

SEVERAL HUNDRED PENSION BILLS.

They Were Reported to the Senate Yesterday.

The General Pension Bills Were Among Them.

Committee Decided to Report Favorably All Bills That Had Been Passed by Either House or Favorably Considered in Committee—Tillman Offers an Amendment to a Head Tax of $100 on Each Immigrant.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—After tedious discussion of the tariff bill throughout the day the Senate wound up with a half hour of lively and amusing colloquy between Senators Tillman of South Carolina and Chandler of New Hampshire. The former had proposed an amendment to the tariff bill, providing a $100 head tax on immigrants, and a restriction against all those not coming to the United States to become citizens.

Mr. Tillman made an earnest speech on the depressed condition of labor, but he was soon diverted from his theme by Mr. Chandler. The latter, adopting a style of mock gravity, directed the discussion toward Mr. Cleveland's administration. This in time brought from Mr. Tillman a criticism of the late President, while Mr. Chandler protested against the remarks of Mr. Cleveland by a member of his own party.

When the fun had been fast and furious for some time, the Tillman amendments were defeated—yeas 48—by the three affirmative votes being cast by Messrs. Butler, Quay and Tillman.

During the day the Senate disposed of the lead paragraphs, the committee rate of 1 1/2 cents per pound on lead ore being agreed to—30 to 23. The other paragraphs considered were comparatively of minor importance.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Several hundred pension bills were reported to the Senate to-day as the result of the first meeting of the Pension Committee since the present Congress assembled. Gallinger, in charge of the committee report, stated that it had been decided to report favorably all those bills which had been favorably passed by either branch of Congress or had been favorably considered in committee.

The general pension bills were among those reported, two of them amending the Act of 1890, and another referring to proof in pension cases. It took half an hour to read the list of private pension bills. When it was concluded Morgan of Alabama commented on the fact that the men named in these bills must wait for relief owing to the inaction of one of the branches of Congress.

Allison responded that Florida produced pine apples, and the pressure had been brought to bear for adequate protection.

"Where did the pressure come from?" asked Bacon of Georgia. "I cannot give specifications," responded Allison, "but I will say I heard both sides of the subject."

Gray of Delaware said, in an animated speech, that it would have been better had Florida lands been left in primitive simplicity if their use for raising pine apples was to be followed by a tax on the bulk of the people.

Lead ore was then considered, Allen speaking at length against the committee rate.

Carter of Montana explained in response to inquiries by Allen that the House rates had been especially favorable to white lead, the product of the lead trust, whereas the Senate rates decreased the benefits to the trust and increased them to the producers of the ore. He argued that the committee rates were essential to equal the difference between the wage-earner and Mexico.

Mr. Vest said that this was a conflict between the lead smelters and the lead mines and both were heavily represented in his State. But his vote would be cast in behalf of the consumer and not for either of these contending interests.

Mr. Rawlins of Utah discussed the general situation of the tariff, arguing that the first consideration should be revenue, and then the equalization of the burdens and benefits of the system on raw materials and manufactured products alike.

The committee rate on lead ore (1 1/2 cents per pound) were agreed to—30 to 23.

Messrs. Helfield, Mantle and Teller voted with the Republicans in the affirmative, and Mr. Allen with the Democrats in the negative.

In pig lead the rate was increased from 2 to 2 1/2 cents a pound, the duty on lead in lead in sheets, etc., being retained.

Paragraph 181 (metallic mineral substances) was changed as heretofore agreed upon by the Finance Committee and the substitute for paragraph 182 (mica) was agreed to.

Paragraph 183 (tallow) was changed from 1 to 3/4 of a cent per pound. The remainder of the paragraph being unchanged.

Mr. Tillman was then recognized for a speech in the support of the following amendment to the bill: That there shall be levied a head tax of $100 on all immigrants coming to the United States by land or water, provided that this section shall only remain in force until silver shall be admitted to our mints for coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1 on the same conditions with gold.

Mr. Tillman spoke of the rapid spread of pauperism shown by the statistics of the jails and prisons. It was time, he said, to keep to past promises, to do something for labor; to keep back the half million immigrants arriving annually. He spoke of the miserable condition of the coal miners of Pennsylvania and read from official reports saying that many of the miners were compelled to live like beasts. And this, exclaimed Mr. Tillman derisively, when Senators were framing their laws for the protection of American labor and American industries.

Mr. Quay remarked that the report from which Mr. Tillman read was made by a Republican legislature.

"And I am asking a Republican Congress to protect these people against the report of a Republican legislator?" "Will you do it? Dare you do it, or will you be satisfied with giving labor lip service?"

He gave the extent of the slum element in New York, Baltimore, Chicago and other cities, and said that showed what the Republican majorities came from last year.

He closed with a gloomy prediction that the immigration bill passed by Republican majorities in the last Congress had been defeated.

"Because your Republican President Grover Cleveland vetoed it?" shouted Mr. Tillman. Amid the laughter Mr. Chandler protested against having Mr. Cleveland designated as a Republican, when the Senator from South Carolina (Tillman) had joined with the Democrats in electing that President as a Democrat.

"I ask forgiveness for that and promise, so help me God, I'll never do it again."

After some sharp cross-firing Mr. Tillman's amendment was rejected—3 to 48. The three votes in the affirmative were Butler, Quay and Tillman.

When Mr. Quay voted for the amendment there was a hearty laugh, in which the Senator joined.

The tariff bill was then laid aside, and at 5:30 p. m. the Senate adjourned.

NOT WANTED HERE. An Army of 15,000 Tramps Coming to This Coast. DENVER (Col.), June 29.—An army of 15,000 tramps is moving Westward. At present it is in Kansas. It is approaching in four divisions, following the various lines of railways, and so reaching the members of the country that the people have petitioned the railroads to carry them on to the coast. They forage upon the country until there is nothing left, begging everything in the way of old clothes, money and meals.

First of all, it was agreed that any funds which may remain in the treasury after all bills shall have been paid shall be turned over to Secretary Henley as remuneration for his services.

Mr. Beckwith, Chairman of the Literary Committee, reported that $45 would cover all expenses, so far as his committee was concerned.

It was at this point that D. J. Simmons addressed the Chairman. He said he wished to make a few remarks, which should have no asperity or vindictiveness in them. He had been unanimously chosen by the Literary Committee to read the Declaration of Independence, but at the last meeting of the General Committee he was turned down by a vote of 8 to 5. But recently, Mr. Simmons said, four out of the eight who voted to drop his name from the programme had signified their willingness to reconsider the vote, and that had they understood the intention of the motion they would never have supported it. He didn't like to be set down upon without any warning, and had Mr. Coleman or any other member of the committee signified that he, as a reader, was objectionable, he would have withdrawn. What they will do when they reach the coast is a question.
