was arrested by Captain Tattle Adams and his men. I was let out last evening by the officers without having been taken before the court."

"This is the first time in my life I was ever arrested, and when I asked what charge was against me, I was told I would find out in a few days. When I was told it was for having burglarized tools in my possession. These tools, as I was told, were a screwdriver, a couple of screwdrivers, which I use in putting my rocker together, and a magnifying glass, such as is used by prospectors."

"They also wanted to investigate to see if I had stolen the gun, which I use to kill game when prospecting. When I was arrested I had $25, and when I was released they gave me ten cents. They gave me my gun back and my rifle."

"Now, I came to town to buy grub, and I want to know if the officers had the right to use me as they have? While in the cell I was given a bowl of hot water, and was not answered, so I had to break the pipe from the closet to get a drink."

When Nielsen left he said he would go and lay his case before the Mayor.

WHAT CHIEF RODGERS SAYS. When told last evening what Nielsen had said about his arrest, Chief Rodgers was greatly annoyed. He replied he evidently did not know what he was talking about. He had told different stories about himself on one time saying he had just come in from a mine, and another representing himself as a prospector.

The chief said further that Nielsen was found sleeping in a box car with a number of other hobs, as he was informed by the police, and tried to escape after his arrest. At 10 A. M., on the premises, the same firm will sell the house at 1212 Tenth street, between Land M, the same to be removed.

Missed Her Son. Mrs. Willard, a lady who was recently a tutor in a private family in Guatemala, is in the city in the hope of meeting her son, Richard V. Willard. He was in Sacramento recently, but when she reached the city she could not find him. She thinks he is in the country somewhere, but she does not know where.

Found Him Inevitable. Edward Barrett, a performer at the Theater Comique, was found in an unconscious condition on Second street, near K, yesterday afternoon by Officer Tattle.

Barrett was taken to the Receiving Hospital and found to have a bad scalp wound, apparently inflicted by a club. No clue was obtained to his assailant.

Yesterday's Weather. The Weather Bureau reports show the highest and lowest temperatures yesterday to have been 57° and 56°, as against 55° and 48° of the same date last year. The highest and lowest temperatures one year ago to-day were 81° and 54°.

The wind yesterday was southerly in direction but gentle.

Fernandez Discharged. Simon Fernandez was examined before Judge Cravens yesterday for the murder of Antonio Picassa. After hearing the evidence in the case Fernandez was discharged from custody.

Judgment Filed. A judgment in the case of C. A. Jenkins vs. Wilson & Kinney has been filed with the County Clerk.

An interest in the State House Hotel furniture was involved in the case, which has been in the courts for some time.

When Nature Needs assistance it may be best to render it promptly, but one should remember to use even the most perfect remedies only when needed. The best and most simple and gentle remedy is Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Company.

He is a careful and industrious farmer, and can be depended upon to make good use of his fortune.

GINSBERG'S TREATY. Its Nature Explained to Police Judge Cravens.

When the Police Court opened yesterday morning Charles T. Jones, attorney for Sam Ginsberg in his trial for selling lottery tickets, addressed the court. Mr. Jones referred to the statement of an evening paper, which contained certain insinuations in regard to the dismissal of the case of assault with a deadly weapon.

He stated that the conference between Ginsberg, Captain Bradley, City Attorney Hart and himself was held openly and within the hearing of the courtroom; that what took place was merely an expression of Bradley's part that he did not desire to prosecute Ginsberg for assault with a deadly weapon after hearing the latter's explanation of his action at the time of his arrest.

City Attorney Hart also made a statement of identically the same tenor, and Judge Cravens stated in reply that he supposed at the time the interview took place that it was as represented by the attorneys.

SACRAMENTO HOSPITALITY. An Eastern Tourist Has a Practical Illustration of It.

Last evening a well-known young married lady went to the depot to meet her husband's cousin on his arrival from the East, a gentleman whom she had never met, but whom her husband (who was called away) had assured her she would readily recognize by his resemblance to himself.

The train stopped in the depot just as the shades of evening were falling heavily, and as one of the handsome gentleman passengers alighted, the lady rushed up and greeted him with a smack such as cousins-in-law seldom experience.

When he blushing asked the lady if that was one of the customary outward signs of the Sacramento hospitality of which she had heard so much in the East, since the return of the editors, she replied:

"Why, you're my husband's cousin, are you not, whom I was to meet?" The tenderfoot replied that he unfortunately had no cousin out here, still he felt very grateful for the kiss, even if it was intended for someone else.

"I don't care," said the lady later on, when the real cousin and others teased her about it, "he's a real nice fellow, anyhow, and that kiss was well placed."

MRS. GIBSON'S CHARGE. She Causes the Arrest of a Couple at Newcastle.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Swasey were brought from Newcastle yesterday morning by Deputy Sheriff Walsh on a warrant returned to him by Mrs. Ida Gibson of this city.

Mrs. Gibson charges the Swaseys with abducting their minor child, and claims the child has been ill and that she has written repeatedly to them for money to be used in its support, but the Swaseys neither answered or supplied the money.

The tenderfoot replied that he unfortunately had no cousin out here, still he felt very grateful for the kiss, even if it was intended for someone else.

"I don't care," said the lady later on, when the real cousin and others teased her about it, "he's a real nice fellow, anyhow, and that kiss was well placed."

Every season something becomes "all the rage" and merchants cannot keep up the supply fast enough. This summer it is Navy Blue Serges—"Storm Serges" is the correct name for them. It comes from the fact that water will not spot them. They resist equally as well the effects of the blazing hot sun.

Storm Serges are heavy weight, rough surfaced, resembling somewhat a soft, heavy flannel. They are made into suits with and without jackets for street wear, traveling, seaside and mountain wear. Width, 36 inches. Price, 50 cents. We can also furnish these Serges at the same price in black, dark brown and green.

Storm Serges, in navy blue and black only, with a heavy diagonal or zigzag twill, 38 inches wide. Price, 75 cents a yard. The Broadwale Serges are being worn by the most fashionable people east and west. They are strong, durable cloths, and in our mild coast climate heavy enough for wear the year round.
