

MILK AND BUTTER TESTS TO-NIGHT.

Second heat—Nellie B., the favorite, was skipping at the score, went into a disastrous break and was nearly distanced. Betty Gentry won easily, with Lafferty second, in 2:21.

Third heat—It was Betty, Lafferty and Nellie all the way, without a change. The heat was made in 2:21.

TODAY'S RACES.

An Excellent Programme for This Afternoon.

There ought to be good racing this afternoon, for although there is a strong favorite in each event it often happens that favorites fail to sustain the expectations of their backers.

First comes a $1,000 purse for 2:15 trotters with this fine field:

Edgemont Park Stock Farm's blk. m. Gallette, by J. Wilkes; dam, by Commodore Belmont.

Winship & Keating's blk. m. Gazelle, by Gossiper; dam, by Governor Booth.

J. A. Perkins' b. g. Jasper Ayres, by Iris; dam, Babe, by Altamont.

M. D. Wisdom's b. h. Challenger Chief, by Challenger; dam, Rosa Chief, by D. Monroe.

Palo Alto Stock Farm's b. m. Helena, by Electioneer; dam, Lady Ellen, by Mambrino.

Dr. H. H. Hanson's b. g. Chris Petersen, by Deputy; dam, Virginia Wilkes, by Denver Wilkes.

Second on the card is another $1,000 purse for 2:14 pacers, and these are announced to start:

D. R. Misner's b. g. Plunkett, by Strathairn; dam, Fly, by Bluger.

Spinks & Yell's b. g. Strathmont, by Strathway; dam, by Altamont.

Borden & Thompson's blk. m. Alice Cresco, by Cresco; dam, Black Betsey, by Imp. Australian.

E. Wiesbaum's b. h. Hanford Medium, by Milton R.; dam, by Signal.

T. J. Crowley's ch. g. Al Gregor, by Steinway; dam, Maggie McGregor, by Robert McGregor.

Park Henshaw's ch. m. Bell, by Melbourne King; dam, Mattie.

John Cross' br. h. Welcome, by Arthur Wilkes; dam, Lettie.

Lee Shaner's b. h. Prince Almont, by Almont Medium; dam, Queen of the West.

Last, but not least, comes a $1,000 purse for 2:19 trotters with the following big field of horses in it:

W. T. Breen's b. m. Anita, by Junio; dam, Anita G., by Falls.

Charles A. Hug's br. m. Charivari, by Sterng; dam, Alice, by Prompter.

W. R. Ford's b. h. Nectar, by Albert W.; dam, Clyde 2d, by Nutwood.

W. D. Nichol's b. f. Stella, by George Washington; dam, Maid, by McDonald Chief.

Weather & Lowrey's b. m. Letter B., by Ward B.; dam, Irish Mare, by Judge McKinstry.

Park Henshaw's blk. m. Mamie Griffin, by Blackbird; dam, by Signal.

D. J. McCarty's b. m. Carrie C., by Starbuck; dam, Sadie McGregor, by Robert McGregor.

Henry Schlosser's b. h. Clay S., by Grover Clay; dam, Belle, by Whippleton.

A. Hayward's b. h. Stamboulette, by Stamboul; dam, Lady Escott.

W. S. Hobart's b. m. Tuna, by —.

John Cross' br. m. Nettie Hambletonian, by Hambleton's Mambrino; dam, Almonte.

Charles Tatt's b. m. Eva T., by Almont Medium; dam, Dasher, by Alwood.

In the first race Gallette sold last night at $10 against $2 for Peterson and $4 for the field.

For the second Al Gregor brought $9, V. Boone $5, and the field $10.

For the last race Mamie Griffin brought $8, Charivari $2, and the field $10.

In this race W. S. Hobart, the young San Francisco millionaire, will drive his mare Tuna.

FINE CATTLE.

Some That Will Be Seen in the Parade on Thursday.

Since Adam held the first world's fair, corralled the beasts of the field and issued the first edition of nomenclature, cattle have figured as an important factor in the history of mankind.

The species of bovine which Adam drove out of his vegetable garden had the same appetite for cabbage and longing for marrowfat peas as the cow of to-day. However, if the first cuts made of the Adamite cow are true to life, she is as far removed from the kings and queens of the cattle pens at Agricultural Park as is our highest type of sure-thing-man from Darwin's ideal monkey.

Since the days when Abraham and Lot separated their herds of cattle on the plains between Bethel and Hal there has been a gradual improvement in the animals of the genus "bos." The survival of the fittest has been an inviolate rule. We even find Laban acceding to the demands of Jacob for wages, and the latter was permitted to pass through the flocks and pick out all the spotted cattle.

Evidently Jacob was partial to the Holstein breed, but he would have grown gray with worry before two hundredth anniversary could have witnessed the stock that will parade on Thursday.

The number of cattle on exhibition is greater by a score or two than last year, though the herds are fewer. Two or three herds are not represented at all. There are twenty head of shorthorn Durhams from San Mateo County; fifteen head of the same breed from Hanford, Tulare County; nineteen head from Perkins, Sacramento County, and twenty-three head from Fresno County.

It is the general opinion of those who have examined the cattle that never at any fair in this State had the Holsteins so impressed visitors with their quality. There are two herds of Jerseys from Sacramento, one of eighteen head and one of ten. These cattle show up fully to their well-merited standard, there being some noticeable improvements in color and milk points. San Francisco will be in the parade to-morrow with twenty-two head of dark Jerseys, which contrast sharply with another buckskin or cream-colored Jerseys from Sacramento.

Twenty-two Polled Angus cattle from Sacramento County, with their shining black coats and big liquid eyes, are admired by everyone.

The large herd of Hereford cattle from Reno, Nev., has attracted the attention of visitors interested in stock-raising. There is also a small herd of the same breed from Sacramento County. The Nevada cattle are direct from the ranges, and their ponderous bodies bespeak their value as beef producers. These cattle have a heavy coat of fine hair, which is said to be a sure protection against the most severe weather. It is claimed for them that they are greater foragers and harder than the Polled Angus or black cattle, which are thought to be particularly adapted to the mountain ranges.

The butter contest will be made between the Jerseys, Holsteins and short-horn Durhams, as neither the Polled Angus nor the Hereford have a milk record.

HARVEST FESTIVAL.

The Salvation Army Closes It With a Sale.

The Salvation Army closed their four-day harvest festival last night with a grand reunion and auction sale. The Citadel was profusely decorated with trailing ivy, festoons of hops, clusters of palm branches, sheaves of grain, bunches of seeds, cat-tails and canes, relieved here and there by the army colors. The effect was pleasing, and during the evening many visitors admired it while making the rounds of the various booths.

These Salvationists were prepared to meet the wants of everyone, and there was to be found everything in the numerous booths from the "staff of life" to the luxury of cake and ice cream.

Where they found Mary's lamb is not known, but sure it was there, perchance, with the same string Mary was wont to tag about with. In this stall was also a flock of ducks quacking their disapproval of bartering their roasts.

On either side of the large auditorium were booths where was sold to willing purchasers provisions, groceries, fruits, meats fresh and cured, hardware, confections, poultry, fancy goods, notions, clothing and millinery. There was also a refreshment booth presided over by a corps of sisters, who were kept busy dispensing ice cream and other light refreshments.

The Salvation Army band discoursed music during the evening to the throng which filled the Citadel from the time its hospitable doors were thrown open until a late hour.

Major Milspan, editor of the "War Cry," came up from San Francisco to attend the last day of the festival. The Major commenced his career in the army in Sacramento ten years ago as Captain, and it was gratifying to him to mark the progress of the cause in a half score of years.

"Life was a burden to a Salvationist here then," said Major Milspan, to a "Record-Union" reporter. "We patiently suffered all kinds of ridicule, and even abuse. We were hooted at on the streets and even arrested for disturbing the peace. But we can forgive all this, for now we are reaping a harvest which should delight the soul of any Christian. People have learned that we are reaching out and gathering in the fallen, and the result is the purifying of the community and the saving of souls."

JOE JOE'S BOSS ARRESTED.

For Blocking Up the Sidewalk With His Monkey Business.

Officer Bagley yesterday arrested Edward Edwards, proprietor of "Orang-outang Joe," for violating ordinance 17 by obstructing the sidewalk with the cages of animals.

Several persons have during the past two weeks been severely bitten by the monkeys confined in these cages, and the officer repeatedly warned Edwards that he must take his monkey in off the walk, but the showman refused to suppress his drawing card.

Will Build a Schoolhouse.

The Oak Park Improvement Association met last night and organized a joint stock association for the purpose of locating and building a schoolhouse in Oak Park.

A committee was appointed to canvass the whole district and solicit subscriptions, and it is expected that enough will be subscribed this week to enable them to begin work on it next week, as over $200 was subscribed last night. It is proposed to build a new house at a cost of about $3,000. If enough money can be raised.

Last Night's Fire.

The fence surrounding the pipe works of Schaw, Ingram, Batchelor & Co., Sixteenth and B streets, caught fire last night and caused the department to turn out. The fire was extinguished before any serious damage was done. Chief Guthrie said the fire occurred from the spontaneous combustion of a quantity of coal.

Courtland Will Go.

Many of the members of Courtland Parlor, N. S. G. W., will go to Stockton by buggy to attend the celebration of Admission Day by the order.

BACK FROM HIS TRIP.

Commissioner Manson Tells What He Saw While He Was Gone.

State Highway Commissioner Marsden Manson has arrived in the city from his tour through the western counties of the State, where he has been compiling data for the report which the Bureau of Highways must submit to the next Legislature.

While on his trip Mr. Manson took a great number of photographs which, when developed, will give a correct idea of the topography of some of the passes hitherto deemed impassable for wagons.

Commissioner Manson states that some of the days he spent in the mountains were exceedingly warm, and he was obliged to travel during the nights. The thermometer sometimes registered as high as 118 degrees on the shady side. When he passed through the same section of country while on business for the State last winter the thermometer registered 20 degrees below zero, so that he has experienced a change of 138 degrees in the same locality in California, regardless of the wonderful climate.

During his absence he crossed the Sierra Nevada Mountains twice through passes 8,200 and 9,800 feet, respectively. Through the intervening country from Sonora to Walkers Pass he reached an altitude of 11,000 feet.

The mountains in this district are impassable for wagons for 250 miles on a line, and Mr. Manson was obliged to make the trip on horseback or a-foot. There are, he says, over these same impassable mountains, over half dozen passes made by nature for wagon roads which can be constructed at a nominal cost, and when once done it will throw the traffic of thousands of persons into the State who are now compelled to seek a market in Nevada.

The people living in the counties through which he passed all appear to be deeply interested in the good roads of visitors interested in stock-raising. There is also a small herd of the same breed from Sacramento County. The Nevada cattle are direct from the ranges, and their ponderous bodies bespeak their value as beef producers. These cattle have a heavy coat of fine hair, which is said to be a sure protection against the most severe weather. It is claimed for them that they are greater foragers and harder than the Polled Angus or black cattle, which are thought to be particularly adapted to the mountain ranges.

The butter contest will be made between the Jerseys, Holsteins and short-horn Durhams, as neither the Polled Angus nor the Hereford have a milk record.
