Weather Forecast. Official forecast for the twenty-four hours ending at midnight, August 20, 1892.

THE AMERICAN SOLDIER. Harper's Weekly comes to the defense of the American soldier. If we are to encourage men in the army to deserve, and those not in it to enter the ranks, we should by judicious praise give credit fully to the soldier, and not measure him, as our contemporary well remarks, by the "bucking far" and "drinking strong liquor" standards.

The American soldier has not been found wanting. Suppose it to be true that in barracks and post dull life he is at times conquered by temptation and led into foolish imprudence and weak habits. A few such should not tone our judgment of the whole force. When it comes to testing the soldierly mettle, the American enlisted man has honored his uniform, even if it be conceded that too large percentage of desertion tarnishes it.

The American soldier as a class is not an ideal knight; he is not held up as a model of culture and refinement, nor yet as an exemplar in morals, though it is probably true that there is no larger proportion of weak and unclean men in the army than in most other professions.

THE CHOLERA MENACE. The march of the cholera plague in the Old World does not appear to be checked. It seems very likely now to reach the western shores of Europe, from which its transmission across the Atlantic will be very probable.

Rev. Dr. Pond of San Francisco has struck out a "new" line of policy for municipal reform. He thinks the clergy-men should form a political purity association and engage its officials, under salary, to hunt out and expose corruption in municipal politics, and suggest reliable men for public stations.

captions official has scored dyspeptic verdicts against the regular boys in blue. We challenge the history of the Republic along down all its annals for proof that the American regular soldier has not proved equal to all ever demanded of him, and demand proof that he has been unfaithful to his trust.

No, the American soldier deserves well of the American citizen, for with all his faults. Kept full in view, the regular is known to be brave, faithful and patriotic. In short, the American citizen has reason to be very proud of the little handful of men who constitute the file of the regular army.

FRUIT DISTRIBUTION. The question of the distribution of California fruit in distant markets is the most interesting and important local current discussion. The suggestion made to the State Board of Trade by Mr. W. H. Mills, that the need is for direct instead of indirect communication with a large body of consumers; the distribution not to a few great commercial centers as now practiced, but the reaching into a large number of smaller communities which, in the aggregate, represent the largest body of those who will be consumers of California fruits if they can but obtain them, has commanded attention throughout the State, and the result cannot be otherwise than beneficial.

What I have sought to impress, with an earnest desire that our, in my opinion, greatest industry may have due appreciation, is the possibility of an early day of finding fifty or fifty million consumers for our fruits. I believe the time has now come when a special effort should be made to meet this demand economically and without injury to the cargo, but this difficulty can be very easily overcome by making compartment cars for distribution among the long-in-short, constructing an equipment for this special service.

That depends upon the liver, for if the liver is inactive, the whole system is out of order. The breath is bad, digestion poor, head dull or aching, energy and hopefulness gone, the spirits are depressed, a heavy weight exists after eating, with general despondency and the blues. The liver is the housekeeper of the health; and a harmless, simple remedy that acts like Nature, does not constitute afterwards or require constant taking, does not interfere with business or pleasure and is its use, makes Simmons' Liver Regulator a medical perfection.

IS LIFE WORTH LIVING? That depends upon the liver, for if the liver is inactive, the whole system is out of order. The breath is bad, digestion poor, head dull or aching, energy and hopefulness gone, the spirits are depressed, a heavy weight exists after eating, with general despondency and the blues.

polls and votes for cleanliness outside of party, there will be done some effective work. To organize and expose corruption is something, to be sure; but the press has done that time and again, and always the voter has gone to the polls and become the tool of the bosses, as formerly.

MAJOR ANDERSON of the National Guard of Tennessee is a hero full paroled; a man of such splendid stuff as they are made of who command admiration the world around. His name, by his single action at Coal Creek, has been written in ineffaceable characters upon the page of history.

It is not enough that the fruits of California are actually carried to an Eastern city of 100,000 or 200,000 inhabitants; the producer and under such commercial conditions as will enable the purchaser to buy them in successful competition with other foods, or other necessities. So long as they are offered in the market at prices as to the masses at all. Considering the price received by the producer for fruit, and to that the actual cost of distribution; and to the aggregate then arrived at 25 or 50 per cent profit, and the population before whom we have passed our fruit would consume ten times the quantity now consumed.
