

HYDRAULIC MINING.

Annual Convention of the California Association. MANY DELEGATES PRESENT FROM OTHER COAST STATES.

Governor Markham and Congressmen-Elect Barkham and Hilborn Address the Morning Meeting-The Afternoon Session Devoted to Addresses and Papers on Mining Topics.

Special to the Record-Union. SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19.-The third annual convention of the California Miners' Association convened in Metropolitan Hall at 10:30 this morning.

Among the attendants this morning were a score of delegates representing Nevada, Washington, Idaho, Colorado and Montana.

An additional liveliness was given to the convention hall by the presence of the Newcastle Brass Band, of eighteen pieces, which came in with the Placer County delegation.

When President J. A. Neff had called the convention to order, letters of regret were read from Governor-elect Budd, who is too ill to attend; Governor Richards of Montana, Governor Sheldon of South Dakota, and Senator White and Congressman Powers of California.

Governor Markham was then introduced, and was greeted with enthusiastic applause. He said: "This is a great pleasure for me to meet you here. At first I thought it would be impossible for me to attend, as after weeks' absence from the Capitol I found my table a foot deep with debris, and thought I would need the aid of some honest miner to help me make a clean-up."

"I have left my work and come here without the slightest preparation to make such a speech as you are endeavoring to. But I know that the heart of the miner is always charitable. I am satisfied that your stay here will be made pleasant by the people of San Francisco. No city has a better reputation for hospitality."

"Who came to California first and laid the foundation of this magnificent city? The miner! Where is there a city that has been a truer friend of the miner? I have been charged with being a friend to the miner, and I will say that if I am any one of you is equally guilty. [Laughter.] In my speech at the World's Fair last year I said what I thought of the mining industry of this State, and with your permission I will repeat it here. I desired to insinuate in the minds of the people of the United States what I thought they could afford to do in assisting the gold-mining industry of California."

The Governor proceeded to read from his Chicago speech, which dwelt upon the magnitude of the gold-mining industry of the State and bristled with statistics. It declared that there are still in our hills and mountains as much gold as has been taken out, and urged that the Government should aid in hydraulic mining resumed and carried on as a national proposition, in such a manner as not to injure agriculture. These views, the Governor said, he held, and this expression drew out prolonged applause from the convention.

He said that the mining industry of this State has received from Congress but one-half of what it costs to run the Government for a single day. The aid has been insignificant, a mere bagatelle compared with what the California miner has done for the country.

of impounding dams if Congress will do the same. The concluding paper was by A. H. Ricketts, on Interior Department rulings regarding mineral lands.

At the Metropolitan Theater last night the Waites, hyphenated mediums, gave another exhibition to a large audience. It was even stranger and more mysterious than that of the first night.

At the conclusion of the Governor's address the Chair announced a recess of twenty minutes for the selection of a Committee on Credentials, and that meanwhile Governor Markham would hold a reception on the platform.

When the convention was again called to order President Neff announced the appointment of a Committee on Credentials as follows: Delegates McBride of Nevada, Bryington of Sierra, R. G. Hart of Shasta, K. C. Myers of Siskiyou, Taylor of Plumas, J. L. Gould of Placer, Crawford of El Dorado, H. H. Reardon of Butte, J. J. Lane of Calaveras, A. Carrigan of San Francisco, A. B. Call of Alameda, C. C. Derby of Yuba, E. C. Loftus of Tuolumne and W. R. Thomas of Alameda.

Congressman-elect Barkham being called upon, spoke in relation to the mining industry. He said that Judge Temple's decision in the debris litigation was unquestionably correct; that the rights of the farmers must be protected. But he believed that the Government of the United States should make sufficient appropriations to build debris dams, in proportion to the number of acres of debris, and permit the mines to be worked.

"We want," said the speaker, "to educate the people of the nation to understand that we have untold millions of gold locked up in the mountains, and that it only needs Government aid to get it out. He promised to use his best efforts in Congress to bring about the desired result."

The convention then adjourned for the noon recess. In the afternoon session the Committee on Credentials reported that 621 delegates, including representatives from Washington, Idaho, Nevada, California and Montana, were entitled to seats.

Chairman Neff appointed as a Committee on Order of Business Julian Sonntag, E. T. Power, A. Tradler, Grant J. Taggart and R. H. Campbell.

The remainder of the afternoon session was devoted to addresses and papers on mining topics. Marcus D. Borland, a Congressman-elect Hilborn spoke briefly, followed by Lieutenant W. E. C. Hasson with a paper on electrical transmissions applied to mining.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER. Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U.S. Gov't Report

It is not for nothing that the evidence was patent that masterly skill had directed her vocal development and laid the lines for her guidance in music. Her voice is not greatly stronger than before she went away. It is sweeter by far, however, and her capability for sympathetic effects is wonderfully augmented. She sings, not with vigor and great volume of tone, but with a delicacy, refinement and flexibility that only the very, very few equal.

It is now evident the people want neither pledges nor promises from political parties. They have grown tired of these and have burst the bonds of partisan fealty because they are determined that deeds and works shall take the place of delusive words.

Consistency is not a dagger, a torch and a bludgeon. It takes its place by the side of that other device of the devil, the logical conclusion. These twin demagogic inventions have gone together through the gadsden earth and whosoever they went they did, sois shivered, blood flowed and the winds went whirling around a world wrapped in mourning. There was never a sin or a fact built around the shrinking form of a martyr that was not constructed by order of a logical conclusion.
