

THE "FREIGHT" RACKET.

It Was Successfully Worked on a Confiding Youth.

Two of the Bunco Fraternity Rob Him of His Hard-Earned Wages— One Under Arrest.

Louis Gustafson Kaeding, an intelligent Swede, was made the victim of two shrewd confidence men on Saturday, who extorted from him the sum of $85 on the well-worn "freight charge" scheme.

Kaeding is not a man of verdant nature and the sharpers were evidently skilled to their utmost to know him, but they did it and he didn't know he had been "done" until Officer Clark informed him.

About 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon a stranger informed Officer Clark that a man was being worked by two well-known operators, and volunteered a description of the three. He said that two of them had gone toward the depot.

Clark went at once to the depot, and Kaeding and the two men were seen to be waiting the return of the freight car. At the station the officer presently saw the man, and arrested him in the presence of Kaeding, who was greatly surprised, and began a protest.

"Never mind, now," said Clark. "How much money have you paid this man?" Kaeding admitted that he had lent him $85.

"Well, you've been robbed," said the officer, and he marched the fellow to the police station, followed by the surprised Kaeding. At the station the officer crookedly denied acquaintance with Kaeding and all knowledge of any transaction between them, giving his name as William Becker.

Kaeding was interviewed yesterday afternoon and told his story. He has been at work on a ranch, and lately came to Sacramento, having finished his work at his last place. On Saturday morning he met a well-dressed stranger on K street and after a brief interview was told by Strobel and the man that his name was Strobel, and that he was a Swede.

The two men walked down to Front street, between N and O, where they suddenly met a man provided with what appeared to be railroad freight-books, and who was apparently a stranger on K street. Strobel inquired about his freight, and the stranger said it was here and would be forwarded to San Francisco on payment of the charges—about $85.

A JUG-HANDLE GAME.

Yesterday's Ball Game Won By the Scott & Gilberts.

Four Stockton Men Left at Home, and the "Subs" Were Poor Stuff— There Were Many Errors.

The attendance at the ball game at Agricultural Park yesterday afternoon was not as large as usual, owing no doubt to the fact that a great many of the ball devotees accompanied the soldiers to Santa Cruz. Those present, however, got their money's worth watching the Stocktons pile up errors and the home team chasing one another around the bases.

The Scott & Gilberts succeeded in scoring sixteen runs, not one of which was earned, while the visitors got secure but four, and they were given to them by Hapeman.

The latter pitched a splendid game, and could easily have shut out his opponents, but he grew careless and allowed four hits in the eighth inning, and gave a base on balls, which scored all the runs the visitors secured. He struck out six batters and did not allow a hit until the fifth inning.

Hapeman was well supported by Pace, who threw nicely to bases and made a phenomenal catch of a foul fly while enphangled in the players' bench. McDonald put up a fine game at short stop and made an almost impossible stop of a hard hit. He is a better short stop than any in the big league, Campbell is an earnest player and did good work at second.

The Stocktons were minus four of their best players, who were left in the dugout, and the schedule had been changed and the players were not notified of the change and in consequence got left. Their substitutes could not play a game until the fourth and seventh innings, but the fourth and seventh were errors charged to the team. Chase and Stewart each pitched good ball, and had they been as well supported as Hapeman in the game would have been much closer.

Stewart is a novice in the box, but with a little seasoning will make a good twirler. Billy Johnson, a Sacramento lad, caught a good game, considering that he had never caught with the pitcher before. His throwing was a feature of the game. Jim McDonald pitched a splendid game and gave evidence of much ability in that line. He is well posted in the rules of the game, and is usually correct, and he does not stand much talk, but keeps the players moving.

The Scott & Gilberts scored in every inning but the fourth and seventh, and could have undoubtedly scored more runs than they did had they needed them. Following is the score:

WANTED HIS MONEY.

A Confectionery Clerk's Matinee With a Rascal of a Boss.

There was a lively scene at a J-street ice cream and confectionery parlor yesterday. A Japanese named Paereta, who goes by the English name of George, and who was employed at the place about two months, claims the firm owes him $5, and he has been besieging the store and the proprietor's residence since Saturday, demanding the money.

When the Jap went to work he was required to deposit $5, with the understanding that the money would be returned when George quit work, provided he gave his employer several days' notice. He did not do so, and quit work suddenly on Saturday, and his employer refused to refund the deposit.

George thereupon got two of his countrymen and called at the store, quarreled with the clerk and then went to the proprietor's house and demanded the money of his wife.

About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon George, with a Japanese friend named Frank, called at the store and made another demand, emphasizing it with so much talk that the clerk finally ordered them out. They refused to go and the exasperated clerk forcibly ejected Frank, whereupon George jumped upon the proprietor and struck him with a glass bottle, inflicting a deep gash, which bled profusely. A telephone message was sent to the police station, but there was no officer there to respond.

About half an hour later the two Japs, George covered with the blood that flowed from his wounded head, appeared at the station with a long tale of woe, and swore out a warrant for the clerk's arrest. The clerk, however, was substantially exonerated. He stated that the Japanese had called so often and made so much trouble that he could do nothing but throw them out, and then they showed fight.

CHINAMAN KILLED. Fatal Result of a Desperate Fight on Grand Island. Coroner Clark was called to Ileton yesterday to hold an inquest on the body of a Chinaman who had been killed on Saturday evening during a fight on Grand Island.

He did not return last night, and all that could be learned of the affair by telephone was that a number of Chinamen, employed on a ranch on Grand Island, had been killed during a fight on Grand Island, which occurred on Saturday evening. The number of the slain was not stated, but it is believed that the number was at least five.

The slayer took to the fules, and although a vigorous search had been made for him he had not been captured at last accounts. Ed McCaig, the youth who was implicated in the assault upon Robert Allen in this city, is now in Marysville, with his brother, for highway robbery committed near there last spring.

HOPS LAID LOW.

The Lovdals Lost Twenty Acres by Yesterday's Wind.

E. R. Dole, who returned last evening from a trip up the river on the Yolo side, informed a Record-Union reporter that yesterday's brisk south wind caused a heavy loss to the Lovdals Brothers, who had twenty acres of fine hops growing on the Elliott ranch, a short distance north of the Bryte place.

The hops were trained upon cordis supported by pine saplings set in the ground and joined by ropes or wires. The poles had been set about four years, and the hops had been trained upon them for two years. The vines were quite rotten in the wind.

When the wind was at its highest yesterday the pressure became too great, and the vines were blown down in many places. These in falling knocked over the next row, and then down they all went, one row after another, until the entire twenty acres had been laid flat on the ground. The loss will be at least $5,000.

Had this occurred two or three weeks later, after the hops had matured, most of the crop could have been saved, but as it is the loss will be complete. Mr. Dole heard that other growers in the vicinity had also suffered some losses from a similar cause, but this has not been verified. It seems that, while the poles appeared to be sound and strong, the vines had become rotten, and the wind rotted them, leaving only a shell of sound timber.

Dropped the Chickens. Special Officer G. W. Armstrong heard a disturbance among some fowls in the vicinity of Twenty-third and G streets about 2 o'clock yesterday morning. On looking the matter up, he discovered a Chinaman, by the name of Wong, lighting a match with a bag, and on his lighting the match the chicken dropped his booty and escaped.

The officer secured the bag, which proved to contain half a dozen chickens, which are at present confined in a coop at the police station. Found Not Guilty. Max Ginsberg, who was arrested here on a warrant for a robbery, and tried there for alleged malicious mischief, was acquitted.

It appears that Ginsberg was employed in a store at Stockton, and after his discharge some shoes were found mutilated, and he was arrested and charged with the mischief. There was no evidence whatever against Ginsberg, and the jury acquitted him after being out ten minutes.

An Irreverent Customer. A drunken man disturbed the services at the Salvation Army barracks on Saturday evening by falling asleep and rolling off a bench on the floor. He was promptly and properly bounced by the athletic sergeant-at-arms of the gospel camp, and when last seen was extemporizing arguments of a decidedly off-color as he zig-zagged toward the river front.

A Stranger's Experience. Eds. Record-Union: Kindly allow a visitor to express his admiration for the simple and excellent manner in which the streets of Sacramento have been laid out. Arriving here a couple of weeks ago, intending to stay but a day or two, I have been so delighted by the climate—especially the lovely, perfect evenings—and the picturesque environs of your city, the house such beautiful views, that I have been unable to tear myself away.

At first, I must confess, I was slightly bothered in the almost total darkness of the corner signs, and I experienced some little difficulty in finding my way till a courteous police officer explained to me the beautiful simplicity of the plan, which did away with all necessity for putting signs on the corners—the streets running north and south were designated by numbers, and those running east and west by the letters of the alphabet. I was charmed with the simplicity of the plan, and the experience I had in finding my way.

At first I was slightly bothered in telling which streets were named by letters, and which by numbers, but soon became convinced that difficulty by taking my bearings from the sun, using my watch as a pocket compass. Then it was plain sailing. All I had to do when I lost my way was to steer straight for a corner, ask the first passer-by the name of the streets there, consult the sun and I was at home again.

This plan worked splendidly till last evening, when I struck a snag that bothered me considerably for a while. A lady had been visiting some friends at the house where I am stopping, and I had requested and was granted the pleasure of escorting her home. The walk was quite a long one, and I was so charmed with the lady's conversation that I never thought of noting the route we were taking. But when I bade her good-night and started homeward I discovered I was "all at sea"—my plan wouldn't work. I couldn't find anyone at that hour of night to give me my bearings.

However, I started off in what I hoped was the right direction, but after walking quite a while I discovered that I was the sidewalk from stone to wood, and then to earth, led me to believe that I was heading for the country; so I doubled on my tracks and started in the opposite direction. After half an hour had passed, I was growing dark, and I was completely lost, and I was growing dark, and I was completely lost, and I was growing dark, and I was completely lost.

When I reached the next corner I opened a gate, walked up stairs and rang the bell. It was then about 1 A. M., and as I stood waiting I grew anxious, and how the inmates would relish the idea of my ringing them up at that hour in the morning, and was tempted to make a bolt of it. But it was then too late, the door opened and a tall figure in white greeted me with, "Well, what do you want?" I supposed the suddenness of his question and the way he fired it at me, rattled me, for all I could say was, "Where am I? I am lost!"

"Go to the devil and find out!" and I slammed the door in my face. It was not very cordial reception, and I didn't care to chance a repetition of it, but what in the world to do, or how to find my way home, I couldn't imagine. There, I stood, a brilliant thought struck me. How often had I read of travelers lost in the woods climbing a high tree and finding their way. Why couldn't I climb a tree and simply hang on for some familiar object? No sooner thought of than done, and up the first pole I began to climb. It was hard work, but I had never used my way again, as with the sun by day, and a telegraph pole at night, I am doubly armed. Spitefully expressing my admiration for the beautiful simplicity of your plan of naming the streets, I beg to subscribe myself, S. N. KERN.

Boils. Boils according to Dr. King, an eminent authority "are generally connected with derangements of the liver and stomach." While the older Sarsaparilla contains potent which aggravates eruptions, Joy's is peculiarly a stomach and bowels corrective, and is the only one that is so. Its regulating influences cause boils to dry up and disappear immediately. A case in point. "I had boils break out on my neck. One had burst. I took Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla and in a few days the other boils had dried up. In the spring of 1891 I took one of the other Sarsaparillas and the result was a mass of pimples. Hearing that Joy's was later and acted differently I used it this year with the above satisfactory results." J. NEWMAN, Alameda, Cal. Formerly with the "Alta California," S. F. Robt. Walsh, with Wells Fargo & Co., and scores of other San Franciscans report the same experience. It avoids the use of the lance.

ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS have successfully stood the test of over thirty years' use by the public; their virtues have never been equalled by the unscrupulous imitators who have sought to trade upon the reputation of ALLCOCK'S by making plasters with holes in them, and claiming them to be "just as good as ALLCOCK'S." ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS stand today indorsed by not only the highest medical authorities, but by millions of grateful patients who have proved their efficacy as a household remedy.
