

SUSPENDED THIRTY DAYS.

Judgment of the Trustees in Regard to Officer Bagley.

They Decided That He Violated the Regulations of the Police Department.

The City Board of Trustees met in special session last night for the purpose of trying the charges against Officer Bagley of violating the rules and regulations of the police department and for misconduct as a policeman.

The specified charges were that at the time he arrested a number of persons at the house of Joseph Paladini for being drunk, he at the same time arrested Paladini's two daughters and took them to the station with the others, and afterward let them go without permission of the Chief of Police, City Attorney or Police Justice, also, that he was under the influence of liquor while on duty that night.

Leonard called the board to order and stated the object of the meeting. R. S. Hart asked to have the name of E. S. Wachhorst entered as an attorney of record for the defense, which was done.

The first witness called was Flora Paladini. She, her father and two sisters and William Jaques live in the house. The others who were arrested were on the sidewalk and not in the house. The officer asked her at the station some proper questions about herself and her big sister. She did not know that her father had any feeling against the officer because he had complained that she kept a disorderly house.

Amelia Paladini testified that she was told to get up and dress and go to the station. They were detained there till the next morning. She was allowed to go. She thought the officer was intoxicated. Mrs. J. Francis did not know that the Paladini house was a disorderly one. She lived on the opposite corner. She did not see the officer on that night, and did not know whether or not he was intoxicated. She was excused after a long argument as to the admissibility of evidence on her part regarding former occasions.

A number of other witnesses subpoenaed by the Paladins were excused from testifying, as they knew nothing about the occurrences of that night. The Chief of Police drew testified that the rules forbade officers to confine persons in jail who had committed no crime, and also the release of persons arrested without an order from the officers of the court. Officer Bagley did not report the arrest of the girls to him, or have any order for their release. The design of the rule was to prevent officers from confining prisoners without putting any charge against them. He knew nothing further about the case himself.

City Attorney Brown testified as to the rules, and that the officer did not report the arrest of the girls to him. When he found the girls had been released he inquired why it was done. The officer told him that he brought them up to be subpoenaed for witnesses, and also to protect them, as he did not think it was safe to leave them. Witness told the officer that he had no business to bring them down, and no right to arrest the men in the house. He believed that Paladini kept a disorderly house, on account of the people who frequented it. Sergeant Plunkett testified that the men had been drinking, and were talkative, but he would only call one of them drunk. Bagley was sober at the time he brought them in, and gave him orders what to do with the prisoners.

E. Balsz, who drove the patrol wagon, said Bagley was perfectly sober. Win. J. Davis was at the station when the prisoners were taken there. The men were boisterous. He conversed with Bagley, who gave him a description of the matter, and he considered the officer to have been perfectly sober. In fact, he did not give the matter a thought.

Joseph Brazile, one of the men who were arrested, thought Bagley was drunk. He claims that Bagley struck him when in the wagon. He himself had not been drinking at the place, and was perfectly sober. Ash told a young man to go into the house and get that dog.

George McCarty, another of the parties arrested, said Bagley was under the influence of liquor. Paladini did not want to go and leave his daughters, and Bagley brought him out and put him in the wagon.

Dan Corcoran, another of the arrested parties, testified that he was in the house when arrested on the bed in Jacques' room. Bagley was as drunk as he was.

William Jacques gave similar testimony. He himself, he said, was sober. Officer Ash was recalled and testified that he did not make any such use of language as had been charged he did in regard to Bagley. He saw the latter push one of the men in the wagon, but did not see him strike him.

E. C. Rutherford testified in regard to the hearing of the case in court. He had heard a large number of people speak of the Paladini house as a disorderly house and a place where people go to drink.

J. S. Carroll saw Bagley that night about half-past 11, and he was perfectly sober at that time. Sergeant McManus asked Bagley if he had any charge against them the next morning, and the latter replied that he had not; that he took them down there as a matter of protection, as he had taken all the other people out of the house and did not wish to leave them alone, as other parties who were in the habit of resorting there might come later and he did not want to expose the girls to possible danger.

Bagley testified in his own behalf, stating the facts of the arrest. The neighbors had complained for two or three years about the doings at the house, and he had paid considerable attention to it, at the request of Healey. He was not on duty that night, and came home from the street and took two glasses of beer at different places within an hour with some friends. In going home he heard considerable noise and found Paladini lying on the sidewalk and the others drinking. He heard noise in the house, and heard the girls' voices among the noise. He had been complained to so much that he determined to make an arrest and went with a young man to Kent's stable and sent for the patrol wagon.

When they heard the noise of the wagon coming they broke in all directions, and he stopped them and they were put in the wagon. The door was open, and he went into the house and took Paladini and Corcoran, who were drunk. The girls were not asleep, and he told them that for their own protection he would take them down to the jail, but would not arrest them. He did not talk improperly to them.

The board went into an executive session for a few minutes and then announced that Bagley was suspended for thirty days from the time of his suspension by Chief Draw, for violation of the police regulations, and was also after in a legal manner. In regard to the charge that he was under the influence of liquor, the board found it was not proven.

LOCAL MILITARY COMPANIES.

Inspector Hay's Reports on Company G and Troop B.

He Speaks Well of Them in His Reports on the Recent Inspection.

Lieutenant-Colonel Hay, who was detailed recently by General Muller of the Third Brigade, National Guard, to inspect the various companies of the Second Regiment, has sent copies of his report to the captain of the local companies. Following are the chief points regarding Company G:

"Neatness as to person, uniform and equipments—Excellent. "General bearing and soldierly appearance—Excellent. "Knowledge of duties—Excellent. "The captain and armory detail in uniform, when the board met for inspection, service prompt and efficient; property properly laid out for inspection."

"At muster—Promptly on time; general appearance excellent. (The inspecting officer reports all the details of the muster as excellent). In conclusion, the report states: "This company reported for roll-call, was formed and turned over to the captain about two minutes before the hour ordered, and is an organization second to none in the regiment, and is in splendid shape. "The same promptness and precision in the manual of arms, both with and without numbers, is manifest in this company, as is mentioned in E Company. The time in the manual was perfect, and the aim remarkable. "The company movements were executed in the proper time and manner, except that in platoon movements there was some slight talking in the ranks, and loss of distance was noted in Platoon 2."

"The property is splendidly cared for, and much time is evidently devoted to it. The men are cheerful and prompt in responding to orders. "The organization deserves much credit for its hard work in attaining such a high average merit."

TROOP B. Of the local cavalry company Inspector Hay says: "Neatness as to person, uniform and equipments—Excellent. "General bearing and soldierly appearance—Good. "Knowledge of duties (of officers)—Fair; of enlisted men, good. "Everything in excellent shape for inspection; service prompt and efficient. "The troop reported promptly on time for inspection, every man in place. The tone and personnel of this troop is excellent, a very strong esprit de corps being manifest. "The inspection was well executed, but the step was entirely too slow. I would recommend that the Second and Third Lieutenants study drill regulations more closely before going into camp. "The Captain and First Lieutenant are both hardworking, studious and painstaking officers, and the Quarter-master-Sergeant deserve special mention for his excellent care of the property. "It is very poorly equipped for taking the field. The horse equipments are old and not very serviceable, but are well cared for. Carabines and web belts should be supplied at once, also sufficient overcoats and blankets to furnish one for each man."

SOCIAL EVENTS. A reception was held yesterday afternoon on Sutter Terrace at the residence of Mrs. Theodore Deming in honor of the eightieth birthday of Mrs. Martha A. Hicks, grandmother of the Misses Deming, and mother of Mrs. Deming. Mrs. Hicks has been visiting here from her home in Elkhart, Indiana, for the past three years and has endeavored to make a large circle of acquaintances she has made since living here. Mrs. Deming is now in New York, but the reception was arranged by the Misses Deming and sister, Mrs. Elliott, and was a very charming affair in every way. The home was prettily decorated with flowers and many of the invited guests brought beautiful bouquets as tokens of congratulation. It was certainly a happy birthday for one who has journeyed along life's pathway to such a ripe old age and there was every evidence that all present enjoyed the delightful afternoon. The reception was held from 2:30 to 5 p. m., and during that time light refreshments were served in the dining room. The center of attraction (excepting of course the honored lady and hostesses), was an immense birthday cake decorated with eighty tiny lighted wax candles. It was a very pretty sight and brought to mind the four score years of useful life which the young ladies' grandmother had lived and the pleasant thought that her present hale and hearty condition gives promise of the enjoyment of many years yet to come. Mrs. Hicks was and was highly delighted. Those who called during the afternoon were: Messdames McIntire, Perkins, McCord, Johnson, Smith, Nelson, Fred Johnson, Hartwell, Holt, Hess, Miller, Harline, Helbron, Ralston, Lawton, Atkinson, Hammer, Nash, Howe, Cox, Richardson, Stevens, Sheehan, Campbell, Grau, Aitken, Spilman, Flint, McKee, Clark, Dray and Elliott, and Misses Beaumont, Safford, Aitken and Hall.

A surprise party was given the other evening to Mr. and Mrs. Dudley at their residence, Twenty-ninth and F streets. The evening was passed by delightful music and dancing. Though it was a complete surprise the hosts entertained with ease and pleasure. Among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Hurlbut, Mr. and Mrs. Harter, Mr. and Mrs. Bowden, Mr. and Mrs. Haack, Mr. and Mrs. Hodges, Mr. Stanton, Miss Volberg, Miss Hurlbut, Miss Owens, Miss Tillapaugh, Miss Gupton, Miss Green, Lena Bessie and Emma Dudley, George Goding, Will Stuling, David Michelson, Geo. Green, Geo. Brown.

PERSONAL MENTION. C. C. Holden of Napa is visiting the city. Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Fuller and Miss A. F. Fuller of Hartford, Conn., are guests at the Golden Eagle.

Ed. Wilson, a prominent Cosumnes farmer, is visiting the city. Mr. Wilson is manager of the Hanlon estate. T. A. W. Shock, formerly with the electric company here, but now of San Francisco, is in the city for a few days, having returned from a trip to Bakersfield. He hopes soon to make his headquarters here, and says that he has found more business going on and less of distress and idle men here than in any other city in the State.

Secretary of State Brown and his wife returned yesterday morning from their trip to the Yosemite Valley, looking much better in health for their vacation.

AMUSEMENTS.

There was improvement in the attendance at the Clunie Opera-house last evening when the tuneful, comic and satirical opera "The Pirates of Penzance" was sung again. The company gives it with great spirit and with marked excellence. Nothing they have done here has gone off smoother, or with more snap and vivacity, while the singing is superior in a purely tuneful sense, as rendered by the artists of the Wilber Company. Mr. Kyle was enthusiastically applauded and encouraged for his solo "I Am a Pirate King." Miss Rose Southern was encouraged for her solo in the first act, and Mr. Rockwell was complimented by a recall for his fine rendition of the recitative song "A Modern Major-General." The chorus came in all for favor for its splendid work in "All Hail" at the finale of the first act, and was compelled to repeat the hymn to satisfy the audience. The same opera this evening.

Madame Mountford was to have begun a series of dramatic illustrations of life in Palestine, this evening at the Congregational Church, but on arriving here the lady finds that the church does not afford her the necessary platform room for the proper representation of her subjects, which involve action and illustration by herself and a corps of assistants. To properly present her subject and the oriental illustrations she needs a platform 25x40 feet. To build such a structure now, would require its removal on Saturday night to give way for religious services on Sunday and its rebuilding on Monday. This cost the lady considers too heavy. She has therefore resolved to postpone the opening of the series until Monday evening next, when the four entertainments will follow.

Professor Gentry's dog and pony show pleased the largest audience of the week last night. There will be a matinee to-day at 2:30 p. m. The engagement of the show in this city will close after the matinee on Saturday. There will be no Saturday night performance as the animals have to be taken to Portland Saturday night and loading on the cars has to begin early. The large white dogs which have caused so much comment for their beauty are what is known as Russian poodles. They are said to be very costly and very scarce. Professor Gentry owns nearly all there are of them in this country. They are used in the performance not because they have more intelligence than the ordinary canine, but on account of their beauty.

Weather Report. The Weather Bureau reports show the highest and lowest temperatures yesterday to have been 88 and 59 degrees, with brisk southerly winds and partly cloudy weather prevailing. The highest and lowest temperatures one year ago yesterday were 86 and 56 degrees, and one year ago to-day 83 and 64 degrees. The average temperature was 74 degrees and the normal 68 degrees, showing yesterday to have been 6 degrees warmer than usual for the 9th day of June.

Mrs. Haworth Against the City. The case of Ellen Haworth against the city for $2,215 damages alleged to have been suffered by her in consequence of the flooding of her property south of R street, the result of defective sewerage, is on trial in Judge Hart's court.

A. J. and Elwood Bruner are counsel for the plaintiff and the city is represented by Corporation Counsel Hiram W. Johnson and William Renfro, Secretary to Mayor Hubbard.

Funeral of John Hallanan. There was a large attendance yesterday at the funeral of the late John Hallanan, which took place from the Cathedral at 2:30 o'clock p. m. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Father Walsh.

The pall-bearers were J. McCaslin, M. Sanderson, V. Miller, A. Walter, W. H. Cass and A. Bauer.

Hotel Arrivals. Arrivals at the Golden Eagle Hotel yesterday: Max Engel, George W. Clark, J. J. McGee, New York; Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Colgrove, Hastings, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Fuller, Miss A. F. Owen, Hartford, Conn.; A. Baer, Colorado; George H. White, Boston; C. C. Holden, Napa; H. Schaffner, Jack Feuber, A. G. Kidling, George J. Lambiey, San Francisco.

Examination Continued. The examination of Yue Sing was called yesterday morning for the murder of Euen Chung, but E. J. Dwyer asked for a continuance until Saturday morning. The City Attorney consented and the continuance was ordered.

Carrying Coals to Newcastle. California raises pretty good potatoes herself, but some genius who doubted it shipped some here from Crystal Springs, Idaho, and they were on sale yesterday as a curiosity at ten cents apiece.

The Supervisors. Yesterday was spent by the Board of Supervisors in examining demands against the county. The board will be prepared to take action on the road-sprinkling bids before Saturday.

To Play at Grass Valley. Grass Valley must be a pretty good baseball town, as Sacramento clubs visit it every week. The C. P. Nathans went there yesterday to play a game.

The New Crockery Store. Will be ready for business in about ten days. The capable and experienced manager, Mr. W. B. Collins, who has had eighteen years' experience with one of the largest concerns in the East, says this store will compare favorably with any in New York City. Miss Withington, whose four years' experience with the Jos. Thielen Company has given her an excellent knowledge of the requirements of the people of Sacramento, has been engaged as head saleslady. Nathan Dohrmann & Co., acknowledged headquarters in the crockery business, absolutely controlling some of the best makes for California, have by arrangement agreed to sell no other concern in Sacramento and all their daintiest crockery and glassware will be seen here. Buyers in Europe will give this store a big advantage. No crockery store has ever been opened before on so favorable conditions. The same straightforward business methods that have made our furniture and carpet business so large will be carried out to the letter in this new store.
