

AMID RURAL SCENES.

Native Sons and Daughters Visit the Foothills.

A Jolly Time at Folsom and Vicinity—The Big Dam and Prison Inspected.

The excursion of the members of the Grand and local parlors of Native Sons to Folsom yesterday was well planned and carried out by the joint committee.

There was no hitch in the arrangements, and the excursionists could not find any fault with the arrangements.

Shortly after 9:30 o'clock the Grand Parlor formed in front of the Capitol, under the eye of Marshal Louis Breuner, Grand Marshal Dinkenspiel of the Grand Parlor, and Assistant Marshal C. B. Brier and A. Doseh of Sacramento and Sunset Parlors.

When the train arrived at Folsom a large crowd was at the depot to receive it, and the Newcastles and discards were performed the avil chorus in thunderous sounds.

As the number were unable to obtain seats, it was estimated that about 800 people went up, and when they left the train, about a half-mile before the prison, it looked like a small army winding along the track which runs along the river bank.

The gay times of the ladies' dresses supplied the needed color to enliven the picture and formed a striking contrast to the rugged rocks which line the bank.

At the prison, the excursionists were visited and inspected, and elicited information at the manner the difficult work had been carried out and the fine machinery at the power-house.

Warden Ault met them here and cordially invited them to inspect the prison and grounds, and the road to the grinning building was soon filled with the excursionists.

The convicts had left the quarry only a short time before the arrival of the train, which was a disappointment to many who had hoped to see them at the quarry.

Streaming into the building the crowd soon filled the corridors, and the cells became the center of observation for hundreds of curious eyes that had never been in such a place before.

The dining-room and kitchen were visited, and many a wonder was expressed at the neatness and cleanliness pervading those departments, and compliments for the condition of the whole building were numerous.

The band had played while coming through the grounds, and now, while near the hall that led to the front entrance, they played a selection for the benefit of the prisoners, which they evidently appreciated, as they clapped their hands loudly for an encore.

Having finished their inspection of the prison, the excursionists would then way down through the well-kept grounds to the train and were soon on their way back to Folsom, where the ladies had been patiently awaiting them at the luncheon table for an hour and a half.

It was now nearly 2 o'clock, and the walk to the prison had sharpened their appetites. As snow melts away in the non-day sun, so did the beautiful provision made for them disappear from the tables amid appreciative speeches regarding the culinary proficiency of the Folsom ladies.

SOME SIDE FEATURES. The lunch being disposed of, the party dispersed through the town to see the sights and beauties they were acquainted with. Some of them ran across a saddle horse and a number took a ride up and down, but before long they conceived the idea of treating the excursionists to a real procession in return for their hospitality, and they did it in good style.

Grand Treasurer Martin of San Francisco is a Native Son, and presumably enjoys good health, as he weighs 350 pounds, more or less. His jolly, good-natured face and rotundity of person fitted him exceedingly well for the part of Bacchus, albeit he is an abstemious man, and for want of a cask the boys mounted him on the mule, putting a long rope round his neck, which they managed to use in the old-time days when the fire laddies "ran wild der masheen," and preceded by the united bands, and followed by a large number of enthusiastic and hilarious delegates, he moved in triumph up the principal street and down again, the observed of all observers.

After the procession, Stanford Parlor's "mascot," a small boy named Morris, with a remarkably good voice, treated the assembly to song and dance, the latter having arrived to return, the excursionists boarded the cars, arriving in the city about 5 o'clock.

DESSERT. Omelette Souffle a la Vanille. Roquefort. Oranges. Bananas. Bondou. Cognac. Gruyere. Bondou. Cognac. Cate Noir. Kirsch. Cognac.

AT SUTTER'S FORT. The Exercises This Afternoon on Historic Ground.

This afternoon will doubtless witness a very enlightening scene at Sutter's Fort, at Twenty-eighth and M streets, where interesting exercises will be held.

In these the Pioneers, Mexican Veterans, Native Sons, Native Daughters, National Guard and plain, ordinary citizens will all participate—more or less.

The same old cannon that peeped through the walls fifty years ago will be on duty there again to-day, after having been resurrected from various old burial-places.

The interesting scene will be a military aspect, with the four companies of the local military scattered about.

The Sutter Fort Commissioners and local patriots will make very complete arrangements for the entertainment of the visiting Native Sons and all who may attend.

At 4 o'clock the military and members of the local parlors will march from Army Hall to the State Capitol, where the members of the Grand Parlor will form in procession, and the column will then march out L street to the fort.

General Notes. The Humboldt delegates were very happy last night over their victory. They say that Eureka will give the next Grand Parlor a splendid reception, and show them one of the grandest portions of the State.

Joseph Bonquet of Piedmont Parlor of Oakland is an aspirant for Outside Sentinel of the Grand Parlor.

John F. Greaney of San Francisco is the most prominent candidate for grand president.

Some of the visitors were rather rusty see-tips last night, as the result of their outing yesterday in the foothills.

ORDER OF CHOSEN FRIENDS. The Banner Council Has Impressive Exercises and Festivities.

Approximately 500 hundred members of the order of Chosen Friends met at Pythian Castle last evening, the occasion being the presentation of a banner by the Grand Council of the order to Sacramento Council, No. 95, of this city.

The banner is the banner lodge of the order, boasting a membership of over 500.

Prior to the presentation ceremonies eighteen new members were initiated, and the Council has a large number of applications for membership under consideration.

The banner was one of rich and beautiful design, and the presentation was an impressive and interesting event throughout.

The following supreme officers and members from abroad were present: C. M. Arnold, Supreme Vice-Councilor; H. M. Collins, Assistant Supreme Vice-Councilor; Dr. L. R. Webster, Supreme Supervising Medical Examiner; D. Sevel, Supreme Representative; Dr. G. B. Clow, and many bright auguries for the future of our city were uttered by those whose habits of mind enabled them to grasp the situation fully.

AT THE PRISON. The dam and power-house were visited and inspected, and elicited information at the manner the difficult work had been carried out and the fine machinery at the power-house.

Warden Ault met them here and cordially invited them to inspect the prison and grounds, and the road to the grinning building was soon filled with the excursionists.

After the procession, Stanford Parlor's "mascot," a small boy named Morris, with a remarkably good voice, treated the assembly to song and dance, the latter having arrived to return, the excursionists boarded the cars, arriving in the city about 5 o'clock.

Folsom was decorated in honor of the event, and much pains had been taken with the hall, where many of the tired visitors found a comfortable resting-place. People had gathered from twenty miles around, and after the departure of the train the evening was devoted to dancing.

AN EVENING BANQUET. After the return to the city a number of the members of Sunset Parlor gave a banquet at the Masonic Temple to members of Fair Alto and Stanford Parlors. The natives did not linger long at the banquet, as the Grand Parlor was to hold an evening session, but the feast lasted it was certainly a very enjoyable affair. The menu was as follows:

Huitres de l'est sur Coquille. SOUP. Consommation Trasse. FISH. Filet de Turbot au Vin Blanc. RELIEVE. Crevettes a la Mayonnaise. Omelette Souffle, Sanceron de Lyon. ENTREES. Filet de Bouef aux Truffes. Soulet de Grain a la Financiere. Asperges au Beurre Fondu. ROTI. Selle d'Agneau, Sauce Menthie.

MEETING OF COMMITTEES. Enthusiastic and Business-Like Gathering of Progressive Citizens.

Arrangements Made for a Thorough Canvass of the City—Improvement Association Meetings.

The meeting of the committee appointed by the Citizens' Improvement Association at Pioneer Hall, last night, was attended by nearly all of the members appointed to the committees, which comprise many of the most prominent and progressive citizens of this city.

The earnest interest and enthusiasm manifested indicates that the work of the association is in able hands and its success insured.

The meeting was called to order by J. O. Coleman, who stated briefly in outline its objects.

The members proceeded to business without delay, upon a motion which carried, that public meetings be held in each of the nine wards of the city, to aid the canvassing committees in their work of securing signatures to the notes.

W. S. Sheehan moved that the meetings be held in each ward on separate evenings, commencing on Monday evening, and continuing nightly as might be agreed upon by the various committees present.

This opened a discussion, in which various suggestions were made by Colonel Gutrie, S. E. Carrington and others, in regard to the meetings.

On motion of A. Lubin, it was voted to reconsider the first motion, and that it be amended by further provisions.

James McGuire suggested that he thought it would be better to arrange for the meetings to each cover three wards, and have them all upon one evening.

C. F. Pearson made a motion that not more than two wards be covered by one meeting. This motion was amended so that the first meeting should comprise three wards, and be followed by a meeting for each of the other two wards as were most convenient to each other.

The question then came up as to the advisability of canvassing committees continuing their work prior to the meetings, and a general discussion of the subject followed.

H. L. Seymour thought the canvassing should be discontinued until after the meetings were held, inasmuch as it might not be found necessary to canvass thereafter, as signatures might be secured at the meetings.

A. Lubin thought differently, and said in his opinion it was best not to ask for signatures to an understanding, but to proceed with their work and keep adding to the list of signers, as those signing the notes would be interested in the meetings and their success would be assured.

Mr. Sheehan thought the object of the meetings was to get signatures to the notes, and that those desiring to should be permitted to sign them at the meetings. He thought it was better to already signed getting together to count noses and congratulate each other.

Mr. McGuire said he supposed the committees had met, and were arranging for the canvass of each ward, and agreed with Mr. Lubin that the best way to get signatures was by a thorough canvass.

Mr. Coleman said the object in hand was to agree upon the best way of working together for that object.

Mr. Carrington thought the work of canvassing should go on, and that the only meeting necessary would be a grand ratification meeting and jubilee.

Mr. Coleman suggested that Mr. Carrington was out of order, as it had already been decided by the body to hold the meetings in harmony and touch, and to convince them that the work was one of general interest to all alike. But aside from this he believed thorough house canvass was the method to pursue, more especially as the more cautious and conservative would not seek meetings to inform themselves.

The Chair then called upon members by name to express their opinions, and the sense of the meeting was that the canvass was important and should be continued without delay, and that the meetings would be important also in strengthening the canvass.

Mr. Sheehan held that the main object of the meeting was to get people together who had not signed the notes, and unless they did attend the meetings would accomplish little.

After considerable discussion Mr. Stephens made a motion that the committee be instructed to formulate their plans for a thorough canvass and that the meetings be held as proposed.

The motion carried, and Mr. Crouch moved that the meetings arranged for be, the first to be held on Monday evening, May 1st, and to include the Second, Third and Sixth Wards. This motion also carried and the Chair appointed James McGuire, Chairman of the joint committees of those wards, to arrange for and advertise the meeting.

The second meeting was set to include the First and Fourth Wards, and to be held Tuesday evening, May 2d. William Sears was appointed Chairman of the joint committees of the First and Fourth wards to arrange preliminaries.

The third meeting, to be held Wednesday evening, May 3d, at the Seventh and Ninth Wards, was fixed, and T. W. Sheehan appointed Chairman of the joint committees.

On Thursday evening, May 4th, the last meeting, to include the Fifth and Eighth Wards, will be held, W. D. Comstock, Chairman of the joint committees.

Various other minor arrangements were discussed, and on motion it was voted the Chair appoint one member from each ward committee to meet for the purpose of organization.

Those appointed to this committee were as follows: Frank Miller, H. B. Nielsen, and J. O. Coleman.

BRAND'S DELICIOUS Flavoring Extracts. NATURAL FRUIT FLAVORS. Of perfect purity. Of great strength. Economy in their use. Flavor as delicately and deliciously as the fresh fruit.

W. F. Knox, Jr., Daniel Flint, Herman Steinman, J. W. Wilson, C. T. Barton, J. Popert and T. W. Sheehan.

Numerous suggestions were made for the proper ordering of the exercises in hand and several speeches followed.

The Chairman expressed himself highly gratified with the enthusiastic response made to the call for this meeting by the committees appointed by him, and believed success in the objects worked for so earnestly and unanimously was in a great measure assured.

After the adjournment of the meeting various members of the committees held a conference.

ORCHESTRAL CONCERT. A Fine Performance by the Standard Orchestra.

The Standard Orchestra, a new organization of this city, gave an orchestral concert at the Congregational Church last night. The church was well filled and the performance was most pleasing, judging from the repeated indications of their satisfaction, for nearly every piece received an encore.

The orchestra is composed of young men belonging to the city, and their performance shows good musical talent, coupled with faithful and conscientious practice.

One excellent feature of the programme, and one which our theater would give favor with their patrons by enforcing, was the announcement that the doors would remain closed during the numbers.

It is a first-rate arrangement and debars those who have no regard for the enjoyment of others from making themselves nuisances by coming in and taking their seats after a selection or an act has begun.

The following programme was rendered: Overture, "Belle of the Village" (Bouillon); the orchestra; tenor solo, "In Happy Moments" (Maritani); George E. Lester; cornet solo, "Maggie Carter" (Missud); S. B. Nourse, with orchestral accompaniment; soprano solo, "Waiting" (Millard); Miss Lida Clinch; "Adagio del Passato" (No. 1); E. J. Beyer, with String Quartet; "Concert waltzes, 'Remembrances of Naples' (Benetti); "Florian" (Gardner); "Addie Carter" (Missud); "The Vagabond"; A. Hart; trombone solo, "Friendship Polka" (Harris); C. Jones, Jr., with orchestral accompaniment; "The Vagabond"; "Little Corinne" (Barnard); the orchestra.

BRIEF NOTES.

The boys play about as much attention to the order against ball-playing on the streets as if it had never been given.

H. H. Love has arrived from Los Angeles, and has opened the office of the Earl Fruit Company at No. 111 K street.

On Sunday at Roulter's Station George Boyd, youngest son of Mrs. J. J. Boyd, was thrown from a colt he was riding and had his arm broken.

On Monday night, Com. Mooney, the veteran San Francisco sport, who was here on one of his occasional visits, got into a row with Homer Buckman, of the Del Paso saloon, and got much the worst of the collision.

A guard at the Folsom Prison, named O'Brien, dropped his pistol on Monday night and one cartridge exploded. The bullet split on the stone wall and one piece caromed on the side of O'Brien's head, but did not hurt him much.

Frank J. Kessel and Frank Pierce, of the Monterey, California sport, who yesterday with their wives, accompanied by Mrs. J. J. Boyd, were on their way to the World's Fair. They will make parts of the journey by wheel, occasionally patronizing the railroad trains.

Thus far about 1,000 Chinese have applied for registration in this revenue district, of whom about 100 belong in this city. This of course means, practically, a refusal by the Chinese to obey the law. The time for registering will expire on the 1st of May. Then look out for fun.

The Mrs. Laphams who is under arrest in San Francisco for poisoning the newborn baby of Lottie Watson, one of her patients, is said to be the "Madame Bell" who sent a letter to the police, and advertised herself as a fortune-teller. While here she was generally in a "lush" condition.

THERE are Sarsaparillas and Sarsaparillas, but if you are not careful in your purchase, you may get a Sarsaparilla that will only be intensified. Be sure you get Ayer's Sarsaparilla and no other. It is compounded from the Honduras root and other highly concentrated alternatives.

Malaria. Malaria and chills and fever are due to the inhalation of water vapors and gases arising from decayed vegetation. The humid Spring and Autumn months find it the worst. It infests both city and country. The victim is continually tired, and worn out, has no energy, is subject to aches and pains in the back and limbs, and is perspiring profusely. Rev.
