

LEAKY BASEBALL PLAYERS.

THE OLD-TIMERS WALLOPED BY PEERLESS KID.

It Wasn't Gilt Edge Ball-Playing, but It Helped the Cause of Charity.

It was all for sweet charity's sake. It is said that charity sometimes covers a multitude of sins, but it will be news to many to know that it also covers some errors in a baseball game.

Charity is said also to be sweet, and it is only charity to suppose that its hidden saccharine qualities disguised the bitter taste of defeat which the Old Leakers got from the Peerless aggregation of "kids" who met them at Snowflake Park yesterday afternoon.

Mulleney's Old Leakers well deserved their name yesterday. The first squall which struck the old ship sprung all the timbers, and the leakage commenced early. Nor was there any stopping it. Squalls came often, and the leaking was continuous. The ball would filter through the fingers and slip between the legs of the ancients with all the ease manifested by a small boy while kicking a dead dog.

Still it was for charity, and charity is sweet. It was for charity that Shields, who did the pitching for the Leakers, sweated the ball against the rear fence and galloped around the chalked line for a home run; and it was for charity, and not for grand stand effect, that McDonald, the old-liner, caught a fly with his left eye and afterward submitted to having three stitches taken up in the vicinity of his favorite optic to even things up.

Only a week ago Mulleney's Old Tubs met the galavanting youths of the Peerless variety, and didn't do a thing but wipe them off the diamond to the tune of 13 to 3. But "Oh! what a difference!" There was no crowd to speak of a week ago, while yesterday nearly 2,000 people turned out, and the Peerless youths took sweet revenge while the old ones took sweet charity.

The proceeds of the game go to the Protestant Orphan Asylum, the Sisters' Hospital and the Foundlings' Home and will probably reach close on $300. The cash receipts at the gate were: From 10-cent tickets, $2 20; from 25-cent tickets, $83 70; reserved seats, $4 75; score cards, $12 20; total, $102 85.

There were taken at the gate 655 tickets sold about town, amounting to $183 75, making $266 60. Many more tickets may have been sold by the committees that were not presented at the gate.

So, if the Old Leakers chance to feel sore at the treatment they received, the fact that poor unfortunates will enjoy the harvest will be salve for their wounds.

There was nothing wanting to add to the enjoyment of the occasion—except a good game of ball. A brass band was on the bleachers, and before the game was called it played "See the Conquering Hero Comes," but after the battle was over and the Old Leakers were doctoring sprung joints, the tune changed, and "When Johnnie Comes Marching Home" rent the atmosphere, and this was followed by "The Day I Played Baseball."

And the umpires fared well. They were Thomas L. Enright, and V. S. McClatchey, and they were deserving. True, the crowd time and again yelled, "Kill them!" but as nobody took the initiative a prospective tragedy did not materialize, and the umpires felt charitable to the dear people because they still live.

Once in a while—and certainly no oftener—the pride of a star aggregation of ball-tossers flared up, and there was playing of the kind sufficient to make the small boy (the greatest of all baseball connoisseurs) yell with delight, but when the game was half over the small boy contended became discouraged, and when threatened with dire disaster by the umpire Enright, who resolved to march out in a body unless there was less leaking. Unfortunately their threats never took tangible shape.

The Old Leakers' rotters were out in force, armed with all manner of fish-hooks and similar rooting instruments, but they were never used. There was never a chance for their legitimate use, and the ancients' rotters forgot to root for charity.

In the first inning the kids spoiled the prospect. They spun off four runs. Sheehan, who stopped where the short-stop sets up his tent, walked to the initial base because Shields couldn't get the ball over the plate. Then Orman, the heavy hitter, when the Gilt Edges were youthful, held down center field for them, came up and swatted a fielder for them, came up and swatted a hot one against Shields' shin, which glanced off to Fong Duffee at second base, who didn't want to spoil the fun, so he let it roll on. Sheehan, in the meantime, had ambled on to the third base.

Then Storer stepped to the front and strung out a hot one between short and second, away out where Haviland centered, and plucked roses in the center garden, and when matters were so straightened out Sheehan and Orman had stepped on the home platter and Storer stepped at third, because he was tired. Then Dougherty, who was back-stop for the ancients, let a ball slip by (another leak), and Storer trotted in.

Next Just hit out to somebody, and was retired at first. Will Hilbert got down to the initial bag in some manner unknown, and Brown flew out to Duffee, who had spat on his left hand as if he meant business. In another instant somebody blundered, and Hilbert came in.

But the Old Leakers also struck for their spurs in their half of the inning, and McDonald pitched until the balls had been called, and then walked. He stole second a moment later. Dougherty viciously struck the air three times, and McDonald went to third. Shields hit one into the unexplored country on the left side, and McDonald came home, and the former swung around to third, while the outs played handball. Duffee flew out to Storer. O'Brien shot one out close to Wilson, and Shields got in. Murphy died at first. And the total was two runs.

The Peerless people kept their lead and laughed at the efforts of the ancients, and when it was all over the result looked like this:

SACRAMENTO WON.

Gilt Edges Beat the Reliances in San Francisco.

Nearly 5,000 people saw the game between the Gilt Edge and Reliance baseball teams at Recreation Park in San Francisco yesterday, and they witnessed a great victory for the Sacramento favorites, the score being 9 to 2.

In the first half of the first inning Smith went to first and subsequently to second on an error by Dean. Henessey hit to third and was out at the initial. Jay Hughes hit a hot one to Steeley, who let it go by Smith scoring. Fitzgerald hit to second, and died at first. Shanahan was given a free pass. Lockhead ended the trouble by flying out to short.

In their half the Reliance failed to score. In the second inning Harvey of the Gilt Edges opened with a clean hit into left field, and Ed. Hughes sacrificed. Walker put a neat one between first and second, and Harvey got home. Smith walked on called balls. Henessey sacrificed, and Jay Hughes ended the single by hitting one to second and going out at first.

In their half of the inning the Reliance men scored the only two runs made in the game. Nealon was given a free pass, and took second on a passed ball. Stutz sacrificed, and Dean was given a free pass. Nealon scored on a bad break by "Buck" Hughes, who threw over Farwell's head. Arlet went out on a hot grounder to Henessey. Perrine hit out to left field, and McGuire sent a hot one to Lockhead, who let it go by, Dean scoring. Perrine tried for home, but was shut off at the plate.

Neither side scored again until the sixth inning, when the Gilt Edges broke to the front and stayed there. Harvey hit to third, and was out at first. Ed. Hughes and Walker both poked out singles, and Smith went to first on McGuire's error, filling the bases. Henessey singled to left field, scoring Hughes and Walker. Jay Hughes flew out to second, and Fitzgerald hit for a base, scoring Smith. Shanahan hit to second, and died at first.

In the seventh the Brewers got to the front some more for three runs. Lockhead, Harvey and Ed. Hughes were given bases on balls, filling the bases. Walker flew out to second. Smith was hit, forcing Lockhead over the plate. Henessey batted out a safe one, scoring Harvey and Ed. Hughes. Smith was thrown out from left field while trying to make third base. Shanahan finally retired the side by going out from the pitcher to first.

In the eighth Lockhead got first on a single to left field. Harvey walked on called balls, and Ed. Hughes sent a single into right field. Walker sacrificed, scoring Lockhead. Harvey, in trying to score, was thrown out at first, and Smith stopped proceedings by dying at first.

The following is the score:

TAKEN OFF THE STREET.

A Woman Musician and Her Two Little Children.

A woman was about the streets yesterday begging alms with two little children, one a girl of 8 or 9 years, and the other a boy of about 3 years. The girl played a tambourine, while the mother pulled some airs from a wheezy accordion. The little boy slept in a small wagon.

Special Officer Healy of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children told the woman she must take the children off the street, as it was against the law to use little ones here in that way. The woman said her home was in Reno, Nev., and that she had a family of five children, whom she supported by playing on the streets. If allowed to remain a few hours longer she would pay for a room, but that her children were not allowed to keep little children on the streets in that way. He finally took the mother and her children to Mrs. Clayton's, and paid for their night's lodging.

Both mother and children were well dressed, the officer says, and did not appear to be in the slightest distress.

MILITARY SCORES.

Result of Yesterday's Practice at the Company Ranges.

Following are the scores made by the Signal Corps of the Third Brigade yesterday. They show a noticeable improvement over previous scores, as the boys are all desirous of winning the much-coveted medal to be awarded on the result of the annual shoot on the 28th. TURNED UP AGAIN.

W. A. Barrieau in a Shooting Affray in Vallejo.

A dispatch from Vallejo, states that early on Saturday morning W. A. Barrieau, who says he resides in Sacramento, struck J. A. Mulleney of that city and knocked him down. Mulleney drew a pistol and fired a shot at Barrieau. The latter escaped death but a ball from the pistol glanced and struck W. P. Price on the right hand.

Two shots were fired. All that saved Barrieau was a card-table, which he hid in front of him. The bullet pierced the table, but stopped at the man's clothing and fell to the floor, leaving a slight bruise on the flesh.

Barrieau does not live in Sacramento. He did live here for some time up to four years ago, when he left the city under a cloud. This is the first heard of him since then.

NOT IN IT.

F. W. Biewener Not a Candidate for School Director.

Among the nominations made on Saturday night by the Citizens' Association and Populists was that of F. W. Biewener for School Director in the Second Ward. Mr. Biewener declines the nomination, as will be seen by the following note from him:

"I am, 'Record-Union.' Without my knowledge the Citizens and Populist parties nominated me as their candidate for the coming election for School Director from the Second Ward.

"The Republican nominee, Mr. Stack, is, in my opinion, in every respect qualified for the position. I therefore, with thanks to the above parties for the honor shown me, decline to be a candidate for said office.
