

WHAT CONGRESS SHOULD DO.

How to Improve the Financial Situation by Legislation.

REPEAL THE PURCHASING CLAUSE OF THE SHERMAN ACT.

Bank Failures Continue in Cities East of the Rockies—Two Institutions at Indianapolis Forced to Suspend—The Gibraltar of Finance of Milwaukee Closes Its Doors—Runs on Louisville Banks Cause Several to Close Up.

Special to the Record-Union.

NEW YORK, July 25.—The World prints the following letter from ex-Secretary of the Treasury Foster in reply to a request for his opinion as to what the extra session will accomplish:

"You ask what Congress will do. As the team is a very wild one, composed of all kinds of material, much of it unbroken and more of it badly trained, it is quite uncertain whether they can be so groomed and fed as to enable a skillful and really able driver to successfully avoid the quicksands, round the curves and surmount the obstacles that abound in the road, so as to bring it into the haven desired. It is altogether doubtful whether the Cockran said during the late campaign that 'platforms are made to get it on, not to stand on.' This view of the party obligation will probably be accepted.

"I guess the House will adopt the rules and rulings that prevailed during 'Czar' Reed's Speakership, and will, in some form, after a prolonged and exciting struggle, repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman law, with some kind of substitute expressed in the Act or agreed to in the road, to which the Senate, after another excited struggle, will probably agree. Ever since the failure of ex-Secretary Charles Foster has been drawn upon heavily, and was unable at the present time to meet the constant drain. There was no run on other banks in the city.

What ought to be done is to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman Act; retain and strengthen, if necessary, the clause requiring the Secretary to maintain the parity of gold and silver; require the Secretary to keep a gold reserve of $100,000,000 for old gold tender, and also a gold reserve equal to 20 per cent. of the Treasury notes issued for purchasing bullion; authorize the issue of silver certificates for bullion only to be put in circulation as the Treasury notes are retired; authorize the issue of a three-per-cent. bond as preferable to the bond now at the command of the Secretary; increase the revenues, so as to enable the Secretary to increase his gold to the point indicated without the sale of bonds; liberalize the national banking law by permitting banks to issue notes up to the par of the bond in an amount equal to the capital and surplus; and reduce the tax one-half.

"As in my opinion the prospective action of the Congress on the tariff is doing more to impair values and destroy confidence than all else, I would have it promptly declared that it would not legislate upon this subject."

BANK FAILURES. Several More Large Institutions in the East Suspend.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 25.—The Bank of Commerce did not open its doors this morning. The Indianapolis National Bank also failed to open its doors. The Indianapolis National was considered one of the strongest banks in the city, and was designated as a depository of the United States. President Theodore Haughey consulted with other bankers last night, having previously secured $50,000 to tide him over yesterday. He said the failures at Louisville and New Albany had aggravated the local situation and it was thought best to suspend. The Bank of Commerce has not been one of the large depositories, and the failure will not have much effect locally. The indebtedness is said to be $150,000. At 11 o'clock a heavy run was being made on the Indiana National.

The statement of the Indianapolis National Bank July 12th showed resources of $2,313,154; liabilities—due depositors, $1,194,586; United States deposits, $130,100; deposits of United States disbursing officers, $100,500; due other national banks, $140,493; due State banks, $74,570; notes and bills redeemed, $21,137; bills payable, $85,000; capital stock, $300,000; surplus, $100,000; undivided profits, $4,448. While the Indianapolis National Bank was a United States depository, but $3,087 was tied up. Cashier Telford was asked if the withdrawal of funds by country banks were not largely responsible for suspension. "The stringency of the times," he replied, "has greatly reduced those balances. At this time of the year they have heretofore been large." The real trouble of the Bank of Commerce began at the failure of the Premier Steel Company. There have been drafts on the bank ever since. Then the publication of Depauw's failure hurried things along. The failure of the Indianapolis National shut off their chances of getting help, and the bank had to close.

CLOSED ON ACCOUNT OF THE STRINGENCY.

MILWAUKEE, July 25.—The Wisconsin Fire and Marine Insurance Bank closed its doors this morning. The bank was commonly known as the Mitchell Bank. A notice on the door says: "Closed on account of monetary stringency." The statement on the 1st inst. places the resources at $8,943,344. The liabilities are: Due depositors, $7,570,504; due others, $500,000. The bank has a capital of $500,000, of which John I. Mitchell holds $113,300; David Ferguson, $100,000; Washington Becker, $20,000; J. B. Murphy, $10,000. The undivided profits are $75,841. The Milwaukee people had become imbued with the idea that this old bank was a Gibraltar of finance, and could not credit the reports that it had closed. It was the general belief that when all the other banking institutions had disappeared from the face of the earth the bank which Alexander Mitchell founded would continue to do business at the old stand. Cashier Murphy says the bank has been subjected to a heavy strain and the end was inevitable, but that the bank is not insolvent, and only time is needed to meet every liability. Washington Becker has been appointed receiver.

The city of Milwaukee has $1,000,000 in the bank and will probably have to temporarily suspend payment. The bank was the depository of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad, and arrangements had been made for the payment of checks drawn on that bank by the Wisconsin National Bank. Runs were at once started on a number of other banks, but at each large depositor came to his assistance, and officers assured those interested that they were perfectly safe. The general opinion is the worst is past.

RUNS ON LOUISVILLE BANKS. LOUISVILLE, July 25.—The Louisville Deposit Bank failed to open its doors today. The Merchants' National Bank has suspended, as also the Fourth National Bank. There were runs on several other banks, mostly small, but all stood the strain. The failure of the Merchants' National was caused by the withdrawals of country banks. The Deposit Bank was not a member of the Clearing-house, and none of the other banks would assist it. The Fourth National failed as a result of the panic caused by the failure of others. None of the failures are considered bad.

The depositors of the two national banks will be paid in full. The Merchants' National has a capital of $500,000, and the Fourth National a capital of $500,000 and a surplus of $25,000. The Deposit Bank has a capital of $300,000, surplus, $10,000. The last statement of the Fourth National Bank showed a paid in capital stock of $300,000, a surplus fund of $37,000 and undivided profits of $27,856. The Merchants' had a paid in capital of $500,000, a surplus of $100,000 and undivided profits of $21,394. The Deposit Bank statement showed a capital stock of $300,000, undivided profits, $19,155. All the bank officials express confidence that no one will lose a cent if they get time to realize on their assets.

Shortly after assignment of the Fourth National President Schwartz filed an individual assignment when affairs were referred to the same assignee. The Sweetwood Distillery Company also made an assignment, Mr. Schwartz being President of that company also. No statement has yet been prepared.

A FAILURE AT FINDLAY, OHIO.

FINDLAY (O.), July 25.—The Farmers' National Bank, one of the popular financial institutions of this city, closed today because of its inability to realize upon its assets. The officers assert that they will be able to pay depositors dollar for dollar, and have no doubt that the same will be settled up. Ever since the failure of ex-Secretary Charles Foster has been drawn upon heavily, and was unable at the present time to meet the constant drain. There was no run on other banks in the city.

COTTAGE BURNED.

Two Alarms, that Discouraged the Fire Department. The fire-bells and whistle sounded a rather mixed up alarm last night shortly after 10 o'clock. The bells disagreed sadly and the whistle gave one dismal blast and then quit.

Everybody was asking where the fire was, but nobody knew. Upon inquiry, however, it was ascertained that a little cottage on P street, between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth, had caught fire through the explosion of a kerosene lamp, and after the building had been consumed the fire spread to the two-story building on the corner. The firemen were called out, but there was little hope for the cottage. The fire was extinguished at that late stage of the proceedings. Before the alarm was turned in, however, Nat. Irwin, W. S. Macfarlane, Ralph Denton, J. Thomas, Jr., J. David Farrell and several other young gentlemen who were returning on a car from Oak Park, alighted and succeeded in putting out the fire on the corner. The cottage was totally consumed. It was occupied by an elderly gentleman named Friedman, and was valued at about $500.

FRATERNAL VISIT.

The Pocahontas Tribe From Stockton Comes to Town. The evening train from Stockton yesterday landed quite a delegation of excursionists belonging to the Pocahontas branch of the Order of Red Men in Stockton. They came up from the Gas City to pay a fraternal visit to the Gas City Tribe of the same order in this city, and to enjoy the hospitality of the latter.

The visitors were received at the depot by a committee of local Red Men, and escorted to the Capital Hotel, where supper was served. After the repast the Gas City Tribe, under the leadership of their chief, Mr. W. J. Harris, made a tour of the city in order to participate, and remarks by other high dignitaries of the order, among them being J. W. Maher and P. McQuaid. The banquet was served in the hall in honor of the guests, and more speech-making was indulged in.

Those who came up from Stockton were: E. J. Bru and wife, A. D. Smallfield, P. A. Seiler, R. W. Bean and wife, T. B. Hubbard and wife, Mrs. Walsh, Mrs. McQuaid, Mrs. Simon, Mrs. Richards, Mrs. Cruise, Mrs. Mobery, Mrs. Arnold, Mrs. Hilton, Miss Shipp, Miss Harris and W. J. Bickward and wife.

NARROW ESCAPE.

A Team of Colts Deposit Themselves and Driver in the Canal. George Bryant was riding along Thirty-first street, near P, on Monday night, driving a pair of colts which he was breaking, when they became frightened at a passing bicycle. They shied, and in a moment horses, driver and vehicle were all lying in a tangled mass at the bottom of the canal. With much difficulty Bryant held the horses' heads above the water to keep them from drowning, until his new set of harness had been cut to pieces to work together. He was glad they were responded to by several men, who, by the aid of ropes, finally extricated the horses and wagon from the slough, without any serious damage to either.

RATHER TOO PARTICULAR.

A Jail Lodger Who Objected to the Presence of Chinese. Last night John Bell asked for lodging at the police station and was given a bunk in the big cell. Subsequently two Chinese vagrants were put in there, and it was not long before there was a lively racket going on. Jailor Burke went in to investigate, and found Bell and the Chinamen engaged in a fierce fight. When he got them separated Bell began to complain of having Chinamen put into the same cell with him, and he made such a roar that Burke took them to the front door, gave him a kick and told him to go hunt more select quarters.

A Bad Place for Sneak Thieves.

In the mountains of Kentucky, where the fabled "Hot Springs" is regarded as a worse crime than homicide, it is not surprising, therefore, to find the Han Green Herald advising the community to be on their guard against "sneak thieves" who stole articles worth $20 from Porter Green's cabin. "Sneak thieves," says the Herald, "are the worst of the worst of the worst, and we can well afford to dispense with them, and if the one who committed this deed could be put out of the way it might have a salutary effect in deterring others from following in his footsteps."

THE UNITARIANS.

Their Pleasant Reunion and Social Last Night.

How the Society is Flourishing—Interesting Address by Rev. Mr. Wendte of Oakland.

A thoroughly enjoyable social gathering of the members of the Unitarian Society was held last night at Pythian Castle, a large number assembling there to meet Rev. Charles W. Wendte of the First Unitarian Society of Oakland and hear him speak upon the subject of "Our Progress and Prospects." The exercises opened with a piano solo, "Waltz Impromptu" (Raf.), by Mrs. Horner—a delightful selection, which was rendered by her with taste and feeling. A dance, the "Craoivienne," by Alma Gray, followed, which elicited much applause. An excellent recitation by Sumner Wood was followed by a vocal solo, "Protestations," by Miss Mae Nichols of Chico, which received an encore. Miss Nichols possesses a singularly pure and sympathetic voice, which she uses with excellent judgment and skill. "The Kiss in School," by Miss Wiese, finished the first part of the program.

Dr. H. L. Nichols' address was a remarkable one on the rise and growth of the society here and was followed by the report of C. T. Milliken, the Secretary, which showed that the members of the society here, since the financial support, had nearly doubled during the seven months of Mr. Horner's work here.

He was followed by Rev. C. H. Wendte in a most interesting address. Mr. Wendte said, among other things, that his memory went back to his first visit to Sacramento, and the peculiar circumstances under which he came. He neither walked nor rode in a carriage through the streets, but sailed through them in a boat. His second visit here was to act as best man to a friend, much against his will, and when he went to see the happy couple off on the boat he was carried off with them, and thus made his first and last bridal trip. He spoke of Mr. Horner and his coming here to take up his work in a newer civilization.

He said his wife had given up their friends and their home in order to pursue the path of duty here. He believed that it was the beginning of the spread of ideas and sentiments, the scattering of religious spirit here, and the joining of the prospects and growth of the society, as evidenced by the report of the Secretary.

The presence of the Unitarian Church in a town, he said, tones down the rough edges of doctrine preached by the ministers of other churches. It is a check to the dogmatic and the unfashioned repulsive doctrines. It is the exponent of intellectual life, of broad, scholarly culture, of liberality. Wherever the Unitarian church is largely directed and aided by Unitarians. The church is doing a great work on this coast in broadening and enlarging the mind of the people in religious sentiment.

Mr. Wendte is a most taking speaker, with a ready fund of wit and a supply of good stories, and his lecture was listened to with pleasure. He gave an account of the progress of the Unitarian Church on the coast and told his hearers that all that he needed was for them to put their shoulders to the wheel.

Rev. C. P. Massey made a few remarks, saying that as we grow older we grow fond of reminiscences. He first met Mr. Wendte in Star King's Bible class in 1862. He believed that the success of the Unitarian Church here depends on carrying out the work on its present lines. He wished the people to be more united and give him all the help they could.

The speaker had started with the idea of entering the Congregational Church, but as he started above all things to believe in honesty of purpose, and liberality of views. Mr. Horner stated that he had thought it might be better for the church if he ceased his work here and went elsewhere, leaving an opportunity for some one to take his place who could do better for it. This sentiment had been generally the purpose of settling that point. Mr. Wendte had satisfied him on that point, and the church is growing in this city, and we wish to see the Unitarian Church here believed in his congregation, and we wish them to have faith in him and in the power of their united efforts to obtain the result they desired. He wanted their aid in his work here, and wanted them to give him as much liberty as Mr. Wendte's congregation had given him. They were working on a great work, and they must work together. He was glad they were met in this way, and was satisfied to-night as he had never been before that his work was prospering.

An adjournment was then taken at his suggestion to the lower hall, where the company demonstrated that Unitarian theology had not destroyed their appetite for such enticing shapes as the ladies of the congregation had prepared them.

ROBBED BY GARROTERS.

A Quartet Do Up a Chinaman in Great Shape. Lee Fun, an intelligent Chinaman of good address and an employe of the Earl Fruit Company, is $32 poorer than he was last night, besides being minus a watch he then owned.

About 10 o'clock last night, as he was on his way to take the Portland train, en route to Chico, and when about midway between I street and J street, he was confronted by three men and a youth for a match.

Before the Chinaman could comply, one of the larger men threw an arm about his neck and choked him, while another shoved a pistol at him and threatened to shoot if he made a noise.
