

HAWAIIAN ADVICES.

Great Rejoicing at Honolulu Over Harrison's Message.

BELIEF THAT THE ISLANDS WILL SOON BE ANNEXED.

Salvors on Board an American Bark Plot to Murder the Officers, When They Calculated on Fitting the Vessel Out for a Piratical Cruise—The Second Mate Brained With a Hatchet and His Body Cast Overboard.

[Correspondence of the Associated Press.] HONOLULU, March 1.—The early part of the present week witnessed scenes of much enthusiasm in Honolulu, and the stars and stripes were probably more generally displayed than at any time in Hawaiian history.

The arrival of the steamship China from San Francisco on Monday, February 20th, followed by that of the Anstralia, February 22d, brought intelligence that caused great satisfaction to the Provisional Government and the American party in the islands on the first-named date, when it became known that President Harrison and his Cabinet had decided upon a favorable course in regard to the disposition of the islands. Excited throngs gathered about the mail docks, the Postoffice and news-stands, and discussed the information received with much ardor.

The prompt action of the administration in the matter was warmly commended by the American and respective party affiliations, as well as by many German residents and of the more intelligent natives.

The scene, however, was nothing like that of February 22d, when the Australia brought news that a message from President Harrison providing for a treaty of annexation of the islands had gone to the Senate; and that, as far as the American government was concerned, the islands were probably a part of the United States when the Australia arrived.

The day was the anniversary of the birth of Washington and was being observed as a general holiday. The streets were filled with natives and others in their best attire. Flags were floating from many buildings and from the vessels in the harbor, the whole forming in the bright sunlight a pretty setting.

On board the United States flagship Mohican Admiral Skeritt and staff were holding a reception and hither came all of the prominent personages of Honolulu, exclusive of the more pronounced royalists.

An Associated Press dispatch from Washington, announcing the receipt of the annexation message by the Senate was shown to the Admiral and Captain Wilke and to President Dole, Minister of Finance Jones and others of the Provisional Government. It proved to be the latest intelligence received and a dispatch was handed about and read with many expressions of satisfaction.

At the close of last week a rumor was current in the streets of Honolulu that the Senate would not ratify the treaty of annexation and it is stated that several wagers were made that the queen would come again to the throne.

Several members of the Advisory Council, discussing the rumor, said that if the United States should refuse to take action it would drive the Provisional Government to again take up arms. Said one of them: "We fought to obtain the ground we have secured, and we will fight to maintain it. There are five million persons at least in this country who would be instantly deported if trouble again arose, and there are a number of others who would be taken out and hanged to a tree and shot."

When asked if overtures would be made to other powers if the United States chose to decline to accept the propositions of the Hawaiian Commissioners, the Councilors replied that they might be compelled to apply elsewhere if the United States forces were withdrawn.

In this connection it may be stated as a bit of history not generally known that good authority has it that the raising of the American flag over the Government was forced upon Minister Stevens and President Dole by the action of the British Minister in writing a letter the previous day demanding the withdrawal of the Boston's forces. The Provisional Government, it is stated, recognized their inability to cope with the queen's party without the assistance of the blue jackets, and a hasty consultation determined them that the only course to be taken was to declare an American protectorate, in which the Minister acquiesced.

Several squabbles between sailors from the British warship Garnet and those from the Boston and Mohican occurred about ten days ago, resulting in a number of arrests. Captain Witze, of the Boston, and Captain Ludlow, of the Mohican, promptly went further trouble by declining to allow any more men to go ashore, which order was rescinded last Saturday.

The commander of the Garnet, Captain Hughes Hallet, asked permission on February 16th to land a body of men from the Garnet, on the ground that the English residents desired further protection. His request, however, was denied. The squad which has been parading in front of the Queen's residence at Washington Place was withdrawn yesterday by the Provisional Government.

The Japanese cruiser Nanwa, after which the United States cruiser Charleston was modeled, arrived in port unexpectedly on the 23d of February, making, in addition to the Kongo, Garnet, Boston, Mohican and Alliance, six men-of-war in port.

MUTINOUS SEAMEN. Plot to Murder Officers of an American Bark—The Second Mate Killed.

HONOLULU, March 8.—The American bark Hesper, Captain J. F. Sodergren, arrived here February 21st with an account of a mutiny on January 13th, which resulted in the death of the Second Mate, M. Fitzgerald.

The Hesper left Newcastle, N. S. W., on December 22d with a cargo of coals for San Francisco. The plot was hatched by Thomas Leclair, Herman Sparf, Hans Hansen, Thomas Green and Edward Larsen to murder the Captain, First and Second Mates, the cook and a Greek sailor, and then run the vessel either to China or the Chilean coast, sell the cargo and fit the bark out for a piratical cruise.

On the night of January 13th Leclair hid himself amidships, and as Mate Fitzgerald passed him he sprang on him, striking him a blow on the back of the head with a hatchet. The mate fell, but Leclair struck at him until his victim ceased to struggle. Sparf and Hansen joined him and proposed to throw the mate's body overboard. Leclair wanted first to call the Captain and dispatch him, and on the other two refusing, he went off alone. Sparf and Hansen then threw the mate's body overboard. Leclair told the man on watch at the wheel to call the Captain, but the latter refused to do so. Shortly after midnight First Mate Lucas went to Captain Sodergren's cabin and told him the Second Mate was not to be found. The two went on deck where they were joined by the carpenter. Search resulted in their finding the deck covered with blood.

Captain Sodergren learned from seaman Thomas Green that the latter had been asked by Leclair and others to assist in throwing the Captain overboard. The latter ordered the men's arrest. The bark was headed for Tahiti. While on the way there Green and Larsen attempted to release the other men, without success.

When the Hesper reached Tahiti, the five men were taken before United States Consul Doty. Sparf and Hansen confessed, which Leclair also did finally. The five men were sent to jail to remain until the bark Tropic Bird left for San Francisco on February 14th, when they were to be taken there for trial.

A SHAKE-UP IN NEW YORK.

THE PEOPLE EXPERIENCE A SEISMIC CONVULSION.

The Shock Very Perceptible in the Empire City and at Long Island City.

Spectacle to the RECORD-UNION. NEW YORK, March 8.—As no explosion of any sort was reported in this vicinity last night, it is generally agreed that this city experienced a shock of earthquake. The time was just after 12:30 o'clock. The shock was felt as far down-town as Ninth street and up-town as far as Eighty-fifth.

The houses at the latter were violently shaken and householders awakened. The disturbance began with a low rumbling, followed by a jar like an underground explosion, succeeded by a prolonged rumbling, which apparently passed southeast to the northwest. The shock was very distinct on West Fifty-fourth street. At the Meteorological Station, Central Park, the shock was not observed. There are no seismic instruments there.

SEVERE AT LONG ISLAND.

LONG ISLAND CITY (L. I.), March 8.—All Long Island seems to have felt what is supposed to have been an earthquake at 12:30 this morning. At Long Island City the shock was especially severe, in many instances shaking the pictures from the walls and creating havoc among the chinaware and bric-a-brac. At several points people fled in terror from their homes, and the streets in many places were filled with the terrified and homeless.

On board the United States flagship Mohican Admiral Skeritt and staff were holding a reception and hither came all of the prominent personages of Honolulu, exclusive of the more pronounced royalists.

THE WESTERN UNION.

General Thomas T. Eckert Chosen President of the Company.

NEW YORK, March 8.—General Thomas T. Eckert was chosen President and General Manager of the Western Union. The usual quarterly dividend was declared, and lengthy resolutions eulogistic of the late President, Dr. Norvin Green, were adopted.

General Eckert was born at St. Clairsville, Ohio, in 1825. He learned telegraphy in 1849, beginning at the bottom of the ladder, and made such a reputation for ability in that field that at the breaking out of the war he was summoned to Washington to take charge of the Department of military telegraph of the Department of the Potomac, with the rank of Captain.

In 1862 he was promoted to the rank of Major, and given charge of the military telegraph at Washington. In 1864 he was chosen Assistant Secretary of War and afterward made Brigadier-General. He resigned his Secretaryship to accept the position of Eastern Superintendent of the Western Union.

In 1875 he was President of the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Company. He organized the American Union Telegraph Company with Jay Gould in 1879.

In 1881 Mr. Gould became the largest owner in both companies and consolidation followed, which made General Eckert General Manager of the Western Union Company. He is regarded as the most vigorous, straightforward and able practical telegraph man of the day.

A MILITIA OFFICER IN TROUBLE.

Colonel Streator Charged With Drunkenness and Assault.

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—Captain Thurber Brazier, commanding the battalion of State Fencibles in this city, has forwarded to General Robert F. Dechert of the First Brigade four charges against Lieutenant-Colonel Streator of the Tenth Regiment, because of the latter's improper conduct at Washington on Saturday. The charges are: First—Conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman. Second—Drunkenness. Third—Assault on an officer. Fourth—Inciting to riot. Streator is the officer who ordered Private Iams to be strung up by the thumbs at Homestead last summer.

BOATING GOSSIP.

Prospect of an International University Race. BOSTON, March 8.—The only thing to prevent a match this year between the winner of the Oxford-Cambridge University race and the winner of the Harvard-Yale University race is the possible refusal of the victorious English crew to come to this country to row, for Harvard and Yale have combined and sent a challenge to the English University. If the English crews consent to come, the place and other arrangements can easily be made. No doubt great pressure will be made to have the race rowed at Chicago during the fair, but Yale and Harvard managers will do all in their power to have the race rowed at New London, over the course of the annual Harvard-Yale four-mile contest.

Reception to Jim Corbett. KANSAS CITY, March 8.—Champion James Corbett was tendered a reception on "Change-to-day" by the members of the Board of Trade, operations being suspended for that purpose. In acknowledging his reception, Corbett departed from the usual custom of champion pugilists and made no reference to himself as a fighter or matters of that character. The members of the board will attend his play in a body this evening.

CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE.

Assembly Bill No. 586, regulating the practice of architecture, was read third time. By the provisions of the bill architects are required to serve five years as apprentices. Several speeches were made for and against the bill. It failed of passage by vote of 22 yeas to 35 noes. Mr. Curtis gave notice of reconsideration.

The vote whereby Senate Bill No. 284, to amend the Civil Code relating to the authentication of marriages, was refused passage, was reconsidered and further consideration made by special order for this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Assembly Bill No. 614, for the relief of J. F. Chapman & Co., for damage sustained through the loss of coal from Fremont Street wharf, in San Francisco, was read second time and ordered to a third reading.

Assembly Bill No. 300, relative to the better protection of fish placed in streams for the purpose of propagation, was read second time. The bill was without an evening clause, and the Assembly refused to insert one by an almost unanimous vote.

Assembly Bill No. 63, relating to estates, was read third time and finally passed.

Assembly Bill No. 74, to establish a uniform system of county and township government, was read first time.

The Assembly adopted a resolution requesting the Secretary of State to provide eighty-one copies of "Winfield Davis' History of the State Conventions" for members of the Assembly.

Assembly Bill No. 578, in relation to warrants drawn upon the swamp and overflowed lands, was read third time and finally passed.

Assembly Bill No. 630, requiring every corporation doing business in this State to pay their employees at least once in each month the wages earned by such employee; to define the duties of the Labor Commissioner, and the District Attorneys of the several counties to fix a penalty enforcing this Act; to limit the detentions which may be set up by such corporations to assignments of wages, set-off, or other claims, and to provide for the disposition of any fines recovered from corporations violating the same, was finally passed.

Assembly Bill No. 663, to regulate the practice of veterinary medicine and surgery in the State of California, was read third time. The bill requires that veterinary practitioners shall be graduates of some recognized college, and applies only to towns and cities having over 2,000 population. The bill was passed by a vote of 61 yeas to 5 noes.

Assembly Bill No. 246, to enfranchise the women citizens of this State, and prescribing their qualifications as electors, was read third time.

Mr. Sims, the "young man eloquent" of the Senate, made a strong speech against the bill, highly eulogizing woman.

Mr. Mann believed that if women were enfranchised the politics of the State would be perverted.

Mr. McElroy moved to indefinitely postpone the matter, but the House refused to do so by a vote of 29 yeas to 39 noes.

The bill was slightly amended and ordered to the printer.

Whittier Reform School, was read second time and ordered to a third reading.

Senate Bill No. 528 was substituted for Assembly Bill No. 630, to enfranchise the women citizens of this State, and prescribing their qualifications as electors, and ordered to a third reading.

Crusading Diaries. The earliest of the crusading diaries is that of Sewulf, in 1023 A. D. He was an Anglo-Saxon merchant of Worcester, who in the old age became a monk in the Abbey of Malmesbury. He set out from Bari on an unucky, or as he calls it, "an Egyptian day" the 13th of July, do wrecked, but finally reached Jaffa, after passing Corinth, Smyrna, Rhodes and Cyprus. At this time the seas were full of vessels of war and of trade, "doctors, gamblers, cats" and "busses"; and at Jaffa he describes a terrible storm and general shipwreck, from which he escaped by going early on land. He is the first to speak of the Palmers, so called from the palms which they bought in Jerusalem, in Palmer street, near the Cathedral of the Holy Sepulcher, which was then just beginning to be built on its present plan, being mainly Norman workmanship throughout.

Not long after Sewulf, Sigurd, King of Norway, came to Palestine in 1107 A. D.—and, as William of Tyre tells us, was present at the siege of Beyrout in 1104 A. D. The saga, describing his adventures, does not, however, contain much of interest, and the travels of the Russian Abbot Daniel between 1106 and 1125 A. D., as variously dated, are more important. The Russians had only become Christians about the close of the tenth century, and pilgrims began to come from Russia about the year 1075. The Abbot Daniel came from the Province of Tchernigov, in Little Russia, and compares the Jordan to the river Sior in that province. He was astonished at the ruggedness of the Syrian Mountains—no doubt, as contrasted with the plains of Southern Russia.

He is not conspicuous for an accurate knowledge of Scripture, and makes several new and curious mistakes, confusing the narrative of Deuteronomy and Joshua and making Saul the "King of Judah." He is the first to mention the covenant of the cross west of Jerusalem, the center of all those famous legends of the Middle Ages, which trace the ruggedness of the Syrian Mountains—no doubt, as contrasted with the plains of Southern Russia.
