

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA

The theatre-goer may take his bicycle along in Australia. They will check it at the door. Rose Coghlan in "Madame" is said to have at last found a role that fits her like a pair of tights. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Grandin are to begin their tour in September with a romantic play called "At the Carnival." Australia is glowing over a new play called "The Land of the Moa." The leap of a horse over a chasm twenty-two feet wide is one of the great scenes. Anthony Hope, the author of "The Prisoner of Zenda," is to marry the Princess Flavia of the London production of the play, a Miss Evelyn Millard. Mrs. Potter and Mr. Bellew are going to Australia, to open at Sydney, May 10th, in "As You Like It," with William Elton, formerly of Wallack's, as Touchstone. It is said Mme. Modjeska's left arm is partially paralyzed as the result of a recent illness. The report was that she had completely recovered, nevertheless the arm is still in a sling. Philadelphia is something of an opera town. The Metropolitan Company, which appeared in eight performances in that city recently, played to an average of 2,000 a performance. Music will play a prominent part in the czar's coming coronation ceremonies. A chorus of 3,000 singers will give a "monster concert" under the direction of Professor Safon of the Moscow Conservatory. The czar has composed a coronation cantata, in which Alma Fohstrom will appear as the leading vocalist. Contracts have been signed by Daniel Frohman and Richard Mansfield, whereby Mr. Mansfield will act under the management of Mr. Frohman till 1900. The arrangement is to begin with next season. Mme. Melba has been singing seven years. Her maiden name was Mitchell. Her father was Scotch and her mother Spanish. Her mother she inherited her musical gift. The artist has three brothers and two sisters. One of her brothers is a remarkable singer. When her father was appointed a Commissioner from Melbourne, Australia, to one of the London exhibitions he took his family with him to Europe. Soon after her arrival Melba began to study with the great Marchesi, whom she has never left for any other teacher. She made her debut in Brussels in 1888. Charles Salaman, the oldest living musical composer in England, now in his 83d year, has been continuously before the public for sixty-eight years. He remembers the tolling of the bells for the death of George III. He was present at the coronation of William IV, and Queen Caroline, and he was a lad of 16 when he traveled with Charles Kean to Stratford-on-Avon to be present at the third Shakespeare jubilee. He knew Mendelssohn, to whom he was introduced by Attwood, the organist of St. Paul's. He used to play duets with him at his father's home in 1827. Schumann, Hummel, Moschies, Meyerbeer, Spohr, Thalberg, Wagner, Heller, Balfe, Wallace, Bishop, Czerny, John Barnett, Sterndale, Bennett, Verdi and Gounod were all his personal acquaintances. He played at Munich in 1828 before the King of Bavaria. He still preserves some words which Mozart's widow wrote for him when he visited the venerable old lady at Salzburg. Says the New York "Post": So far as the future is concerned, the American composer who is following the example of his brethren of Great Britain, France, Italy and Russia, in studying German ideals, will stand an equal chance with them in the struggle for recognition. So writes A. T. Krehbiel of New York for "Church's Musical Visitor." As soon as he is put upon their level in respect of encouragement at home and abroad, these things are necessary for the development of that "vigorous forward man," who, as Baghot has contended, in his discussion of the origin of literary schools, will strike out the rough notion of the style which the people will find congenial, and which, for that reason, will find imitation. The characteristic mode of expression which will be stamped upon the music of the future American composer will be the joint creation of the American's freedom from conventional methods and his inherited predilections and capacities. The reflective German, the mercurial Frenchman, the stolid Englishman, the warm-hearted Irishman, the impulsive Italian, the daring Russian, will each contribute his factor to the sum of national taste. The folk melodies of all nations will yield up their individual charms, and disclose to the composer a hundred avenues of emotional expression which have not yet been explored. The American composer will be the truest representative of a universal art, because he will be the truest type of a citizen of the world. At a recent performance in Denver of Edwin Milton Royle's new drama, "Mexico," a lady in one of the proscenium boxes was weeping copiously at one of the pathetic passages, when, glancing aside an instant, her eye fell upon a man seated near by in the parterre who was also busy trying to keep back the tears by a vigorous use of his pocket handkerchief. The man caught her eye at the same instant and burst forth: "Me, too, Miss; me, too; the first time in twenty years."

BUREAU OF INFORMATION.

Some Odd Questions Briefly Answered Herein. Information Given to Inquirers on Subjects of More or Less General Interest. Eds. Record-Union: Can you tell me whence came the word "bloke"? I know its meaning, but have no idea of its origin. PUPIL. It is slang and of obscure origin. It was applied to the Greek boxers who fought with the iron-clad cestus, and were deadly in their blows. Canova selected the Greek "bloke" as the model for his famous statue of ideal manly form. So says the "Medical Record," in treating of deformities of the ear, which were common and revolting among the ferocious and brutal Greek athletes. Eds. Record-Union: Will you kindly tell me if checkers is a modern game? Also, what is a good treatise on the playing of the game? VET. No, it is not modern, but very ancient. It comes from some of the ancient board games. The Egyptians had it. The Chinese trace it far back into the mists of the traditional history. The best short instructor and treatise is a recent one by a Howard Cady, published by the American Sports Publishing Company, New York. Eds. Record-Union: At a late lecture at this place Mrs. Richardson, President of the State W. M. F. U., said that "nineteen States of this Union foreigners who had only been in the United States six months were allowed to vote." How is this? Some information regarding the immigration and naturalization laws along this line would be of very great interest at this time. T. H. B. The "Record-Union" frequently treats of the immigration and naturalization laws and favors reforms in each. Obviously in this department we cannot go into the subject extensively. It will be further treated, however, in every State in the Union the voter must be a citizen of the United States except in these cases: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Indiana, Kansas, Louisiana, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Texas, Wisconsin, Wyoming. While aliens may vote who have declared intention to become citizens. In Indiana, in addition, they must have resided one year in the United States and six months in the State. Eds. Record-Union: Who was the author of the expression, "The swinish multitude"? W. H. SITES. Valjean, in his "French Revolution." Eds. Record-Union: Who is the author of the expression, "Without representation, no taxation"? Members will confer a favor on yours respectfully. SACRAMENTO. An answer wanted from some correspondent. "Oh, isn't he perfectly killing!" twittered the vestal virgin. There seemed reason in her remark. Indeed, even the Roman Emperor designed to smile upon the new gladiatorial champion of the arena.—Cincinnati Tribune. Queered Himself. "Dearest girl of all," was the way the letter began. In these few words he "queered" himself. "Of all!" she said softly to herself. "Then there are others?"—Cincinnati Enquirer. CHURCH NOTICES.
