

STREET RAILWAY BOOM.

Sacramento Will be Well Taken Care of.

With Two Complete Electric Systems Everybody Can Ride to all Points.

As announced briefly in the RECORD-UNION yesterday morning the Folsom Water Power Company has filed with the Board of Trustees an application for a franchise which will enable it to put in a very extensive system of electric street railway in this city.

Again commencing at Seventh and J; thence along Seventh to N, out N to Thirtieth, along Thirtieth to T, and out T to the city limits at Thirty-first street.

This route would necessitate using the tracks of the company from I to J on Third street and from Third to Seventh on J street, and also on Seventh street from J to G, if the G-street franchise is granted to the Central Company.

The people want all the street railway facilities they can get, and if the Folsom Water Power Company wishes to put its capital into the construction of a street railway system in this city it ought to be encouraged.

It is taken for granted that the Trustees will on Monday grant the franchise asked for by the Central Company on G street.

As a matter of fact, the new company would get a better line on Sixth street than on seventh, and it is not to be expected that a line on Sixth street would accommodate more people than one on seventh.

With these two complete and separate systems in operation, Sacramento could have a better street-car service than any city in the State.

"BULL-HEAD" PLOVER. Delicious Birds That May Be Bagged all the Season.

The toothsome little upland plover, known as the "bull-head" species, are now in season, and as they are not included among the birds protected by the game laws, it is legitimate to shoot them.

There is not much sport in shooting them—that is, as compared with quail or snipe-shooting—but each one bagged is well worth the expenditure expended on it.

SUGAR AND STARCH. Important Industries to be Inaugurated at Isleton.

The Rio Vista News says the new proprietors of the Isleton sugar factory will inaugurate a new industry soon after they get to work, which will be the manufacture of starch from potatoes.

The managers of the factory will also put in a few acres of sugar corn on River, Grand, Brannan, Andrus and Tyler islands for the purpose of ascertaining if it can be raised at a profit.

LECTURE ASSOCIATION. The Committee of Well-Known Citizens Again in the Field.

Yesterday afternoon Sparrow Smith and Major H. Weinstein were making their fifth annual round among the citizens of Sacramento with the attractive tickets of the Sacramento Lecture Association.

ever, judging from the generous reception the canvassers everywhere received. It was hardly to be expected that these gentlemen, among the more prominent business men in the city, should continue to give three or four days' time, year after year, in the interest of elevating popular entertainments for the public, and their persistence is richly entitled to whatever commendation there is in hearty commendation.

The association has been fortunate in being able to open its course this year with so brilliant an entertainer as George Riddle, the elocutionist, who will appear next Tuesday evening. Mr. Riddle and Locke Richardson occupy the first place among the elocutionists of the world. Excellence in their art goes no further than they carry it, and the Sacramento public in listening to Mr. Riddle may assure itself that nothing more pleasing and inspiring in classical reading is anywhere to be heard.

Mr. Riddle occupied two evenings before crowded and delighted audiences in the first course given by the association, and is most happily remembered.

Major C. D. Ingham, well-known to the Sacramento public, will lecture October 14th.

HOW IT IS DONE. Middle-Men Who Procure Liquor for Indians.

Drunk Indians are quite numerous about the streets these days, but the police have not been able to detect anyone in the act of selling liquor to the red men since the arrest of the man whom Special Officer George McManus caught at it some weeks ago.

Yesterday, however, McManus got another fellow, one Thomas Smith, who was working the fire-water trick. Smith received money from an Indian and bought some liquor in a Chinese store.

Notaries Appointed. Frank B. Howard of Alila, Tulare County, and J. K. Bartholomew, of Maxwell, Colusa County, were yesterday commissioned Notaries Public by the Governor.

Not in It. J. C. Medley, in a note to the RECORD-UNION, states that the use of his name by the Citizens' Association as a candidate for constable was wholly unauthorized by him.

Money for Railroad Men. It is expected that the pay-car will leave here to-day its usual monthly output of about $175,000.

PAINFUL AND IMPROBABLE. Judge Van Fleet Declares Mrs. Truett's Story to Be Such.

C. H. Gilman Discharged on Habeas Corpus—Should Not Have Been Held.

Charles H. Gilman, through his attorneys, Grove L. Johnson and S. Solon Holl, applied to the Superior Court yesterday morning for a writ of habeas corpus.

Judge Van Fleet issued the writ and set the hearing for 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The attorneys and Mr. Gilman were on hand at that hour, and Deputy District Attorney Buckley appeared for the people.

Attorney Johnson informed the court formally that his client had been arrested on a charge of criminally assaulting Mrs. Lulu Truett, a domestic in his employ, had been examined in the Police Court and held to answer by Judge Craven.

The court then proceeded to read the testimony taken at the preliminary examination. An hour and a half was consumed in reading the evidence of Mrs. Truett and the cross-examination by counsel for the defense.

Attorney Holl read the testimony of the other witnesses, as Mr. Johnson became fatigued.

While the evidence of Mr. Gilman—the last witness who testified in the Police Court—was being read, Judge Van Fleet interrupted Attorney Holl, saying that he had heard enough.

Turning to Deputy District Attorney Buckley, the court asked: "Mr. Buckley, do you contend that this petitioner should be held under this testimony?"

"No, sir," promptly replied Mr. Buckley.

"Well, does District Attorney Ryan know anything about the facts of this case?" asked the court.

Mr. Buckley replied that Mr. Ryan was not familiar with the case, not having read the testimony.

The court then declared that Mr. Gilman never should have been held to answer on such flimsy and improbable evidence. "Of course," he said, "in habeas corpus cases the court is only bound to consider what is under the law, and the evidence was sufficient to hold the defendant. In this case, by applying the law to the evidence, I am fully satisfied that the defendant should not have been held to answer. If this case should go to a jury on the evidence for the people, even without any showing being made by the defendant, and a verdict of guilty be found, it would be the duty of the court to set aside the verdict and discharge the prisoner. The statement of the prosecuting witness is entirely too fanciful and improbable to be seized upon by any unprejudiced mind as being the truth. The evidence is wholly insufficient. Let the writ be allowed and the petitioner discharged."

SUED BY AN EX-SENATOR.

Lively Tilt Between Senator Jones and Actor Foote.

Sensational Scene in the Oroville Theater—"Masher" Miller the Cause of the Trouble.

Richard Foote, the actor-manager, well known throughout the State, is just now having lots of trouble up at Oroville, Butte County, according to the Sacramento Post. He is enjoying the distinction of being sued by no less a distinguished gentleman than Senator Jones, for damages done to the latter's feelings.

Last week the company reached Oroville on its travels, and prepared to play there in accordance with announcements previously made. But on the day of the company's arrival a young lady in the company changed to meet that gentleman, who once achieved considerable notoriety in San Francisco, whether he deserved it or not, as "Masher Miller." She had met him before in her home, which he had visited as drummer, and therefore saw no harm in replying to the salutation with which she greeted him.

But Manager Foote had seen the encounter and he did not like it. As a matter of course he had read a good deal about Mr. Miller, and he considered it more important to the matter than it deserved.

At all events he took an immediate opportunity of saying as much as he thought proper to the lady, and he was explaining at the same time his wishes that his people should keep as much to themselves as possible on their tours.

But when the performance was about to begin that evening, the manager saw Mr. Miller, accompanied by Senator Jones, stroll into the house, and there was something, perhaps in the manner of their entrance which angered him.

At all events he felt that the occasion called for prompt measures, and he proceeded to put the lady in a proper position. His first move was to send to Miller quietly and request him to withdraw from the house, offering to return him his money, but this offer was positively refused to do. He had paid the price of admission, he said, and was as much entitled to witness the performance as any one else was. In this he was certainly right, as Miller was standing fully within his rights.

But Manager Foote would not give up the fight and stepping before the lights he stated publicly that there was an objectionable person present who refused to depart, but insisted on remaining as long as any one else did.

"I now ask, ladies and gentlemen," continued Mr. Foote, "that you will all retire, as I will not give the advertised performance to-night. Your money will be returned to all of you at the door, and after you have gone out and obtained it, you are all, with the single exception of this one man, invited to re-enter the hall and witness, as my guests, free of charge, another performance than the one which was on the regular programme for to-night."

This plan worked, the audience going out as requested en masse. Before they had however, Senator Jones, feeling himself aggrieved through the treatment accorded his companion, arose in the audience and proceeded to score the manager for his conduct. He spoke with some warmth, and for some moments the two banded words, both, perhaps, using more vigorous language in their excitement than they would have used in a quiet moment.

Such, at least, was the conclusion which Manager Foote probably came to last Thursday when he found himself served with a summons in an action for damages for defamation of character, brought against him by Senator Jones. It would seem from the statements made in regard to the matter by Mr. Foote, that he was strongly insinuated that Jones and Miller were "saved off of the same piece," and both entitled to the reputation which Miller's experience in the city of San Francisco had done something at least to give him.

Jones' damage suit has of course not yet come to trial, but it is stated that the whole affair has so worried the actor-manager that he is now lying sick at Oroville with brain fever.

A MILITARY CLUB. The Sacramento Military Social Club Organized Last Night.

A meeting of the members of the local military organizations was held at the officers' quarters in Army Hall last night for the purpose of organizing a social club to conduct dances during the coming winter.

A large number were present at the meeting, and great enthusiasm was manifested, which augurs that the projected series of dances will be well managed and successfully carried out.

A temporary organization was effected last evening. Sergeant-Major Quin was elected President, Sergeant Kellough of Company G Vice-President, and Private Alexander of Company E Secretary.

A committee of nine on constitution and by-laws was appointed, consisting of the President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Messrs. Atwater, Farrar, Stevens, Van Horn, Chadderton and C. Neale.

It was voted that the name of the club should be the Sacramento Military Social Club.

The club is to consist of none but enlisted men of the local militia. It was further decided that all members will be required to appear at the dances in fatigue uniform.
