

SEWAGE DISPOSAL.

Report of Mechanical Engineer G. A. Stoddard.

He Thinks the City Should Get Plans or Ideas From Other Engineers.

The report made by Mechanical Engineer Stoddard to the Board of Trustees on Monday night not having been published in full, he has sent the following communication to the Record-Union:

Eds. RECORD-UNION: Will you kindly allow me a little space in your paper, which is designed to be the dispenser of correct information on subjects of general interest? I have never been my wish to crowd myself into public notice through the papers or otherwise, as it is exceedingly distasteful to me.

Mr. Newbery says: "Stoddard did not advance a single idea that he would wish to incorporate in his report. I did not intend to add to his report, nor submit plans for his or any other system, neither was I asked to do so, nor have I any personal interest in any scheme, contract or agreement to be made in any way or other. While I certainly have my own ideas, I carefully avoided anything that might be taken as a prejudicial report."

MR. STODDARD'S REPORT. To the Honorable Board of Trustees of Sacramento, California. I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 2nd inst., requesting that I should examine the plans and specifications for the proposed system of sewerage for this city, as submitted by Mr. Newbery.

The proposed plan of flushing, as I understand it from Mr. Newbery (though not otherwise explained), I think is new, or mostly so, and can be considered as an experiment, should think the city might hesitate at particularly such plans. It appears to me very uncertain of satisfactory operation, and I believe it to be expensive to maintain.

Change in Railroad Time. Commencing next Sunday, the train that now leaves this city at 10:30 o'clock in the morning for Woodland, Willows, Red Bluff and Redding will extend its trip beyond the latter place to Dunsmuir, arriving there at 8:30 in the evening.

A TRICK WORTH KNOWING. If One Only Possesses the Necessary Nerve to Carry It Out. A member of the Industrial Army did a nifty thing yesterday on Seventh street, close to the Courthouse, and one that few men would have thought of.

EVERYBODY'S COLUMN.

Correspondence of Interest to the General Public. Under this heading the RECORD-UNION will publish short letters from correspondents on topics of interest to the general public.

That $1,000 Offers. Eds. RECORD-UNION: I see in the Record-Union of yesterday that Mr. Downer made a statement before the Board of City Trustees on the clear water proposition, in which my name figured conspicuously.

Eds. RECORD-UNION: I see in the Record-Union of yesterday that Mr. Downer made a statement before the Board of City Trustees on the clear water proposition, in which my name figured conspicuously. He said that he was an interested party, and just told enough to suit his purpose or that of the company, but nothing for me.

Those Good Populist Farmers. Eds. RECORD-UNION: About this time of the year farmers are meeting in political conventions and "resolving" that everybody but they are responsible for the "awful condition of the poor laboring men."

Obstructing Officers. How the Small Police Force is Sometimes Baffled. At Tuesday night's fire on Front street a number of men refused to make way for the patrol wagon as it was being placed in position to receive Mrs. Rowland, who was badly burned.

Weather Notes. The Weather Bureau reports show the highest and lowest temperatures yesterday to have been 82° and 63°, with high northerly winds and clear weather prevailing.

STATE'S AGRICULTURAL RESOURCES.

A Valuable Publication by the Board of Agriculture.

Brief Review of Some of the More Important Features of Its Report for the Fiscal Year.

The report of the State Agricultural Society for the fiscal year ending February 1, 1894, practically covering the season of 1893, has just been issued in a neatly-bound volume of 366 pages, from the State Printing office. It was compiled by Secretary Edwin F. Smith, and is a very complete compendium of information concerning California's productive resources.

In addition to the regular report of the State Board of Agriculture (recently published in full in these columns) and other routine matter covering transactions of the society for 1893, this book contains many interesting papers, among which will be found the report of citrus fairs, a paper on "The Culture of Sugar Beets," by Hon. Richard Gird of San Bernardino County; the review, in full, of "Industries of California," prepared by General N. P. Chipman for the State Board of Trade; an essay on "Agriculture," by Captain T. B. Merry of Los Angeles, who was one of the World's Fair Commissioners to that country; instructions for seeding and irrigating alfalfa; an interesting paper on "The Dairy Interest of California and its Future Possibilities," by Robert Ashburner of San Mateo County; a review of the wheat, flour and barley market for the season of 1893, by T. C. Friedlander, Secretary of the San Francisco Produce Exchange; statistical tables by Secretary Smith, for wheat, barley, oats and corn, as well as valuable statistics on wine, brandy, hops and live stock, for the year.

There is also an interesting and valuable review of the mineral industry of California, prepared by the statistician of the State Mining Bureau, Oscar Dreyer, and J. J. Gray, State Mineralogist. By special request of Secretary Smith, Secretary Le Long of the State Board of Horticulture has revised and adapted his report for this able paper, "The Horticultural Industry," as prepared for the Resources of California, which publication is now exhausted. These reports now give a short descriptive review of the resources of each county. As a rule the districts embrace but one county, and they are a most creditable showing of the progress of the industry in each county, and they will prove of interest to all concerned.

In addition will be found therein the latest and most accurate map of the State, and some neat half-tone cuts showing the mode and manner of harvesting cereals, citrus fruit culture, etc. All in all, it is a valuable book, showing great improvement over the usual make-up, and as it is the intention of the State Board of Agriculture to improve it each year, it will furnish annually to all farmers a resume of the crops and products of each county of the State. The book may be had free on application to Secretary Edwin F. Smith, at his office in the new Pavilion.
