

THE POSTER ENTERTAINMENT

A Successful and Brilliant Affair Last Night.

To be Repeated To-Night With Additions - Open To-Day to Accommodate Day-Comers.

The Ladies' Museum Association and the Saturday Club gave the long-promised poster exhibit, musicale and living poster spectacle at the Art Gallery last night, for which they have worked so hard and long, in aid of the School of Design.

The night was stormy and caused the good women who have prepared the entertainment inexpressible regret, since it is necessary to short their aid to the school to poster work for years given that public-spirited attention that honors them and the city.

Nevertheless, it was a comfortable and thoroughly pleased audience that assembled. From 7 until 8:20 o'clock the people examined the 1,100 posters on view, many of which are the highest form of the art of designing.

The collections on view are from Miss Genevieve Green, Misses Mary and Bessie Crouch, the "Record-Union," Woodson Bros., J. H. Todd, Miss Lottie Megerly of Sacramento; Miss Cathia Vivian and Mr. Thomas Woodland; Edward Bosqui & Co., J. A. Stanton, Mr. Langhton, Mr. Doolan, Mr. Keller and H. J. Crocker, San Francisco; Mrs. Stratton, Oakland, and fugitive pieces from a large number of people, with the School of Design collection.

One group is wholly Parisian art, another is wholly American, and the remainder are mixed foreign and home production.

One large group is especially interesting—it shows what the School of Design can do in this line of designing that so largely enters into all business in these days. At short notice and in a very brief time several pupils tried their hand at poster and cover work. This will be found on the walls in the northwest of the schoolroom and, we will venture to say, stand the criticism of any and compare well with some of the better work shown from abroad.

The pieces on the walls are five representative business houses of this city, and are by Misses Crouch, Blanch, Kleinsorge, Hinkson and Genung. There are added a number by Miss Vivian, the first gold medalist of the school. Some of these have been adopted and printed and put into use at good prices. In fact, the pupils turned out from this Sacramento School of Design can furnish our business men with label, cover, poster and business designs that are equal to most that is done in San Francisco, and will compare well with the best from the East. Indeed, three posters will be found on the walls made by Sacramentoans that have been adopted by large business concerns at the East after competitive tests, and are now in print.

The programme opened with a most instructive address by E. Myron Wolf, who gave a history of publicity by poster, and traced the evolution of the designing of poster work to its present standard in cover and illumination art work. It proved to all present that there is good and substantial reason for the poster business, and that its relation to commerce and art is legitimate, useful and an improving one. He concluded with a humorous poster reading that was well rendered. Mr. Wolf was thanked by his hearers for the interesting history he so neatly sketched, running from ancient to present time.

Then followed music and living posters. The latter were very beautiful under the strong electric reflector in the darkened chamber and elicited round after round of sincere applause. The numbers were all given under the direction of Dana Perkins, who posed them and won for himself distinct credit for good taste and skillful management.

The numbers were: "Midsummer Century," by Mrs. Choate; "When Love Goes Out it is Hard to Get Him Back," by Miss Genevieve Green and Mr. Robbie, with charming little Miss Boylan as Cupid; "Figure," by Miss Willis; "Tom, Tom, Tom, Away Land," (a) Mrs. Choate and Miss Mary Crouch; (b) Miss Nellie Siddons, Miss Bessie Crouch, Miss Nourse, Miss Barrett, Miss Hopkins; "Midsummer Poster," Miss Kennedy.

No more beautiful stage pictures have ever been given here. It is suggested, however, that the omission of colored lights to-night will improve the spectacles very much, and that they are too fine to be shown so briefly. Leave the curtain up longer, ladies.

The music programme between the living posters was: Vocal duet, Schubert's "Serenade," Mrs. J. H. Copper-smith and Mrs. E. F. Howard; vocal solo, "Knowest Thou the Land?" (Columbus), Ambrose Thomas, Mrs. J. A. Moyihan; tenor solo, J. A. Owens; piano fantasia, C. minor (Mozart), Master Albert Elkus, with second piano accompaniment by Mrs. Albert Elkus; piano quartet, "La Regata Veneziana" (Rossini-Liszt), Mrs. Elkus, Mrs. Hawley, Miss Evans and Miss Siddons.

It was a music programme of pronounced excellence throughout. Notably attractive was the piano playing by Master Elkus. It was a revelation to those who have never heard the lad.

The upper gallery was then thrown open, the electric lights turned on, and the people were delighted with their first view of the pictures under the new lighting system, and which will be still more effective when the shades for the side galleries are put in, which it is hoped the city will do at an early date. The cost will be very small and the effect will be to greatly beautify the gallery and enhance the pleasure of inspection of the paintings.

effect will be to greatly beautify the gallery and enhance the pleasure of inspection of the paintings.

Mrs. Margaret E. Crocker was present for the first time in seven years, and was more than profuse in her expression of approval, of the great improvement made, and for which the Museum Association has so long labored to secure.

To accommodate those who cannot visit the poster exhibit to-night the ladies announce that it will be open to-day from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m., with the admission at 25 cents, every cent of which will go to aid the school and perpetuate its existence.

To-night will be the last of the exhibition. There will be no set music programme, though there may be music numbers. But an orchestra will be present, and all the living posters will be repeated, or most of them, with a half dozen new ones, and the best of all that have been prepared, with new faces and figures and rich costumes.

To-day a number of new artistic posters will be hung. One collection from H. J. Crocker of San Francisco came too late to be utilized, and there are in all fully 200 works that could not be put up. Some of the choicest of these will be selected for hanging this morning.

The ladies hope that there will be a very large attendance to-night and that as a result they will be able to place half a dozen pupils in the school. The programme will begin promptly at 8 o'clock and be finished in one hour and a half at the outside. Then there will be dancing, and the ladies will furnish refreshments. One or two novel features will also be introduced, and possibly a voting contest to determine the choice of the visitors from among all the posters on view.

Double service of street cars will run to a late hour.

The parlors of the Sixth-street Methodist Church were beautifully decorated last evening. The occasion was the monthly social given by the Ladies' Social Union. Each lady brought a box of lunch, and shared it with a partner selected by ticket. Vocal solos were rendered by Misses Lottie Shepherson and Edna Godly. Miss Winston gave recitations.

Last night the Wednesday Night Whist Club met at Miss Abbie McCraney's. Those present were: Misses Mollie Titherington, Alice Root, Mabel Crandal, Amanda Titherington, Lottie Krebs, Emma Groth, Jennie Fay and Abbie McCraney. Messrs. Frank Rubinstaller, C. B. Conn, J. J. Monteverde, S. E. Pope, J. Avis, P. H. Krebs, H. Fieldhusen, P. Runan and M. Harris. The first prizes were won by Miss Abbie McCraney and S. E. Pope. The parlors were handsomely decorated with smilax and chrysanthemums. During the evening Miss Amanda Titherington sang a solo entitled "A Lover's Dream."

A delightful social event took place last evening at Pythian Castle, an illustration of the little things that make life pleasant and promote a feeling of mutual regard among those who are associated in the daily walks of life. It also illustrates the cordial relations existing between employer and employe, when each is actuated by regard for the other's interest and welfare.

The occasion was a complimentary reception given by the management of the Nonpareil to the employes of the establishment as a recognition of the kindly feeling existing between them and of faithful and willing service rendered, especially during the removal to the new store. All the employes were present, from the trusted ones who have been for years with the firm, to the latest addition, and enjoyment was the rule of the hour. The hall had been tastefully decorated with draperies and flowers, and Neale's Orchestra, behind a bower of ferns and plants, discoursed music that put life into the heels of the dancers. Mr. Davis and Mr. Coffield, of the firm, led the grand march, which was a pretty sight. After the dancing programme was gone through with all adjourned to the lower hall, where two long tables, tastefully decorated and loaded with good things, were spread and invited the dancers to appease their appetites. It was an occasion that will long be remembered with pleasure by those who were present.

The committee of Arrangements were F. H. Collins, J. H. Gray, E. C. Wolf and J. M. Hilbert; Floor Committee—E. C. Wolf, S. L. McBurney, Fred Hughes, F. H. Collins; Music and Program—A. S. Cohn, T. Fowden, P. P. Maury, J. T. Snedeker; Decorations—Herman Grim and Joseph Politz.

HELMES ON TRIAL. His Defense Will be That He Thought Mott Was Going to Harm Him.

The case of R. J. Helms was on trial in Judge Hinkson's court yesterday, he being charged with assault with a deadly weapon, it being alleged that during a quarrel he beat S. J. Mott over the head with the butt end of his buggy whip at Morrison's saloon, near the American River bridge.

The prosecution put in all their testimony yesterday except that one witness will be recalled, pending the decision of the court on an objection. C. T. Jones, counsel for defendant, made his opening statement to the jury, to the effect that Helms struck Mott—who is much the larger man—with the whip when the latter approached his buggy, intending, as Helms thought, to drag him from it.
