THE REPORT—WHAT WE CAN DO NOW.

That which the Record-Union has been striving for a number of years has at last been accomplished—the chemical disposal system of sewage disposal has got before the official municipal board in a regular way, and the city cannot any longer plead ignorance of the system.

The report reads like a transcript of the expository article published over two years ago in these columns on the subject, as the result of inquiries made at Worcester by the Record-Union. Except that the Commissioner's report covers two years' more of experience with the system at Worcester, it travels over the same grounds and reaches the same conclusions set out in these columns long ago, and it cites in support the same authorities. It could not well be otherwise, for the Commissioner found the same state of facts to exist, the same figures, the same methods in vogue as were set out by the Record-Union.

The report of the Commissioner is compact, intelligent, and proves that its author saw clearly, and that his observation convinced him that the chemical system is best adapted to the needs of this city. Still another commission composed of several citizens is now at work examining into the whole question of sewage disposal, sewer construction, etc. The special report of Mr. Weinstein will be of great service to that body. What we want is the speediest possible action.

Let Sacramento resolve upon a new sewage disposal system, adopt a clear water supply, and require garbage to be cremated, and she will stand head and shoulders above any other city in the State in the essentials of comfort, desirability and sanitary precaution—we expect none.

These things are possible for Sacramento—garbage disposal at once and without a dollar's increase of the tax rate; new water supply without expenditure of a single cent of public funds or the increase of water rates; sewage disposal at a cost by no means heavy and with the present sewer system, if we will confine surface drainage to gutters or side and sub-gutter pipes which is not a task that need make us hesitate. Indeed we can put in for $30,000 the necessary disposal tanks at once, the people will vote the money almost unanimously. The land for the tanks can be condemned to the public use—a half block of low land on the southwest side—and ought not to cost over $5,000.

We can, then, within the next six months, if we will it, begin to abandon cesspools and relate all sewage to the sewers, and gradually adapt the sewers—six good main lines are already serviceable for the purpose—to the new system.

In four years' time we could be free of all cesspools and would have as complete a system of sewage disposal as any valley city could wish for.

These things are possible, we say, do not involve cost we are not able to bear and can be undertaken the present season. The only question is—shall we do something now or procrastinate as of old?

macadam. But loose gravel on a sand body unrolled and only hose-packed and the gravel carried in a semi-clayey body, never makes an economic or lasting roadway. Put the large stones at the bottom, yet there will always be enough on top to make the road bad for vehicles, horses and taxpayers.

This is an aphorism in street and road-making: "The round stone never breaks, nearly always grinds and rarely packs—the small crushed stone breaks, never grinds, always packs and turns its flat side level with the plane of the surface of the road." And this is another: "You cannot make a wedge with three round stones." All good road stone packs like wedges driven.

When will taxpayers learn that a gravelled street, on a sand body unrolled, such as we have been indulging in the past, costs more than macadam? Add cost of repairs of the former in excess of cost of repairs of the latter; consider lessened cost of cleaning; greater ease of drainage; and the "life" of the roadway and macadam from the outset saves money to the taxpayer. This is demonstrable.

Build a street from Front to Thirty-first with gravel of the old style. Let the next one of equal length be constructed in good macadam. Assume the first to cost (for the highway only) "a" representing any sum, no matter what—and the second to cost "2a." Compare the two streets at the end of one year and ask the residents on the macadam line to trade with those on the gravel line and take as a subsidy the difference between the cost of the two streets. They will decline to a man. At the end of the second year the macadam people will refuse to trade with the entire cost of their roadway refunded. At the end of the third year they will not trade, with the cost refunded, half its volume added and all outlay for repairs returned. At the end of the fourth year the two parties will not be upon speaking terms on the proposition to exchange streets—were it even possible.

The news appears to be authentic that the cholera is ravaging a large portion of Asiatic Turkey. It will not take it long to travel from the lower Tigris across the Euphrates and toward the Mediterranean, the shores of which it will reach very speedily, for the reason that between them and the Tigris there is no sort of check, quarantine or sanitary regulation. It will sweep through the nomadic tribes, the careless and filth-loving people of the lower sections of Asia Minor, like a tidal wave, just as it has done many times. At the Mediterranean it will meet its first barrier, but there will be nothing to prevent its march upward into Turkey in Europe, and very little there to impede its onward sweep to the Austrian and German lines. Whether the European Governments can there stay its course is very doubtful. They did not succeed last year when they had ample warning; the people are somewhat accustomed to the alarm of the approach of the pest; familiarity has dulled the edge of terror, and it will be more difficult to enforce sanitary regulations than it was last year. This is a dismal outlook but it is justified by the facts of history.

With the banks tumbling at the East and private capital crashing downward that has invested in banking, it is an admirable time to advocate the re-establishment of the banks of issue, to which the National Democratic party pledged itself last fall. If the advocates of wildcat banking are silent now, it is because the practice and the theory are not in harmony at this moment. Of course, it will be replied: "All these failures are of private banking concerns; we would have State banking laws so guard the State banking system that note-holders could not lose." But what guarantee can be given that all the States, or any, will provide such safeguards, if the prohibitive tax is removed?

A SAN FRANCISCO newspaper has given the lie to the sensational circulars of Wiley and Fry that thousands of men are starving in California because of inability to find work to do. A man was sent out through the agricultural districts seeking for employment. He found ample openings for a very large number of laborers, and that the interior is fairly begging for hands for the fields and orchards.

MOKELUMNE DISTRICT SCHOOL

Interesting Exercises at a Recent Flag-Raising There.

The last day of the school term in Mokelumne District was celebrated in a very fitting manner. The lady trustees and the teacher, Miss Anna McLanahan, had decorated the schoolroom and platform most artistically with flowers, evergreens, flags, red, white and blue bunting, and appropriate blackboard drawings. The following programme was well rendered:

Recitation, "Our Flag," Lucy Stevens; recitation, "Columbian Ode," Mattie Bradford; recitation, "A Small Boy's Opinion of Corns," Charley Bradford; tableau, with red light from front, "Union Forestry;" "The Red, White and Blue," David McLanahan, David Burke and Clydes Rice; tableau, "A Revolutionary of Washington," essay on "Our Flag," Henry Rice; "The United States National Anthem," Frankie Houston; dialogue, "About Our Flag," Mary and Mattie Bradford; tableau, "Independence Day and Christmas," red light from back; flag drill with recitation, Mattie Bradford, Tabby Glenn, Charley Bradford, Lucy Stevens and David McLanahan; recitation, "The People's Song of Peace," Laura Rice; recitation, "Barbara Freligh," Maud Houston; recitation, "The Spelling Book," Katie McLanahan.

After the distribution of cards and certificates of promotion Philip Bradford delivered an address. A flag drill of the whole school came next, and when it was finished the pupils marched outside, and one of them, Ben Rice, raised the flag, while the others recited "The American Flag" in concert. Then all present gave three cheers. The yard was lighted up with Chinese lanterns.

The flag-pole is a fine six tember, thirty-five feet high, and the flag is unusually large. The money for this fine flag and pole was raised by Mrs. Glenn, of the Mokelumne District, in honor of the people of the district giving very liberally.

After the flag-raising the ladies of the district served a delicious luncheon and candy to the large assembly.

Things Worth Remembering. When you feel a kind of goneness about the stomach, it is that your food does not sit well and that you are about to have a fit of indigestion.

When you begin to feel nervous and are unable to sit still comfortably, when your clothes suddenly seem to lose their fit and become too tight in places the fit of indigestion is surely upon you.

When this fit of indigestion is repeated from day to day it finally resolves itself into dyspepsia.

Remember that three to ten of BRANDRETH'S PILLS will cure the worst case of indigestion or dyspepsia, or both, and that a regular course of them, say two every night for a week or ten days, will act as a preventive of either complaint.

BABY ONE SOLD SORE

Tried Everything Without Relief, No Rest Night or Day, Cured by CUTICURA Remedies.

My baby, when two months old, had a breaking out with what the doctor called eczema. Her head was all red and she was each one sold sore. I tried everything, but neither the doctors nor anything else did her any good. We could get no rest day or night with her. In my excitement I bought the CUTICURA Remedies, and in them, for I had never seen them tried. To my great surprise, after one week's time after beginning to use the CUTICURA Remedies, the sores were well, but I continued to use the Remedies for a little while, and now she is as fat as a baby as you would like to see, and as sound as a dollar. I believe my baby would have died if I had not tried CUTICURA Remedies. I write this to let you know that my baby like mine can feel confident that there is a medicine that will cure the worst eczema, and that medicine is CUTICURA Remedies. MRS.
