

IN THE SPRING OF '90. When Brighton Was a Very Lively Suburban Resort.

The First Regulation Race Track in the State Was There—The Thompson-Willacy Fight.

Charles Pettit, who came to Sacramento in 1849 and who still resides here, writes to correct a few errors that occurred in an article on "Pioneer Racing," printed in the RECORD-UNION a few days ago. He says:

The article stated the first race track laid out in this state was about four miles south of this city, in 1850, at a point between the present County Hospital and the Slough House, and that it was named the "Sutter Race Course," after General Sutter.

Now, the facts are, the Sutter track was not laid out till 1854, by John Keenan and Sam Berry. The racecourse Wisconsin Chief was brought to this state in 1852, and the race between him and the three-minute horse spoken of in the article on the Sutter track, as stated, I was one of the spectators. It was a grand sell, and everybody went home with a big disgust.

The first circular race course ever laid out in Sacramento County was about five miles east of this city, at a point on the American River, called Brighton. The town of Brighton and the race track were laid out in the winter of '49 or early in the spring of '50.

I came down from the mines in November, 1850, and settled on a piece of land adjoining the race-track and town of Brighton. At that time the town contained two stories in height, and it had over thirty rooms. There were also two large stores of miners' supplies, a blacksmith shop in an old adobe house, built either by General Sutter or some of his men, besides a number of private houses with families living in them.

There were also two town lots for sale, and right back south of the town was the race track, with a high, light board fence entirely surrounding it, and with a grand stand, a judges' stand, and a number of stables for the accommodation of race horses, and everything bore evidence of having been built for some months.

In 1851 there was racing over the track frequently, and many large sums were won and lost, and also was the prize fight at the Brighton track, between Thompson and Willacy. Thompson won in eight or ten rounds.

A. D. Patterson was "High" Sheriff of Sacramento County at that time, and put in an appearance early in the day in order, he said, to take measures to prevent the fight. So he went around the crowd and summoned everybody, including the writer, to assist him in preserving the peace and upholding the dignity of the laws of the State of California.

But when the fight came off Mr. Sheriff was nowhere to be seen, and on inquiry I learned that he had been kidnaped and secretly locked in a room in the hotel, with three burly, rough-looking men to guard him and prevent his escape. One of the scoundrels said he had peeped through the key hole and saw the Sheriff engaged in a social game of "dice" with a man named in addition to this report in early times, we had at the Brighton race track a peonish race of ten miles against time. It was run by a man named Guiderleeve, if my memory serves me. (I am writing entirely from memory.) He was to run, and did run easily, ten miles inside of an hour, for the money. Guiderleeve, it was said, had won an international ten-mile foot race a year or so before, which was run near St. Louis, Mo., between himself (Guiderleeve) and an Englishman and an American Indian. Guiderleeve was in training at the Brighton track and I saw him often during that time.

In speaking of early-day race horses we must not forget to mention Wake-Up-Jake and "the Boston Colt."

HIGHBINDER HELD. Several More Yet to be Examined Upon Charges of Murder.

The preliminary examination of Wong Ah Tane and Wong Chuey, two of the Chinese implicated in the late highbinder outbreak, was concluded on Saturday in the Police Court.

Wong Ah Tane was held to answer to the charge of assault to murder, while Wong Chuey was discharged, owing to lack of incriminating evidence.

Four of the Chinese implicated in the riot have now been held to answer, while several were discharged, and four are yet to be examined.

The cases have occupied the Police Court upon many days since the riot, and in nearly every instance the witnesses examined have been as refractory and stupid as their natural dispositions could make them. The evidence has to be taken through an interpreter, and is a very tedious and unsatisfactory process in most cases.

City Attorney Hart and C. T. Jones have prosecuted the cases, while General A. L. Hart has conducted the defense.

MR. RANEY'S RAID. He Goes in Quest of Adventure, and Gets Eighty Dollars' Worth.

Peter Raney came in from the pastoral precincts of Colusa county on Saturday, and with $80 in his pocket he started out in quest of adventures.

Raney's route led him to the jungles of the Second and I-street region, and he soon encountered a number of opportunities new to a man from the country.

Somewhere about the midnight hour he met a very social trio of unconventional females, who, with a few anguishes which Peter was not familiar with, confused him. Before dawn Mr. Raney was so dazed with an assortment of mixed drink and second-street hospitality that when he repaired to his hotel he thought everything was different from his previous conceptions.

Later he found that he was minus his $80, and at last accounts he was slowly going to a realization of the frailty of society folk.

DIRECTOR BARWICK. The Local Weather Clerk to Make a Visit in the East.

William Burrows, of the San Francisco Weather Bureau office, arrived in this city a few days ago to relieve Director Barwick of the California Weather Service, who will leave either on this Tuesday night for Rochester, N. Y., to attend a Convention of State Weather Service Directors, which meets at the same time and place as the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Mr. Barwick will visit his relatives in Philadelphia and Baltimore, and will visit New York and Washington, D. C., before returning to the Capital City. Mr. Barwick has been a constant resident of Sacramento for over eleven years, and has been only a few days absent, and then was on an inspection trip.

AMUSEMENTS. To the skeptic, the agnostic and the believer in the sacred Scriptures, the era of the great King Solomon's reign is the most impressive, the most interesting in history. It has no parallels in the records of the past; nothing proximately in its grandeur, in wisdom and sublimity. It was a felicitous conception of the management of John Robinson's great show to reproduce the scenes, personages, incidents and events of the reign of Solomon, the patriarch, sage and king as nearly as could be done by a traveling combination. That they have done this thoroughly, acceptably and successfully to the public and the press everywhere the Robinson show has exhibited this season at the most. The Biblical spectacle, in its powerful scenic effects, its accurate and realistic personages, its lavishness attending its representation, is pronounced by the press to be a triumph in art and a revelation of history. Our people will have an opportunity of seeing this spectacle in connection with the other wonders of the John Robinson show on Saturday afternoon and evening next.

BURIAL AT FOLSOM. Funeral Yesterday of the Late Mrs. M. A. Cox of Routlers.

The funeral of Mrs. M. A. Cox, who died on Thursday, took place from her residence near Routlers yesterday, the interment taking place at Folsom. She was a native of Ireland, and came to California in the early fifties, and was married at Sacramento in 1861 to Thomas Cox, a pioneer of the county. Her husband died in 1878, leaving her with four children, all of whom survive her.

Mrs. Cox was an ardent Christian lady, and her funeral was very largely attended by her bereaved relatives, friends and neighbors.

Messrs. George Hanlon, Joseph Routler, B. W. Kavanaugh, C. L. Ecklon, J. H. Burnham and Kern Rigney officiated at the funeral, and the large number attending the deceased to her last resting place was a sincere tribute to her loved and respected character.

A VENERABLE BEAT. "Sure Thing" Operator McKenzie Ordered From the City.

A few days ago Chief of Police Crowley of San Francisco drove a quartet of banco and "sure thing" rouders from that city, and they probably all came to Sacramento. At all events, one of them did, and Officer Ahern gathered him in on Saturday.

This particular fraud's name is McKenzie. He is an old man—old enough to be the great grandfather of men old enough to vote, and his ability in his particular business is commensurate with his years. He was released and ordered out of town.

The eight cars loaded with gold, which passed eastward through this city Friday night, reached Omaha safely yesterday.

The fire in the hills near the Folsom Prison was extinguished on Saturday after destroying much timber and grass.

"State Librarian Dave Perkins is in town," says the Truckee paper. This is the first time the dignified Dana was misnamed "Dave" by a country paper.

"Habits of the Ape," is the title of a parody on a village weekly, published not far from here. It is not considered the right thing nowadays for editors to intrude their personal affairs upon readers.

Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank. The Bank Commissioners report the condition of the Farmers' and Mechanics' Savings Bank of this city on August 24 as follows:

A Week's Failures. The Bradstreet Mercantile Agency reports ten failures in the Pacific Coast States for the week ending August 5th, as compared with sixteen for the previous week, and twenty-one for the corresponding week of 1891. The failures for the past week are divided among the trades as follows: Three boots and shoes, two saloons, two hotels, one grocer, one clothing and one general store.

A Deserted Boy. A boy giving his name as Charles Taylor was found by several persons on Saturday in a barn on Twenty-fourth street, between J and K, and in a miserable condition. He was between 7 and 10 years old, had been deserted by his parents and was almost starved with hunger, having been without food for several days. The lad was taken to the police station, and later to the house of Mr. Willey, 2307 L street, and cared for.

Last Night's Concert. Compared with the crowds in attendance heretofore, the concert at the Plaza called out a rather small number last evening.

There was, however, a fair number of promenaders about and inside the square, and the programme given by the Hussar Band was a good one.

RIVERS IN THE PLANET MARS. Wherein They Differ From Those to be Found on This Earth.

The first sight of Mars through an observing telescope is almost terrifying even for a person of good nerves. It is as if one saw the whole earth, with its icy poles, as a solid globe, floating overhead. One thing is clearly the dark blue seas and the brilliant, beaming, many-hued dry land—and on this the dry beds of a multitude of lakes, bays, gulfs, streams, and canals, these last either parallel to each other or crossing one another at right angles.

As you continue to look you see the various channels, and of light and shades; and, further, that the outlines on one edge of the disk pass out of sight, while on the other the landscape extends clearly to dark blue poles on its axis, and that the ends of the axis are the frozen poles, as with us. There is a further resemblance in the illumination in the way which projects them on this planet also the seasons follow each other in regular succession.

The ice crust at the poles diminishes in summer, and increases in winter. Hette claims that this affords demonstration not only that Mars is influenced by the sun's rays precisely as we are, but also that the air and water are identical with ours. In fact the meteorology of Mars is now reduced to a science. Judging from the facts just stated, the characteristics, however, one must admit a condition implying a higher degree of development in Mars. The contents of the atmosphere, as seen through a telescope, presents a very thin appearance, and occupies scarcely a third of its surface, while Mars is girdled on both sides of the equator by the continuous and regular flow of a network of canals and rivers, the land occupying approximately three-fourths of the whole planet and the water only one-fourth.

It is a curious fact that the canals may be that its atmosphere is less cloudy and vapor laden than ours. Peculiarly characteristic is the arrangement in which the geological nature of Mars has laid the streams (canals). All our streams, without exception, are tortuous, and all increase in width as they near the ocean.

On Mars, on the contrary, the streams flow in straight lines, and are of uniform width from mouth to head. The canals, from seventy to 100 kilometers apart, have their banks so well defined as to suggest the idea that they are subjected to regular irrigation. It is hardly possible to conceive that two parallel canals, intersected at right angles by a third, as in Ophiur land, can be the work of the elements. The question suggests itself again by the two canals which flow from ocean to ocean across the island Helios, cutting each other at right angles in its center. No other questionable is the origin of the great blue lake in the center of Kepler land, which is a linear canal connecting it with the ocean.

But what most excites our astonishment in connection with these canals is that almost every one of them is straight, i. e., it has its parallel canal alongside of it, but visible at intervals only. This has thoroughly perplexed all investigators. The canals have been traced to the sea, or to a solution. On this account the return of Mars is looked forward to with considerable interest. The improvement in optical instruments within the past decade may probably help to solve the riddle, or, perhaps, what is still more probable, may throw a flood of light on the solution. The occasion of Mars' next return will be the first time for fifteen years that we shall have an opportunity to throw a powerful telescope upon the planet. Apart from the scientific interest which attaches to these observations, it is an immense gain to our intellectual culture to throw a powerful telescope upon the planet, which in the earlier centuries prompted man to regard this earth as the one inhabited sphere of the universe.

The rights of man are being trampled under the feet of a few men, and the law of nature, which certainly has not expended all her forces on this dark cloud of ours.

FREEZING FOOD. The Commercial Value of Refrigerating Machinery.

In Great Britain alone the imports of food products preserved by means of refrigeration, during the year 1891, amounted to nearly seven and a half millions sterling. In eleven years' imports the total value covered by the same article was 180 of 275 per cent. The frozen meat trade was inaugurated somewhere in the soviet, where the first cargo was shipped from New York to Liverpool. This was practically the commencement on a large scale of the Atlantic trade in frozen meats, though other similar cargoes of Chinese had been used in chilled cargoes before that event. The cold-air machine, as well as frozen meats, is seen in the manifest of a cargo consisting of 23,776 carcasses of mutton, 343 quarters of beef, 878 packages of butter and 445 packages of cheese, representing a money value of $185,000. It is perhaps impossible to overstate the economic importance of departure to the industrial population accessible to markets supplied with this imported food, while in the development of a new phase in commerce, and in the industries established by the demand for refrigerating machinery, the benefits are of constantly increasing and widening value.—St. Louis Age of Steel.

ELECTRIC FLASHES. Brief Telegrams From Various Portions of the World.

Cleveland was not favored with a call from Senator Hill Saturday as anticipated by some.

The record of deaths in New York City during the heated week, from July 23d to the 30th, shows a total of 1,615.

It is reported in Paris that 100,000 placards have been printed in the name of the anarchists to kill the jurors and Judges who convict anarchists.

An immense loss has been caused by incendiary fires at the Toulon arsenal in France, and also the lumber and coal wharves.

The Cunard, Umbria, arrived at New York Saturday, making the trip in 5 days and 22 hours. The best previous run for the Victoria in September, 1889, in 6 days, 1 hour and 30 minutes.

The gold train passed through Ogden Saturday. No one was allowed near the train, and those who ventured too near were sent away and withdrawn precipitately. No danger of the recent kind of the anarchists to kill the jurors and Judges who convict anarchists.

Near Breuna Vista, Kentucky, a family named McIntyre and a man named Cook came for dinner and were taken to a room in which the cause of the student deaths it was discovered that a snake of the genus Coluber species had been cooked in the pot, with the chickens. How the reptile got there no one knows.

Australia's Reptiles. "Australia is a great reptile country," remarked John Barclay, a Scotch traveler, to the writer. "I have traveled in almost every country, and I have never found a land that went ahead of Australia for snakes, lizards and frogs. There are some sixty-five species of snakes in that country, of which forty-two are venomous and twelve positively dangerous. There are forty or fifty different kinds of frogs, embracing every variety, from the common tree frog to a large green variety called the 'Mud Frog,' making a wonderful showing of color and form about. There are probably forty kinds of lizards, of which twenty belong to a class known as the 'Geckos,' which hibernates. One species can utter a cry when hurt or alarmed, and another kind, the 'frilled lizard,' can lift his forelegs and hop about like a frog. There are crocodiles of Queensland, however, to a length sometimes of forty feet. Some of the Australian species of lizards can change color from a bright red to a dark, but from gray to red. Turtles are caught. I saw one caught in a net that was ten feet in length."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Emigration of Jews from Russia. A definite agreement is reported to have at last been concluded between Baron Hirsch and the Russian government concerning the emigration of Jews from Russia. The Baron undertakes and the Russian government consents to the departure of a half million of Jews taken to other countries within twenty-five years, or served the right of an emigrant to return to his native land within a year. The Government has reserved the right of an emigrant to return to his native land within a year. The Government has reserved the right of an emigrant to return to his native land within a year.

The Deaconess Movement. The Methodist Deaconess lives in community as a rule. Still, exceptional cases are provided for when the Deaconess, with you, needs a companion, may go anywhere to assist in this case she would live apart. I should say, however, that the Deaconess is obliged to wear her distinctive dress when she visits her family or leaves the institution for her annual holiday. No doubt it is anticipated that the Deaconess will be a long year to others.—The Nun of Kenmare, in North American Review.

The "Gold" Cure. The St. Louis Republic says that an old dorky called the local Keeley Institute the other day. "You are not drunk, are you, uncle," asked the doctor. "No, no, I never tooked no more of that Kentucky stuff you sold me." "I thought maybe you'd give an old man a few of dem gold shots, so I'd take 'em," the old dorky said. "I've got to be a deacon old church, an' wants to get rid ob dis yore chicken habit."

Dragooning Won't Do. Not with the liver. Violent cholerae, like colic and blue pill, administered in "heroic" or excessive doses, as they often are, will not permanently restore the activity of the great hepatic organ, and are productive of much mischief to the system generally. Institute a healthful reform in the habits of the liver exists, with Hestier's stomach Bitters, which insures a regular discharge of the secretory function of the liver, and promotes due action of the bowels without griping or weakening them. The discomfort and tenderness in the right side, nausea, fat upon the tongue, yellowishness of the skin, and other signs of the breath and sick headache, which characterize chronic biliousness, disappear, and digestion is restored, and activity by biliousness—resumes its former activity. The Bitters annihilates malaria complaints, rheumatism, kidney trouble, and is a promoter of healthful repose.
