AT DEER PARK.

One of the charming resorts in the Sierra Nevada.

A correspondent who is among the happy visitors at the Deer Park Inn, near Truckee, writes as follows of the good times the guests are having at this delightful resort:

"Trout are biting greedily in the Truckee river now, within a mile or two of Deer Park. Colonel W. P. Redding of San Francisco and Dr. Robinson yesterday caught twenty-five beautiful specimens on their way to the Inn. They dropped off the stage near the house and fished along three or four hours, with the above result, which they said were just twice as many as they caught in four days of continuous fishing at Webber's Lake, from which place they have just come."

"Two gentlemen brought home fifty-one splendid trout on the 21st, being gone from the Inn only six hours. All were caught in the Truckee. The largest one weighed three pounds and the whole string twenty-five pounds.

"I don't know where one could go to find better fishing, or better fish, or a better cook to prepare them for the table than in Deer Park waters and the kitchen of Deer Park Inn."

"Our house has been steadily full since the season opened, and every guest seems satisfied and reluctant to leave. Our Log Cabin Social Hall is the center of many attractions. Every evening there is a

FEES OF JURORS.

The Supreme Court Says They Cannot be Paid for Continuances.

The Supreme Court on Saturday rendered a decision denying the right of jurors to collect fees during the continuances of cases in which they were engaged.

An Amador County citizen named Mason sued his county for fees during the period of a long continuance of a case, the continuance being on account of the illness of two other jurors.

The Superior Court decided against him, and that decision is affirmed. Says Justice Harrison:

"In such cases they are not 'in attendance upon the court' during the period for which they are excused. Neither are the jurors who have been impaneled and sworn to try a case in attendance upon the court during the period for which they are excused therefrom, with the opportunity to be engaged in ordinary vocations, any more than if they had been relieved from attendance at their own request, or because the court may have taken an adjournment for its own convenience."

State Land Patents. Governor Budd has signed the following land patents, included within the sixteenth and thirty-sixth sections:

Arthur L. Allen, Alameda County, 20.09 acres; B. Marks and M. Newfield, Mendocino County, 40.22 acres; Colin McCree, Butte County, 30 acres; B. F. Munra, Monterey County, 40 acres; C. W. Clarke, San Luis Obispo County, 320 acres; swamp and overflowed land, R. S. Carey, Yolo County, 160 acres.

Protests Dismissed. The Commissioner of the General Land Office has dismissed the protests of the miners against the railroad filings on land included in list No. 51, and also as to the land claimed by the Mountain Mining and Development Company.

SEVERAL REPUTATIONS INVOLVED.

Charges and Counter-Charges in the Wharton Trial.

One Woman Says Wharton's Passion for Her Partner Injured Their Coffee Business.

Judge Johnson's court was busily occupied on Saturday in hearing the testimony in the Wharton divorce case.

The defendant, Mrs. R. D. Wharton, the defendant's mother, was ordered set aside, and the examination of witnesses proceeded with. The greater portion of the testimony related to lesser incidents in the domestic affairs of Wharton and his wife, but some things were brought out by Mrs. Wharton's attorney that are worthy of reproduction.

For instance, Mrs. Maggie Brown testified that she and Mrs. Nellie Burwell had been in partnership in a coffee house on K street, near Fifth. She introduced Wharton to Mrs. Burwell, and he procured a divorce for her. He became so conspicuous about the place that the business was seriously affected. Wharton told the witness that if she testified against him he would testify that he had been in the coffee house, and that she was a prostitute.

When she upbraided Wharton for talking to her in that manner, he said he would do anything to win his wife, and that she was a prostitute. She left Mrs. Burwell alone who would ruin him.

The case for the plaintiff was then closed. Mrs. J. A. and Mrs. J. B. Brown, J. M. Wallace, George S. and Charles Briggs were called to testify in reference to the reputation of Wharton. The former is the mother-in-law of Wharton, and Russell is Mrs. Wharton's brother. The testimony of these witnesses was to the effect that the reputation of Mrs. Wharton and Russell were not of the best.

Mrs. Sarah Andrews of Napa testified that while Mrs. Craddock and Russell were in the coffee house, she still she knew nothing against their honesty and integrity.

Mrs. N. A. Herron testified that Wharton was a good provider. Mrs. Fanny Taylor testified that she saw Wharton in Mrs. Burwell's room several times. The alleged wedding cake, witness E. J. Davidson, stationer, testified to having taken statements from Mrs. Wharton. The statement taken by Davis was made before a committee of the county board, and taken by Johnson was in relation to her acknowledging a deed conveying her property to Wharton. She claimed she was sick and did not know what she was doing.

J. A. Sheehan testified that about two months ago Mrs. Wharton requested him to publish anything further in the Standard in reference to the divorce proceedings. She said she was going to make up with her husband and that the divorce proceedings would be withdrawn.

Mabel Bradley, a fifteen-year-old girl, testified that she heard Mrs. Brown say she would make trouble for Mrs. Burwell.

Mr. Layson asked her if she ever saw any improper relations between Wharton and Mrs. Burwell.

Clinton L. White objected to the question. He said it was highly improper to ask a girl of her age such questions. Judge Johnson agreed with Mr. White and ruled the question out.

The witness pointed out on a diagram the room where she had seen Wharton with her aunt. She denied having said to Mrs. Appleby that Wharton was happy because he got a divorce, and that he intended to marry her aunt.

Mr. White said if Attorney Layson, Wharton's counsel, insisted that Wharton did not intend to marry Mrs. Burwell, to marry Mrs. Burwell, then he would open up another lot of testimony and would ask the court to receive from a number of his witnesses.

Mr. Layson had ruled out considerable testimony on the ground that if Wharton contemplated marriage with Mrs. Burwell then their acts of intimacy might be looked upon as honorable.

The court said that if Wharton wanted to establish the fact that he did not contemplate marriage with Mrs. Burwell, then his conduct was most despicable and reprehensible. He had done ungentlemanly and unmanly things, and had compromised himself with Mrs. Burwell. Even if he had contemplated marrying her, his conduct was even then reprehensible, because he had a wife to whom he owed allegiance and to whom he was untrue.

J. W. Wharton, the defendant's father, testified that he knew of no acts of cruelty on the part of his son toward Mrs. Wharton. One day she said to her husband she was not a man of his word, that he was a liar, and that he did not keep his promises.

The witness was asked if he had not once said that if there was war in the United States meaner than all others, that man was the defendant, and he replied that he could not recollect saying so.

The trial will be resumed this morning.

A HERO AT REST.

Funeral Yesterday of Ludwig E. Fletcher, the Boy Hero.

The funeral of Ludwig E. Fletcher, the boy who was drowned while trying to save the life of his playmate, Harry McKay, last Wednesday afternoon, near the mouth of the American River, was held yesterday at 1 o'clock in the parlors of John Miller, in a white casket.

The services were very impressive, and the little church was crowded with sorrowing friends who came to pay their last respects to the dead hero.

As the remains lay in state at the funeral parlors of John Miller, in a white casket, they were viewed by hundreds of friends and schoolmates, all of whom spoke kindly of the deceased, who looked more as if he were sleeping than in death.

The floral pieces numbered nearly fifty, the most notable being a large pillow on a stand, with the inscription, "Hero." The pallbearers were Eugene Ross, Harry Johnson, Bernard Anderson, Herbert Noble, George Hughes and Edward Dorsey. The interment took place in the family plot in New Nevada cemetery.

THE ROCK-CRUSHING PLANT.

It Will Be Discussed Again at a Meeting on August 2d.

The State Prison Directors and the Bureau of Highways will meet with Governor Budd on the 2d of August to further consider the construction of the rock-crushing plant at Folsom.

Commissioner Maude will return to Folsom to-day to complete the surveys of the ground.

Commissioner Maraden Manson is in San Francisco consulting with State Prison Director DeLoe and Attorney-General Fletcher on various matters concerning the project.

ATHLETIC GAMES.

Championship Contests to be Held Here During the Fair.

Chairman W. R. Berry of the Games Committee of the Pacific Athletic Association writes as follows to the President of the Sacramento Athletic Association regarding the proposition to have an athletic day here during the State Fair:

"It falls upon me to make arrangements for the promotion of these games, and I wish to ask of your club, its cooperation with our committee. Owing to the fact that your club is a member of the association, and also that it being local for your members to be here, we have looked forward for them, that many here, we would like to have many of the officers for the games selected by you. The following are qualified: On judges at finish, three Field Judges, one Marsini, three inspectors, and one timer.

"In selecting the timer care should be taken to get some person who has had experience in timing foot races, and sprinting particularly.

"We expect to receive entries of all the promising and star athletes in the State and will no doubt create some new records."

THE CIRCUS TO-DAY.

An Event That Always Stirs the Public Pulse.

This afternoon and to-night the Great Synclite Shows will exhibit in this city at Agricultural Park.

This is an event to which the juvenile portion of the coming fair have looked forward with feverish anxiety for several weeks. The great parade will take place at 10 o'clock this morning, and everybody will be out to see it.

This circus comes heralded by the most magnificent praise by the press of all the cities traversed by the East and West. They describe it as the best they have ever seen. It is under the management of men who have spent the better part of their lives in the business, and they understand it in all its details.

One of the features of the great show is Victoria, the riding tiger, said to be the only tiger of his kind that was ever trained to ride a horse.

With this circus is Kialto, who claims to be the strongest man in the world. He lifts a horse and a cow, and by his teeth a weight of 2,000 pounds.

ATTEMPTED ROBBERY.

Ike Smith Gets Himself Into a Bad Box.

Two men who came up from San Francisco yesterday and who had in their possession $200 and $300, notified Officer Logue yesterday afternoon that they displayed some money in hiring a transfer wagon, with the result that an attempt was made to rob them.

Shortly afterwards a young man approached them and demanded some money, displaying a knife at the same time. Mabel Bradley, a fifteen-year-old girl, testified that she heard Mrs. Brown say she would make trouble for Mrs. Burwell.

Mr. Layson asked her if she ever saw any improper relations between Wharton and Mrs. Burwell.

Clinton L. White objected to the question. He said it was highly improper to ask a girl of her age such questions. Judge Johnson agreed with Mr. White and ruled the question out.
