The RECORD-UNION and WEEKLY UNION are the only papers on the Coast, outside of San Francisco, that receive the full Associated Press Dispatches from all parts of the world.

Outside of San Francisco, they have no competitors, either in influence or home and general circulation throughout the State.

THE RETURN TO REASON.

The decision of the called meeting of the Railway Union on Saturday declaring the strike ended placed the strikers who called that meeting in a far better light and paved the way to total clearance of the present trouble.

For we understand it not to be merely selfishness nor pressure of circumstances that induced the action. On the contrary, the greater burden of opinion among the men is that they had been hasty and unreasonable and that they had not fully estimated the danger and unwisdom of swearing away their right to be free will agents; that they did not until very recently fully realize that they had actually put their liberties, self-respect and free will absolutely and apparently irrevocably into the keeping of a committee far away that exacted such obedience as comes only from slaves and never from free American citizens.

The men also awoke to the importance of another truth, that they were being hoodwinked; when their leaders had been telling, abjuring and commanding them not to believe the newspapers, to discredit the Associated Press dispatches, to reject everything they saw in the city papers, and take the news only from strike leaders, they were being deceived and led blindly.

They know now that what the local daily press has published was news obtained in the ordinary way and through long established and reliable news-gathering channels; that the local reports were scrupulously correct, at least that they were just as nearly exact as it was possible to make them under all the circumstances of turmoil and rumor, and falsehood and fear and foolishness on the street the past three weeks.

But the strike is over, reason is resuming sway, and the avenues of commerce pulse once more with the beat of trade and travel. The supremacy of the laws has been maintained and the capacity of the Government to prove its worth has been made clear to the people. Now let us bend every energy to the speediest possible undoing and righting, so far as possible, of the evil of the past.

So far as financial loss is concerned to strikers, to producer, to shipper, to carrier, that it is impossible to replace. It must go along with the folly of the most iniquitous strike of history, to the debit side of the ledger, against which not one credit will ever be entered.

But for the future we can gather our scattered energies and devote our best efforts to the restoration of normal conditions, the practice of economy, the invoking of mercy from creditors for debtors, the building up of a sentiment that this is of all times in the world one for forbearance, for relaxation of business action, for mutual helpfulness, for any and every exercise of kindness that will tend to save the unfortunate from bankruptcy, and that will put the business of producers, dealers, workers and all others safely upon foot again.

As for the lessons of the folly of the month, they are many and must be considered independently. They cannot be ignored; they must be made valuable to all by calmly reviewing them and impressing their truths upon the public mind.

A WORD TO EMPLOYERS OF MILLTIAMEN.

While the strike was on and business suspended, employers were glad enough to have such of their young men as are National Guardsmen obey orders and take up arms to hasten restoration of affairs to their normal condition.

comes the story that since by aid of the Guardsmen the wheels of industry and trade have been once more put in motion, employers of the militiamen are notifying them to hasten to their civic posts or discharge will be visited upon them.

Of course, the Guardsmen cannot leave without incurring the penalties of the law. Such as have received the notice from their employers are, therefore, placed in an annoying position.

It seems incredible that any employer would do as we are assured some have done in this matter. Human selfishness it was not thought would ever become as brutal as that. If there is an employer in the land who is so far unfeeling and insensible to his own interests as to dismiss from service any man who is under arms at command of the State, simply because he cannot at once return to work, that man's name should be given to the press to be held up to public scorn and odium.

The battle in which the Guardsmen have been engaged is in the direct interest of every employer of labor; of every one having a business establishment; of every one resting any right upon the inviolability of a contract; of every man free by virtue of the constitutional guarantees of the Republic.

The Guardsmen are not saving their railroad company but the State. They are demonstrating its capacity to protect citizens in their inherent and inalienable rights. At such a time as this, therefore, to punish the Guardsmen for duty done and benefaction to business is scarcely short of treason. It certainly is incitement to desertion, and that is a crime.

We trust that such employers as have sent the word complained of, to their employes, will at once recall it. They owe the National Guard a debt they can never fully pay. They should rise equal to comprehension of the important truth that the Guardsmen have aided in establishing more firmly than ever a principle which the overthrow of which every employer would lose control of his business, suffer loss of all his gains, and become a being scarce one remove above a slave, since all he has, enjoys or aspires to, all his right of ownership and control, all his right to free speech, all his right to pursue happiness and to worship God as he chooses, rests upon the law and it alone, which his employes as a Guardsman is maintaining against dangerous assault.

A PITIFUL SPECTACLE.

One disgraceful fact will go down in California history that will be ineffaceable—namely, that with only one exception the metropolitan daily press, in the State's hour of sorest trial, abandoned a principle that is the only security that the press has for free expression, and went over to the side of treachery, revolt, lawlessness and anarchy.

It boldly applauded, gave aid and comfort to, and defended that which has done no human being any good, threatened the stability of free institutions, and visited upon the people of this State almost incalculable loss—loss from which recovery will not be fully had, no matter how diligently industry may apply itself, for five years to come.

There is in the midst of the solemnity and seriousness of this deplorable truth one gleam of humor, grim and ghastly humor. It flashes out of the position of the metropolitan daily press with regard to the boycott, the support it has given to it, its advocacy and defense of it, from the last days of June until the middle of July, when cowardly fear taught these newspapers discretion. That position has disarmed them, it has committed them to a policy and practice that may at any moment be employed by an antagonistic or revengeful body to crush them.

Let anyone of these superservicable and purblind newspapers now dare to cross blades with a single industry related to the newspaper interest, and it will be at the mercy of that force. There will be turned against it its own weaponry; from its own columns the enemy will draw ammunition to be used against it; the boycott will be applied to it with the certainty that the newspaper will be either absolutely helpless or else reduced to the nauseating task of eating every word they have printed and every sentiment they have uttered during the late insane strike, and infamous boycott period.

Indeed, the San Francisco daily press—with one exception—in the light of its own words, is to-day the most pitiable spectacle of the era; a spectacle that excites the contempt, as well as the mirth, of every sensible person who has watched the course of these journals.

There is in strong contrast to this shame that the metropolitan press has brought upon the profession the loyal and law-abiding attitude of seven out of ten of all the newspapers of the interior. They have not permitted passion, prejudice or greed to blind their patriotism, blind them to the truth or obscure the principle for which battle has been done.

The boycott is dead, but the San Francisco press can claim no part in the honor of its taking off; conspiracy in the form of aid and guile of freedom and treason under the mask of the sympathetic strike have been throttled, but the San Francisco press did all it could to prevent that act of justice.

The vicious assault of disloyalty upon the most vital principle upon which the Republic stands has been beaten down and defeated, but the San Francisco press cannot share in the honors; it closed its eyes to the schemes of anarchy, and saw not the flag, the Constitution and free institutions in the struggle; it had for the chief magistrate of the Nation only rebuke and abuse for doing his simple duty in extending the Federal arm to stay an ambitious dictatorship and maintain the guarantees under which even the lawless preaching press of San Francisco is permitted to afflict the day and hour.

Bathing Suit Stolen. Joe Azevedo was arrested yesterday afternoon, charged with having stolen a bathing suit from the swimming baths. It was stated that there had been a number of suits stolen lately, and the proprietor intends to prosecute any offenders caught. Azevedo says another boy persuaded him to take the suit.

HEALTH OF THE STATE. The Death Rate for June Was Exceptionally Small.

Dr. J. R. Laine, Secretary of the State Board of Health, in his report for the month of June, says: "Reports from 89 cities, towns, villages, and sanitary districts, aggregating a population of 759,881, show a mortality of 827, or a death rate of 1.08 per thousand for June, or 12.96 per thousand per annum."

There were 148 deaths from consumption, 53 from pneumonia, 26 from acute bronchitis, 5 from congestion of the lungs, 10 from diarrhea and dysentery, 10 from cholera infantum, 49 from other diseases of the stomach and bowels, 9 from diphtheria, 1 from croup, 2 from scarlatina, 1 from measles, 10 from whooping-cough, 10 from typhoid fever, 3 from malarial fevers, 14 from cerebro-spinal fever, 32 from cancer, 1 from erysipelas, 29 from diseases of the heart, 7 from alcoholism, from la grippe and 427 from all other causes.

There were no deaths from smallpox, though it is reported as lingering in Goose Lake valley.

PREVAILING DISEASES. Reports of prevailing diseases in 82 localities outside the cities and towns, give 25 cases of pneumonia, 64 of bronchitis, 10 of cholera infantum, 10 of the lungs, 154 of diarrhea, 51 of dysentery, 26 of cholera morbus, 23 of cholera infantum, 2 of diphtheria, 1 of croup, 7 of scarlatina, 17 of measles, 30 of whooping-cough, 29 of la grippe, 25 of typhoid fever, 18 of malarial fevers, 11 of cerebro-spinal fever, 13 of erysipelas, 64 of rheumatism, 31 of neuralgia, 31 of tonsillitis and 23 of pharyngitis.

Measles were reported epidemic at Long Branch, Pomona and Anaheim, and epidemic-cough at Upper Lake. Interruption of the mails, by reason of the general strike of employees of the California railroads, has prevented a full report for June, but it is believed that the average of mortality is about as given above, which is very low, and would indicate a highly favorable condition of health throughout the State.

A COSTLY GAME.

A Horse Materially Increases the Expense of Playing Pedro. Two young men hitched a horse last night a little below the Capital Hotel and entered a saloon to toy with the fascinations of Pedro.

They became wrapped up in the game and two hours sped away unconsciously to them. The animal, however, was not so oblivious to the passing of time, and yearning for a change, he got it, too, breaking the tie-strap, he walked ahead till one wheel of the buggy came in contact with a post that supports the trolley wire, and the shafts were snapped in two.

The horse then calmly walked over to the southeast corner of Seventh street and stood quietly for some time, having been notified of their mishap, took the rig to the stable and then went back to figure up what their game of Pedro had cost them.

Mighty is the Truth!

And it will prevail. Against underhand competition and spurious imitation, the genuine efficacy of the great national tonic, Hester's Senna Bitters, always has and always will prevail. The public recognize it everywhere as the chief preventive of malaria, and a reliable specific for dyspepsia, constipation, nervousness, rheumatism, kidney trouble, biliousness and loss of appetite. It will drive out irresponsible dealers to compete with it by indirect means and will continue to fall upon the heads, and it may be said, the pockets of those making them. Through the length and breadth of the American continent it is the acknowledged household remedy, reliable and prompt. It relies upon facts upon public experience and upon the emphatic commendation of the medical fraternity.
