

MORRISON AND THE LEPER.

The Supervisors' Chairman Doesn't Want to Take Chances.

Mrs. Garcia Anxious to Re-Enter the Tamale Business—Mr. Jenkins and the Circus.

"I don't propose to take any chances with a disease like leprosy, and that woman had better get out of town." Supervisor Morrison meant every word he said. His colleague, Mr. Miller, called the attention of the board to yesterday's session of the fact that Mrs. Garcia, the Mexican woman who was declared to be suffering from leprosy some time ago, was in town again and wanted assistance from the board.

Mrs. Garcia used to run a tamale foundry before the mysterious disease made its appearance. She went on making the toothsome tamale until Health Officer Nichols discovered her. He tried to get her into the County Hospital, but Dr. White would not admit her. A scheme was then concocted by the county officials to ship the woman out of the State. She was to be paid for migrating. But at San Francisco she was waylaid by some friends, who took her to some doctors who declared that she didn't have leprosy at all. Then Mrs. Garcia decided not to migrate. She is here in town now, and wants to go into the tamale business again, but has not sufficient money.

DOCTORS SOMETIMES DISAGREE.

Chairman Morrison declared rather forcibly that he would not agree to give the woman a cent until she fulfilled her agreement to leave the State. She might not be afflicted with the deadly disease, he said, but there was a question about it among the doctors, and he did not believe that any chances should be taken. If the San Francisco doctors were wrong and the woman should be permitted to spread the disease throughout the community, the Supervisors would be held responsible. He thought the safest plan was to ship the woman.

The other Supervisors thought so, too, and the matter was referred to the Chairman, with power to act.

THE HORNLEINS' LICENSE. The next matter that the board took up was the application of the Hornleins Bros. to be relieved of the demand that they must pay brokers' licenses. This matter was heard on Monday and taken under advisement. The Hornleins, it appears, have been in the habit of cashing the warrants of some State Printing Office employees, considering that they were doing them a favor, and Mr. Hartman, the special collector employed by the county to gather in delinquent licenses, charged the brothers with being brokers. He demanded that they pay brokerage license, and threatened to sue them if they did not. They appealed to the Supervisors.

After discussing the matter yesterday the Supervisors agreed that it was not within their province to decide whether or not the Hornleins were money brokers. They decided to wash their hands of the matter and let Hartman and the Hornlein brothers fight it out in court.

THE DEADLY CIRCUS. Supervisor Jenkins notified the board that a mistake had been made in printing the advertisement for the recent construction of the New Hope road near Galt. He said the day was named as Saturday next for the receiving of bids, but the date was printed September 6th. This was liable to cause confusion among the bidders and he asked that the opening of bids be deferred to Saturday, in order that all might have a chance to get in.

"By the way, Mr. Chairman," added the Supervisor, "do we meet Saturday?" "Well, that's hard to say," replied Mr. Morrison, seriously. "You know there'll be a circus in town."

"Oh!" said Mr. Jenkins, and he sat down. The board granted his request to defer the opening of bids and there was nothing more said about a Saturday session.

The remainder of the day was devoted to the examination of claims against the county. The board meets again to-day.

WORK ON THE LEVEE. Contractor Bates Has Work for a Large Force of Men.

"Got any friends you want to put to work?" asked ex-Supervisor Bates yesterday. "Send 'em all to me," he continued. "I've got work for a big gang." Mr. Bates went to work yesterday morning on his contract to raise the Y-street levee. It's a $17,000 job and he expects to complete it in three months. He told a reporter that he would require 100 men and an army of mules. Quite a force was on hand to commence the work.

"I am going to give preference to Sacramento people," said Mr. Bates, "and also to those who are out of employment and are needy."

A USEFUL LIFE ENDED. Death in San Francisco of Lawyer Ramon E. Wilson.

Ramon E. Wilson, the well-known lawyer, who died in San Francisco yesterday, was well-known in this city, where he first studied law in the office of Henry Edgerton. He was reared in Napa, where his parents lived, although he was born in Mexico.

He was a young man of solid attainments, and for several years was associated in practice with Morris M. Esteo. Mr. Wilson was an ardent sportsman of the higher type. He had served as a member of the State Fish Commission, also as Chairman of the State Sportsmen's Association, and had done much for the protection of game and the elevation of the standard of sportsmanship.

LUXURIES DO NOT GO. Items of Expense Not Chargeable to an Estate.

Judge Prewitt has confirmed the final account of Frank D. Ryan, as administrator of the estate of A. K. Boutwell, deceased, with the exception of one small item. This was the account which was objected to by one of the heirs, on the ground that the administrator's commissions were too high.

The item objected to by the Judge was the charge for "lunch" provided at the administrator's sale. The Judge ascertained that the larger portion of this lunch consisted of beer and ice.

NATIONAL IRRIGATION CONGRESS.

It Will Convene in Los Angeles on October 10th.

Governor Markham Requests the People of the State to Participate Therein.

Governor Markham has issued a proclamation with regard to the International Irrigation Congress to be held at Los Angeles on October 10th, on the call of ex-Governor A. L. Thomas of Utah, and speaks of the importance to our State of the proposed congress. The Governor says:

"WHEREAS, A call has been issued by ex-Governor A. L. Thomas of Utah, Chairman of the Executive Committee, for an International Irrigation Congress, to convene at Los Angeles, Cal., October 10, 1893, and continue in session for five days;

"The National Government has formally recognized this congress by a circular letter issued by Hon. W. Q. Gresham, Secretary of State, addressed to the diplomatic officers of the United States, directing them to call the attention of the Governments to which they are accredited to this congress, and requesting them to send delegates to it.

"This congress promises to be the most important gathering of persons interested in irrigation which has ever been convened, and a large number of gentlemen who are prominent in the science of irrigation have signified their intention of attending this meeting. The Department of the Interior will be represented by an officer who has been specially detailed for the purpose, and has been instructed to impart to the congress all the information in possession of the National Government on this very important question.

"It being that this congress should be held in California, for this state contains within its borders irrigation enterprises which show the highest degree of engineering skill, and which have required the expenditure of enormous sums of money. Los Angeles, where the congress is to be held, is the center of a region which was a comparatively desert a quarter of a century ago, but is now a fruitful orchard, made so by the genius of enterprise and a free use of water through irrigation systems.

"No one question is more intimately connected with the future development of the country west of the Missouri River than the reclamation of our arid lands by irrigation. The diversion of flowing streams, the storage of water in the mountains, its carriage down canyons and through tunnels, out upon the dry mesas and valleys, changing them from parched plains to fruitful orchards and rich fields of grass and grain, is a subject worthy the attention and encouragement of every citizen, not only of California, but of every State which contains an acre of arid land or an inch of wasting water.

"Now, therefore, I, H. H. Markham, Governor of the State of California, do hereby request the people of this State to encourage all efforts for the promotion of the foregoing congress, and to participate in the proceedings of the same."

The Charge Reduced. William Clark, who was charged with flourishing a shotgun and threatening to kill Miss Shields of Brighton, was before Superior Judge Johnson yesterday. The court denied Clark's application for discharge on a writ of habeas corpus. Clark was then allowed to plead guilty to a charge of simple assault. He will be sentenced to-day.

Peter Hanson's Funeral. The funeral of Peter Hanson, the Grand Island farmer who died a few days ago at Bartlett Springs, will take place from Masonic Temple at 10 o'clock this forenoon. It will be under the auspices of Franklin Lodge, No. 143, of which deceased was a member.

A Chance for Billy. It is understood that the Supervisors have granted County Clerk Hamilton a vacation in order that he may go to Nevada County to hunt the circus bears and monkeys that got loose in the woods there yesterday.

MRS. ARMBUSTERS STORY. Seized by Two Men, Carried into the Country and Outraged.

A young married woman named Armbuster, who lives on Front street, told the police yesterday morning that on Monday evening she was walking along M street, near Fourth, when two men drove by in a buggy and asked her where she was going. As she paid no attention to them, one jumped out, and, throwing a shawl over her head, in spite of her struggles forced her into the buggy and carried her to a cabin on the Brighton road.

During the night, she says, they repeatedly assaulted her, and about 4 o'clock in the morning went away, after securely locking the door.

Securing a nail, she picked the lock and escaped. As she was walking along the road a farmer whom she met took her in his wagon to Oak Park, whence she came home, arriving about 8 o'clock at night.

She thinks she was chloroformed, as she knew nothing after being seized until she found herself in the cabin. She says she never saw the men before, but could describe them accurately.

She shows bruises on her arms and neck to corroborate the story of her treatment, which, in the absence of any thing to the contrary, he accepted as true.

Rushing the Season. The Weather Bureau reports show the highest and lowest temperatures yesterday to have been 76° and 56°, with fresh to brisk southerly winds and partly cloudy weather prevailing.

A thunder and lightning storm passed over the city yesterday which deposited .06 of an inch of rain, which partially cleared the atmosphere of its impurities.

The barometrical readings at 5 A. M. were 30.0, and at 2:58 inches, respectively, showing a rise in the instrument, indications of which point toward good weather.

The highest and lowest temperatures one year ago yesterday were 91° and 55°, and one year ago to-day 87° and 57°, with gentle southerly winds and clear weather prevailing.

Maurice Toomey's Estate. Mrs. Justina A. C. Toomey, administrator of the estate of Maurice Toomey, deceased, filed her final account of the estate in the Superior Court, yesterday.

She says the value of the estate was $3,527, out of which sum $2,285.25 was paid out for debts and costs, and the remainder for the living expenses of the administratrix. The estate is wound up and is indebted to her in the sum of $44.

A Convict's Accidental Death. On Tuesday afternoon, about 4 o'clock, John Burke, a convict, was killed at the Folsom Prison by a rock slipping from the fastenings in a derrick in one of the quarries. Burke was serving a nine-months' term for selling liquor to Indians in one of the lower counties. He had served but two months.

Coming in Fast. The orders for school books are coming in very fast at the State Superintendent's office, seventeen being received yesterday, and at the printing office they are kept busy packing them for shipment. The receipts since September 1st have been over $5,700.

It Was No Joke. Bill Nye was locked up in jail yesterday. This particular Bill Nye is a "kid," and his juvenile pal's name is Fred Wilson. Special Officer Drew of Capitol Park arrested the lads for attempting to break into the park to look at the
