WHY DELAY?

There is not, probably, a citizen of Sacramento of any degree of intelligence commanding respect, now that it has been shown how desirable levee work was, how well and expeditiously and cheaply it can be done, and how it contributes to confidence and progress, who does not deeply regret that the whole of last spring and summer were frittered away in unconscionable delays and neglect to take the vote the people were anxious to cast, when just as well as not the new levees could have been ordered, have been built, packed, faced and made complete months ago.

In the light of that regret, and which we hear expressed on all sides, will this city repeat its error? Will it follow the old, worn and beaten path of procrastination by putting off, delaying and lingering until the eleventh hour, doing that which, in the end, it must do and which can be done so much cheaper and more satisfactorily if done in season?

We refer now to the sewage disposal problem. Why wait until spring is here before making inquiry as to systems, cost and adaptability to local conditions? Since it will cost nothing to ascertain what other cities have done, how other systems work and what they cost; what systems are best adapted to cities situated as is Sacramento; what system most conserves public health; what are the relative merits of chemical deposition, sewage farming, gravitation disposal, evaporation and cremation, the sectional suction and pressure system of ejection of sewage, and so on; why not now, this winter, when we have time in plenty, enter upon all the details of inquiry concerning sewage disposal for Sacramento?

If we do so, when the hour for action comes we will be ready; we will know precisely what to do and how to do it, cheaply and well. We will have before us and understand them, the plans, testimony and experiences of many other towns and cities, and such possession will be of highest value. We know of one city that spent $7,000 in sending its engineer about the world examining sewage disposal systems before it settled upon and adopted one for its own use. All the costly experience of that city we can avail of; her surveys, table of cost, record of current expense of maintenance, etc., is at our command without expenditure of a dollar on our part, but we do not ask for it, and the city officials do not propose to furnish it unless we have the common civility to prefer the request.

The Record-Union has suggested that the Trustees name a Committee of Inquiry of five citizens to gather the facts, compare data and suggest a proper system. This was advised two years ago, again a year ago, again last summer and again a few days ago. It has the approval of every property-owner who has considered the subject; not a solitary objection has been advanced against it; yet nothing is done. Nor will there be, probably. Our Trustees, in the dignity of their official character, will continue to let time slip by, just as they did in the matter of the levees. Spring will come and pass; summer will be upon us, and nothing done; pestilence will assail us, and then with a rush and a waste of money, because of the haste, we will endeavor to ascertain what ought to be done, and will spend thousands of dollars for advice and knowledge that is now free to us for the asking, and find at last that we have not time enough left to do ought but suffer.

If the Trustees will not act in this matter, if their conception of the need for it is so narrow that it will not permit them to inaugurate now the inquiry which must be made sooner or later, then let the people take up the matter independently, as they had to do in the case of the levee improvements.

We repeat, the wise thing for Sacramento to do is to inform herself thoroughly and settle upon a plan of sewage disposal now, no matter how remote may be the day when she will be able to put it to practical use.

THE IMMIGRATION COMMITTEE.

It is reported by telegraph that the Senate Committee on Immigration has agreed on certain propositions. These are that immigrants between 12 and 55 years of age must be able to read and write freely in their native language; that above 55 the immigrant shall not be admitted who cannot read and write, except he is a member of a family; that each immigrant must have at least $100 in money, or its equivalent; but a head of a family may send for other members of the family, if he or they possess $25 for each member; that all intending immigrants must bring certificates from United States Consuls; that all who seek final naturalization papers must give notice of intention to apply to the court, and thereupon some official of the Government must investigate the application and report thereon. The suggestion to wholly suspend immigration for one year, except from North and South American countries, is under consideration.

This latter proposition might well be based upon sanitary necessity and regard for the public health, since it is the belief of those best qualified to judge that the cholera will renew its assault in the Old World in the coming year, and with greater virulence. As quarantine is only a measure of resistance to assault, while exclusion is a measure of prevention, and has been demonstrated in Spain and in Italy to be the best means of preventing the plague from entering a country, suspension of immigration during 1893 might be defended upon that ground without involving any political reasons.

The proposition that on final application for naturalization papers notice of intention to apply shall be given, and some one shall thereupon appear and represent the Government at the hearing, is one that the Record-Union long ago advocated. It at least ought to be reported to Congress and by that body adopted. The application is a proceeding that should not be ex parte. True, the naturalization laws now require the court to represent the people since it is commanded by the law that the Judge shall examine the applicants and be satisfied upon certain points. But, as everyone knows, this is a provision more honored in the breach than in the observance, and if a court is satisfied there is no appeal from it, though it may be ever so clear that the grounds for satisfaction were unsubstantial.

As to the other propositions said to be agreed to, it is very doubtful if Congress will adopt them, meritorious though they are. We very much fear that the House will antagonize any such action by the Senate in the matter. The common politician never takes much account of the distant future. He will find in the proposed regulations only a blow aimed at a source of present profit to him, and he will have with him the sympathies of the least desirable of the newly-made citizens who will deem the restrictive clauses unjust. The element that holds this country to be no more than a dumping ground, and insists that it is the design of Providence that whoever will be permitted to come in, without let or hindrance; the intelligent class—and it is not an inconsiderable one—that holds the policy of free entry to be the only wise one, and that there is no danger whatever in it, because the foreign element is so rapidly assimilated, and in the second generation is practically lost in Americanism—these will all resist the propositions named. The wily dealer in the foreign vote will before Congress adroitly mass these opposing forces to secure the defeat of all such propositions.

They may succeed in the immediate present, but not for long. The American sentiment is rapidly augmenting and will certainly arrive at the point of regulation indicated by the propositions named. More than that, the sentiment of the people upon this subject will extend to radical reformation of the naturalization laws, in the extension of the probationary period, and the requirement that the applicant shall be affirmatively shown to be free from entertainment of doctrines inimical to our form of government, and the perpetuity of American institutions.

A MATTER OF TREES.

Two rows of trees are about to be placed about the entire grounds of the State Capitol in this city. The character of these trees has not yet been decided upon. The Commissioners will doubtless very gladly receive suggestions upon the subject. Certainly they will not be considered impertinent, for the desire is to make the best selection, and there are a good many and widely varying views as to what is best.

Should such trees be evergreen? Should they or not, be deciduous? The pepper tree that so illuminates with beauty the walks and ways in Southern California is not a deep rooter, and by heavy winds is easily overthrown. The sour orange has a life of but fourteen years. The pine family is common, and does not present novelty to the Eastern visitor, or impress him with the idea of climatic mildness, notwithstanding that some of the pines now in the park are from semi-tropical sections, and are rare examples—as those from Rome—while others are Himalayan, and equally rare in this State.

What is needed is a tree that is a deep rooter; that is beautiful in foliage, but not so dense as to forbid the passage of light and air freely. It must be stately to comport with the architectural character of the State Capitol, and hence, such as the umbrella tree are inappropriate. It must be a tree that is capable of training without great labor and that will take so firm a hold upon the earth as not to need bracing and stay lines. It must be adapted to this climate, of course, and it should be a tree not usually afflicted with scale or inviting to foliage pests, as some are.

The matter is one that interestingly concerns the Capitol Commissioners just now and one that may very well engage pleasant suggestion by those with ideas upon the subject and who have had experience in arboriculture or have made it something of a study.

The Record-Union will gladly publish concise communications upon this subject, some debate of which will tend to cultivate good taste and somewhat broaden information upon the very interesting subject. We invite, therefore, brief letters for publication concerning the character of trees it would be advisable to plant about the exterior of the fourteen acres of ground surrounding the State Capitol.

J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Philadelphia, Pa. "I was afflicted for several years with disordered liver, which resulted in a severe attack of jaundice. I had the best medical attendance, but it failed to restore me to the enjoyment of my former health. I then tried the favorite prescription of one of the most renowned physicians of Louisville, Ky., but to no purpose, whereupon I was induced to try Simmons' Biliary Regulator. I found immediate benefit from its use, and it ultimately restored me to the full enjoyment of health."—A. H. SHIRLEY, Richmond, Ky.

TO PROPERTY-OWNERS.

MANY STREETS HAVE BEEN IMPROVED at the expense of the adjoining property-owners. The improvement consists of grading, then paving, then filling to high grade, then Nicholson pavement, and last of all, the asphalt paving and repair of such streets should be at the expense of the whole city, and the Trustees will be asked to accept the improved streets immediately and before the new charter is finally adopted.

At the present moment a well organized effort is making to again repave a large part of the colored streets with asphalt.

The movement will affect all paved streets in the city, such as J street and K street and the cross streets. We ask your attention to the following testimony, and that you will protest against the repaving with the asphalt.

MANY CITIZENS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29, 1892.

FRANK MILLER, Esq., Dear Sir—Yours of yesterday received and noted. I am much surprised at your statement of the project of repaving J street.

It is the first I have heard of it. Why, I should suppose the experience and wisdom of that street a few years since was sufficient. I have no faith whatever in "bituminous rock" or California asphalt pavement.

It does well for basements and stable floors, but from my observation of it here in San Francisco I have no faith in it. The fact is, it can hardly be called "asphalt." Our California product is more of a species of tar or petroleum mixed with sand, and after a few years' use, and soon after laying it down, it begins to evaporate or disintegrate, and the sand blows out. In other words, the asphalt and sand have no affinity. Could there be pure asphalt, free from sand, and then mix that with limerock, which has an affinity for it, the result would be very different.

If you could lay Trinidad asphalt, and then use that with limerock, which are four by five by eight, you would have a pavement that would last many years; but, unfortunately, none are manufactured in this State. An effort was made three years ago, but the combinations against it were such that it fell through.

I have had the streets on Eighteenth and Howard, where I am interested, paved with basalt blocks, which I prefer to the California asphalt.

In reconsidering the street paving, then I shall direct my people there to sign against it, for I cannot believe Mr. A. B. Smith's company can and will make a street like J street, with your climate, that will stand three years.

I admit that the asphalt streets are much the pleasantest while in repair, as they are smooth and noiseless, and the water flows off nicely, same as the asphalt blocks pavement. My idea would be to let J street alone till such time as your new City Government under the new charter is fully established. You are at liberty to make such use of this letter as you deem best, though it may have little influence.

Yours truly, COLUMBUS WATERHOUSE.

14 Montgomery Street, San Francisco. ACRE LOTS FOR HOMES.

We again call the attention of the public to those fine one acre lots on The Louisiana Tract!

Only a few moments walk from end of electric railway, and almost adjoining Oak Park, which is nearly all sold to people who have and will build homes there. No land near Sacramento that is so desirable by reason of its location, quality and topography is offered as low as the lots of this tract.

THE TERMS ARE MOST REASONABLE: ONLY ONE-THIRD CASH, BALANCE IN THREE YEARS, WITH INTEREST AT SIX PER CENT PER ANNUM.

The above statement, with the fact that Sacramento is growing very fast and that capital is dropping in daily, ought to encourage men of small means to invest at once. Many have already bought here and are well pleased with the Louisiana Tract.

The Wind May Blow But the great sale of our $10 OVERCOATS continues. The demand, in fact, is increasing daily.
