

THE OLD MAN WAS DAZED.

C. V. Talmadge's Story of His Marriage to "Pearl."

She Pulled the Cork of the Bottle, and the Whisky Did the Rest.

Interest in the Talmadge divorce trial yesterday centered in the testimony of the defendant, C. V. Talmadge. It was of such a character, however, that only portions of it can be referred to. Talmadge is upward of 70 years of age, and so deaf that his attorney had to use a speaking tube, though sitting by his side. Otherwise the defendant does not show his age.

At Mr. Bruner's request he opened his story with the circumstances under which he first met his wife. She was an inmate of a bagnio in this city, and he knew her only by the name of Pearl. After being a short time in her company he became infatuated with and made frequent calls on her. Then, at her request, he procured apartments for her at 901 L street, where for some time he continued to visit her.

She finally induced him to take her to San Francisco with him. She took passage on the steamboat here and he joined her at Trask's Landing, near Courtland. Reaching San Francisco they went to a hotel. It had been purchased as a detail, but with taking a walk they found themselves at the County Clerk's office and a marriage license was asked for by his companion.

He had no recollection of signing the document that had given him so much trouble, but he subsequently found his signature on it. On their way back from the City Hall they called at a jewelry store and he purchased a ring that she selected. They then called on Pearl's aunt, a Mrs. Lowry, where he discovered that preparations had been made for a wedding and that he was to be the groom. Everything was done so quickly, and he was so dazed by the liquor he had taken that he hardly realized what was going on, but there was a ceremony and he learned that he had a wife.

It was in a rather sheepish frame of mind that he the next day returned to his home near Courtland, leaving his bride behind with her relatives. A couple of weeks later she put in an appearance at the ranch with her head in bandages. She reported that she had met with a buggy accident on the road to the ranch. Her arrival was a surprise to his daughters, whom he had not informed that he had contracted a matrimonial alliance. His wife was there, however, and she did not lose any time in asserting her rights as mistress of his household.

The real troubles of the aged anchor soon afterward began. There was a quarrel between his wife and daughters, and he was frequently drawn into their quarrels. He denied, however, having ever used the vile language to her to which she had testified, except once, when she applied an opprobrious epithet to one of his daughters, he told her (in less polite language, however) that it applied to her.

Talmadge admitted that he sometimes indulged in a drink of Chinese gin, but denied that he was in the habit of getting drunk frequently and then abusing his wife. He also denied having told her that on his death she would get $40,000, but did say that when he departed this life she would be entitled to what was his. It was prior to his wife's arrival at the ranch that he made deeds to his property.

Asked as to the alleged furniture-breaking episode, he said there was a quarrel one day at the table, and he got up in haste to get out of the way, as he usually did at such times, but tripped over a chair. He was out of temper, and picking up the offending piece of furniture he threw it upon the floor and broke it.

He left the house and hid him to an outside closet, but his wife followed him and brandished a carving-knife before his face in a threatening manner. He caught her by the hands and ejected her.

Before going into the story of his meeting with the woman and his subsequent marriage Talmadge said he was the possessor of some 125 acres near Courtland. This was unencumbered and worth about $20,000. He had on this ranch eight or ten head of horses and a like amount of cattle, also farming utensils. The probable value of his personal property was $1,000. At the time of his marriage he had about $10,000 in cash and he also held various notes and mortgages. His cash was in the People's Bank and the D. O. Mills Bank.

But Talmadge had a long story to tell of his two years' experience on the ranch with his new wife and of her capers. He said her demands for money were frequent and his expenditures on her account correspondingly many and large. He supposed he had given her at least a thousand dollars altogether.

There are quite a number of ladies about the Courthouse who are waiting to be called as witnesses in the case, and it looks as if the week may be consumed in the trial.

The swimming tank is now in full blast, and everyone is out in summer costumes. There are more people here now than at any time in May for years past, and future engagements are very heavy. The free road from Colusa Junction is going to be a boon to all the valley people, and private rigs will be plentiful here this summer.

CALLER'S CASE.
The Effort of the Defense Now is to Prove an Alibi.
Mrs. L. L. Callendine, whose former husband, Jack Harris, was killed by present husband (to whom she had not testified yesterday that Callendine staid at her house on the night he is alleged to have robbed the Electric Car Company's office. Her little nine-year-old girl also testified he was there when she went to bed that night.

This testimony was introduced to offset that of Townsend, who told all about the robbery, how it was planned by Callendine and how the latter was the leader of the raid that night.
Mrs. Callendine testified that her present husband (to whom she had not been married) left her house at 6 o'clock the next morning, but men on the street cars say he boarded the first car for downtown that morning somewhere in the eastern part of the city, and the cars leave Twenty-eighth and N streets before 6 o'clock.
Several witnesses have testified regarding the character of Harry Baker, which they say has been good.

REGISTER OF VOTERS.
The Old One is Dead and Its Successor Not Yet Born.
County School Superintendent Howard is considerably worried over a condition of affairs that he fears may in some way interfere with the next term of the country schools.

The district elections are all to be held the first week in June, and the law requires that the great register must be used at such elections.
But there is now no great register. The old one has been canceled, and County Clerk Hatfield has just started in to make up the new register, which he thinks is about as necessary as a third wheel to a bicycle.
A common sense view of the situation would be that the old register should remain in force until the new one takes its place, but Mr. Howard says he is informed that the old register is canceled, and therefore dead.

Change of Elders.
Elder Henry Peterson, who has been in charge of the congregation of Latter Day Saints here, has been transferred to El Dorado County, there to open a new field of labor. His place here will be filled by Elder E. W. Henderson of Stockton.
On the evening of Sunday, June 7th, Elder Henry S. Tanner, President of the California Mission, will visit the branch of the church in this city.

Neighborhood Disturbance.
Maggie Doyle was convicted in Justice Davis' court yesterday of having disturbed the peace of her neighbor, G. B. Croyton. The evidence showed that Maggie stood in her own dooryard, applied some naughty words to Croyton and spoke in an uncomplimentary manner of some visitors whom he was entertaining. She will receive sentence this morning.

Disturbed Ah Loy.
Jim Remington was arrested last evening and charged with having disturbed the peace of the Chinese boss, Ah Loy. The latter at first claimed that Remington robbed him of some Government revenue stamps for cigar boxes, but finally swore out the complaint as stated above.

If you are suffering from chronic constipation or from a bowel disorder, if you are afflicted with Dyspepsia, if you should use the remedy that will clean the stomach and bowels and is not of offensive nature, you will suffer from no inconvenience, uneasiness or griping sensations.

JOY'S VEGETABLE SARSAPARILLA
Testimonial.
The Edwin W. Joy Company—
Gentlemen: I may not be able to tell you in fine language the great gratitude I feel, but I can tell it just the same. A short time ago I was on the flat of my back with pains all over my body and pains in my stomach. I used Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla for two weeks and my bowels became regular, and I could feel that I was getting on. I continued to use Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla until I was well enough to work, and now I am strong again. Say, God bless Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. It is a great remedy. Signed,
CARL BEAUMAN, Stockton, Cal.
Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla is the great California remedy, of which so much has already been said. More than 100,000 testimonials are in the office of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla.
