

BOUND FOR JAPAN.

Lick Observatory Expedition to Observe the Eclipse.

Colonel C. F. Crocker Will Pay the Expenses, and Interesting Results Are Looked For.

Dr. Edward S. Holden of the Lick Observatory furnishes the following to the "Scientific American":

It is proposed to send an expedition from the Lick Observatory to observe the total solar eclipse of August next in Japan. The necessary expenses of the expedition will be met from a fund provided by Colonel C. F. Crocker, one of the Regents of the University of California and a member of the standing committee on the Lick Observatory.

The expedition will be under the charge of Professor Schaeberle. Its programme will be wholly photographic in character. Professor Schaeberle will make large scale photographs of the corona with a lens of 40 feet focus (giving an image of the sun about 4-10 inches in diameter on a plate 18x20 inches) on the plan so successfully carried out by him at the Chile eclipse of April, 1883.

All difficulties in the mounting of so long-focused a lens are avoided by keeping the lens stationary and making the carriage for the sensitive plates movable. The lens is placed in the proper position for seeing the sun during totality. A large canvas tube (40 feet long) is stretched over a frame of gas pipe tubing. At the further end of this frame is an inclined railway carrying a holder for the negative plates (18x20). A clockwork drives the frame at the proper speed. The observer is stationed inside of his telescope, and makes the exposures according to a programme laid beforehand. Some of the exposures will be very short, in order to obtain the finer details (only) close to the sun's edge. Others will be longer to obtain details further out, and these plates will sacrifice some of the details close to the edge, for these regions will be overexposed.

A study of all the plates obtained in this fashion will give a complete account of the whole corona, though no single plate will do so. Charles Burkhalter, director of the Chabot Observatory, in Oakland, some time ago imagined a plan for giving the correct exposure for each part of every plate at an eclipse. He will accompany the Lick Observatory expedition to Japan and will make a trial of this plan, using a telescope of four inches in aperture and of fifteen feet focus, specially made for the eclipse at the cost of Hon. W. M. Pierson in San Francisco. (The image of the moon is about one and seven-tenths inches in diameter.)

This telescope will be mounted equatorially and will follow the sun. The image of the eclipsed sun will fall on the negative plate, in front of which is a rapidly rotating diaphragm. (The plate has a hole in its center through which passes an axis driven by clockwork. On the end of the axis in front of the plate, and close to it, is a rotating fan or diaphragm.) The diaphragm is cut into the shape of a double cam, one cam being inverted, so that it is perfectly in balance, and it makes about five revolutions per second.

Other differently shaped cams are provided, each ready for operation, with its clock, in its special plate holder. When the plate holder is lifted the clock starts automatically and runs for about fifteen minutes. Five or six such plates will be exposed during totality. Each plate will be exposed much longer at the outer limits of the corona (where the light is weakest) than at the inner limit (where the light is strongest). It is therefore hoped to secure in this way a photograph of the corona on a single plate, every part of which has received the proper exposure. This single plate will then exhibit all the details of the corona, and it will no longer be necessary to build up, as it were, the real corona from a series of plates, each one of which is underexposed for one region, overexposed for another and correctly timed for another.)

Mr. Burkhalter's ingenious plan deserves a trial. The only difficulties in the way are mechanical ones, and these are now supposed to be conquered. Besides the 40 foot lens Professor Schaeberle will take with him a 5-inch photographic refractor (presented to the Lick Observatory by Miss Floyd) and a Dallmeier portrait lens of 6 inches aperture (lent by Hon. W. M. Pierson). The former instrument will be used to make small scale photographs (on 5x7 plates) of the corona and surrounding stars (and possibly comets); and at least two of these plates will be impressed with squares of 1s, 2s, 4s, 8s, 16s, exposure from a standard lamp before they are exposed to the light of the corona. When they are developed, the squares of standard intensity will appear at the same time with the image of the corona, and a photometric measure of the brightness of the latter is thus possible, in terms of the brightness of the standard lamp. This plan (first carried out by the Harvard College Observatory) has been followed at the other eclipses observed by Lick Observatory parties, viz., January, 1889; December, 1889, and April, 1893.

The portrait lens will serve to register the extension of the corona and a wide field of stars (and any possible new planet). Messrs. G. E. Shuey and Louis C. Masten will go with the party as volunteer assistants and will be in charge of the smaller instruments. Professor H. Terao, director of the Imperial Observatory of Tokio, has kindly offered to select a member of the staff of his observatory to accompany the Lick Observatory expedition, as one of its members. The Hon. Secretary of State, the United States Minister and Consul-General in Japan will do all in their power to forward our plans. It is to be hoped that the expedition may meet with good weather and return with results which will reward its labors.

FOR THE PRESIDENCY.

R. S. Thompson may be the Nuncio of the Prohibition Party. R. S. Thompson, editor of the "New Era," the Prohibition organ published at Springfield, O., is one of the most prominently mentioned possibilities before the Prohibitionists for nomination as a Presidential candidate. It is likely there will be other aspirants before the National Convention, which meets at Pittsburg May 27th.

Mr. Thompson is a man of ability as a leader, has conducted the "New Era" for fifteen years, and though at first only a local sheet, he has pushed his paper to a position of acknowledged prominence in Prohibition circles.

AMUSEMENTS.

At the Congregational Church this evening the McNeill Club will give its closing concert. The soloists are to be Miss Florence Doane of San Francisco as soprano and Miss Ivy M. Gardner of Los Angeles as contralto, both of whom come warmly indorsed by music critics. Four of the club members will sing solos. A feature of the evening will be the chorus work of the club, and the leading chorus will be in Bryant's poem "Thanatopsis," to music by Mentshal. A member of the club will play a "cello solo, and there will be several part songs, quartets and quintets. The directory of the club believes this will prove to be the best programme of the entire series. It is well understood that the club has not given these concerts for money-making purposes, but simply to meet the expense of maintaining such an organization, one that has done so much to cultivate musical tastes and develop good voices.

At the Clunie Opera-house last evening there was a remarkably large audience for a first night. The Hodges Company appeared in a very novel bill, and it must be said, to far better purpose and more to its credit than in the play of last week. The bill was "David Garrick," with a prologue. This prologue opens with exposure of "behind the scenes," just as the stage manager at Drury Lane is about to ring up the curtain for an evening's performance. When all is ready and the stage hands have cleared the decks, a drop curtain rises, and the audience looks into the auditorium of a theater from the supposed rear of a stage. An audience is seen in the boxes, galleries and pit beyond the footlights, and in a proscenium box is a theater party of ladies. The play is supposed to be "As You Like It," with the first act on, including the wrestling scene. David Garrick, the famous English actor, is supposed to be in the role of Orlando, and as such he has a wrestling bout with Charles. One of the ladies in the box is smitten with Garrick. From this prologue the play of "David Garrick" proceeds through acts, and to say that it is a charming bit of romantic comedy is to express it mildly. Garrick is besought by the father of a lovely daughter (the woman in the box in the prologue) to cause the girl to despise the actor, as he, the father, designs her for another man, and wishes her not to make so unequal a match as the marrying of the player, with whom she has fallen in love. Garrick, who really loves the woman, consents to do this, and on a visit at the residence of the family he so means himself in drunkenness and by rude conduct as to disgust the girl, insult the guests and cause any amount of trouble. However, the intended bridegroom, in his cups, reveals the trick, and to the deceived woman tells of the nobility of the actor in challenging one who had spoken ill of the daughter and father. She cast off by

DANGER IN WATER.

Why People Should Be Careful What They Drink, Especially at This Season. "Do you know that there is a dan gerous poison in half the water we drink?" It was an eminent Professor of Natural Science who recently made this startling remark. "I am only stating a fact," he continued, "and I assert that in the springtime nearly all our drinking water contains traces of poisonous vegetable or animal matter. We drink this water, the poison gets into our systems and it is largely the cause of so many people feeling weak, worn out and sickly at this season."

"Do I recommend boiling the water? No, I do not for while that may kill the disease germs it does not remove them. A far better way is to use pure whiskey with it. The best physicians in America unanimously declare this, but— and bear this most carefully in mind—it must be pure whiskey, for impure whiskey is worse than impure water." The Professor is certainly right, and he might have appropriately added that scientific men are also fully agreed that no whiskey used in America to-day is so chemically pure or so free from fusel oil as Duffy's pure malt. It has necessarily undergone the rivalry of all other whiskeys. Why? Simply because it has done wonders for people who needed strength and vitality. Thousands testify to the great benefit derived from taking it. Leading physicians say it is undoubtedly the best remedy for tired feelings and spring weakness. It is also indubitably the best remedy for tired feelings and spring weakness. It is also indubitably the best remedy for tired feelings and spring weakness. It is also indubitably the best remedy for tired feelings and spring weakness.

her parent for refusing to marry as he bids, flees from her home and seeks Garrick to prevent the duel in which she fears harm will come to him. The father follows, and is a secret witness to Garrick's fine spirit in protecting the honor of his daughter and bidding her obey her father, though she suffers equally with her in thus advising. The father, however, touched by the scene, relents, and gives his daughter to the player, who in turn refuses her. The father takes the hint and solicits him to become his son-in-law, which plea Garrick is only too glad to grant, and the curtain falls upon happiness.

This novelty was well mounted, well played. Mr. Hodges expressed considerably the disposition to speak too loudly and maintain his voice at a uniform pitch. He was more successful in this play than in anything he has done here as yet, especially in the third act, in which, with a tugging at the heart-strings, the player gives up his love and advises her to be dutiful to her parents. As Orlando in the prologue he did, near single bout of wrestling with Hernan Hildebrandt, a well-known local athlete. The costuming in the prologue was good, and the company read the act much better than was expected. Miss Romer was Rosalind, Charles Howard Touchstone and Weldon Smith the Duke. In the play Miss Gleason was Ada, the daughter, and Mr. Hodges assumed the role of David Garrick; while Warren Dibble was Chevy, to whom Simon Ingot (Mr. De Camp) desired to marry his comely part of Smith, and Miss Gleason and Mrs. Leavy assumed successfully the judicious characters of Miss Brown and Mrs. Smith, respectively. Mina Gleason was very happy as Ada Ingot. Graceful in carriage, dignified in bearing, natural and ardent as the young girl with her first love, she read with feeling and a fine appreciation of the demands of the text and of the character of her part. Her play was about as neat a bit of low-comedy work and personation of an old-time pretentious English shopkeeper as one might wish to see, while Dibble's Chevy and De Camp's Ingot left very little wanting. The play, in short, was satisfactorily given, and made a hit that we predict will fill the house throughout the week.

Messrs. Spickett and De Camp and Miss Rankin introduced during the evening several musical specialties. The same bill to-night.

STATE FAIR OF 1896.

It Will Begin September 1st and Continue Three Weeks. The April meeting of the State Board of Agriculture was held at the office of the Secretary yesterday. There were present Directors Boggs, Mathews, Wilson, DeLong, Terry, Cox, Land and President Chase.

The board met for the purpose of organization and the setting of State Fair dates for 1896. On the agenda were Boggs, President C. M. Chase was re-elected for the current year. The selection of Superintendents for Park and Pavilion was postponed until the report of the Premium List Committee shall have been submitted. The following committees were named by the President: On Premium List—Cox, DeLong, Mathews and Flickinger. On Speed Programme—Wilson, Terry, Boggs, Mackey and Gird. It was decided to hold the State Fair three weeks this year, from September 1st to the 19th, inclusive.

This action is mainly due to the interest that Director Land has taken in the matter. For several months he has kindly but urgently labored with his fellow-directors to this end. The help of district fairs this year will greatly aid the State Fair, and it is believed that it will be well patronized throughout.

After the consideration of other business of minor importance the board adjourned to call of the Chair. David Strauch's Will. Magdalena Strauch, by her attorneys, Alexander, Miller & Gardner, has filed a petition for the probate of the will of her deceased husband, David Strauch. The will bequeaths to Mrs. Strauch all of the estate after the settlement of its debts.

The property consists of a farm in the north end of the county valued at about $3,000. The petition is set for hearing on the 24th. University Checks Signed. Governor Budd has signed University checks Nos. 20,315 to 20,369, inclusive, aggregating $4,876.30.

Do not despair because you have tried many medicines and have failed to receive relief. Remember that Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail to do any good whatever. Hood's Pills are the best family cathartic and liver medicine. Harmless, reliable, sure.
