

FARMERS IN CONVENTION.

Annual Session of the State Alliance and Industrial Union.

President Marlon Cannon Reviews the Work of the Order During the Past Year.

The third annual session of the Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union of California began yesterday forenoon at the Assembly Chamber in the Capitol.

The session is an executive one, as all meetings of the alliance. Thirty-two counties are represented. The delegates all wear satin badges bearing the name of the county they hail from and over this hangs an aluminum disc bearing the busts of Weaver and Field.

The officers present yesterday were: President, M. Cannon; Vice-President, W. A. Vann; Secretary, J. S. Barbor; Treasurer, J. W. Hines; Lecturer, J. S. Gilbert; Chaplain, S. H. Phillips; Sergeant-at-Arms, C. Martin; Business Agent, J. M. Moore; Executive Committee, J. S. Dore, B. M. Wendall, L. M. Landsborough, Jessa Poinstone, G. B. Johnson and J. C. Drew.

President Cannon called the convention to order and in addressing the delegates said: "Once more, brothers and sisters, we meet in general convention to review the work of the past year and to devise ways and means of continuing the work initiated at San Jose. Since last we met at Los Angeles the Alliance has been compelled to take a decided stand on the political questions agitating the people of this great nation. This stand has caused the bitter and poisoned shafts of political bosses to be hurled against our order, and has interfered with our successful organization of sub-alliances. These sub-alliances are schools, where our members are educated in the science of government, and many of them feel and believe that they have greater knowledge than the lists and break a lance with the enemy. In such a contest I do not fear the final result. We may suffer temporary embarrassments, but in the end of victory will perch upon our banners. It must be so, because we have all the facts and figures to support our cause.

"I cannot remember a time before you some of these facts at this time, showing the depressed condition of the farmers throughout the country. These facts and figures are taken from the official reports of the Census Bureau. In 1887 the average value per acre of all our crops was $19. In 1887 the average value was $9. From 1880 to 1890 the average price of wheat per bushel was $1.19; from 1880 to 1887 it was $1.07. From 1880 to 1870 corn was worth 56 cents per bushel; from 1880 to 1887 it was $1.07. From 1880 to 1870 cotton was worth 48 cents per pound, and from 1880 to 1887 it was worth 90 cents. So that to-day a dollar costs the farmer nearly 20 times as much; the corn farmer nearly 20 times as much, and the cotton farmer over 4 times as much as it did from 1880 to 1870. If a farmer had given a mortgage for $100,000 in 1870 he could have paid it with 1,650 bushels of corn; in 1887 it would have taken 2,702 bushels to pay it, without any interest, and so on with other crops.

A LAW ANNULLER. "But we are told that the law of supply and demand regulates prices. How is it, then, that we produced 90 bushels of wheat per acre in 1881, and it was worth $1.15 per bushel, while we produced only 73 bushels per acre in 1889, and it was worth 79 cents per bushel? The operation of this law in trade has been amply demonstrated by the pillage and robbery of honest labor. In the great State of Illinois the corn crop of 1889 cost the farmer $2,000,000 more than the crop was worth after it was harvested. The mortgages on the farms of that State in 1880 were $204,461,000. In 1887 they were $416,078,000, or an increase of over 100 percent in seven years. In every surplus bushel of wheat and corn in that State in 1880 had been applied on farm mortgages, there would have been enough to pay for the interest on the mortgages. In the State of Michigan there were farm mortgages to the amount of $130,000,000, with average interest at 7 per cent, and the interest alone upon this debt would require 455,000 bushels more of wheat than the entire net crop of that State in 1884. In Iowa there were mortgages for $200,000,000 upon its farms, a sum equal to $104 for every man, woman and child in the State.

"All over this broad land we read the same sad story, and still politicians will come around here during campaign time and tell you how prosperous the farmers are, and how they are prospering in Washington and you will find piled up the abstracts of more 9,000,000 mortgages on our homes, and when we petition Congress for relief we are told to go home, work harder, live cheaper and keep out of politics, and all will be well.

USING THE PEOPLE'S MONEY. When Wall street, through its gambling schemes, becomes entangled in the meshes of its own wickedness, it has only to call upon the Secretary of the Treasury and he flies to its relief on the wings of the wire and pours into its lap $100,000,000 of the people's gold. It is perfectly constitutional to transfer $100,000,000 from the United States Treasury to the vaults of the banks, and to pay the $100,000,000 advance interest and $7,000,000 in premiums, and to get it into circulation, an additional $100,000,000 in interest drawn from the people; perfectly constitutional to pay to gamblers and speculators $70,000,000 in premiums and interest to get $180,000,000 into circulation, but it would be shameful to pay the $100,000,000 loan this money to the farmers, upon their land, at 2 per cent interest. No money must be furnished to the people unless it comes through some banking corporation, and they pay usury for these second-hand favors.

"There appears to be a higher power than that at the six o'clock chime of the industrial energies of the people. We demand that the circulating medium of the country shall be issued direct to the people at a low rate of interest.

est, and in whatever form it may be used, if it bears the imprimatur of the Government and is called a dollar, it shall be worth 100 cents in the payment of all debts, public and private.

WILD-CAT MONEY. "Politicians tell us that this system of finance would fill the country with wild-cat money, and in the end would ruin the prosperity of the Nation, and that it would destroy our liberties. Well, that might be a blessing in disguise. Who has a better right to go into politics than the farmer? Do they not tax him? Do they not take 10 per cent of the taxes? Could they not, in three months, by withholding all shipments to the large cities, bring those cities to their knees? Without the aid of farmers our mighty network of railroads would grow up in grass and weeds in ninety days. Without them all progress would be arrested, and all civilization would perish. These political bosses will soon learn that the schoolmaster has been around, and that we begin to understand our power, and that we have men among us who have the intelligence and courage to demand justice in the race for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

"My brethren, you may think I have dwelt too long upon this subject. If so, I will answer in the language of a celebrated English lawyer who was defending a criminal and was retorted by the court that his argument was too long. Turning to the court he said: 'You should remember, sir, that I am pleading for the life of a fellow creature. So, if I have wearied your patience I, here and now, enter the plea that I am pleading for the life of this Republic and the rights and liberties of the American people. The Secretary's report will give you the condition of the Alliance in this State, as well as the present condition of the finances of the State Alliance.

FAILURE IN THE SOUTH. "I have visited the County Alliances of the following counties during the past year: San Diego, Orange, San Bernardino, Los Angeles, Santa Cruz, Santa Clara, Yolo, Colusa, Butte, Fresno and Tulare, and found them all in good working condition except Los Angeles. The order in the latter county owes its demoralization to many causes, chief among which were its failure in its business ventures and the peculiar course pursued by its County President. But, with a new President, it will again come to the front as a leading power in Southern California for good.

"I do not wish to consider to you the responsibility I assumed at San Jose, feeling certain that my successor will continue the good work until relief comes to the people. I have been free from loss among our leaders, by death, during the last year. Only one notable invasion of our ranks by this specter has occurred, resulting in the death of our national leader, President Leonidas L. Polk. His loss has had a powerful effect upon our order in the West. In 1887 the average value per acre in that section time alone will determine. I sent out a memorial tribute to his memory at the time of his death, and it was with a heavy heart that I signed a resolution which expressed my sympathy in suitable resolutions. Thanking you for your great kindness, I now surrender this trust to your keeping.

At the conclusion of President Cannon's address the following committees were appointed by the Chair: Committee on the Distribution of President Cannon's Message—W. A. Vann, C. W. Pedlar and D. T. Fowler. Committee on Resolutions—J. W. Hines, William Ayres, William Justice, C. M. Landsborough, A. M. Hathaway. Committee on Constitution and By-Laws—James Morgan, W. Thresher, C. A. Barlow, C. W. Pedlar and L. F. Moulton. Committee on Business Features of the Order—George B. Johnson, J. E. Camp, W. H. Gilstrap, J. B. Alvord and Jonathan Roberts. Committee on Consideration of Constitutional Amendments—D. T. Fowler, W. M. Reid, D. B. Camp, E. C. Tully, E. P. Sawyer and J. W. Hines.

No Committee on Credentials was appointed, as the necessary passes upon the credentials of members of the convention. The convention took a recess for lunch after the committees had been announced.

GRAND LECTURER'S REPORT. The only matter of importance at the afternoon session was the Grand Lecturer's report. As this was referred to a committee it will not be given to the public until the committee's action is known. Last evening the various committees appointed in the morning were all busy preparing their reports, which are to be submitted to-day. The convention will resume its work this evening there will be a meeting to which the public is invited at Turner Hall, Mrs. A. L. Digs of Kansas, an orator and author, will address the meeting. She is one of the traveling lecturers of the Alliance.

Death of an Old Citizen. At noon yesterday Louis Jacobs, who kept a tailoring-shop on K street, near Fourth, for upward of twenty years, died at his residence, 404 O street. The deceased, who was 76 years of age, retired from business a couple of years since. His wife, two sons and two daughters survive him. He was a member of Washington Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M.; Royal Arch Chapter, No. 3; Council No. 1, and Exham Lodge, I. O. B. B. The funeral will take place from the family residence at 2 p. m. on Thursday, and friends are requested to omit flowers.

Yesterday's Weather. The Weather Bureau reports show the highest and lowest temperatures yesterday to have been 73° and 49°, with fresh northerly winds and a cloudless sky. The highest and lowest temperatures one year ago yesterday were 82° and 52°, and one year ago to-day 81° and 50°.

The Willamette-Premier Collision—Remarks About Theater-Goers—And Other Reflections.

Eds. RECORD-UNION: Last Tuesday afternoon, between 2 and 3 o'clock, occurred a fatal collision between the steamboats Premier (which was on her way to this city from New Whatcom) and Willamette, bound for San Francisco. The accident occurred in a dense fog. Four persons were killed instantly and seventeen others more or less injured. The two vessels were so closely wedged together that they could not pull apart, so the Willamette pushed the Premier ashore. The passengers were obliged to remain on the island until assistance came, which was several hours later; in fact, they did not arrive in Seattle until after 1 o'clock the following morning.

The latest reports say the Premier can be saved, but the fate of the Willamette is still doubtful. Most of the injured were moved at once to the hospitals, while some few were taken to hotels. They are all doing as well as could be expected. I wonder why people like to attend the theater. For the sake of a few dollars, from it, of course, I hear someone say, "But just stop a moment, my friend, and see if it's not more of a desire to be seen than to be killed instantly and seventeen others more or less injured. The various temples of Thespis, rather than a laudable desire for mental and moral improvement. I say 'moral,' because I think a good play, wherein right is triumphant in the end (as it always is in plays and story-books), helps the morals of even the best of us.

Now, when I go to the theater I like to enter fully into the spirit of the play; in other words, I like to be thoroughly illusionized—don't you? Of course you do. I don't like to see a man who is in a play, where all the men with the "desolate spots" hold forth, either, because I'm not as brave as they, and I like to think that the blood of a log of wood with a saw blade for a handle, instead of being a hero, is instead of coming from a two-bit rouge-pot.

I don't like to see a brick wall fluttering wildly in every gust of wind; I don't like to see a whole house threaten to demolish itself when the leading lady falls across the proscenium; I don't like to see when the before-mentioned heroine is denounced the heavy villain in scathing terms, I don't like to see him stand before her like a log of wood with a saw blade for a handle, as though he were thinking of the time when he could redeem his beloved fur-trimmed overcoat from the clutches of the tax collector. I don't like to see a man in a suit and bow tie, who is in the audience, well, I don't like to sit in front of people who talk right straight through the doorway in a dead faint, and behind a tall woman with a hat the size of Mount Rainier, and I don't like to sit behind a man who thirrs for a dove (7).

Once saw a picture of a man who had a bottle tied to a string and passing it around the table portion of the audience. "This would be a good idea, I think, don't you?" Much has been said and written lately about the delights of a suburban residence. In fact, the man who is in the social "swim" you must own a rural villa, two, or even three, miles from town—the farther away the better. In the morning you get up, you brush your hair, you wash your face, you take a whole, rush-poll-out of the house and miss your car. Then you get into a storm and rain, you tramp up and down the planks of the street, you get your temper, and so aids digestion. Then a friar comes along who imparts the gripping intelligence that the power has given out, and you are obliged to foot it into the city. Then, again, you are perhaps out late some night (I will not say "celebrating"), and, coming home, you find that the car will not start. You are as likely as not to land in a pool of water as any place else, or measure your entire lordly length on another car. Then, again, you are obliged to wander that display nomadic disposition to do as the man who is in the audience, well, I don't like to sit in front of people who talk right straight through the doorway in a dead faint, and behind a tall woman with a hat the size of Mount Rainier, and I don't like to sit behind a man who thirrs for a dove (7).

For the Benefit of Voters. It will be seen by advertisement elsewhere that County Clerk Rhoads has decided to keep open his office for the registration of voters every evening this week, from 7 to 9 o'clock. The time for registration is growing short—the register closing on the 24th—hence all who are not enrolled should see to it that they do not, through neglect, disfranchise themselves.

WHO OWNS IT? A Strip of Ground in Dispute Between the City and Pierce.

At yesterday's session of the City Trustees Everett Pierce appeared before that body and asked that the proposed improvement of the Y-street levee be postponed until his attorney could be present. It seems that the city claims a certain eighty feet on the extension of Y street below Front, which Everett Pierce claims and has been occupying, but which the city holds he has usurped. The City Surveyor set some stakes thereon the other day and Pierce removed them, ordering the Surveyor off the premises. The Surveyor, however, called the City Surveyor and Mr. Pierce subsequently called on Judge McKune, the city's lawyer in the case, to discuss the matter.

BE DESERVED ALL HE GOT. Heavy Sentence of Welch, a Woman-Beater, by Judge Crockett. In the Police Court yesterday morning among other culprits arraigned was Ah Sing, charged with selling lottery tickets. He had his case continued until November 10th. F. Kuntz, a newly arrived immigrant from the Fatherland, charged with disturbing the peace, had his case continued to the 24th. J. Carroll was found guilty of indecent exposure and was sentenced to-day to 15 days in jail. Mrs. C. Neeldine and Mrs. Leberich, arrested by Officer Ahern for disturbance of the peace, had their trial set for today. James Welch, the big leater convicted on Monday of battering Lily Brown, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 or serve 90 days in the County Jail. Welch is an ex-convict and seemed to delight in striking and abusing the woman, with whom he had lived. Of course he went to jail.

NORTH AND WEST LEVEES. The Railroad Officials Submit a Proposition to the Trustees. President Huntington of the Southern Pacific Company, accompanied by General Manager Towne, Assistant General Manager W. C. Curtis and H. E. Huntington, paid a flying visit to the city yesterday. While here Mr. Huntington held a consultation with the City Trustees in relation to the improvement of the levees, and a proposition was submitted to the Trustees—the exact terms of which have not been given out—which the latter will at once consider and promptly report the result to the city.

ON A LONG JOURNEY. A Daring Bicycle Rider on a Tour of the World. Frank G. Lenz, the young New Yorker who started out from his home to make a tour of the world on a bicycle, arrived in this city yesterday and was the guest of the local wheelmen. He has made the distance from New York to Sacramento—4,725 miles—in 103 days. Lenz rides a pneumatic tire wheel. He says he has had several thrilling experiences on his journey already, one occasion nearly losing his life in the Yellowstone River. He also experienced many hardships in crossing the Sierra Nevada Mountains. Lenz leaves to-day for San Francisco, and sails for Japan on the 25th inst. He expects to cover at least 20,000 miles on his wheel.

CHANGED DAILY FOR THE RED HOUSE DURING THIS SALE.

NOTICE! The Clerks' Union has been admitted to the Federated Trades. Their object in forming in a body as a union is to see if they cannot, with the people's assistance, make their hours of labor less. In order for this to be successfully accomplished, would be for customers to agree to not patronize a house which kept open after 6 o'clock. This should be strictly observed by the ladies especially, and as the working class of men are the greater portion of our trade they should certainly see the benefit of it and fall in line. Business hours of the Red House are from 7:30 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Bad Blood. Impure or vitiated blood is nine times out of ten caused by some form of constipation or indigestion that clogs up the system, when the blood naturally becomes impregnated with the effete matter. The old Sarsaparilla attempts to reach this condition by attacking the bowels with a drastic and obnoxious "potash." The potash thereby creates a morbid condition of the system. It attacks the liver, kidneys and bowels to healthful action, and invigorates the circulation, and the impurities are quickly carried off through the natural channels. Chas. Lewis & Beaman's Third and Market streets, S. F., writes: "I took it for vitiated blood and while on the first bottle became convinced of its merits, for I could feel it was working a change. It cleansed, purified and braced me up generally, and everything is now working full and regular."
