

LELAND STANFORD JR. UNIVERSITY.

Large Increase of Students Over the Roll of Last Year.

Interesting Facts as Shown by the Register for the Year—Teachers, Course of Study, Etc.

The Register of the Leland Stanford Jr. University, which has just appeared, contains 144 pages, and is considerably larger than the Register for last year. The whole number of students registered for the present year is 764, an increase of 205 over the preceding year. The distribution of students is interesting. Of the whole number 467 are from California, and 134 from States east of the Mississippi. It is interesting to note that the increase about 50 per cent. comes from States outside of California, and the contingent of Eastern students is likely to increase at an even more rapid rate in the future.

The distribution of students among major subjects is also interesting. English leads the list, with 178; mechanical engineering has the next largest number, 68; history, 65; civil engineering, 63; physiology, 51; Latin, 49; economics, 37; mathematics, 34; chemistry, 30; romance languages, 27; German, 25; education, 23; zoology, 17; drawing, 15. The number of major subjects in a subject, however, does not fairly show the work in the different departments, and a table is given showing the different number of students in the various departments; also, the total registration in all classes of the various departments; thus, in English, with only 178 major students, 446 students are taking work in that department, and the total registration in all English classes is 739. Thirty-two students are taking Greek, 19 Latin; 257, German; 255, romance languages; 70, psychology; 41, education; 21, history; 85, economics; 25, mathematics; 94, physics; 74, chemistry; 345, physical training; 108, drawing.

The number of graduate students is 69, of whom 31 are properly graduate students in the sense of doing graduate work. This is an increase over last year of 23. Considering that there is no fellowships or scholarships, this is an exceedingly good showing.

The teaching force of the university is classified as follows: Professors, 35; Associate Professors, 7; Assistants, 15; Instructors, 15; Assistants, 8; 1 non-resident Lecturer, or a total of 78. There are, in addition, ten other officers, connected with the administration.

The library now shows a total of 15,000 volumes and 4,000 pamphlets, or an increase of 7,000 volumes and 1,000 pamphlets since the entrance of the last Register, in June, 1892.

Several important additions in the departments and courses of instruction are noteworthy.

In Greek, an additional instructor and several new courses have been added.

In Latin, the work required in entrance subject 24 will also be offered in the university, thus providing for a large class who offer only subjects 22-23 at entrance, but who wish to go on with Latin in the university.

A new Department of Archeology has been added. This will be in charge of Associate Professor Miller, and the work of the department will center in the study of Mrs. Stanford's collections of ancient art, which will be placed in the museum during the summer.

In English the courses do not differ materially from those offered last year. English I, the elementary course in English composition, drops out, the work in that course being now practically required for entrance. Additional courses in the art of writing have been added.

The department of ethics is entirely new. Six courses will be offered by Professor Griggs, covering a considerable variety of work, including an introduction to the study of ethics, spiritual teachers of the nineteenth century, ethical literature of the Bible, the evolution of ethical conduct and ethical ideas, seminary in study of ethics and ethical problems.

ent no certificates will be accepted in place of the entrance examinations in this subject. The next entrance examinations will be held May 25th, 26th and 27th.

AMUSEMENTS

To-night, this afternoon and to-morrow night, the last performances of "Little Muffets" at the Clunie Opera-house by the New York Stock Company. It is a delightful, witty play, and full of song, life, vivacity and good specialty acting.

Monday night the New York Stock Company will produce "Around the World," with the heaviest cast the company has shown. Manager Bailey will appear in his original German-dialect part.

It may be accepted without question that the local amusement public will warmly welcome the appearance at the Metropolitan Theater to-night of the famous Bostonians, the representative exponents of opera comique in America. The engagement marks the last appearance of a company here for at least three years, and is as rare as a night owl. The Koven and Smith's delightful "Robin Hood" is the bill. It need hardly be recalled that throughout the country this piece has been declared a work of very superior merit, both musically and in the faithful manner in which the old story of "Robin Hood" is reproduced. It is possible not only to do well, but very well, and not only very well, but very much better than any other company would seem to do in the Bostonians. They have not only achieved success, and not only very great success, but very much greater than any other company in the country. Karl and Macdonald early turned their attention to native authors and composers. The Koven and Smith had written but one work, "The Begum," when the Bostonians gave them a commission for an opera. This resulted in "Don Quixote," which was played for a season, and was followed by "Robin Hood," which has proved the most enduring success among the many works of American origin. Besides, the Bostonians have encouraged composers and authors in other quarters, and have now, we are told, a number of new works of American origin. The Bostonians have not only a number of new works of American origin, but they have also exercised unusual care in the presentation of their operas. Every accessory of their operas, from the costumes to the music, has been found in their productions, and this season they have approximated the double company standard in engaging a number of principal singers who are strengthened and have had the costume and scenic features have been polished and refined in every possible manner.

It is hardly to be expected that performances of such a class, involving such great outlay of money, could be given at the ordinary prices. The Bostonians have found it necessary to make their ticket prices range from 50c to $2. They frankly state that it is impossible to maintain the superiority of their representations at the regular prices paid comparatively inexpensive companies, as their expenditures are greater by three to one than the generalty of combinations.

At the Metropolitan Theater to-morrow (Sunday) night the spectacle "Candellina" by a new company, for the first time and composed of California actors, nearly thirty in number, with Ida Aubrey and Gertrude, Miss Belmont as Florida, Miss Julia Blanc as Florida, Morris Stewart as Pedro, the low-comedy part, Leandro and Stack, performers on the ordinary stage, and the comedians, Will and Lillie, a double wire walker, Little Irene, the serpentine dancer, and a number of other specialties, are offered on a hundred pieces in all, a jeweled coach and a pair of Shetland ponies, Little Harry Belmont as coachman. Meeting reception Monday night, a grand number are introduced, and the fairy story is told accurately, according to the good old tradition. There is a grand transfiguration scene in the act, in which the acts Alzada, the necromancer, appears in a special scene. The company leaves here Monday afternoon for a tour through the Mississippi Valley and will return to Sacramento next fall. Mr. Holden, the manager, says the purpose is to prove that as good and rich and well-acted a fairy spectacle can be gotten up on this coast as in the East.

The second announcement of the Reményi concert for the benefit of the School of Design appears this morning. Seats are being reserved rapidly at Fournell's bookstore. The Boston Herald recently said: "No violinist now before the public can compare with Reményi as a player for all classes. His command of the theory and technique of his art is unsurpassed. He entertains the patron of the larger school of popular music adherents, and all people are won by his music when he stands before an audience and yields his magic bow. Many of the invited guests for the Art Gallery reception Monday night also desire to hear Reményi and his troupe. It has been ascertained that the reception will not begin until 8:30, and that it will continue in the concert hall, or 12 midnight, so that it will be entirely feasible to hear Reményi and still have an hour and a half at the reception."

Y. W. C. A. Notes. A photograph of the Young Women's Christian Association rooms was taken this week by J. R. Hodson, and the picture, together with printed matter, will be sent to the World's Fair. A number of the members of the association presented the young women with a handsome case. An association quarterly meeting will be held at the rooms next Wednesday evening at which the Chairman of committees will report.

The meeting for women will be held to-morrow by Miss Minnie Landis, the subject being "An Answer to a Question." Mrs. Clara Parsons closed a very successful term of cooking lessons yesterday. Many practical lessons have been given, and this branch of learning may be continued next fall. The vocal music class, with Miss Belle Carrington as teacher, is being well attended.

Found in the River. Amaro J. Terra, a Portuguese, was drowned in the Sacramento River above Isleton on Tuesday, April 6th. Diligent search was made for the body, but it was not found until Monday last, when C. K. Davis discovered it in front of his ranch a short distance from where the drowning occurred. So states the Rio Vista News.

Died of His Injuries. The particulars of the accident to Andrew S. Drumgold were given in the Record-Union yesterday. The unfortunate young man remained unconscious until an early hour yesterday morning, when he passed quietly away, death resulting from concussion of the brain.

IN THE COURTS.

Facts and Fancies of Some Interest to Litigants.

The Chesley & Co. Estate Matter Still Unsettled—A Potato Sult—Matters in Probate.

George F. Bronner has filed in the Superior Court his amended complaint in his suit as receiver and trustee of the partnership of George W. Chesley & Co. against Louis Elkus and William H. Jones.

The complaint recites the fact of his appointment as receiver in place of William H. Jones, and his authority to wind up the affairs of the partnership and collect and distribute the proceeds.

It also recites the fact that George W. Chesley, George F. Wiseman and William H. Jones entered into partnership on June 1, 1889, the two latter having each one-eighth interest in the business, and that George W. Chesley sold and transferred all his stock and business to G. W. Chesley & Co., the other two members giving him their notes each for $7,250 00.

Also, that in 1890 George F. Wiseman died, and in 1891 the surviving partners without authority assigned the property of the firm in trust to Louis Elkus, to wind up the business of the partnership, and that Elkus took possession of the property and sold some and retained the balance.

It further alleges that Chesley died, and Jones allowed the assignment to remain in full force and effect and Elkus collected, as plaintiff is informed, about $40,000.

He therefore prays that the assignment be declared null and void and the defendant account for the money collected by him under the assignment.

D. E. Alexander and E. I. Robinson have filed in the Superior Court an intervention in the suit of George Wittenbrock vs. William H. Cass and others, alleging that they are the owners of the property in question, on which Wittenbrock holds a mortgage, and asking that it be sold and Wittenbrock's claim and costs, but no attorneys' fees, and that the residue, if any, be paid to them.

THAT FURNITURE CASE. H. Weirich and T. Raschin, a part of the defendants in the suit of E. K. Aisip vs. the Sacramento Glass and Crockery Company and others, have filed a long and complex cross-complaint denying validity of Herzog's chattel mortgage on the ordinary prices. The Bostonians have found it necessary to make their ticket prices range from 50c to $2. They frankly state that it is impossible to maintain the superiority of their representations at the regular prices paid comparatively inexpensive companies, as their expenditures are greater by three to one than the generalty of combinations.

STRICTLY FANCY POTATOES. The defendants in the case of W. H. Wood & Co. vs. Crowell & Martin have filed in the Superior Court an answer to the complaint. They admit that they contracted with the plaintiffs for the delivery of two carloads of "strictly fancy Oregon Burbank potatoes," but that the plaintiffs furnished potatoes inferior to the sample. They therefore refused to take them, and asked that the plaintiffs be ordered to pay them $900 damages for non-fulfillment of contract.

CHARGE AGAINST AN INSOLVENT. R. B. Harmon, assignee of P. A. and C. Galgan, insolvent debtors, has filed an affidavit in the Superior Court that he is informed and believes that P. A. Galgan has collected $150 belonging to the estate, which he refuses to pay over. He therefore asks that Galgan be ordered to appear before the court to be examined.

FRED GEORGE'S PROPERTY. George F. Bronner has filed a petition in the Superior Court for letters of administration on the estate of Fred George, deceased, placing the value of the estate at $5,000. The hearing was set for May 5th. The third petition for letters on this estate, by E. L. George, the father, and R. D. Irvine, the guardian of the deceased, having also asked for them.

THE BOOTH ESTATE. The executors of the estate of Newton Booth, deceased, were yesterday ordered by Judge Johnson to pay to the Secretary of the Protestant Orphan Asylum $3,000. An order was also made granting the petition of Lucia Craft for the distribution to her of her legacy of $5,000, to be submitted to L. T. Hatfield for approval.

A RECLAMATION SUIT. John Miller of Walnut Grove and Howard K. Karchoff of Karchoff Island, with a number of others, are in the city attending the trial of the case of Reynolds vs. Parvin, which occupied Judge Catlin's court yesterday. The suit is to compel the payment by Parvin of money subscribed by him for pumping the water from the island.

SINON CASES. The defendants in the case of Laura Payne vs. Theodore Labhard and others have filed an answer in the Superior Court, denying that the value of the use of the property in controversy, by Frank Durrer, was more than $400, or that he damaged it in any amount.

Henry L. Walker, administrator of the estate of Otto Walker, deceased, has filed in the Superior Court a petition for an order to assign the estate to the widow and minor children. The hearing is set for May 5th.

Charles Studarus and M. C. Pike, appraisers of the estate of Mary A. Cox, deceased, have filed in the Superior Court their inventory and appraisement of the estate, which consists of eighty acres of land on the American River, valued at $4,400.

JOURNEYMEN BARBERS. They Elect Officers and Have a Pleasant Reunion. At a meeting of the Journeymen Barbers' Union, No. 68, on Thursday evening the following officers were elected: President, Edward Tamney; Vice-President, Louis Jeck; Recording Secretary, G. W. Harper; Financial Secretary, Wesley Best; Treasurer, George Comming.

After the officers were installed, President F. Fleming, in a neat speech, presented a set of resolutions commending the union.

story of George Comming, who responded in fitting terms. In return there was a surprise for the retiring President, Frank Fleming, when Ed Cornelius, in a neat and eloquent speech, presented him with a fine gold-headed cane on behalf of the members, as a token of their esteem for the many favors he had done the Journeymen Barbers' Union.

Under the direction of William Bruns, a splendid supper was spread in the hall, and to which the members did full justice. Speeches were made by Past President Ed. N. Stein, Charles McDonnell, Charles Retzler and songs rendered by M. Monish. Altogether the members of the union had a most enjoyable evening, and if butbers were scarce about the shops early yesterday morning, there was probably a good reason therefor.

THE CHORAL SOCIETY. Some Features of Its Entertainment.—A Musical Entertainment. The coming performance of "Behshazur," by the Choral Society, on Tuesday night, promises to be one of the foremost social as well as musical events of the season, and a fitting part of gala week. The associate members turned out in great numbers at the box-office yesterday, and if the general public follow suit this morning standing room will be at a premium. The entertainment is well promised for this, the first entertainment of the Choral Society's second year.

The work selected is not of a classical, but rather a popular nature. It is full of beautiful melodies, the orchestration is uniformly excellent, and in many numbers brilliant in the extreme. The solo parts are of the highest quality, and the local singers, and the choruses are sure to be up to the society's high standard. We append a list of the various numbers to be rendered to-night, noting meanwhile that the society is not conducted for gain, but for the laudable purpose of conserving musical tastes and developing local ability. Its first Tuesday night forms a part of the entertainment of gala week in Sacramento.

Act I.—Chorus, "By the Rivers we weep"; solo, "The Hebrews"; "Who shall abide"; recitative, "Ye men of Judah"; chorus, "The Voice of the Bridegroom"; chorus, with tenor obligato, "Oh God of our fathers"; recitative, "Hear ye the king's most mad decree"; aria, "Who knoweth but the time of Jehovah is near"; song and duo, "Home and Country"; recitative, "I love thee, recitative, "The king commands us"; aria, "Beam on him tenderly"; trio, "Father lead me by thy hand!"

Act II.—Song and trio, "Brightly gleaming"; song, "Let us be merry"; aria, "The dead lie strown"; song and recitative, "Brightly gleaming"; recitative, "Hear the voice of the king's chorus"; "To arise to arms"; recitative and air, "No light! no pain!"

Act III.—Duo, "The Hand of God is Heavy Laid"; "Dirge"; "The Star"; "Lo! Now the Bright Star"; Chorus finale, "We Will Give Thanks"; Chorus and recitative, "Hail to Behshazur"; recitative, "Hail to Behshazur"; Chorus of maidens, "Quick! Let Us the King's Command Obey"; chorus, with soprano obligato, "Sing With Care Away"; solos and chorus, "A Toast to our Beautiful Queen"; Quartet, "The Praises of Wine Have Been Sung"; Song and recitative, "We Let thee live Forever"; Air and chorus, "Art Thou That Daniel?"; recitative, "Thy Gifts Be to Thyself!"; Air and Scene, "O, Thou King!"; Aria, "The King's Song"; Finale, "Twas God Who Gave Command!"
