Rheumatism, Catarrh, Dyspepsia and Other Ailments Vanquished by the Use of His Wonderful Little Pellets.

A Separate Cure for Each Disease. Ask Your Druggist for Munyon's Guide to Health and Cure Yourself With a 25-Cent Munyon Remedy.

Mrs. J. M. McManus, 109 Eighteenth street, San Francisco, says: A trial of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure has convinced me that it possesses unusual merit and will do all that is claimed for it for seven years I have had inflammatory rheumatism, principally in my hands, which rendered housekeeping and sewing an impossibility. The fact is that my right hand was almost useless, and now since taking Munyon's Rheumatism Cure, I can use my hands and am able to sew again. I place great faith in Munyon's Remedies.

Professor J. M. Munyon—Dear Sir: It is a pleasure to report the enormous sales of your remedies since their introduction in San Francisco. In my experience I have never seen anything approaching it, and it can only be accounted for by the fact that the Munyon Remedies are all that is claimed for them and effect cures hitherto considered impossible.

Hundreds of people have told me when purchasing that it was on the recommendation of a friend who had been cured that they bought. Wishing you continued success, respectively.

PROBATE SALES OF REAL ESTATE.

How Legislatures Have Bungled the Codified Laws.

Lawyer Isaac Joseph Lectures on a Subject of No Little Importance.

The Law Club held one of its interesting meetings on Saturday evening, and the members listened to a very interesting discourse by Isaac Joseph on the subject of "Probate Sales of Real Estate." Mr. Joseph said: Under the law of this State the Superior Courts are vested with the power to order the sale of the realty of a decedent for the purpose of raising funds with which to pay his debts or to satisfy the debts, expenses and charges of administering the affairs of his estate, or to pay the allowance made by the court for the maintenance of the widow or minor children, or both, during the period required to settle the estate, or the proceeds of the sale may be applied toward the payment of the legacies bestowed upon the beneficiaries named in his last will.

In 1893 the Legislature amended a number of the probate sections of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to sales, and attempted to give the Superior Courts power to order a sale of real estate when it appeared to the satisfaction of the court "that it would be for the advantage, benefit and best interests of the estate, and those interested therein, to sell the whole or some portion of the real estate."

The passage of this amendment, I understand, was secured through the efforts of a lawyer who represented an estate situated in one of the southern counties of the State. In the estate referred to all the debts and claims of every character had been discharged, but a portion of the property consisted of a large number of town lots in the southern citrus belt. As an order of sale could not be obtained to pay debts, etc., as there were none unpaid, and as the representatives of the estate were exceedingly anxious to dispose of the lots, a convenient way out of the difficulty was to apply to an accommodating Legislature to amend the statutes to fit this particular case.

Doubtless many sales have already been made under the amendment of 1893, which vests the court with discretionary power to order a sale whenever the court deems that a sale would be advantageous and for the best interests of the estate and those interested therein, but in 1870, in the case entitled Brehm vs. Story, reported in vol. 39 of the California Reports, page 179, the highest court of our State held that an Act of the Legislature granting such power to the courts was unconstitutional and void; that upon the death of the ancestor the heir becomes vested at once with the full property, subject to the payment of the debts of the intestate, expenses of administration and family allowance, and subject to those charges and the temporary right of possession of the administrator, he may at once sell and dispose of the property and has the same right to judge for himself of the relative advantages of selling or holding that any other owner has. "His estate is indefeasible, except in satisfaction of these prior liens, and the Legislature has no more right to order a sale of his vested interest in his inheritance, because it will be, in the estimation of the administrator and the Probate Judge, for his advantage, than it has to direct the sale of the property of any other person acquired in any other way." (Brehm vs. Story, 39 Cal. 185.)

If the lawyer who is said to be responsible for the amendment of 1893 and the members of the Judiciary Committees of both houses of the Legislature of 1893 had taken the trouble to read the decision of the Supreme Court of this State rendered not later than April, 1891, in Smith vs. Olmstead (88 Cal. 596), they would have found the same doctrine enunciated, as was laid down in Brehm vs. Story, and the probate law would not be based upon an unconstitutional and void amendment.

If the amendment in question were permitted to stand unchallenged, the Superior Court could direct that the property of an heir be sold against his express wish, and although no necessity for the sale arose, and we would also be confronted with the proposition that an heir could make no sale of the property inherited until final settlement of the estate, because if a sale by the heir were effected, the purchaser would still hold the real estate subject to the discretionary power of the court to order a sale and vest the title in a stranger. The amendment also contravenes the provision in our National and State Constitution, which provides that no person shall be deprived of his property without due process of law. An digression might be permitted, I could direct your attention to many injurious results ensuing from various amendments to the code law of this State, enacted by the Legislature in many instances solely to enable some lawyer to avoid some wise provision of the existing statutes. Our codes, as originally adopted, provided a plain and concise code of law, a monument to the genius, intelligence and learning of its authors, but now, mutilated almost beyond recognition by legislative vandals, they present on various subjects an incongruous mass of contradictions and absurdities, and the courts are burdened with litigation in the attempt to solve many vexatious questions in the estate. They have been avoided if the original Code Commission had been continued and to their wisdom and discretion had been left the making of such amendments as time and experience would dictate as wise and proper.

The proceedings to obtain an order of sale are initiated by the filing of a petition by the administrator, executor, a creditor, or, in fact, by anyone interested in the estate. The petition must be stated in such petition are set forth with great particularity in the statute. For years the Supreme Court of the State adopted a very strict and narrow construction in passing upon such petition, and many sales were declared invalid because some fact of trifling importance had been omitted from the petition. To remedy this evil the Legislature of 1874 amended Section 1573 of the Code of Civil Procedure, and provided that a failure to set forth in the petition the facts showing the sale to be necessary will not invalidate the proceedings, if the defects be supplied by proofs on the hearing of the petition, and the general facts showing the necessity for the sale be stated in the decree authorizing the sale.

But, notwithstanding this amendment, the Supreme Court in 1877, in the estate of Smith (51 Cal. 564) persisted in its assaults upon probate sales, and held that a sale was invalid because the "condition" of the property to be sold was not stated in the petition, although it appears from the reading of that decision that the defect was supplied at the hearing, and the general facts showing such necessity were stated in the decree of sale. Again, as late as 1890, the Supreme Court seemed to hold that either the petition or the order of sale must show whether the real estate is separate or community property, but we can scarcely divine the process of reasoning by which the question of separate or community property is included in the general facts showing the sale to be necessary.

At length in August, 1895, the Superior Court, in Burris vs. Kennedy (41 Pac. Rep. 458), in an opinion concurred in by all the Supreme Justices, threw down these narrow bars and gave full force and effect to the amendment of 1873, and although no irregularities appeared in the proceedings for the sale the sale was declared valid. So that we may now safely proceed with a sale of real estate even though the petition is defective, provided that the defects be supplied upon the hearing of the petition and a statement of facts showing the necessity for the sale be stated in the order of sale.

Many controversies have arisen in the courts from the fact that in a number of instances after a purchaser has made his bid at a probate sale and paid an installment of the purchase price, the discovery has been made that the title of the decedent was clouded. A popular and mistaken impression prevails that title to property acquired through court proceedings becomes by some magic power perfect and impregnable to the attacks of the most technical student of titles. In probate sales the purchaser acquires simply the claim of the decedent to the property, whether such claim be good, bad or in dispute.

In fact, the purchaser buys at his peril, and he is bound by his bid, although the title may be very defective, and if he refuses to pay the purchase price, the administrator or executor of the estate can compel payment by suit, and the fact that the title is not good would not constitute a defense. The only safe course for a purchaser at a probate sale is to insist upon an opportunity to examine the abstract of title before making a bid.

Our laws expressly provide that no executor or administrator must, directly or indirectly, purchase any property of the estate he represents, nor must he be interested in any sale, but in Scott vs. Umberger (41 Cal. 410) and Bernal vs. Lynch (36 Cal. 146), where the administrator purchased property of the estate indirectly through a third party, the sale was held voidable and not absolutely void, and the heirs could at their option have the sale set aside and the administrator declared to hold the property purchased in trust for the heirs.

Mr. Joseph closed his lecture by a discussion of the decisions of the courts relating to powers of sale contained in wills of testators.

THE PELTONS MADE HAPPY.

They Have Found That Old Friends Do Not Forget Them.

The San Francisco "Chronicle" of yesterday says that John C. Pelton, the venerable founder of the San Francisco school system, and his family will enjoy a happy Christmas after all. They have found a host of friends throughout that city, who have responded to the appeal of Mrs. F. M. Lillenthal, and the little household in the Polk street lodging-house has been filled with plenty, if it lacked the luxuries of life. A sympathizer sent through the agency of the "Chronicle" a substantial money gift, for which Mr. Pelton returns grateful thanks. Mr. and Mrs. Pelton are overwhelmed with the kindness of their many friends.

Steps are being taken by some San Jose ladies to raise the mortgage from the Pelton home in San Diego.

LOCKED UP AGAIN.

Charles Gregory Celebrates the Holidays by Beating His Wife.

Charles Gregory is in jail again. He is a young man who has several times been punished in the Police Court for beating his wife. He was recently served a long term in the County Jail for that offense. His sentence does not seem to have cured him of his propensity for abusing his wife, however, as Officers Ash and Douglas arrested him on Saturday night for disturbing the peace, the patrol wagon arriving just in time to save her from serious injury.

On one occasion, some time ago, he beat his little child terribly with a heavy strap, and also beat his mother. His case will probably come up this morning in the Police Court.

ORPHANS' CHRISTMAS.

Their Dinner and Tree Will Take Place on Friday Next.

The orphans at the Protestant Orphan Asylum will have their Christmas dinner at 12 o'clock on Friday, the 27th inst., and their Christmas tree and exercises at 3 p. m. on the same day. Those wishing to make donations for either the tree or the dinner are invited to send them either direct to the asylum or notify Mrs. R. C. Irvine, the Secretary, and the things will be called for.

No doubt the parentless waifs will be generously cared for at this Christmas, as they have in the past, and if those sending donations could see their happy faces when the distribution takes place they would feel amply repaid.

OUR PEOPLE REMEMBER THE POOR.

Grand Work Done by the Salvation Army.

The Poor Will Have a Good Dinner, and Their Children Will be Made Happy.

Money and gifts for the dinner and Christmas tree to be given by the Salvation Army are coming in with gratifying rapidity, and the fund has now reached the sum of $450.

In addition to the clothing, shoes and stockings for the poor children, it is desired that all who can do so should donate toys for these little ones whose parents are not able to purchase such things as make glad the hearts of children at a time when they hear so much of holiday presents and have their hopes quickened by the elaborate holiday displays in the store windows.

Some toys have already been received, but there should be almost any quantity sent in, for toys are cheap, and many families have numbers that their children do not use, or have discarded, that would be very acceptable to the children of the poor.

It should be remembered that money, clothing or toys may be left at the headquarters, 821 J street, or, if it be not convenient to do this, articles will be called for if the following named persons be notified:

Wm. Katzenftein, (Telephone No. 6, or leave word with him at Fourth and K streets.)
Kent Bros. (Telephone No. 215.)
G. F. Gillenwater. (Leave order with Sam Ginsberg, 206 J street.)
George H. Wheeler. (Stand, southwest corner Second and K streets.)
E. M. Leitch. (Leave word at Delivery Clerk's window, freight sheds, Front street.)
Wm. McLaughlin. (Telephone or leave word with Bell & Flye, Second street, I and J.)

The following sums of money have been received since the last publication:

Foye Cothrin..... $1 00
Mrs. Dwyer..... 5 00

Weinstock, Lubin & Co. have donated a quantity of toys for the children.

Seeing the donations of cash, clothes, toys and provisions are coming in so plentifully, the army will be able to help some children that have applied who are above the age limit. Many of the parents who have applied on behalf of their children under 10 years old have asked for something for their older children and themselves.

"Some clothing for adults has already come in," says Captain Lewis, "but if we are to supply all demands there will have to be considerably more. We want all to hurry up with the toys, as there is quite a lot of work to be done sorting, labeling, etc., according to the age and sex of the children."

Adjutant S. Wood, who is in charge of the Central California District of the Salvation Army, is arranging to be in Sacramento on Christmas Day and conduct a great praise service that night in Smith's Hall, in connection with the festivities of the day. Preparations for the free Christmas dinner will commence to-day and continue night and day till everything is ready for the feast, which will commence at 11 o'clock Christmas Day.

A LIVELY ROW.

The Crowd Tore Pickets Off the Fences to Fight With.

A citizen called at the police station yesterday morning and informed Chief Drew that the night before forty or fifty young men, who had been drinking freely, started a row shortly after midnight on the sidewalk near the California House at Twelfth and I streets, and fought up and down the sidewalk for an hour and a half, nearly all the crowd taking a hand.

Not satisfied with using fists, they tore pickets from the fences and used stones from the street with which to carry on their warfare, and several were knocked down and carried out of the fray to give them a chance to recover.

He says that there was a free fight at the same place on Thursday afternoon, and that the crowd fell up frequently with beer and liquor and engage in fights and annoy the neighborhood with their noise and foul language. Citizens do not like to make complaint, he says, and therefore nothing has been said about it till now. There is only one officer on the beat between Twelfth and Thirty-first streets and the north and south limits of the city, and as soon as he leaves that part of his beat the hoodlums know that they are secure from him until he can make his rounds again. They will have to change their headquarters now, as the officer on the beat will have an eye on them.

Weather Notes.
The Weather Bureau reports show the highest and lowest temperatures yesterday to have been 51 degrees and 32 degrees, with fresh northerly winds and clear weather prevailing, with quite a heavy frost.

Yesterday was the coldest morning of the season to date. The coldest that was 33 degrees, on the 26th of November.

The barometrical readings at 5 a. m. and 5 p. m. were 30.12 and 30.25 inches, respectively, which is a good indication of colder weather.

The highest and lowest temperatures one year ago Saturday were 56 degrees and 46 degrees, with 1.10 inches of rain, one year ago yesterday 52 degrees and 45 degrees, with .40 of an inch, and one year ago to-day 50 degrees and 43 degrees, with no rain.

The highest and lowest temperatures on Saturday last were 48 degrees and 41 degrees.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT.

Officers Bagley and Rutherford Detect a Chinaman Selling Lottery Tickets.

Officers Bagley and Rutherford have been watching Ah Loy's place on I street for some time in order to make an arrest for selling Chinese lottery tickets.

Last night their vigils were crowned with success. They observed two men go into the place, and were satisfied that they were about to purchase tickets. Waiting till what they thought would be the right time to catch them in the act, the officers walked in and succeeded in securing a stamped ticket and the money paid for it, also one that the dealer had partially stamped and the twenty-five-cent piece that had been given in payment for it.

They then arrested Ah Gwin, who was selling the tickets, and also locked up the two men as witnesses. They think they have a sure case.

WHY THEY JOSH HIM.

Mean Trick Played on a Grand Island Potato Prince.

Says the Rio Vista "News": "William G. Goodman is a well-known rancher on Grand Island and he makes a specialty of raising potatoes, but just at present many of Mr. Goodman's friends are 'joshing' him about an incident that recently occurred, and according to the story would drive an ordinary rancher to either quit raising potatoes or staying at home.

It seems that recently, while Mr. Goodman was absent from home, a party from either Dixon or Vacaville drove to his ranch and took thirty sacks of Mr. Goodman's choicest 'spuds.' Leaving word that he would return for more, the party, who drove a four-mule team, left for home without paying for the potatoes."

RAILROAD CLERKS.

Those Sent From San Francisco Will be in H. J. Small's Office.

The fourteen railroad clerks who have been transferred with Chief Clerk Horace Ball from San Francisco to this city will all take their places in the office of H. J. Small, Superintendent of Motive Power and Machinery. It is intended that the auditing and accounts of all that department shall hereafter be done in this city. There will be about twenty clerks employed on them here in the summer season.

BUTTE COUNTY ORANGES.

Over Sixteen Thousand Boxes Shipped From There Already.

Over 9,000 boxes of oranges have been shipped from Oroville this season, and 7,000 from Palermo. It is estimated that about 5,000 more will be shipped from both places by the 1st of January.

The demand is far in excess of the supply, as the quality of the fruit is very fine. San Francisco takes a great many, and heavy shipments go to Portland and other cities up north.

After Christmas Presents.

There was a large local travel on Saturday from the points adjacent to this city, and it is estimated from the number of tickets sold that fully 5000 people came here to select their Christmas presents. It is expected that even a greater number will come here to-day.

HAMMER'S MUSIC STORE.

Retire to the Public.

Having retired from the cigar business, I take pleasure in announcing that the "Old Gentleman" can be found henceforth at the "Popular," on the northeast corner of Third and K streets, where I will be pleased to serve you with anything in the line of furnishing goods, shoes, hats, trunks or valises. My business record during the past forty-one years that I have been in Sacramento is a guarantee that you will be treated well. Hoping to continue to merit your patronage in the future as I have in the past, and wishing you a merry Xmas and a happy new year, I am, yours sincerely,

AARON NATHAN.

DEATH NO RESPECTER OF PERSONS.

Youth and Old Age Are Alike His Victims.

Funerals Yesterday of Frank E. Lambert, Mrs. J. B. McConaha and Augustus Bening.

The funeral of the late Frank E. Lambert took place yesterday from his late residence, 1517 Ninth street, under the auspices of Sacramento Lodge, No. 40, F. and A. M., of which he was a Past Master.

Sacramento Commandery, No. 2, Knights Templar, and Sacramento Chapter, No. 3, Royal Arch Masons, of which deceased was also a member, as well as Sacramento Lodge, turned out in large numbers to pay the last token of respect to their deceased brother, and a long string of carriages followed the remains to the grave.

Rev. G. A. Ottman conducted the services at the house, and W. F. Ward, Master of Sacramento Lodge, rendered the Masonic funeral service in a most impressive manner at the grave. The floral offerings were profuse and beautiful. The pall-bearers were: J. E. T. Pike and J. Hoskins from Sacramento Commandery, J. M. Morrison and J. E. Thompson from Sacramento Chapter, and U. C. Billingsley, J. Miller, G. A. Denham and W. A. Turton from Sacramento Lodge.

MRS. J. B. McCONAHA.

No less than four generations of mourners were present at the funeral yesterday of Mrs. Deillah McConaha, wife of J. B. McConaha, at Hangtown Crossing. The people for miles around also assembled to pay their last respects to the mortal remains of a noble woman whom they had known and loved for many long years, and who had been spared to see her children and her children's children all happily and prosperously settled in life.

The services were conducted by Rev. A. C. Herrick of this city, who spoke touchingly of the many virtues of the deceased. Appropriate music was rendered by the Misses Council, J. Council, H. Williamson and James Beach.

The pall-bearers were Hon. Thomas Fraser, Nels. Laursen, John Hanlon, James Patterson, William Bryan and Carl Halverson. The funeral procession was upward of a mile in length.

Mrs. McConaha's death is a severe blow to the husband, now 87 years of age and rather feeble, to whom she had been more than a helpmate for the sixty-two years of their married life. J. B
