

ANOTHER THROAT CUT.

And It Took Place in a Dive, as Usual.

The Affair in Mystery—Pat McLaughlin Arrested—The Identity of the Injured Man Unknown.

Shortly after 8 o'clock last evening a sanguinary cutting affray occurred in Tom Barry's saloon on K street, between Front and Second. Four or five men were seen to run out of the saloon, and shortly afterward a man with blood spurting from his throat was shot out of the place as if from a catapult.

As he was reeling about and almost falling he was taken by the arms by two men and led or dragged to Henke's drug store, upon reaching which he fell to the sidewalk.

Doctors Baldwin and Cluness happened to be near, and as soon as possible set to work to stop the flow of blood, but the man had already almost bled to death.

He was found to have been struck with a knife about the middle of the forehead, a slight gash extending downward diagonally across the nose and cheek, and ending in a deep cut across the neck under the left ear.

The main wound, evidently made with a large, keen blade, was about three inches long and very deep, and either severed the jugular under the ear or one of the main arteries.

The flow of the little blood remaining in the wounded man's veins was stopped, the arteries being taken up and tied by the physicians, and he was removed to the Receiving Hospital in an unconscious and apparently dying condition.

Other wounds made by a knife were found on the right side of his face, but were comparatively insignificant. The City Physician redressed his wounds shortly after his arrival at the hospital, but there was believed to be little chance for his surviving.

Nothing was found upon him but a card of "Bible Lessons," containing prayers and Scriptural passages. Upon this card was inscribed in pencil, "Frisco Whitey, 90 days," but whether this was his own nickname or a memorandum could not be ascertained.

Officer Lowell met the wounded man as he was being taken to the drug store and Chief Rodgers and Officers Maley, Rider, Gibson, Cox and Wilson were soon on the ground.

The floor of the saloon where the cutting occurred was slippery with blood, and the pavement for nearly a block was covered with it, while the unfortunate man's breast was hung with a clotted mass of the life-fluid.

Shortly after the man was taken to the police station Officers Lowell and Maley arrested one Pat McLaughlin, and were confident they had the man who did the cutting. He denied any knowledge of the affair, but his right hand was found covered with blood, and he then said he helped to lead the wounded man away.

McLaughlin was locked up, and the officers were busily working on the details of the case late last night.

The barkeeper of the saloon, William H. Conn, alias "Toronto Billy," at first refused to say a word about the occurrence, of which he undoubtedly knew considerable. In response to questions, he finally admitted that four or five men came into the saloon and were drinking at the bar with the man who was cut. He claimed that he left the room for a moment and while he was out the fight took place.

He started to give the names of the men and then he changed his mind and knew none of them and nothing of the affair. Some time after the cutting William Conn, the barkeeper of the saloon, Brock Doran and a stranger were arrested by the police and locked up as knowing more about the affair than they were willing to divulge.

Nothing further could be learned last night of the wounded man's identity, and he was very low at midnight.

HUGH GALEEN'S DEATH. Swept Under a Barge and Drowned in the River.

PELL FIFTY FEET.

Terrible Accident to a Miner Living Near Folsom.

W. A. Ford of Folsom writes to the Record-Union stating that on Wednesday night a terrible accident happened to Frank Perry, a miner at Willow Hill. He had been in Folsom during the day and was returning home after dark, when he lost his road and drove over a bank fifty feet high.

The horse, vehicle and driver went down upon the cobblestones below, the horse being killed outright and Perry receiving painful and perhaps fatal injuries.

The cause of Perry's falling in this way was his taking up a friend on the road and leaving him at home, then going across the country toward his own home.

The unfortunate man lay where he fell until yesterday morning, when his cries were heard by persons driving along the road near by, and he was rescued. It was found that his ribs had been broken, one of them piercing his lungs. There is a strong probability that his injuries will prove fatal.

The man fell in Folsom and vicinity for Mr. Perry and his family, the latter consisting of his wife and eight children. Perry is a hard-working miner, and a member of Folsom Lodge, United Order of Workmen.

BUCKLEY'S BUDGET.

An Assortment of Culprits Before the Police Court.

In the Police Court yesterday Alvin Potter, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, was represented by Hiram Johnson, and his case was continued to February 25th.

Charles Turner, the colored pugilist Romeo, charged by Minnie Dodd, a dark but winsome Juliet, with disturbing her peace, had his case continued until this morning.

Nellie Hammond and Dollie Stevens, arrested for soliciting and receiving bonds, failed to appear in response to their names, and their cases were continued until this morning.

Ena Wilson, who said she resided in the Clunie building, and who was arrested for being drunk on the street, pleaded guilty. An officer testified that she was on a quiet drunk, however, and she was discharged with the warning not to come to court again.

FARLEY'S POTATOES.

Carroll and Cullen to be Tried for Stealing Them.

William Carroll and Jack Cullen were tried for burglary in the Police Court yesterday. They were charged with having broken into a warehouse and stealing thirty-five sacks of potatoes belonging to Farley & Silva.

The owners of the spuds testified to the theft, and identified some of the sacks and contents found in the possession of the defendants. Farley also testified how the shoes worn by the two men fitted the tracks found in the yard at the warehouse.

The potatoes were of the "Early Rose" variety and valued at $160 per sack. Officer Gibson, who, with Chief Rodgers, arrested the defendants, testified to the circumstances of the case, and the men were held to answer in $2,000 bail each.

MAHAN ACQUITTED.

The Charge of Cattle Stealing Not Substantiated.

It Was Evidently the Result of Spite on the Part of Miller, the Complainant.

The trial of Phil Mahan for cattle stealing was commenced at Placerville, before Judge Arnot, upward of a week ago, and closed yesterday with a verdict of not guilty.

The defense was represented by Grove L. Johnson and J. H. Hollinger of this city and Charles A. Swisher of Placerville; the people by District Attorney Prentiss Carpenter.

The case was one of the most important criminal trials tried in El Dorado County for a number of years, and owing to the prominence and good standing of the defendant, elicited universal interest, not only in El Dorado, but in Sacramento County.

Miller, who Mr. Mahan and his brother engaged in extensive cattle raising and farming.

The Mahan brothers reside near Michigan Bar, in this county, and are favorably known in that section. They are both enterprising and energetic young men, and for a number of years have been in the habit of grazing during the summer large numbers of cattle in the mountain ranges of El Dorado County.

During the last three years the brothers have done a business in and about Sand Mountain, furnishing 300 or 400 loggers and woodmen working for the American Lumber Company with beef.

Some time last October a neighbor by the name of Miller, who had recently settled in their vicinity in this county, applied to them for work. He was told that there was no opening for him, but was advised to go to the mountains and apply to the lumber company. Miller eagerly accepted this opportunity to secure employment, and during the same time that he had had years of experience in logging in Michigan. He also claimed to be a carpenter, and asked one of the Mahans if he had any work for him to outfit up to the mountains on their next trip with provisions, at the same time offering to work for his passage.

To accommodate John Mahan took him to his headquarters and afterward introduced him to Mr. Kimble, foreman of the lumber company. He was refused employment, and was tolerated about the Mahan butcher shop for about a month. At the end of that time he returned home, riding one of the Mahan brothers' horses, and on the way he demanded wages for the entire time he had been out on the trip, and upon being refused declared he would not give up the horse he had ridden down.

After a fruitless effort to retrieve the animal, by Miller avoiding process, John Mahan and his brother, in the possession of the defendants, Farley also testified how the shoes worn by the two men fitted the tracks found in the yard at the warehouse.

The prosecution relied upon the evidence of Miller, assisted by circumstances, and in which the witness claimed to have chronicled the events of the trip to the mountains, and a description of all the cattle killed by the Mahan brothers while he was at their camp.

JURY STILL OUT.

No Verdict Yet Obtained in the Palmer Murder Case.

At 11 o'clock yesterday morning the jury in the Palmer case entered the room where Judge Catlin holds court, Judge Johnson being engaged at the time in the trial of a case in Department Two. Immediately afterward Judge Prewett entered followed by the defendant and counsel, and a crowd of people who had become aware that the jury had requested the Judge to be sent for, filed into the room.

As the jury entered the court-room, the grave, anxious look on their faces showed that they realized the great responsibility which has rested on them through the long, weary hours of their deliberations, and they were determined to do their duty faithfully according to their convictions.

Judge Prewett asked the jury if they had agreed upon a verdict, and M. J. Bannon answered that they had not, and that they had decided to ask for information from his honor on some points to be considered by them regarding insanity, the presumption as to guilt or innocence, and "reasonable doubt."

The Judge sent for the manuscript of his charge to the jury, and read those portions of it touching the points on which information was asked, going over the ground very fully.

At a late hour last night all was quiet about the Courthouse, and Judge Prewett had gone to his hotel. It was not thought the jury would come to any agreement during the night.

As usual there were rumors about the city as to how the jury stood. One was that they were looking for conviction and two for acquittal. The Sheriff's officers state, however, that nobody knows anything about the standing of the jury.
