

CARPENTER'S CASH WAS LOOTED,

But Sheriff O'Neil Recovered $70 of the Amount.

W. D. Payne Tells How the Industrial Food was Portionned Out—The Fort Abandoned.

"Colonel" Carpenter-Inman, the whilom leader of the Sutter Fort Industrial Army, has proven himself to be a rank-above-around, an embezzler, a fraud and a liar.

He was one of four of the officers of the army who robbed the men of the money contributed by the citizens to aid them in getting out of the city, and the story he told when arrested was a bare-faced lie, in keeping with his former false professions of remorse for his past deeds and assurances of reformation.

Yesterday morning W. D. Payne, the young printer who had acted as Adjutant of the army, confessed to Sheriff O'Neil that Carpenter and himself had buried $75 under the tree where they were captured on the river road leading to Clarksburg. He said that $317, the alleged proceeds of the minstrel show, were divided between the four officers—Carpenter, himself, Logan and the Treasurer, and Savage.

PAYNE'S CONFESSION.

Payne's confession was taken down in writing, and is as follows: To the Sheriff of Sacramento County, Tuesday morning, about 10 o'clock, I was informed by Sheriff O'Neil that Carpenter and myself had buried $75 under the tree where they were captured on the river road leading to Clarksburg. He said that $317, the alleged proceeds of the minstrel show, were divided between the four officers—Carpenter, himself, Logan and the Treasurer, and Savage.

Sheriff O'Neil immediately started with Payne to get the money. In the meantime William J. Kelly of Sutterville, of whom Carpenter and Payne had borrowed the horse and cart that took Carpenter when the latter fled, and meeting a RECORD-UNION reporter told him of Carpenter's actions while at his place.

He did not know where Carpenter was when the latter fled, but the Colonel represented himself as a Government detective in search of a couple of counterfeiters. He displayed about $100 and said the Governor would pay him liberally for his services. He hired Kelly's horse and cart, and got the latter's hired man to take himself and Payne to a point below Freeport.

CARPENTER SQUEALS.

The reporter went at once to the Sheriff's office and informed Under Sheriff Steve Hooney of what Kelly had said. Hooney went with the reporter and Carpenter what he had done with the money.

He denied having had any money, when Hooney informed him that Payne had confessed to having "planted" $70 under the tree near the river bank, and that he had gone with the Sheriff to get it, that it was known by Carpenter. Then Carpenter, who had not yet reached a man afflicted with the ague, and owned up to the truth of Kelly's statement. He told Hooney to telephone Sheriff O'Neil to have Payne dig up the other sack, which was buried three feet from the spot where the $70 was cached.

Rooney telephoned to Freeport and learned that Sheriff O'Neil had not yet reached there. The operator at that point was told to inform him when he got there of Carpenter's confession.

When Sheriff O'Neil received this information he asked Payne if there were not two lots of money cached, and the latter admitted there were. On reaching the spot they found that Carpenter had scratched over for a distance of several feet and the coin carried away.

Inquiry among the people in the neighborhood revealed the fact that some little Portuguese boys who visited the spot out of curiosity discovered the corner of a handkerchief peeping through the ground and pulled it out. It contained three $20 gold pieces wrapped in a $10 gold note.

The latter they took to be worthless bit of wrapping paper and threw it into the river, but the coin was divided among them.

This the Sheriff succeeded in recovering. The other $70, however, was on a small purse, which Sheriff O'Neil got a tip as to where it went to, and the persons who helped themselves to the money had turned out at once, or they will find themselves in trouble.

The money that was recovered will be turned over to the men at the fort, and they are mighty glad to get it, as their treasury and later are empty.

AT SNOWFLAKE PARK.

Yesterday morning a RECORD-UNION reporter visited Snowflake Park and found there were just 500 men remaining of the army which before Colonel Smith and her Oakland regiment departed contained upward of 1,000 men.

The statement of Colonel Denning Smith on Tuesday that Mrs. Ann Denning, the Commander-in-Chief, had resigned and gone to San Francisco is denied by the men at Snowflake Park. They say that Mrs. Smith resigned as Commander-in-Chief in order to take a much needed rest, but she was immediately after elected Treasurer of the regiment, and all the money on hand turned over to her.

The recruiting officer told the reporter that men were still being taken into the ranks, and before they leave the city the remaining forces will be greatly augmented.

There were two sick men in the camp yesterday morning, and about noon one of them was taken to the County Hospital suffering from an aggravated case of malarial fever.

AT SUTTER'S FORT.

Yesterday morning the men at the fort were uttering imprecations on Carpenter, Savage, Logan and Payne for their theft of the funds of the regiment.

One of the banners that had done service in the parade announcing that Colonel Carpenter would resign, and that Monday night's entertainment was made to read: "Colonel Carpenter Leaves Tomorrow for Folsom."

Toward the noon hour the men were notified that word was received to the effect that they would have to vacate the fort at 2 o'clock, and the announcement was received with applause and favorable comment by them, as they appeared to be anxious to leave.

THE ARMY MOVES OUT.

THEIR LABORS ENDED.

The Session of the Superintendents Closed.

Many Amendments of the School Law Discussed and Recommended by Them.

The third session of the County Superintendents' Convention opened yesterday morning with the seats well filled. The members had most of them visited the State Printing Office by invitation of State Printer Johnston, had been shown through the various departments and their workings explained. They came away well pleased with what they had seen and with a better idea of the work of the State in printing the text-books than most of the laymen.

Superintendent Anderson called attention to the fact that the Legislature, while providing for biennial meetings of the County Superintendents, had made no appropriation for incidental expenses, and he thought some provision for that purpose should be made.

On motion of Armstrong, the proceedings of the convention were ordered printed in the official journal.

The Committee on Courses of Study reported that on account of the great size of the State, and diversity of interests, the schools would not be benefited by a uniform course of study, but that sectional uniformity would be both practical and beneficial, and it was recommended that the Superintendents of the several sections and interested parties at such times and places as may suit their convenience, and that each section, consisting of from five to ten counties, should be organized for the purpose of studying and reporting on the subject of a uniform course of study.

The Committee on Legislation presented the age at which teachers may be granted certificates at 20 years, except in such cases as applicants furnish evidence of having received a college education, or having training in institutions whose diplomas are recognized by our State Board of Education, when they may receive certificates at 18 years of age.

Colley explained that some of the Superintendents thought it would raise the standard of teachers' proficiency and usefulness to add two years to the age certificates might be granted, unless the applicant had received one or more years of special training to fit them for it. He did not believe in Susan graduating from the grammar school and immediately receiving a certificate enabling her to teach in the same school.

Wagner proposed the motion, Harvard, Yale and other institutions having graduated many bright men at 18 and even at 16 years. Many girls in this State are well fitted to teach at 18 years of age.

Superintendent Anderson held that the law recognized two classes of certificates, one for those who had received the law in Section 1773, vests in the County Boards the discretion of ascertaining the fitness and ability of teachers and granting or withholding certificates, and the other for those who had received the law in Section 1773, vests in the County Boards the discretion of ascertaining the fitness and ability of teachers and granting or withholding certificates, and the other for those who had received the law in Section 1773, vests in the County Boards the discretion of ascertaining the fitness and ability of teachers and granting or withholding certificates.

The discussion was long and warm, but the motion was laid on the table.

A motion to recommend that Election Boards in bond or tax school elections be paid for by the State, was defeated after considerable discussion.

A recommendation that the total amount of bonds issued in any district shall be 10 per cent. of the assessed value was carried.

Wood presented a resolution recommending that the Board of Trustees of the State Normal School be directed to issue a duplicate diploma in case proof is shown that the original has been lost.

He justified the case of a young lady whose diploma was lost through the carelessness of her own, but was refused a duplicate.

Superintendent Anderson said that cases had been known where diplomas had disappeared, and the original name being a different one, the holder of the diploma used in other States. Holders of diplomas must take care of them or run the risk of losing them.

The following Resolutions presented their report, thanking Superintendent Anderson for the earnest, energetic and able manner in which he had presided over the convention, and in appreciation of the faithful manner in which Secretary Stone and the Assistant Secretary have performed their duties; that the kindly cooperation and hearty convention by the Trustees of the Crocker Art Gallery and the citizens of Sacramento, and the warm hospitality extended to its members, and such as to merit and bespeak their highest commendation and gratitude; sincerely thanking State Printer Johnston for his courtesy in allowing the opportunity to visit the State Printing Office; one extending the thanks of the convention to the management and reporters of the RECORD-UNION and to the public schools of the present semi-annual payment of taxes and stating that it was only of benefit to the rich, was unanimously adopted.

One providing that all laws and amendments affecting provisions of charters comprehended under the Municipal Corporation Act shall originate with the city working under such charter, or else provide for keeping such charter intact by saving clauses, and also that all provisions of such charters as have been repealed by such legislation be re-enacted, was referred to the Committee on Municipal Legislation.

The following resolutions were tabled: Asking that the State Constitution be amended so as to allow the State school fund to be applied to the support of kindergarten and high schools; and that Superintendents oppose any move on the part of school boards to reduce teachers' salaries; that it was the sense of the Convention that the State Superintendents favor professional training of teachers, and recommend that instead of increasing the capacity of present normal schools, new ones be erected when needed; that the grades of kindergarten be authorized, and a Director of Kindergartens be authorized.

The announcement was made by W. J. McCarmick, 701 Pierce street, San Francisco, Cal., that he had received a duplicate diploma in case proof is shown that the original has been lost.
