

DOYLE'S NEW FRIEND FROM ERIN.

He Came Right From Wicklow, and His Name Was Ryan.

It Cost Mr. Doyle, $250 to Indorse a Check for the Very Slick Bunco Sharp.

An exceedingly smooth young man, who gave the name of Thomas Ryan, recently played an old game with variations on William Doyle, the well-known citizen and capitalist.

He looked up Mr. Doyle's cousin in San Francisco and asked how he could find the former on his arrival here. Receiving directions, he hunted up Mr. Doyle and introduced himself. He had recently come from County Wicklow, in Ireland, he said, and Mr. Doyle's brother, who resided there, had charged him to look him up on his arrival.

He was thoroughly acquainted with the country and spoke of the different families there by name. He claimed to be a grandson of the former landlord of Mr. Doyle's father. So accurate was his knowledge and so circumstantial his narrative that there seemed to be no room for suspicion, and Mr. Doyle invited him to his house and hospitably entertained him.

The visitor stated that he had come to this country to settle up a portion of his uncle's estate and sell some property in San Francisco and Chicago. During the afternoon he and Doyle went down town, and Ryan said he expected a letter by express. They went to the office and he received a letter. It contained a check for $750, and Ryan went to the People's Bank to get it cashed.

He only wanted $250 and wished to deposit the remaining $500, asking questions about the rate of interest on term deposits. Mr. Doyle stood outside, near the door, talking to a friend, when the young man came out and asked him to come in and identify him as Thomas Ryan. Doyle did so, and he also indorsed the check. Ryan cashed the $250 and a certificate of deposit for $500, which he deposited for one year.

After they left the bank Mr. Doyle told him that he could have made much better interest by lending his money, but Ryan said he had plenty of money and did not care for the interest on such a small amount.

Ryan left the city the next day, and Doyle thought no more of the matter until the check came back from San Jose protested and with $9 costs to pay. He paid the $250, and has concluded that if any more friends from Ireland come to see him they had better bring bank notes or gold, as he is through indorsing checks. Doyle did not report the matter to the police, and says he does not intend to.

AMUSEMENTS.

At the Clunie Opera-house this evening the stock company will present a comedy-drama not before played here, entitled "New York Day by Day." It will be given under the stage direction of Andrew Waldron, and will be mounted with new scenery. There will be some new faces, new specialties and many numerous striking features. It is represented as a most entertaining play, full of action, alive with human interest and sustained activity in all the scenes.

The box-office for the Ward-James engagement opens at the office of the Clunie Opera-house this morning. We have not thought it necessary to refer to this engagement, which begins on the 27th inst., in any detail heretofore, nor is it necessary to do so now. Mr. Ward and Louis James are too well known here, and too popular as dramatic artists to call for anything more than an announcement of their dates. They are to be surrounded by the same company that supported them in San Francisco, and which is represented to be level with their high merits. In the 27th these artists will present the comedy "The Lion's Mouth," and on the 28th "The Lion's Mouth," both pieces standing in the front rank in their repertoire.

The Barton Monitor has this to say of Governor and Mrs. Fuller's recent visit to California: "Governor and Mrs. Fuller have returned from their trip to California and the Midwinter Fair, and their flying visit to the States of Oregon and Washington. They reached home in excellent health, and delighted with what they saw, with the cordial welcome which was extended to them, and with the spirit of pride and loyalty to the mother State which they found in all the Vermonters resident on the Pacific Coast. From the time of their arrival in Oakland, where they were met by a committee of citizens, until their departure from San Francisco, the time was filled with a round of receptions, and of courteous and devoted attentions, shown them not only by those having their entertainment in charge, but by all of the many officials and citizens with whom they came in contact. The spirit shown by the Vermonters was delightful, and they made no secret of their pleasure in having the Vermont Executive as their guest."

It was snowing a little at the Summit yesterday, but the main body of the storm seemed to have passed eastward.

THEOSOPHY.

Abstract of Last Evening's Address at the Headquarters.

"Is Theosophy Worth Living For?" was the theme chosen for the address at the Theosophical Headquarters last evening.

The speaker began by referring to the general state of unrest now prevalent in the world, and mentioned, as a coincidence, that the Indian Sagas long ago foretold the disturbances—natural, social and political—now taking place in this closing cycle.

"Then the universal tendency to the study of what is called the 'supernatural' was noted, and the coining of new words to express facts new to science. This was said to further prove that the world is in a state of transition; that at this period the forces which constitute the human being must assert themselves in one or another direction, and that, according as the higher or lower, the progressive or retrogressive, the spiritual or material principles prevail, the tide of evolution will be turned for better or for worse.

"The thirst for knowledge prevades all humanity. Old religious doctrines are proclaimed insufficient; old scientific pretenses are exploded. Men and women think, examine, experiment with untrammeled liberty. The unknown self within, the infinite unknown within, become daily more patient, and our reflection tells us that the realm of the unknown is as much greater than the realm of the known as the ocean is greater than a pebble lying on its shore; and not less surely that there is something more in reserve for us than the present sublunary life.

"Resort to science and to religion fail to satisfy our questionings as to origin, purpose and destiny of life, as well as of justice and suffering. Baffled in the quest the earnest inquirer is introduced to a grand philosophy, old as the world, preserved in secret through the ages, and now newly divulged. He examines it to find the basis of all the beliefs and creeds the world has ever known, and to realize that Theosophy is unveiling more of the truth than has ever been unveiled before, and the result of his investigations proves to him that it is worth living for, and, if need come, dying for."

THE LECTURE ASSOCIATION.

The Mendelssohn Quintet Club for Wednesday Evening.

The character of the entertainments given by the Mendelssohn Quintet Club is too well known in Sacramento to make an extended notice necessary. As the final entertainment of the Lecture Association the event of Wednesday evening will probably be signalized by an unprecedented attendance of our most appreciative citizens, Sacramento has an enviable reputation throughout the State for its musical taste and culture and the Mendelssohn is one of its high favorites. Reserved seats may be obtained at Purnell's book store.

BRIEF NOTES.

Ah Fun and Jim Lee are to be tried today in the Police Court for conducting lotteries.

The trial of Ed Kripp, charged with renting a room for a Chinese lottery, has been set for to-day in the Police Court.

Ah Woo, the Chinaman who was wounded by Special Officer Wallace while trying to escape from him, was taken to the County Hospital yesterday. Harry Hinsel, charged with petit larceny, has demanded a jury trial in the Police Court. He thinks he has had enough of Justice Devine's medicine of late.

It is said that some of the wholesale merchants on J street between Second and Third, object to having the electric railway extended through that block, as they need all the space for the maneuvers of their trucks.

A Chinaman reports that on Saturday night he was beaten by a gang of young boys on Nineteenth street, near J. One of them, he says, knocked him insensible with a cobblestone. There is room in the City Jail just now for the whole gang.

"Let Children Come to Me."

The funeral of Myrtle Blair took place Saturday afternoon from the residence of her parents, 1818 Eleventh street, Rev. H. Bell of the United Brethren church officiating. The pall-bearers were six of her little Sunday-school classmates. Eva Erlingue, Estelle Nelson, Edith Nelson, Edna Niles, Lillie Sandal and Mabel White. Little Myrtle was held in high esteem by all her friends and playmates, a large number of whom were present, bringing beautiful floral pieces. Mr. and Mrs. Blair are deeply grateful to the friends who kindly offices extended during their sad affliction.

Auction on Tuesday.

At 10 A. M. to-morrow Bell & Co. will sell at auction all the choice furniture in the residence at 1715 Seventeenth street, consisting in part of four elegant parlor pieces, wicker rockers, parlor pictures and ornaments, bedroom set, mattresses, pillows, dining-room furniture, lounges, Brussels carpets, kitchen requisites, crockery, lawn mower, garden hose, tools, etc.

Sewage Disposal Plans.

A number of citizens met yesterday with members of the City Trustees and Board of Health to examine the drawings of Engineer Newbery's plan for disposing of the city's sewage. The matter will be further considered at a meeting to be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

An Owner Found.

The cart, harness and cross-cut saw which were found in the brush on the outskirts of the city, prove to belong to Supervisor Curtis, who saw the item in Saturday's Record-Union and notified the police that they were his.

Rumored Shooting.

Very late last night there was a rumor that a man at the Railroad Hospital had shot himself with a revolver. Efforts were made to call up the hospital by telephone, but no response could be got, and the report could not be verified.

TERRIBLY BURNED.

A Lamp Explosion May Yet Cost a Woman Her Life.

The alarm which was turned in shortly after 11 o'clock last night was caused by the explosion of a lamp in the bagnio at 520 L street. The burning oil fell upon a woman named Mollie Cooper, and in an instant she was shrouded in flame. She rushed shrieking out upon the sidewalk, where several men were standing, but none of them had presence of mind sufficient to render her any assistance. Another woman, known as "Big Annie," ran to her assistance with a quilt and smothered the flames, her own hands being badly burned while doing it.

The unfortunate woman was taken into a house across the street, the patrol wagon sent for, and on its arrival she was taken to the Receiving Hospital. It was there found that her lower limbs were one mass of burns, her arms and back terribly burned, as well as her throat and face.

The novel in which the fire started was consumed, as well as those on each side of it, and, as a fresh wind was blowing, it seemed likely that the conflagration might extend.

The burned houses were not of much value, and they were insured. It was stated that one belonged to R. Boden, another to an estate known as "Big Annie." A fourth building was considerably damaged. The fire was splendidly handled, and the firemen all worked like beavers, preventing any further spread of the flames.

Shortly after the first alarm was turned in a second alarm was sounded from Third and M streets for the same fire. The uptown engines came down, but were ordered back by the Chief, as he was able to handle the fire with the force present and did not wish to leave the balance of the city unprotected.

Expensive Economy.

Some people begrudge the little money that an Alcock's Porous Plaster costs, and then when they are racked with pain from a lame back, or from the soreness arising from a cold, they will spend any amount of money to relieve the pain. If they only had one of these well-known plasters on hand they would be saved a vast amount of suffering and be considerably richer. At the first sign of stiffness of the joints apply one of these plasters without any delay. The soreness will be greatly relieved at once and soon disappear entirely. It will be money saved to have them on hand, to say nothing of the comfort they bring. Dr. Parrot's Pills contain no irritating matter.
