

FACTS FOR EASTERNERS.

The Climate and Climatic Features of California.

Interesting Data Relating Thereto—Pleasant Reading for Winter Nights in Atlantic Homes.

"Climate and Climatic Features of California" is the title of a very interesting paper compiled by James A. Barwick, Observer Weather Bureau and Director California Weather Service...

The limit of space assigned to this subject precludes the discussion of the physical causes of the climatic features of California. It is enough to state the facts, leaving to the intending student the choice of a home in either of the climates of the State.

California is a territory of such magnificent extent, such marvelous wealth of soil, such variety and grandeur of scenery, such perfection of climate, and is so free from all those annoyances that disturb human life in other parts of the world...

California is a territory of such magnificent extent, such marvelous wealth of soil, such variety and grandeur of scenery, such perfection of climate, and is so free from all those annoyances that disturb human life in other parts of the world...

California is 770 miles long; extreme breadth, 230 miles; breadth in the middle, with a coast line of over 1,280 miles. If California were transplanted on the Atlantic Coast the coast-line would reach from Boston, Mass., to Savannah, Ga.

COMPARISONS WITH THE EAST. These comparisons illustrate the difficulty and almost impossibility of giving Eastern visitors an intelligent idea of either the climatic features of the vast resources of California.

The latitude of Fort Jones, Siskiyou County, on the north, is 42°, being the same as Boston, on the Atlantic coast. San Diego, in the south, is in latitude 32°, the same as Savannah, in the East. The mean winter and summer temperature at Savannah is 53° and 81°, while San Diego boasts of a mean winter and summer temperature of 54° and 85°.

Every agricultural product that can be grown in the valleys, including the semi-tropic fruits, can be grown with equal facility in these foothills. These lands are found to have all the requisites for the successful growth of orchards. Fruit trees do better upon them than on the lands of the valley.

GENERAL REMARKS. California has but recently attracted the attention of sanitarians. Thousands of people are flocking to the State in quest of healthful homes. The climate is beneficial to all diseases affected by change of air. Within its borders are to be found the altitude of the Alps, the scenery of Switzerland, the fruits of the tropics, numerous mineral springs equal in value to those of the Eastern United States or Europe, the purest of the Colorado highlands and the winter climate of Florida. The climate of California is much more temperate than that of the Eastern States situated in the same latitude, but this does not hold true of Southern California. Here the conditions are reversed.

There is no State in the Union, no section of country upon the continent, no section of country in any State, no geographical division of the continent, that can compare with California for salubrity of climate, healthfulness, variety of interesting shades of climate, or for attractive and health-giving summer and winter resorts. In California the sun is shining a great number of days; the air is balmy, with people upon the streets in attire that could be worn in the East only in early summer or autumn.

INCOMPARABLE CLIMATE. There is no State in the Union, no section of country upon the continent, no section of country in any State, no geographical division of the continent, that can compare with California for salubrity of climate, healthfulness, variety of interesting shades of climate, or for attractive and health-giving summer and winter resorts.

THE ISOTHERMAL LINES. Are, as they near the coast, so deflected as to run north and south, and mark out three climatic belts, which are the coast, valley and mountain belts. The line beyond the Coast Range, commencing with Shasta Valley on the north, extends down through the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys into the Coast Range, the McJave and Colorado Deserts, while the mountain belt includes the Sierra Nevada beyond. Hottest summers characterize all these regions.

To these three climates may be added a fourth, to wit: Southern California, which includes southern California as well south of the junction of the Coast Range and the Sierra Nevada Mountains. COAST CLIMATE. This climate is confined to that portion of California which "looks out upon the sea," from Point Conception, in Santa Barbara County, to the north line of the State. The annual temperature ranges from 45° to 65°. The climate passes into an agreeable state of invigoration, and there is a sense of buoyancy and vitality experienced in no other climate.

The therapeutic effect of this climate, says Dr. John W. Robertson, is essentially tonic, and suited only to certain classes of invalids. That its healthfulness is mainly due to the wind cannot be doubted. This wind, besides possessing moisture and coolness, is surcharged with ozone, and much of its influence is to be attributed to the oxidizing power of this agent. Persons coming to San Francisco from the interior valleys, or the East, are at first chilled by the cool, fog-bearing wind, but this chilliness soon gives way to a feeling of exhilaration and well-being that is almost incapable of being understood by those who have not experienced it.

This climate is susceptible of subdivision; the one just described being directly on the coast, the other more interior, but of the same type, a few miles inland and protected by the foothills from the full force of the Santa Francisco winds, in close proximity to San Francisco, are the Livermore, Santa Clara, Napa, and Santa Rosa Valleys. In summer the thermometer may register 75° to 85° at mid-day, but such heat is exceptional, the mornings and afternoons are never sultry; during the winter frosts occur but rarely, and snow and ice are practically unknown.

HEALTH-GIVING SPRINGS. Still farther inland, in the very heart of the foothills, there is a region which should attract the attention of those of its therapeutic usefulness. Volcanic products are here found in great abundance, and mineral deposits are frequent. Water trickling through volcanic strata, impregnated with various salts, and emerging as springs, gives them healing qualities.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH.

The Executive Committee Full of Enthusiasm.

Though Short in Pursue—The Literary Programme Announced—How to See the Fireworks.

The Fourth of July Executive Committee met last evening. Mayor Steinman presiding. Al. Moditt was added to the committee. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Carley appeared and asked for transportation in the procession for children of the Day Home and of the W. C. T. U. The committee decided that whereas it was unable to provide transportation for the children of the Orphan Asylum, it could do better by the children of any other organization. It was decided that the ladies make private appeal for the necessary funds.

The debit side of the committee's account was then cast up, and it found, after cutting down wherever it was possible, that the committee had contracted expenses amounting to $2,000.50. The credit side was then cast up, and it was found that the committee had in sight but $1,762.25.

It was resolved to go on, however, precisely as if the necessary money was in hand, and that the committee should appeal to the people to see the committee through.

The Invitation Committee reported that the Railroad Fire Brigade had reconsidered its plan and would not be present. The committee requested the Grand Marshal to change the line of march from Third to Second street.

The Printing and Advertising Committee reported it impossible to advertise in all the papers desiring, and to keep within the limit of $2,000. The committee informed the sub-committee that it must keep within the sum allowed, and limit the advertising accordingly, and the sub-committee agreed that it would follow orders.

The Fireworks Committee reported the contract closed with H. Fisher, and that never set pieces and fireworks would be displayed, thus securing a far more satisfactory display, and added that it believed it had secured an excellent display.

The committee reported that the discharge of the works would be from a point near the south line of F street, toward G, facing the pieces eastward; that to see well, the people should assemble on the vacant grounds between Twenty-seventh to Twenty-ninth streets and I street, and there they will have uninterrupted view, and there would be ample room for 50,000 people without any crowding whatever.

The Regatta Committee reported the entries for the boat races filling nicely, and that there will be two entries in the barge race, not less than three in each of the others and from ten to twenty in the tub race.

It was resolved to request that all steeple bells be rung at the Chicago noon hour, when liberty bells are rung in Chicago at the World's Fair by a California woman. This hour will be near 10 o'clock, and the bells to ring three minutes.

Messrs. Baker and E. D. Barton were appointed a committee to arrange for the ceremonial, and call on churches and the fire department on the subject.

The Literary Committee reported the following as its programme at the Clunie Opera-house: Exercises immediately after the dismissal of the parade.

National Air-Band. Call to order by Grand Marshal, G. H. Clark, at the request of President of the Day Mayor Steinman.

National Glee—Messrs. Longbottom, Milklin, Beardslee and Genshala. Invocation—Rev. E. D. Barton. National Song—Male quartet.

Reading of the Declaration of Independence—San E. Simmons. "The Star-Spangled Banner"—Mrs. B. E. Howard and quartet, with the colors supported by the color guard of the Second and Third Regiments, N. G. C., by order of Colonel J. W. Hutton.

Oration—Howard Maccherry of San Francisco. "America"—Quartet and audience. Benediction—by one of the clergy of the Cathedral of the Most Holy Sacrament to be named hereafter.

High School Band. The orator, George F. President of the Day and reader will assemble at the Sutter Club at 9 A. M., and a Marshal's aid will escort them to the parade ground. The committee then adjourned to meet Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. Though short in purse the committee was not a bit discouraged, but determined to proceed and declared that Sacramento is going to have one of the best celebrations ever held in the State.

LONG-DISTANCE WHEELING. Lieutenant Elliott's Ride to Mount Shasta—Other Notes. First Lieutenant Elliott of the Capital City Wheelmen is earning for himself the reputation of being one of the best, if not the best, road riders of the club. Last night he returned from Castle Rock, Dunsmuir and Mount Shasta, having spent eight days on the wheel. His last hundred miles was ridden in less than seven hours, and the last day out he rode 127 miles.

To use his own words he had to ride, for, when he reached the top of the trip, he had but sixty-five cents in his pocket, and the thought of going hungry did not suit him.

Elliott says he enjoyed his trip immensely, and reports the roads in fair condition nearly the entire distance. His route lay by the way of Woodland, Orland and Red Bluff, then up, and on the return by the way of Chico.

His mount was a Sterling-Wright interchangeable gear bicycle, on the way he could ride a high gear, and in less than two minutes' time he could change from the high to the low gear and be ready for hill-work, and in fact, he could change him in making some very good time on the road.

He reports but one accident, and that near Red Bluff. While coasting a mile and a half, he lost control of his wheel, and in consequence about thirty seconds later he was at the bottom of a gulch with the wheel on top of him, and the road about fifteen feet above.

He was somewhat longer in reaching the road, from the fact that he, neither himself nor his machine were any the worse for the fall.

Elliott is a comparatively new rider, having ridden a safety but a short time, and it is his intention of entering the fall races, at which time the Capital City

DEFECTION OF MORTGAGE. John De Martini Asks to be Allowed to Correct It. John De Martini has entered suit in the Superior Court against C. H. Hensley, claiming that on February 1, 1893, he lent Hensley $1,500, which was to be secured by a mortgage on the green and dried fruit from the orchard of E. R. Roberts, in Gravelly, on Grand Island, and the vegetables in a garden on the front land back of the orchard.

He alleges that in the mortgage he described the orchard as omitted, and that he did not discover the fact until recently. He prays that the court will grant him proper relief in the matter.

WANTS TO KEEP HIS LOT. S. Gerson has commenced suit against H. J. Goethe, the assignee of the estate of S. Gerson, an insolvent debtor, claiming that he (Gerson) is the owner in fee of the west half of the east half of lot 3, between Grand and I streets, and that Goethe, as assignee of the estate, claims to have a claim on the said lot. He therefore prays for a decree of foreclosure, and that he (Gerson) nor the estate has any claim on the lot.
