

SACRAMENTO COUNTY.

A LITTLE EMPIRE CONTAINING BOUNDLESS RESOURCES.

Capable of Supporting Ten Times Its Present Population in the Future.

The following truthful pictures of Sacramento County is from the facile pen of H. Weinstock, one of the leading merchants of Sacramento:

"I have been spending the last few days visiting various parts of your county," said an Eastern visitor recently, "and what I saw was a perfect revelation. It seems to me that Sacramento County is a little empire which contains boundless resources, some of which seem but partially developed and some not developed at all. I have found within the boundaries of your county, mining, stock-raising, hop-growing, lumbering, viticulture, horticulture, wine making, grain growing, citrus fruit culture, and most extensively commercial and industrial enterprises. I wonder," he continued, "how many of your own people are aware of these facts and fully appreciate the merit of their own county?"

Our Eastern friend might have added still further that he found Sacramento the greatest fruit-shipping center of all California and one of the greatest in all the country. His observation was quite correct when he intimated that comparatively few of our people are aware or sufficiently appreciate the beauties or the advantages of our own county.

How comparatively few of us know that we have more clear days in the year than Italy, which is famed, the world over, for its beautiful climate and is regarded as the world's winter sanitarium, and yet has but an average of 220 clear days in the year against our average of 238, and that our average winter temperature is 47 degrees as against the Italian average of 47.3, and that our average summer temperature is 75 degrees, precisely the same as that of Genoa, Italy. Few of us, perhaps, realize that Sacramento County has within her boundaries more natural resources than have many entire States of this Union which have become great and wealthy commonwealths.

As its resources become better known and more fully developed, Sacramento County is destined to become one of the most populous and wealthy spots on the globe. Her fruit interests alone are adding largely to her wealth, her population, and prosperity. As far back as 1893 the annual report of the State Board of Horticulture of California, in referring to Sacramento, said: "While there are sections of the State of equal productiveness with Sacramento County, yet by reason of location and distance from the centers of shipment they must resort to the 'drying process' with all its attendant vicissitudes, to market their products. It is a fact, perhaps not generally known, but easily demonstrable, that taking the center of Sacramento as an initial point and drawing around it a circle having a radius of fifty miles, within its circle will be found the region producing the earliest vegetables, berries and fruits within the State, as well as the area from which is shipped to the Eastern States and outside consumers, more than 75 per cent of the output of green and deciduous fruits from the whole State, and over 90 per cent of it must pass through this county on its way to reach a final market."

"Most counties consider themselves specially favored in that they occupy one direction, Sacramento County easily excels in many. For years the table grapes raised along the American River have commanded the highest prices in the markets of the East and have been regarded as the finest shipped from the State. The same is true of raisins along the borders of the Sacramento River have likewise held the first place in the markets of this country and England, and recently Sacramento County has astonished the State by sending to the Eastern markets citrus fruits which have commanded the very highest prices in competition with like products from other parts of the State; in addition to these claims for a foremost rank, may be added the fact that the largest thoroughbred breeding farm in the world, known as the Rancho Del Paso, and located within a few miles of the city of Sacramento, has sent forth some of the world's most famous horses.

The population of Sacramento County at this time is less than fifty thousand. With its fertile soil, its unexcelled climate, its convenient location geographically, its intelligent fruit growers, its enterprising citizens, Sacramento County is destined to continue making a healthy and rapid growth. As its uncommon resources become better known and more widely known, its 649,000 acres will, in time, be called upon to support perhaps ten times its present population. Compared with many other far less favored spots on the globe, which support their hundreds of thousands with a greater area, Sacramento County will have no difficulty in supporting, in ease and comfort, a vastly augmented population. Palestine, which is but four times larger than Sacramento County and which has a climate as warm as the latter, has supported, in its time, eight to three millions of people; and this, with the ancient, crude and unscientific methods of cultivation and production. Though Palestine had no millionaires, neither did it have any paupers, and each man lived under his own vine and fig tree.

With the great markets of the world opening out before us for the products of our Sacramento orchards, vineyards, hop fields and citrus groves, it takes no prophetic soul nor optimistic mind to picture a rich and prosperous future for our much favored county; nor does it demand a serious stretch of the imagination to picture this, the home of the vine, the pear and the orange, as the home, also, of a race of men and women, who, in culture and intelligence, will, in time, compare with the highest and the best in all civilization.

H. WEINSTOCK.

WALTER YOUNG.

His Old Mother Yearns for Him in Illinois.

Chief of Police Drew yesterday received a letter from James E. Straun of Wheaton, Ill., asking for information of the whereabouts of Walter Young, a colored man who was born on the Arthur estate in Clay County, Mo., before the war.

Straun states that he traced Young, and several years ago learned that he was acting as porter at the Raines Hotel in this city. As there is no hotel of that name in Sacramento, the Illinois man has evidently got localities mixed.

Young's mother, who was a slave, was sold away from her three children before the outbreak of the war, and was taken to Mobile. After the close of the war she was married to another man and subsequently removed to Kansas City, Mo. Some time ago her husband died, and she set out to find what had become of the three children she had left on the Clay County plantation.

In 1864 the three children were picked up by an Illinois company, and when the difficulty down South ended they settled in the community in which their liberators resided. Two of them are still in Illinois, and have been, after so many years, reunited with their old mother, and the absence of Walter alone leaves a gap in the family circle. It is to satisfy the yearning of the mother love in the ex-slave that Straun has written for information.

Does anybody know the colored man, Walter Young?

OFFICIAL CHANGES.

John R. Markley Soon to be Bank Commissioner.

A dispatch from Stockton credits Governor Budd with the statement that a successor to J. B. Fuller of Marysville as a member of the Bank Commission would be chosen soon, and that the place would fall to John R. Markley, the present Secretary of the State Board of Examiners. He will be appointed some time within a month, but will not take office until the 1st of March.

As for the appointment in the south-east part of the State to succeed McGee of Los Angeles, he said McGee's term of office is not out until July, and Kilburn's term is not out until May. The names that may then be considered can only be guessed now, and the Executive stated that he had not thought on the subject.

The appointment to the place made vacant by the advancement of Secretary Markley, the Governor said, would be filled by the advancement of Joseph Gorman, the present Assistant Secretary of the Board of Examiners.

The position of Secretary, Mr. Budd explained, was the highest one in the office of the State, and an experienced person was needed. Gorman had come from the Controller's office and was acquainted with the work. He would fill out the unexpired term of Markley.

LECTURE ASSOCIATION.

Professor Leuschner to Speak on "Astronomy."

Next Friday evening, the 28th, Professor Leuschner of the State University will lecture at the Congregational Church on "Astronomy." The lecture will be illustrated by means of pictures shown by the electro-opticon.

Professor Leuschner, who will appear under the auspices of the Sacramento Lecture Association, has made a happy choice in his subject, for astronomy is one of the most fascinating studies known. The average person has but a very superficial understanding of the subject, but delights to listen to those who are capable of explaining its chief features.

Professor Leuschner is fresh from companionship with the most eminent astronomers of the Old World, and is familiar with the latest achievements in the world of astronomy.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Higbie of 1914 L street entertained a number of children on Saturday afternoon at a party given in honor of the tenth birthday anniversary of their son Milton. Those present were: Frank Banks, Henry Denton, Lita Mason, Irving Mason, Maude Redman, Henry Ranellet, Hermine Wiegler, Elmo Luhrs, Ethel Barton, Charlie Jukes, Mabel Ranellet, Helen Wiegler, Tommy Hodgson, Sadie Shepherd, Harry Dixon, Edna Kromer, Orton Tall, Florence White, Julia Wiegler, Julia Bassett, Frank Dixon, Pearl Hodgson, Frank Dolan, Lillie Strobel and Milton Higbie.

R. Payne, their brother. They all seem to enjoy their New York experiences, and although frequently seen at the theaters, Mrs. Dunn has not ventured upon any new dramatic effort."

THE POULTRY AND DOG SHOW

IT WILL OPEN IN THE PAVILION TO-MORROW.

Rare Fowls and Canine Specimens—The Great Homing Pigeon Race This Noon.

The Poultry Show at the New Pavilion will open on Tuesday, and the Bench Show on Thursday. The entries in the former department are large, and there will be a splendid display of all the choice varieties of domestic fowls and pigeons.

While the number of dog entries is not so large as last year, the quality will be excellent, and the show promises to be an attractive one.

The show will open at 10 a. m. each day and close at 10 p. m. Following are some of the regulations governing the exhibition of dogs:

When a dog is brought to the exhibition hall the tag must be attached to the collar, and the person accompanying the dog must show his ticket of identification before the animal will be received. Therefore exhibitors are requested not to lose their tags nor put them on the dogs, when practicable, until just before presenting them at the door. In case of dogs coming by express the tags must be firmly nailed to the crates, and where there is more than one of the same breed in the crate duplicate tags should be made out and attached to their collars.

Each exhibitor shall receive one ticket of identification for all dogs entered, which must be carefully preserved, as no dogs will be permitted to pass out of the building at night until its owner shall deposit with the exhibitor the ticket to the check clerk, both of which will be returned on the return of the dog next morning before 10 o'clock. No prize winners are taken out and not returned, the prizes awarded them will be issued to each exhibitor free, and will be his or her individual use only. For the ticket will be forfeited if transferred.

No dog will be received unless supplied with a suitable collar and chain. The show will be open from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. each day.

The judging will commence promptly Thursday, January 27th, at 1 p. m. During the hours of judging no dog shall be taken from its stall, not even by its owner; and if any dog is not found in its stall when called for by the Judge will be rigidly enforced, that the judging may not be retarded. Owners are requested to be near their dogs, and when the class is called to bring their animals into the judging ring. In the absence of the owner, attendants will take the dog into the ring.

No dog shall be permanently removed from the building until 10 o'clock on Sunday night, January 30th, except by consent of the managers or Superintendent.

A deposit of $5 (to be made with the Secretary) must accompany all protests, the money to be returned in the event of the protest being held frivolous.

All dogs must be removed and returned by the north entrance. The Pavilion is nearly ready to receive the exhibits. The dog show has all been reconvened and newly whites and blacks, and present a large appearance. Many of the owners have agreed to decorate their kennels, and when the Bench Show opens it will look neat and attractive.

Among the dogs that will be on exhibition is a greyhound that took first prize at the Tacoma Show. He is a large type from the bounds used in the long coursing matches, being one of the largest ever seen here, standing thirty inches high at the shoulders. He was purchased by Mr. Nairn, the Bench Show Judge, for William A. Hoyle, of this city, and will be on exhibition, but not in competition. His sire and dam were imported from England, and he was bred by Dr. Saylor of Portland, Or.

There will be a display of fifty Eel-ging hares, and the pet stock exhibit promises to be grand.

Altogether, it will take all the floor space in the pavilion to accommodate the numerous entries that have been made. At 12 o'clock noon to-day there will be a homing pigeon race under the supervision of the California Homing Pigeon Society. H. F. Whitman, Secretary of the society, has arrived with birds, and they are in a large exhibition cage at the Pavilion. There are seventy-five birds in the cage, and they will be liberated by Mr. Whitman at 12 o'clock sharp.

Flocks of the birds will bear messages from Governor Budd to the Queen of the Golden Jubilee celebration at San Francisco.

Mr. Whitman also brought with him fifty-six "runts" for the exhibition. The runts are the largest of any of the many pigeon varieties. They are as large as leghorn pullets, and measure three feet from tip to tip of wing.

Mr. Whitman has a homing pigeon in his collection that was entered in a race in 1896 from Southern California, and was given up for lost, but it returned to its loft last week. It was probably caught and caged by some one or shot and crippled, and the first time it gained its liberty made straight for home.

The public are invited to witness the start in the pigeon race to-day, which will be made in the rear of the State Capitol.

To show proper rates of admission are: Single tickets—Adults, from 10 a. m. to 7 p. m., 25 cents; from 7 p. m. to 10 p. m., 25 cents. Children under 12 years, 10 cents. Life members of the association will be furnished one season ticket each, free, upon application to the Secretary. Every exhibitor whose entry fees amount to $3 or over will be furnished one season ticket free. To transfer or loan which will cause the same to be taken up, and exhibitor thereafter will have to pay regular admission fee.

The officers of the California State Poultry and Bench Show Association are: President, E. A. Noyes of West Eureka; Vice-President, William A. French of Stockton; Secretary, M. Coffey of Sacramento; Treasurer, C. W. Hansen of San Mateo. Board of Directors—J. A. Schofield of Hollister, George H. Croy of San Francisco, W. E. Ladd of Stockton, C. J. Cox of Delano, H. Smiths Who Became Great. The new volume of the Dictionary of National Biography is announced. It extends from "Smith" to "Stanger," and so the end of the great undertaking is within measurable distance. The "Athenaeum" says that the new volume will contain 198 names spelled Smith, Smyth, or Smythe. At the opposite ends of the worlds of Smiths stands Adam the economist, and Syde the reverend joker. Yet, Leslie Stevens has tackled them both. The great tribe of Smiths has been prolific in soldiers and poets—London Daily News.

Scrofula Eruptions

Little Girl the Victim of Impure Blood—Suffered Intensely Until Hood's Sarsaparilla Cured.

"When three months old, my little daughter had eruptions on her face. I was obliged to keep her hands tied at night and it was necessary to watch her during the day. She would scratch herself whenever she got the chance, until her clothes were covered with blood. We concluded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, because I had great faith in it, and after awhile we could see that she was getting better. People often asked 'How did that child burn her face?' and they said she would certainly be left with scars, but she was not. It is now a year since she was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla and her face is as smooth and white and soft as that of any child." Mrs. WILBUR WELLS, Warren, Conn.
