

TRESTLES WILL BE BUILT.

Supervisors Enter Into Contracts for Them.

Charles Studarus Gets the Contract for the Grading Near McConnell's Station.

The Supervisors met in adjourned session yesterday morning, all being present, to attend to some road matters and open bids for various contracts.

The report of the viewers on the road asked to be opened through the Natoma vineyard to the Placerville road was read.

It stated that the expense of opening the road would be $1,864, exclusive of damages on the route of the road asked for. The expense of the road recommended by the viewers would be $1,344, exclusive of damages. The Natoma Vineyard Company is opposed to the road being opened through its land, and the viewers, recognizing the impracticability and injustice of the road as petitioned for, and the fact that it would cut up the Natoma Company's vineyard in a way that would result in heavy loss to it and excessive cost to the county for right of way and damages, as well as the opposition of Mr. Taylor, proceeded to view another and shorter and more direct route, on which it also reports.

The proposed route would force the Natoma Company to take out its vines for twenty-four feet on each side of the road in order to enable its teams to work the vineyard. The company offers to donate a right of way over its land east of the proposed road and about three-fourths of a mile distant from it. In view of the fact that the Postoffice and shipping facilities at Natoma are the only main causes leading to the necessity for the proposed new roads, and recognizing that the Postoffice is likely to be abandoned at any time at the pleasure of the Natoma Company, the viewers think their offer of a right of way should be considered and that the viewers should make a supplemental report on it.

A letter was also read from the officers of the Natoma Company, stating that they should oppose the proposed road or any road except the right of way offered.

After some remarks by the petitioners the board decided to go out to-day and view the proposed road.

The bond of Darby Laydon & Co. for the contract for the bridge at McConnell's was fixed at $5,000, and the time for building the bridge fixed at ninety days.

The President read to the board a copy of the complaint in a suit brought against it to recover a bill of $11 rejected by the board.

The board then took a recess till 2 p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The board reconvened at 2 p. m. and took up the bids on various matters.

The first bids taken up were those for the construction of the cells in the County Jail, and the bidders and amounts were as follows: C. B. Parcells, $3,909, $3,630 and $3,000, on three specifications; William Guttenberger, $4,100; Pauly Jail Building and Manufacturing Company, $4,500, $3,350 and $3,000. The bids were referred to the Contract Committee.

Next were the bids for wiring the County Hospital for electric lighting. The bidders were: Tom Scott, $193 for wiring, and motor at $112; A. B. Beebe, $164; Frank Lyman, wiring and motor, $500; H. A. Lewis, $225 for wiring and $400 for motor; Sacramento Electrical Engineering and Supply Company, $700.15. The Sacramento Electric Gas and Power Company presented a bid for lighting at $134.90 per month, the current to be furnished at the hospital, poles to be put up by the company. The bids were referred to the Contract Committee.

The bidders for grading on the upper Stockton road at the bridge near McConnell's were: Charles Studarus, 10¢ per yard, and James Towler, 10¢ per yard. The contract was awarded to Studarus, the work to be done in thirty days.

The bids for construction of the trestles on the lower Stockton road, near Benson's Ferry, were: Rhoads Bros., $284.45 for altering and building extensions, and $644.45 and $629.45 for constructing the trestles; E. E. Barry, $384 for building inclines and extensions, and $5 per lineal foot for constructing trestles. Referred to the Contract Committee.

The representative of the Sacramento Electric, Gas and Power Company offered, if the board would make a two-year contract, to do the lighting at the hospital for $100 month instead of $134, the difference being the putting in of the poles for the first year.

The Contract Committee reported, recommending that the contract for the construction of the cells in the County Jail be awarded to C. B. Parcells at $3,000; that the contract for the construction of the trestles on the lower Stockton road be awarded to Rhoads Bros. at $644.45, and extensions of trestles at $684.45; that the contract for constructing the trestles on the upper Stockton road, near McConnell's, be awarded to Darby Laydon & Co. at $673; that the contract for wiring the County Hospital and putting in a motor be awarded to Frank Lyman at $509, and that the contract for lighting the County Hospital for two years be awarded to the Sacramento Electric, Gas and Power Company at $100 a month.

The report was adopted and the Chairman authorized to enter into the contracts.

The board then adjourned.

AMUSEMENTS.

At the Clunie Opera-house this evening the marvelous child, Gertrude Cochran, in her demonstration of memory power, and the five-act refined comedy, "The Crushed Tragedian." It is a double bill of great excellence and makes up a very superior entertainment.

Mme. Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler had a critical and representative audience at her piano recital at the Metropolitan Theater last night. It ought to have been much larger, for we rarely have such a splendid artist with us. Next to Paderewski she is by all odds the greatest artist at the head of American pianists. While it is evident that to secure power effort is required that demands all the vigor of her frame, and while it is true that Paderewski did not manifest effort, which is attributable to the masculinity of the performer, nevertheless Madame Zeisler is chief in her art such as never appeared in this State save only her Polish rival. The delicacy, the feeling, the refinement of her playing is not possible of description. Those hearing her with knowledge of the music art understand what a brilliant and refined artist Madame Zeisler is, but cannot express it fully. Her performance is illumined by the fire of genius; an informing intelligence that must be inborn, but may be amplified by training, marks her playing, as it does only those who are gifted by nature. She does not skim the surface of the thoughts of the master composers she interprets, but she fathoms them, sounds them and makes them living realities in the presence of the auditor. She gives expression to the loftiest aspirations and aspirations of the conception of the composers. And this is said in no general sense, but with specific purpose and meaning. For this delicate little woman enters into the themes she interprets, feels them and makes them the auditor feel them. Not, of course, in all the fullness that is given to her, but she moves the hearer into the atmosphere of the composer, and opens to her auditors a door through which we can see in part at least what the idea of the composed realized is, so to speak, in all but visible sound. The master pianist must be something far beyond our comprehension that is not satisfied with Zeisler's playing; the severest judgment of technique must applaud her; the demand for closest sympathy with sentiment must approve her. Her most artistic performance may not have been in the Chopin selections—and we have had but one interpreter of Chopin here who could compare with her—but the Chopin numbers most pleased the audience evidently, and especially the encore "Cradle Song." She roused her audience to a fine pitch of enthusiasm, and it encored and encored her until she had to decline out of consideration to herself. A movement was put on foot last evening among the auditors to secure the return of the lady at an early date. This in itself testifies in the most emphatic manner to the profound impression she made upon her hearers.

The wedding of William McDonald of Ione and Emma Dutschke of Stockton was consummated at the residence of the bride's mother, 706 E. Lafayette street, at 3 p. m., last Wednesday, November 11th. Rev. R. H. Sink officiated. Miss Mary Robbins was bridesmaid and Wesley Dutschke, groomsmen. The parlors were beautifully decorated with flowers and foliage and an elaborate spread was provided for the guests. The happy couple left for San Francisco on their wedding tour, but will soon return to Ione, which will be their future residence.

In addition to the wedded pair and Rev. R. H. Sink the following guests were at the wedding: Mrs. M. A. Dutschke, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Donald, parents of the bridegroom; Mrs. McCraney, Mrs. S. L. Robertson, Mrs. B. F. Smith, Miss May Robbins, Misses Lillian and Lizzie Dutschke of Sacramento, John R. Week of Sacramento, Efra and Jessie Smith, Miss Sarah Dutschke, Miss Maud Lamb, Bert Mallet, Charles McDonald, Mrs. Martin, Miss Sella Chilton, Miss Emma Sherkitz, Wesley Dutschke, Mrs. Jennie Stewart and E. H. Neff.

A few friends of Professor E. C. Atkinson assembled surreptitiously at the Atkinson residence on Tuesday evening, the occasion being the celebration of the Professor's birthday. The recipient of the surprise had been conveniently "farmed out" at a neighbor's residence and later sent for, according to the old established custom. The guests were entertained for an hour with a novelty denominated "Illustrated Book Show," after which the doors were thrown open and the company adjourned to the spacious dining-room, where a bounteous repast was served. Frank F. Atkinson, nephew of the professor, acted as Master of Ceremonies. Toasts were given and responded to as follows: "Points and Pointers," Professor B. F. Howard; "From Bar to Bench," Judge Matt F. Johnson; "The Bad Boy and His Pa," Arthur F. Atkinson, son of Mrs. B. F. Howard; "The Ladies," M. S. Hammer; "Man, Poor Man," Mrs. H. N. Hoyt; "If at First You Don't Succeed, Try, Try Again," M. J. Curtis; "Attaining His Majority," Dr. H. N. Hoyt. At the close of the festivities the host briefly addressed the assembled guests, expressing in the warmest terms his appreciation of the pleasures of the evening.

The initial party of the Deux Temps Club was held at Turner Hall last night, and the full membership of the club turned out to do honor to the occasion. The hall was tastefully decorated and the Reception Committee, composed of Frank J. O'Brien, George Artz, Fred Van Walbeck, Thomas Sweeney, Fred L. O'Brien and Frank Hickey did the honors with credit. Al Arthur F. Atkinson, son of Mrs. B. F. Howard; Stephen Uren, Jr., Frank Artz, James Harkins, Cooney Dittmar, Mark Ebel and John Cippa floor managers. Card tables were set for the enjoyment of guests who cared to pass the time so and dancing was taken part in by all. The attendance was limited to club members.

Mrs. Clara Parsons entertained a coterie of her young friends at a "tuffy pull" Tuesday evening at her residence on I street. Before they all departed a dainty repast was served and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

TO-NIGHT'S ENTERTAINMENT.

What the Ladies Offer at the Art Gallery This Evening.

Whoever attends at the Art Gallery this evening will be compensated by the variety, novelty and excellence of the entertainment offered; more than that, he and she will realize that the change for admission goes to aid an institution without which many a home pupil unable to go abroad to develop native talent, must find the doors of opportunity closed.

It was a mistake of a figure yesterday to say that the ladies who are giving so much of time and hard work for the deserving institution have secured, after weeks of hard work and many repulses, 100 artistic posters to exhibit. It should have read 500, and last night 100 more came to hand. The exhibits are so numerous that time may not suffice to-day to mount them all. Some of these posters are by artists of high European and American standing; some of them are designed and executed by pupils of the home school, and the people will thus have an opportunity to see what our own are capable of doing.

Some of these pupils are now filling orders for label designs, poster art, etc., proving that the school is practical in its work. There is an exhibition of small poster work, and suggestions for large designs, people art in general. Also a fine display of holiday cards for 1897. The Parisian exhibits are the largest, and the finest, probably, and will prove novel to our people and interesting on that account, as well as for the boldness of their conception and the vigor of their execution.

A stage has been erected and there yesterday some of the handsomest young women of Sacramento and a group of her most representative young men were rehearsing for the living posters under the direction of Mr. Perkins, and for which Professor Jackson has painted a large background of unique character. There is to be a fine programme of instrumental and vocal music under the direction of the Saturday Club.

So this evening will be full of interest and variety and excellence. During the evening the 155 thirty-two candle-power incandescent lamps will be turned on in the upper gallery, and the public will be more than surprised and pleased with the effect. The system gives richness of color and strength and beauty to the paintings never had before to the spectator's eye.

Refreshments are to be served, and souvenirs of the Arts and Crafts Exhibition in San Francisco offered, all in aid of the fund to cultivate worthy home talent. The P and Third street car service will be doubled and transfers to and from the gallery recognized on all the lines, so that it will be very easy to reach the building from any part of the city.

The ladies express the hope that their public-spirited efforts will be rewarded by such large attendance as will signify that the people are in sympathy with them and the object for which they are laboring. The enormous amount of preparation and work involved in this entertainment will be understood only by the few who have undertaken such tasks as this.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

The Sans Souci Club will hold its second dance of the season at Turner Hall next Friday evening.
