

VOICE OF THE PRESS.

Extracts From Editorial Expression of Journals

Of the State and the Coast on Subjects of Living and News Interest.

Oakland Telegram: The good roads movement is receiving indorsement at the Farmers' Institute recently held in the northern part of this State.

UNKNOWNS COUNTRY. Colusa Sun: What a pity it is that the interior of California still remains an "unknown country" to the metropolitan journals.

San Joaquin interfering with navigation at San Sures Island. Now see how the "Bulletin" talks about the Sacramento River: "In ten hours the dredger would make 600 feet of river bed deep enough to float the class of vessels that make the trip round Cape Horn."

THE HIGH HAT. Placerville Nugget: Editor Plaisted of the "Enterprise" has a remedy for the theater hat that ought to be a success.

CASTROVILLE ENTERPRISE: Law, when used simply to "scare" evil-doers out of the evil habits instead of punishing them for evil done, very soon falls into disrepute.

THE SCHOOL LAW. Hedding Free Press: It has been suggested, and the suggestion is a wise one, that the school law should be amended to provide that no new school district be allowed to be formed having a less number than ten scholars.

THEY WANT WATCHING. So Thinks Registrar Hinton of the Contested Ballots.

IN SPITE OF THE FACT that there are thirty employes in the department of the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate, twenty-two in the department of the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Assembly, eighteen under the control of the Capitol Commissioners, three regular officers under the control of the Secretary of State, all of whom are liable to duty, and that the parties to the contest for the seat from the Twenty-third Senatorial District had their own sworn witnesses, and Registrar Hinton has his own special detail from the San Francisco office, the Registrar has asked for a detail from the Sacramento police force to guard the sacred ballots from any contaminating and destroying influences that might seek to burn them up.

be hung. Then on a badly tilted road a fellow without the mark of Cain upon him was kept on the quit vive to avoid death in a sink hole. The such a road would be a vast improvement on the condition of Main street in this city is clear as mud. It would cost only about four times as much as Folsom granite and would be good as any driveway for those who were born to be hung. It may be a little rough for what is otherwise the best town in the State. But it will reconcile all its enterprising and progressive residents to their fate, whether it be drowning or hanging. Either is better than to keep on jumping out of the mud into the sink holes as we have been doing for so many years.

GRAND JURIES. Pasadena Star: Some of our exchanges are beginning to consider whether the Grand Jury is a paying institution. It does some good, of course, but could not that good be accomplished more cheaply by some other means? The Grand Jury is in itself quite an expensive institution. It costs this county several thousands of dollars a year, and whether the detective work would not be as well done by some of the other wheels in the machine is worth considering.

TYPEWRITERS. Amador Ledger: A brilliant legislator has introduced a bill exempting typewriters from attachment. There are hundreds of lovely typewriters in California whom nature seems to have specially designed for attachment, and we deem this bill an abrogation of an inalienable personal right.

THE HIGH HAT. Placerville Nugget: Editor Plaisted of the "Enterprise" has a remedy for the theater hat that ought to be a success. He would put up a sign reading thus: "All ladies who are not bald-headed will confer a favor by removing their hats during the performance." That would fetch 'em sure. Every woman would take off her hat to show that she was not bald-headed.

CASTROVILLE ENTERPRISE: Law, when used simply to "scare" evil-doers out of the evil habits instead of punishing them for evil done, very soon falls into disrepute. Scarceness in a berry patch or a pretty good thing for a day or so, the robins soon ascertain their harmlessness and treat them accordingly. Likewise it outlives in this or any other town is to be checked the strong arm of the law should be invoked with discretion, and then used for all there is in it. Thirty inches of rawhide administered at the proper time to some boys is better than several yards of law with a string attached thereto.

POSTPONED TILL SUNDAY.

Professor Gleason's Great Fight With Vicious Horses Put Off.

Professor Gleason, the king of horse-tamers, had a magnificent programme to present at the New Pavilion last night, but the bad weather prevented any crowd turning out, and the few who were there had their money returned.

On Sunday afternoon at 2:30 he will give a great exhibition of the most vicious horses in this county and promises to tame them. The first horse on the programme will be the gray mare Gypsy, well known through the country as the most vicious and dangerous horse in this section of the country.

The second will be the gray stallion known as the "Cook" horse, a perfectly wild animal that has never yet been subdued, but whom the professor promises to tame if it takes him all day and all night.

The second and third are vicious kickers and strikers, and he promises to cure them permanently of their bad habits.

The last two are runaways, and though valuable animals they have not yet been taught to understand that there is nothing in running their heads against a stone fence.

The professor has been at great expense to bring these horses from different ranches throughout the county, and is satisfied that he has the light of his life on his hands to make them amenable and gentle, and this he promises to do.

One of the animals, after the disappointed audience had left last night (the Cook horse) made things lively in the Pavilion, but was afterward taken safely out.

There should be a good crowd on Sunday for in no city that the professor has ever visited has he had such an aggregation of bad animals to manage as he promises to subdue on that day.

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

(No. 15,464—Department One—Filed January 26, 1897.)

David T. Pierce, appellant; H. H. Birkholm, et al., respondents. Mechanical lien. Reversed.

The language of the building contract clearly implied that there were plans, drawings and specifications, in conformity with which the building was to be constructed, and the fact that the contract did not state in terms that they were annexed to it and made a part of it was immaterial.

Where a building contract is void the labor done and materials furnished by all persons, except the contractor, shall be deemed to have been done and furnished at the personal instance of the owner, and they shall have a lien for the value thereof. Such persons must file their claims of lien within thirty days after the completion of the building.

Lavenson's January Clearance

We've no patent upon methods, and January Clearance Sales are now of commonest occurrence. Only the abstract idea has been copied, though, and instead of good, dependable footwear being offered, these sales are usually of shoes "made to sell." Analyze the goods being offered here and elsewhere—the superiority of our offerings will be plainly evident.

Women's Felt Slippers, 95c.

This lot consists of all that is left of our Women's $1.25 to $1.75 Felt Slippers. Quite a good supply of the larger and smaller sizes, but few of the medium. Sale price, 95c.

Children's School Shoes, 75c.

As good a shoe as can usually be had for $1.25. Made of best veal calfskin, with heavy kid tops. All spring-heeled and buttoned. Sizes 8 to 10 1/2. Sale price, 75c.

Ladies' Evening Slippers, $1.65.

These are Laird, Schober & Co's, and were at first sold for $6. They're made of best imported suede kid, in gray, light tan or black, with fancy beaded cross straps instep and French heels. Sale price, $1.65.
