JAMES D. LOMAX. He Was a Personal Friend of Abraham Lincoln.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—James D. Lomax, who died at the residence of his daughter in this city on Thursday last, was a native of Ohio, and one of the founders of the Republican party in that State, a personal friend of Abraham Lincoln and other leading statesmen of that time and a veteran of the Mexican war.

After acquiring a comfortable fortune in his native State and Illinois, Mr. Lomax moved to Montana, where a series of unfortunate speculations impoverished him. He served on the bench during the turbulent days in that State, and did much to uphold law and order.

In 1869 Mr. Lomax removed to Salt Lake City, where he practiced law until the time of his retirement in 1890, since when he has resided with his daughter in San Francisco. Beside three stepsons and a daughter, he leaves a widow to mourn his loss.

THE SHAH'S DEATH. Further Details of the Monarch's Assassination.

His majesty traversed the outer court, where he stopped and gave a bank note to an Arab and spoke a few kind words to a water carrier.

Two chains barred the way to the inner court of the shrine. The Shah had just passed the first chain when the assassin approached him, and when within a few feet of a revolver, the bullet from which struck the Shah near the heart. His majesty fell forward upon his knees, but rose, walked a few paces and then fell again, dying almost at once. The assassin was immediately seized and hurried away.

Kennard, chairman of the Citizens' Committee, is authority for this statement.

A Long Farewell. The Frenchman's politeness sometimes serves him in good stead to point a rebuke. A Frenchman who was staying at a hotel in Edinburgh asked, at the cashier's desk, how much his bill was, and was astonished to find how great an amount he had been charged.

He felt that he had been plundered, but he paid the bill, and then asked to see the proprietor. Presently the landlord came down in response to the call, all beaming with smiles.

The Frenchman rushed up to him, exclaiming: "Ah, my friend! Let me embrace you!" "But why do you want to embrace me, sir? I—I don't understand."

"Ah, saire, but look at me beel!" "Your bill? Yes; but what of it?" "Vot of it? Vy, it mean zat I shall neavre, neavre see you again, saire!"—Tit-Bits.

China Came to Terms. Why Viceroy Liu Was Deprived of Office. WASHINGTON, May 2.—Most of the space devoted to China in the forthcoming volume of "Foreign Relations in 1895," part of which was made public to-day, shows that vigorous measures were threatened by the United States if China would not accept the measures for the investigation of the assault on American and other missionaries at Chengtu and Cutien and the punishment of the offenders.

Second Assistant Secretary of State Ade, who was acting Secretary during the progress of most of the correspondence, sent some sharp dispatches on the subject. When it was reported that Liu, the Viceroy of Szechuan, who Europe's Dictators of Fashion.

When ladies want a thing, there is generally some one enteringprising enough to see that the want is filled. For years past every lady has wondered why we Americans were always a season behind the styles of Paris, Vienna, Berlin, London and St. Petersburg. It is easily explained by the fact that the European modelers there would never exhibit spring styles until May 8th, and autumn styles until September 8th; neither would they let the magazines know what was to be the style.

Consequently we have frequently adopted a style of Europe and a month afterward had to remodel the dress or make another, because we found a radical change had been made in Europe, the news coming too late to our shores.

But this spring ushers in a new regime of things. What say you to this? We shall each spring and each autumn see the styles of the Europeans before the public there sees them. A combine of the greatest dry goods houses of America sent a representative to Europe, who made a contract for two years with the leading costumer of each of the fifteen great cities of Europe to furnish the syndicate twice a year, in April and September, two costumes each of COMING styles. The syndicate publishes all these thirty coming styles in book form, half of them in colors, and although the price is $1, and cheap at that, we, who have acquired the exclusive right to this great publication for this city, will issue it to customers at 10c each.
