

SATURDAY NIGHT WHISKY.

It Seems to Have Been Responsible for a Cutting Affray.

William Rankin Assaulted on the Yolo Bridge and Stabbed by Morris Powers.

About half-past 1 o'clock on Saturday morning William Rankin, an engineer, was attacked by a man named Morris Powers and stabbed in the side.

The knife struck Rankin on the left side, near the stomach, entering several inches and making an ugly gash. The wound was not considered fatal, but is a serious one.

A RECORD-UNION reporter yesterday interviewed Rankin, who rooms in Washington. The latter said that he, in company with a Washington saloon-keeper by the name of Patterson, started over the bridge toward the city, but for some reason they turned back and encountered Powers.

Powers was a stranger to Rankin, but the latter he says addressed him in abusive terms, and said he "knew his heart out." Powers was evidently drunk, but not so much so as not to know what he was doing, and when he approached Rankin the latter says he could have knocked him down, but decided to catch his arm. He caught Powers by the arm, but it seems the latter had his knife ready, and immediately struck him.

After the cutting Powers remained on the Yolo side until yesterday afternoon, when he came over to Sacramento. He was followed by Constable Frommelt, who, together with Captain Brailley, arrested him about 5 o'clock and locked him up in the jail.

Rankin says he knows of no reason why Powers should have attacked him, and could give no explanation of the affair. Rankin lives in San Francisco, and has lately been engaged in putting up machinery at various places, working last at Packerfield. He was in the city a few days ago as a witness in the Palmer murder trial, and was soon to have returned to San Francisco.

INGERSOLL'S DEPARTURE.

Rev. Dr. Koehne Delivers a Sermon on the Skeptic.

Rev. Dr. Koehne delivered an able and very interesting discourse at the Congregational Church last evening, taking for his topic Ingersoll's "New Departure," or the famous agnostic's lectures on Shakspeare.

Dr. Koehne said he did not wish to denounce skepticism as a bad thing, for he recognized doubt and inquiry among the essentials of progress, but he denoted any effort on the part of agnostics or skeptics to detract from the teachings of the Bible.

He said Ingersoll had taken up Shakspeare in the place of God. He had done good in sweeping from the church the unbelievers, but he failed in his attack upon the Bible because he had arrayed himself against fact, and stood forth as one man against humanity, setting his foot upon the human hand.

The pastor took his text proper from the sixth chapter of St. Mark, sixth verse: "And he marvelled because of their unbelief. And he went round about the villages teaching." "John Doe, Republican; John Doe, Democrat; John Doe, People's Party; John Doe, Prohibitionist." "John Doe, Rep., Dem., People's, Prohibitionist."

Dr. Koehne held his hearers in close attention, and made a very impressive argument.

MCCARTHY'S MISTAKE.

He Smashes a Glass Door, Instead of His Enemy's Head.

A man giving his name as Tom McCarthy reported at the police station yesterday morning, laboring under a roasting jag, and covered with blood from an ugly gash in his wrist.

Developed later that he got his wound by striking his fist through the glass door of a K-street saloon in order to terrify an enemy of his, McCarthy's wrist bled so profusely that he fainted almost despaired of stopping the flow, but finally did so with a heavy bandage.

His wound was afterward dressed by a physician, and McCarthy went forth rejoicing.

AMUSEMENTS.

The sale of seats for the Margaret Mather engagement opens this morning. The management for Miss Mather promises an acting company of players of musical excellence, and among whom are Laurence Cantbury, prominent in the London theaters; Joseph E. Whitney, an actor of sterling merit, and Miss Emma C. Tuttle, a leading lady of high attainments.

On Tuesday evening Miss Mather will appear at the Metropolitan Theater in "The Egyptian," dramatized from Victor Hugo's "Hunchback of Notre Dame." It will be preceded by the curtain-raiser, "Nance Oldfield," by Charles Reade. Wednesday evening Miss Mather will appear in Butler's romance, "The Lady of Lyons."

The professional career of Miss Margaret Mather is too well known to require repetition, and she has the reputation of histrionism has been maintained by her intelligent and remarkable labors in the highest walks of dramatic art. Her devotion to her art has increased with her advancement in it.

The costumes she wears in her presentation of the curtain raiser, "Nance Oldfield," were recently described by an Eastern fashion writer, of gushing propensities as, "poems of beauty and symphonies of artistic coloring." made for Miss Mather by Felix of Paris.

"Nance Oldfield" is but a single act long. Miss Mather makes three entrances, each time in a new and "fetching" costume.

Those who attended at the Metropolitan Theater Saturday afternoon and evening were favored with a most pleasant entertainment. J. C. Duff's comic opera company is a most excellent one. It is far and away the superior of the Lillian Russell company. It has nine good leading singers, any one of whom is better than any in the Russell's troupe. Miss Bertram is a handsome woman, a capable singer and actress, and her soprano has the high quality of feeling and expression. So, too, Miss Knapp is a fine vocalist and an excellent comedienne, and a good actress, while Miss Graham and Miss Atherton are excellent vocalists and good actresses, while Miss Deahoff is a contrast of superior voice and is a comedienne through and through. Bassett, the tenor, Keadle, the baritone, and Hamilton, the basso, are thoroughly good artists. Keadle, the comedian, is at once an excellent actor and, what few opera comedians are, a clever singer. He is at no time coarse, but gives a tone of refinement to his humorous parts. The chorus is strong, the costumes rich, and the music a masterpiece of business behind the footlights most praiseworthy. We are convinced that if Manager Todd can arrange for a return engagement of the troupe it will be well patronized. Circumstances social, political and climatic combined against it Saturday night.

"Tangled Up" is a laughable comedy to be played at the Clunie Opera house, by Friday and Saturday evenings next, by DeLange, who is well and popularly known here as a comedian and in comic opera, and rising a comedian well spoken of. A full company supports the stars and a certain raucous, "Why" precedes each performance.

"Yon Yonson" is announced for Friday evening of this week with scenery by the same artist who painted the sets for "The Ensign."

"Bill Nye" and A. P. Burbank the monologist have been engaged to appear at one of the theaters at an early date.

Orville M. Remington, Manager of the De Lange-Rising Comedy Company, is in the city and will remain a couple of days.

THEY WANT MACADAM.

Property-Owners on M Street Who Object to Graveling.

Many of the property-owners on M street, between Fifteenth and Twenty-eighth, which blocks have been ordered gravelled, prefer to have the same macadamized, and are securing signatures to the following petition to be presented this morning to the City Trustees:

"We the undersigned property-owners on M street, between Fifteenth and Twenty-eighth streets, respectfully remonstrate against said street being gravelled as we believe it being so late in the year that if the street should be torn up and laid out with gravel it would be in an impassible condition all winter."

STRANDED IN DENVER.

Governor Markham and Party Experience a Railroad Tie-Up.

Governor Markham and his staff are tied up in Denver—not by the snow blockade, but in consequence of a strike among the engineers, conductors, firemen and trainmen on the second and third divisions of the Rio Grande road. The trouble appears to have been with the engineers regarding their run, which they claimed was too long.

The Governor, however, has a "retentive" way of doing things that will doubtless land him in Chicago for one of the World's Fair dedicatory exercises.

LATER.—A telegram received at midnight last night stated that the Governor and his party had got out of their blockade and continued their journey over the Midland road.

WALKED INTO HIS OWN TRAP.

How the Purloiner of a Bicycle Was Caught Over Reno.

Some days ago a costly bicycle was stolen from a J-street store, and suspicion rested on a certain young man. A telegram was sent to Reno, Nev., to look out for him, as it was ascertained that he had shipped the machine to that place by express.

On Saturday, sure enough, the supposed purloiner of the silent steed stepped into the express office at Reno and asked if it was possible to place under arrest. He gave the name of Joseph Hassell, and will be prosecuted here for grand larceny.

COOL AND STORMY WEATHER.

The Weather Bureau reports show the rainfall during storm yesterday forenoon to have been .25 of an inch, making .76 of an inch for this season, as against .10 of an inch to an equal date last year.

The highest and lowest temperatures of Saturday were 62° and 40°, and yesterday 56° and 42°, with fresh southerly breezes and stormy weather.

The highest and lowest temperatures one year ago on Saturday were 74° and 50°, one year ago yesterday 77° and 48°, and one year ago to-day 85° and 52°, showing the weather one year ago to have been very much warmer than it has been for the last day or two.

"EVERYTHING GOES."

Deputy Attorney-General Layson has written the following opinion to F. L. Kellogg, Clerk of Santa Barbara County:

You require an opinion as to whether or not the name of a candidate of several parties should appear upon the ticket by one or as many times as he has nominations, and of the opinion that the name should appear as often as he has nominations, for instance: "John Doe, Republican; John Doe, Democrat; John Doe, People's Party; John Doe, Prohibitionist." "John Doe, Rep., Dem., People's, Prohibitionist."

By the former method the party vote is kept separate. Aside from this consideration I think it proper to place it. It will be less confusing, I think.

Auction Sales.

On Wednesday, the 19th, at 10:30 A. M., D. J. Simmons & Co. will sell at auction, at 415 K street, sixteen rooms of furniture and carpets, including oak, walnut and pine bedroom sets, parlor sets, Brussels and Ingrain carpets, robes, lounges and all the dining-room and kitchen furniture.

On Saturday, the 22d, the same firm will sell at auction, at 11 A. M., at the ranch of Philip Forsyth, six miles west of Roseville, on Dry Creek, for the executor of the estate of John Forsyth, a property consisting of live stock, farming implements, harness, chickens and all the household furniture. Visitors will be served with lunch free.

At the Lumber Boom.

The Folsom Telegraph states that teams began the work of hauling large timbers and lumber out in the vicinity of Salmon Falls on Wednesday. They are to be used by the American River Lumber and Lumber Company to build shear booms in the river to facilitate the log-driving during the coming season, and for other improvements that the company intend to make in the stream named.

The Folsom Shoot.

A number of local trap-shots went to Folsom yesterday morning to participate in the shooting matches there. The rainy weather interfered greatly with the success of the affair, still a number of matches were shot, the Sacramento men capturing most of the stake money.

Next Republican Rally.

On Thursday evening next John F. Davis, the Republican nominee for Congress in this district, will address the people at the Pavilion. The various Republican clubs will turn out in a torch-light parade, and Mr. Davis will be tendered a rousing reception.

More Money Order Offices.

A dispatch from Washington states that the Post Office at Courtland, Freedom, Franklin and Ileton, in this county, have been placed on the list of money order offices; also those at Latrobe and El Dorado, in El Dorado County.

For Harrison and Reid.

The Business Men's Harrison and Reid Club will this evening elect officers and arrange for the parade on the 20th. Some seventy-five business men have already signed the roll.

Mrs. Logan's "Home Magazine" and "The Weekly Union."

Both only $1 75 per year. The Home Magazine of Washington, D. C., conducted by Mrs. John A. Logan, is the best and most popular low-priced periodical ever printed. The publishers of the WEEKLY UNION will furnish the magazine to its subscribers for a mere nominal sum above the price of subscription to the weekly.

RAIDED AGAIN.

N. Zemansky's Store Once More Visited by Thieves.

They Hansack His Safe, and Make a Haul of Cheap Jewelry and Some Coin.

Burglars broke into the Golden Rule Bazar store, kept by N. Zemansky on the corner of Third and J streets, about 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning, and got away with about $50 worth of jewelry and $45 in cash.

They obtained entrance by forcing the double doors on the Third-street side of the store, and finding the safe unlocked easily secured the jewelry, which was deposited therein.

Mr. Zemansky stated yesterday that he had taken the cash drawer, containing $145, from the safe and secreted it under a pile of wrapping-paper in the office, but the burglars discovered it and took the money.

The jewelry taken consisted of twenty-seven cheap watches, valued at $250, and ten dozen rings, worth something over $100, according to their owner's valuation.

The thieves also carried off an iron box from the office, containing notes and papers representing several hundred dollars, but Zemansky does not think they can dispose of the latter.

Special Officer May came along just as the burglars emerged from the store and gave chase, but they succeeded in eluding him, running toward K street and thence to the alley between K and L streets, where they disappeared. May says he could have shot the burglars as they ran through Third street, but he dared not shoot, as there were several pedestrians in the way, and he was afraid of shooting some innocent person.

It seems to be a very poor month with Zemansky, that he has not only been in some way by crooks, sneak-thieves or sharpers. The haul made yesterday morning, however, was about the heaviest that his place has suffered.

RESULTED FATALITY.

Engineer James W. Hanford Dies of His Injuries.

James W. Hanford, the veteran engineer of the Sacramento and Placerville Railroad, will never again pilot a train over that road, which he had traversed almost daily for thirty years, death having resulted from the terrible injuries he received by the accident that occurred on Friday near Diamond Springs, owing to his locomotive being thrown from the track by coming in collision with a cow.

When he was brought to the Railroad Hospital on Friday evening it was not thought that he would survive, but he lived only during the night, passing away early on the following morning. His death is thought to have been caused by the inhalation of steam, and not from the exterior scalding of his body.

Deceased had passed almost a lifetime in service on the Placerville Railroad, having been a fireman on that line in 1851. With the exception of a few years he had been constantly in the employ of the road. Prior to engaging in the business he was a miner in the vicinity of Folsom, but abandoned that calling when the placer diggings began to give out.

For several years he was chief engineer of the Pacific Division, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and was honored and respected by all his fellow-employees. His family consists of four sons and two daughters, all of whom are grown. Mr. Hanford was a man of unusually domestic habits. As soon as he returned from his daily run he went straight to his home, where, in the society of his wife and children, he spent all his unoccupied hours. His home life was very happy, and his death leaves aching hearts in that household where but recently all was joy and sunshine. Deceased was a native of England and 63 years of age.

This afternoon, at 2 o'clock, the funeral will take place from the family residence at Seventh and O streets. The Rev. J. H. Schmitt, of West half of lot 3, T and U, Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth streets.

"I say," said the other, "they're both av thin obtainin' money under farise pertinence! Sure didn't they say they were going to talk about the tariff, an' I want to learn somethin' about it, but begorra they talked about protection and wool, an' tin, an' prunes, an' lumber, an' wheat, an' the like, an' they said they had a—d little ter say about the tariff!"

And the two friends struck out for the nearest saloon.

A BITTER CONTEST.

Speiker Makes Public the Ingredients of the "Lash" Compound.

The case of V. J. Gregory against J. J. Speiker for $30,000 damages and a permanent injunction against Speiker's further manufacture of "Lash's Bitters," was called in Judge Catlin's court on Saturday.

In support of his motion to dissolve the temporary injunction Speiker filed an affidavit in which he alleges that "Lash's Bitters" are not the same as Roberts' Bitters, the former being composed of cascara bark, cascara seed, cascara gum seed, cinnamon bark, licorice root, angelica, cloves, sugar, alcohol and water.

He swears that Roberts' Bitters contain, in addition to these ingredients, orange peel, ginger and oil of myrrine.

Defendant also denies that when he testified in the Superior Court regarding Lash's Bitters he named all the ingredients used, but says that he named only the principal ones. Angelica and cloves were omitted in the formula given.

After a partial hearing the case was continued till Tuesday.

STOPPED AT OAKLAND.

The room of the proprietor of "La Bonbonniere," a confectionery store on K street, between Fourth and Fifth, was entered by burglars at an early hour yesterday morning and some money and various articles were taken.

The police were notified, and Officer Talbot followed a suspicious-looking man to an early train, but the fellow eluded him. His description was obtained, and Walker Manus promptly telegraphed to the conductor of the train to stop the man over to the police at Oakland.

McManus later received a telegram from Chief of Police Tompkins of Oakland stating that he had the man in custody, and that he gave his name as Joe Silva.
