

A HORRIBLE FATE.

Two Chinamen Near Galt Roasted in Their Beds.

They Are Believed to Have Been Stuffed from the Effects of Opium Smoking.

A telephone message to the RECORD-UNION from Galt yesterday stated that at an early hour in the morning a fire occurred in a building occupied by Chinese on a ranch not far from there, and that two of the occupants were burned to death.

It was understood that the men who perished had been smoking opium and otherwise indulging during the night, and were probably so stupefied from the effects thereof that they could not be aroused.

Corner George Clark went to the place yesterday to hold an inquest on the bodies.

LATER—FULL PARTICULARS. Corner Clark, it seems, will hold the inquest this morning. After the above was in type, and at a late hour last night, he sent the following dispatch to the RECORD-UNION:

"The young son of W. T. Davies, who resides three miles southeast from Galt, this morning, about 7 o'clock, saw smoke coming from a clump of pear trees about half a mile from his father's residence.

"He immediately mounted a horse and hastened to the spot, and discovered a house and barn used by Chinamen burned to the ground.

"He went back and informed his father, who returned with him, and upon investigation found the remains of Ah Dun, aged 48 years, and Ah Oak, aged 60 years, lying on their backs in the ruins where the kitchen stood.

"Both bodies were terribly burned, and presented a sickening sight.

"The house and barn were rented from Mr. Davies, together with a few acres adjoining by the Chinamen. Both are well known in this vicinity, having lived here for nine years. They were vegetable peddlers.

"A number of persons in Galt saw the blaze last night, about 12 o'clock, but thought it was a brush fire.

"From the circumstances it looks as if the Chinamen were under the influence of liquor or opium, or possibly were asleep when the fire started, as they were close to the oven or fire in the kitchen, and apparently made no effort to escape.

"Will hold an inquest on the bodies in the morning."

COUNTRY SCHOOLS.

Promotions Made by the County Board of Education.

The County Board of Education met on Saturday, all the members being present, to examine papers from the country schools. The following promotions were made:

Freeport District, Miss Sadie M. McDermitt, teacher—From seventh to eighth grade, Robert Downer, 70 per cent; Willie Rogers, 80; Amos Lowell, 70; Samuel Rodgers, 77.

Elk Grove, Mrs. Mabel Leimbach, teacher—From eighth to ninth, Sutton Cottrill, 85 per cent.

Victory District, Miss Rose M. Clark, teacher—From eighth to ninth grade, Eva Kerr, 77 per cent.

The board decided to hold the examination of competitors for the honor of being one of the twenty pupils to be sent from the State to the World's Columbian Exposition by the San Francisco Examiner to-morrow and Wednesday, at the Perry Summery building, beginning at 8:30 A. M. sharp.

"Columbus and Columbia" was placed on the library list.

DREW WILL TRY AGAIN.

Defeated by Rodgers' Demurrer, He Files Amended Complaint.

The demurrer of John B. Rodgers to the complaint of Warren Drew, who asks that Rodgers be ousted from the office of Chief of Police, and that it be given to him, was argued before Judge Catlin, and in reference to the statement in the complaint that in proceeding in the Superior Court, entitled M. M. Drew vs. John B. Rodgers, a judgment of the court was rendered, whereby the election of Rodgers was annulled, and his certificate of election was canceled and set aside.

W. H. Devin, attorney for Rodgers, made the point that the judgment was uncertain, in that the date of the judgment was not averred; and, also, that it was not averred that the judgment was now in full force and effect, and further, that the complaint was ambiguous and uncertain in other respects.

Judge Catlin held that the objections were well taken, and granted the demurrer, and gave the relator, Drew, ten days in which to answer.

In the afternoon Drew filed an amended complaint, covering the points declared weak in the first complaint.

KING WINS HIS SUIT.

The City Cannot Enforce Penalties Specified in a Contract.

Justice Dwyne rendered a decision Saturday in the street-sprinkling suit of Antonio King against the city, in favor of the plaintiff.

King was fined by Street Commissioner Green several times last summer, and other contractors who were similarly fined assigned their claims to him. He paid $250 and received a judgment for $200 and costs, and then he walked along way, too. When I got to Jersey City I didn't have a cent, so I sneaked on one of the big boats that take people across the river, and then I was here.

"I soon got to the crowds and noise so they didn't bother me. But I had had a hard time, I could hardly get any one to give me a cent, used to walk along the river and ask men working there to give me things out of their pockets, but they didn't want to. They were a good deal better to me than the ones who looked rich.

"Then I heard there was a circus in town, I made up my mind to try and get work there, but they didn't want to. They said I was too small. I stayed around the Madison Square Garden and looked for a job, but they didn't want to. I used to sleep on the piles of straw and hay around the tent. I was sleeping when they found me and locked me up.

"Now I'm here in New York, and I'm getting on my feet, so that he could see how long I've got to stay here, and if you are going to lock me up before I go much farther."

"The boy is very bright, but his clothes are a sight. His hair has not been cut for months. All the buttons are of his own making. He has no vest and his trousers have fringes. He says he has a father and mother in Sacramento. His father does whatever he can get, he says, but has no regular occupation.

McMullen, New York; H. McWilliams, Kansas City; M. Cunningham, Stockton; F. Kingwell, S. C. Mastick, M. Petris, San Francisco; S. Van Meter, F. H. Short, J. P. Menx, Fresno.

THESE SEALED APPLICATIONS.

The Advisory Board Conclude That They Are Not Valid.

Lawyers A. L. Hart of this city, Byron Waters of San Diego and E. S. Pillsbury of San Francisco, who recently consented to act as an Advisory Board to Surveyor-General Reichert in the matter of lieu land applications, and before whom arguments were made a couple of weeks ago, have agreed upon a decision.

They give it as their opinion that the applications locked up in General Reichert's safe are not valid applications for lieu land.

While these gentlemen were making up their minds the RECORD-UNION took this matter up to a real court, however, which is the court of public opinion. General must review the contents of these documents, whatsoever they may be.

BATTLING BRADYS.

They Had One of Their Regular Sunday Fights Yesterday.

George Brady appeared at the police station last night bleeding from a bad cut under one of his eyes, and wanted a warrant for the arrest of his assailant.

According to an officer's statement, the Bradys, who live between Eighth and Ninth, P and Q streets, were having one of their customary high-jinks entertainments yesterday.

AMUSEMENTS.

Among the many old English melodramas that have achieved a marked success, "The Lancashire Lass" stands in the front rank. Its European run was extraordinary and its American presentations have always met with public favor.

This is doubtless due to the many strong characters necessary to its presentation. The piece is in a prologue and four acts, and the dramatic climaxes to each are exceptionally strong. The full company is a well known and equally well known troupe, and the play is a well known and equally well known play.

Seats for Carrie Rudolph's entertainment for the benefit of the Humane Society can be obtained to-day at Furnell's bookstore without extra charge.

LITTLE PAUL.

A Sacramento Kid Who Set Out to See the World.

How He Worked His Way Across the Continent and Fell Into Hands of the Police.

The New York police have in custody a 14-year-old boy named Philip O'Neill, who says he ran away from his home in this city about four months ago and worked his way across the continent as he usually does. He says his father's name is Frank O'Neill, a machinist, residing at 620 Sixteenth street, in this city.

SAYS HE RAN AWAY. A late press telegram from New York concerning this kid tourist states that he was found hanging around Barnum's circus in Brooklyn, and he made the policeman who arrested him open his eyes by asserting that he had crossed the continent alone without a cent. He is a pocket edition of the typical tramp in appearance.

"I didn't like it home," said the youngster in the Police Court, "so one day when I was near the railway I jumped on a train, and when the car stopped I jumped off and begged something to eat. I got a piece of bread."

"After a while I got to Oregon. There I stayed a while doing odd jobs and getting things to eat from the people. I finally got tired of that and jumped on another train. One of the men who worked on it told me it was going to Montana. It did, and so did I. I did the same there as I did in Oregon, and then I was here."

HAD A HARD TIME. "I had a pretty hard time of it till I struck Chicago. There I made friends with a hoodlum, and he used to take me home with him when I got very tired. I'd get papers and sell them and a good many people gave me pennies."

"I was in Chicago a while, and then I got to New York. I caught a freight train one day and started for here. I guess I was put off by the 'New Yorkers' and here I walked along way, too. When I got to Jersey City I didn't have a cent, so I sneaked on one of the big boats that take people across the river, and then I was here."

"I soon got to the crowds and noise so they didn't bother me. But I had had a hard time, I could hardly get any one to give me a cent, used to walk along the river and ask men working there to give me things out of their pockets, but they didn't want to. They were a good deal better to me than the ones who looked rich."

"Then I heard there was a circus in town, I made up my mind to try and get work there, but they didn't want to. They said I was too small. I stayed around the Madison Square Garden and looked for a job, but they didn't want to. I used to sleep on the piles of straw and hay around the tent. I was sleeping when they found me and locked me up."

"Now I'm here in New York, and I'm getting on my feet, so that he could see how long I've got to stay here, and if you are going to lock me up before I go much farther."

Royal Baking Powder. Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report. ABSOLUTELY PURE.

MARYSVILLE TELEGRAPHER SKIPS.

He Took Some of the Company's Money With Him.

Arrested at Ashland, but Subsequently Released Upon His Relatives Squaring the Matter.

F. K. Egenhoff, the manager of the Marysville Postal Telegraph office, skipped on the Oregon express Saturday morning, and before the sun had set last evening he was in jail in Ashland, Or., on a charge of embezzlement. So says the Marysville Appeal of yesterday.

This bright young man was sent to Marysville a few months ago to fill a position occupied by Joe Strief. He had not been there long before he became ill with scarlet fever, and he evidently did not feel quite recovered, as he made up his mind to have some change of air at the expense of the company for which he was working.

An arrangement exists between Rideout's bank and the Postal Telegraph Company whereby their local agent is allowed to draw on the bank for a sum not to exceed $500.

At 2 o'clock on Friday afternoon Egenhoff made his appearance at the bank and presented an order for $435, drawn on the Postal Telegraph Company. He asked that he be given $335 in gold coin and a certificate of deposit for $100 in his own name. The teller was pleased to comply with Mr. Mackay's agent, so he complied with his wishes, and the young man is reported as composed as if he had not committed a serious crime which would send him to the State's Prison.

As soon as the telegraph office was opened yesterday morning Marshal Malen received the following telegram from Chief of Police Crowley of San Francisco: "Please relay Pacific Postal Telegraph all assistance possible in Egenhoff case."

While he was wondering what this meant he received the following telegram from the Superintendent of the Postal Telegraph Company, San Francisco: "Get call at the Rideout bank and get particulars of payment by them of $435 to F. K. Egenhoff yesterday. Try and ascertain his whereabouts, and have him placed under arrest. Use the wires freely in order to locate him."

Marshal Malen went to the Rideout bank where full particulars were furnished him. The order that the young man had cashed had not been issued by the company.

He telegraphed at once to Railroad Conductor Connors at Red Bluff, giving him a description of the young man, and received the following answer: "He went north of here."

He then set the wires in motion and telegraphed to Ashland, Oregon, and other northern cities, and later he received the following telegram from Ashland: "City Marshal Gregory has Egenhoff in custody here, holding him pending Mr. Storror's effort to secure a settlement of the matter with his family and himself."

A later telegram was to the effect that the matter had been settled and the prisoner released.

BRIEF NOTES.

Charles F. Dillman has been elected Cashier of the Bank of O. Mills & Co. The collection of delinquent taxes by Seymour and Hartman up to date amounts to $11,000.

The ladies of the Kingsley Art Club are to meet in the club-rooms this afternoon to consider matters of local interest.

A party from Mills College and friends will leave for the World's Fair May 17th. Address A. M. Benham, 465 Ninth street, Oakland, for particulars.

About 1,250 Chinese applications for registration have been filed in Collector Bayliss's office, and a considerable number more are in the hands of deputies to be yet reported.

Constable John P. Brissel's son, a boy about 14 years of age, is very ill with typhoid fever, and although the doctors have not yet given him up, he is very far from being out of danger.

S. Gerson states that one T. W. Baxter, who has been canvassing for the California Directory company, tried the other day to collect $4 from him on an order signed for $1. Baxter admitted that he had "made a mistake" and accepted the smaller sum.

A one-legged man, who is a fisherman, and who several months ago lost his leg while intoxicated, by throwing himself under a train, was taken to the City Jail yesterday, and then he was arrested by Special Officer Greer at Second and I streets, where he was making a noisy nuisance of himself.

A Week's Failures. The Bradstreet Mercantile Agency reports 16 failures in the Pacific Coast States and Territories for the week ending April 25th, as compared with 24 for the previous week and 16 for the corresponding week of 1892. The failures for the past week are divided among the trades as follows: Three general merchandise, 2 dry goods, 1 clothing, 1 butcher, 1 dry goods, 1 saloon, one grocer, 1 stationery, 1 furnishing, 1 fruit and 1 blacksmith.

W. C. T. U. Picnic. To-morrow (Tuesday) the ladies of the Women's Christian Temperance Union will give a picnic at Oak Grove, near Oak Park, for the children of the day home and members of Companies A and B, Local Legion. Children and those accompanied are requested to meet at the Presbyterian Church, Sixth and I streets, at 9 o'clock sharp.

Building Lot at Auction. On Wednesday, the 3d instant, D. J. Simmons & Co. will sell at public auction, at 10:30 A. M., by order of Mrs. S. A. Brannigan, in order to close an estate, the lot situated on the northwest corner of Fourteenth and R streets, 40x100 feet.

Total for the leading cities of the United States, $1,077,422,061, a decrease of 1.2.

Work at High Altitudes.

Some practical facts are furnished by the experience of the workmen engaged in the construction of the new Central Railway over the main range of the mountains Peru. The line starts from Lima, in latitude 12°. The summit of the line at Galeria is at the height of 15,015 feet, or a little under at the height of the highest or brought up in the country. That the climatic conditions are very different from those of the lowlands is shown by the fact that the temperature at the summit is only 45° F., or 10° below that of the lowlands. The workmen are up to an altitude of 9,000 to 10,000 feet, and the same relative quantity of work at sea level, provided they have been inured to the high altitude work in the country. At 12,000 feet the amount of work done is only one-third that of the amount that could be performed at sea level.

Owing to the absence of malaria the percentage of efficient labor at the great elevation is a very high one. Men coming from the coast are not found capable of doing efficient work for about two weeks on the average when taken to the high elevations. The capacity gradually increases and reaches its maximum in a few weeks or months, according to the health of the individual. The majority of the workmen are of the Andean type, and are of the same race as the Indians born in the Sierra. They are found incapable of doing efficient work on the high altitude work in the country. A long course of study in the country of these "Cholos" have for special purposes been taken suddenly down the mountain, and work at altitudes of from 2,000 to 5,000 feet, sickness and fever have resulted from the change.

Mules and horses are found to do about the same amount of work proportionately as the lighter or heavier animals of the human beings up to 10,000 feet in this district. Mules stand the climate best, but, again, require some acclimatization. They are not able to stand the great altitudes they are to be used for. It may be remarked that the region of perpetual snow in the district begins about 15,000 feet.—Nineteenth Century.

A Cheap Ride.

A fashionable lady got out of her carriage in the heart of the city recently. Before entering the store she was met by a young education teacher whom she had befriended on the occasion of a recent visit. He was very kind and offered to take her to the store, and the teacher treated the privilege of using the carriage to reach a destination several blocks away. The lady was very much pleased, and she felt it a charitable duty to save the thinly-dressed young teacher from the cold of the winter. After making her purchases she came out of the store. Her carriage had returned, and she waited patiently for the driver to come for a cab and went home. About 7 o'clock that night her coachman drove up at her house to take her to the store. She had the carriage all afternoon, and she was very much pleased to see her coachman and deliver cards for a reading. They do such things and say such things that they are not conventional. It is a wonderful piece of work, and it is really toward health.—Clara Dixon Davidson in North American Review.

Folsom Items.

The prison authorities have endeavored to find the remains of Garcia, the Indian convict, who was shot and killed while endeavoring to make his escape by swimming the American River. The efforts have proved unavailing.

The fish are beginning to bite now, and in a week or two they can be caught easily. George Bolton and Charley Nichols went out the other day, and claim to have secured a very large salmon. George caught an eight-pound salmon trout, which was a beauty.

The annual picnic of the Folsom public school will be held in Natoma Grove on Friday, May 6th. There will be games and other amusements during the picnic. The games will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning, and will continue until about noon. In the evening there will be a ball in Fireman's Hall.

Too High-Toned. The greatest sensation has been created at the Winterville (O.) M. E. Church, where Rev. Mr. Nowlin has conducted meetings for seven weeks. The accessions have been very large, but a heavy loss has been sustained because several inmates of the county infirmary near by have gone forward and professed their faith. One lady states that she "doesn't associate with nappers here and does not want to hearer."

"A wolf in sheep's clothing"—the substitute offered to the "cutting" and just as good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. If you don't want to be bitten, insist upon having Ayer's Sarsaparilla, even if it is a little dearer. Depend upon it, it will be cheaper for you in the end.

Walterman's Dressing. Corner Fifth and J Streets, Sacramento. AGENTS FOR BUTTERICK PATTERNS. SOCIAL REVELATIONS. Their Use—The Lessons That Society Teachers Teach.

Shall folks pass unmentioned? It is even harder to decide what is foolish than to decide what is criminal and what is brutal. The growth of every social group must be assisted by knowledge of the customs of other groups. It is not essential that isolated facts relating to few persons and having no particular significance be known, but it is essential that wider significance and the telling of which cannot painfully affect any individual excepting for substantial, sentimental reasons may be widely known. Such knowledge acts as a powerful agent in the rectifying of popular errors, sifting out that which is essentially evil from that which is only conventionally evil, and setting forth the proper basis of actions in clearer lights and stronger colors. For instance, it is said in criticism of the women of a certain city that they venture out after midnight without male escorts. The fact that this is a common occurrence in that city is not a matter of which the women of a certain city should be ashamed. The fact is that the women of that city are not more superstitious than the women of other cities, and that the custom of women remaining indoors after twilight in localities where there is no danger of assault is a custom of the past, and not a custom of the future. The fact is that the women of that city are not more superstitious than the women of other cities, and that the custom of women remaining indoors after twilight in localities where there is no danger of assault is a custom of the past, and not a custom of the future.
