

FOR SACRAMENTO SOLDIERS.

CITIZENS TO PROVIDE THEM WITH COMFORTS.

A Sanitary Commission Organized Yesterday and $225 Already in the Fund.

Seats were at a premium at Pythian Hall yesterday afternoon when fully 600 women met an organization to take the preliminary steps toward forming a local auxiliary to the Red Cross Society.

The meeting was called to order by Frank Miller, who briefly stated its object, and then introduced Rev. A. B. Banks, who offered an invocation. He asked for a blessing on the Red Cross Society, and prayed that our soldiers and sailors might be victorious, and carry the old flag to victory.

Mr. Miller was elected temporary Chairman, and Miss Emeline Thompson temporary Secretary. One of the speakers stated that very little is known here of the Red Cross Society, except in a general way. It is, however, an institution in every civilized nation in the world, and wherever humanity exists there is found the Red Cross. He was present merely for the purpose of assisting the ladies to effect an organization.

He recalled the great good done for soldiers by the Sanitary Commission from 1861 to 1865, and said that nine-tenths of the work performed was by women. The first thing to do, he said, was to organize by adopting regulations and by-laws and electing Trustees and officers. He had prepared a set of by-laws for the government of the society, which the Secretary read.

According to the regulations drawn by Mr. Miller the name of the organization to be the Sacramento Sanitary Commission. It is to be composed of persons who paid an initiation fee of $1, which should be the sole liability of membership. It was further provided that the officers elected should notify the Red Cross League and the Sanitary Commission of all their doings.

But the ladies present were by no means certain what course should be pursued. Some contended that the organization is not a suburb of San Francisco, but the Capital of the State, and that the local organization could do equally as much good as an independent body, and would by such a course be at liberty to send funds, clothing, etc., to the soldiers from this city, and not to help maintain a central organization which would have everything to say about the distribution of funds.

On the other hand, many present contended that the call had been made for the purpose of organizing a local Red Cross Society, to raise funds to go into a central fund for disposition among soldiers where it would be most needed. They contended that every Red Cross Society could maintain a comfort fund for the benefit of local soldiers.

A motion to change the name of the society blank was carried, but was subsequently reconsidered and the name "Sacramento Sanitary Commission" adopted.

With the exception of notifying the State Red Cross League that a portion of the funds collected would be turned over to it, the by-laws suggested by Mr. Miller were adopted. They are as follows: "The Sacramento Sanitary Commission is composed of persons who have paid $1 each, which fee is to be the sole liability of membership for the entire year of the existence of the society, but each member is expected to give voluntarily further sums.

The directors shall elect officers from their number, a President, four Vice-Presidents, and a Secretary and a Treasurer. The directors shall also immediately elect a central and energetic Working Committee for the task of raising funds for the objects of this association, with full power to appoint sub-committees.

The monthly meetings of the members of this Sanitary Commission shall be held at Pythian Castle at 2 o'clock p. m. on the third Tuesday in each month, or at any time or place, of which notice may be given by the President or by any ten members, said notice to be by publication in each of the daily papers of this city.

The following persons were by acclamation elected trustees of the society: Mesdames A. Elkus, D. A. Lindley, T. W. Sheehan, George H. Smith, Miss Emeline Thompson, Mayor William Land and Frank Miller.

The membership rolls were then opened, and while the ladies and gentlemen were signing and paying their initiation fees the trustees held a business meeting and elected the following officers: President, Mrs. A. Elkus; Vice-Presidents, Mesdames Lindley, Sheehan, Smith and Mr. Land; Secretary, Miss Emeline Thompson; Treasurer, Frank Miller.

It was decided to appoint a large Working Committee, the duties of which should be to make a thorough canvass for funds.

It was also agreed to incorporate with the Red Cross League as soon as definite information concerning the necessary formalities can be received, and it was suggested that a committee of one be appointed to call upon the State Secretary at San Francisco for such information.

PROPOSED BENEFIT. Richard T. Cohn presented the following communications, which were read: "Sacramento, May 16th, "Frank Clifton, Manager of the Orpheum-Dear Sir: The idea occurred to me that something might be done to alleviate the suffering of our soldiers during sickness, either from wounds in battle or pestilence, and I thought you might aid the cause materially by placing the Orpheum at the disposal of the Red Cross Society for a monster benefit on Wednesday, May 25th.

"The cause is a noble one, and I feel sure knowing your generous nature, you will do this for our gallant men, who defend our flag and country. Faithfully yours, "RHYS THOMAS." The reply of Mr. Clifton was as follows: "Sacramento, May 17th, "Rhys Thomas-Dear Sir: In reply to your noble suggestion that something be done to alleviate the sufferings of our brave soldiers must meet with through pestilence and on the battle fields in the defence of our glorious flag and our country, I am, in behalf of the Orpheum management, proud to be able to tender to the Red Cross Society of Sacramento the free use of the Orpheum for a monster entertainment to take place in the near future.

"When I think of the public interest and the substantial appreciation which the people will show toward the great cause I regret that the Orpheum is not twice as large as it is. Very truly, "FRANK CLIFTON, "Manager Orpheum." A vote of thanks was tendered Manager Clifton and Mr. Thomas, and their offer was accepted.

TIMELY SUGGESTIONS. Editor "Record-Union": As the summer is before us in Sacramento, and dispensing with an overcoat would be no great sacrifice to any of our citizens. At the same time we are informed that the brave boys who have volunteered at our country's call are suffering from lack of comfortable apparel, believing there are many in Sacramento who need only to be shown a way to which they will quickly respond, I suggest that our generous-hearted citizens send their overcoats to our gallant boys. It may be the means of preserving not only good health but life.

If the "Record-Union" will act my coat is ready-not the finest, but a comfortable one. Yours, for the boys, W. W. C. LITERATURE FOR THE MEN. The "Record-Union's" suggestion, made several days ago, that we have magazines, novels, etc., to spare should send them to the volunteers, has been well received. A number of books and periodicals have been sent to the army to be forwarded to the men in camp, but now that an organization has been formed to help in forwarding all articles for the camp it would be better to turn over all contributions to its officers.

RED CROSS WORK. A Citizen's Tribute to the Society and Its President. Eds. "Record-Union": All honor to the patriotic women of Sacramento for the deep and wide-spread interest that has been awakened in this beneficent and philanthropic organization. The hall of Pythian Castle was never more nobly occupied than it was to-day. Clara Barton, President of the American Red Cross Society, is a typical American woman. By her wise-hearted and unselfish devotion to the ideal of philanthropic work in ministering to suffering humanity, she has endeared herself not only to the whole American people, but to the humane of every nation.

The Red Cross Society of Switzerland opened a new epoch in the world's history by its adoption of humane and charitable methods in ministering to the sick and suffering soldiers on the field and in the hospital in times of war. Clara Barton, who had rendered such efficient service in this line during our civil war, was in Europe broken in health by the sufferings of a Christian who broke out in 1870. Her good work was known to Emperor William and to the Crown Prince, and she was invited to join the Red Cross organization and lend a hand in ministering relief. Weak though she was, that invitation found a willing response in her heart and seemed to help recruit her strength. In a few weeks she joined the Red Cross Corps and did valiant service till the war closed.

Then Paris, whose beauty had been so marred during the fearful siege, and thousands of whose people were undergoing the agonies of suffering, poverty and famine, awakened Miss Barton's sympathy. Ninety thousand horses had been killed and eaten for food, and Miss Barton and her maid were obliged to enter that city on foot, for want of conveyance. She was surrounded by multitudes of half-starved men and women, clamorous for work and for help. The Mayor was most distracted by his oppressive cares and anxieties in behalf of the poor. When Miss Barton addressed him he thought of his adoption of the Red Cross, and he said: "Your house is too elegant, too fine, for this business," but he replied: "Nothing is too good that can be of any service to these people. My house was spared during the war, though I expected to find it in ruins." Miss Barton who nominated Miss Barton for the President of the Red Cross Society, and well have her services proved the wisdom of that President's nomination. She broadened the scope of Red Cross work to meet the needs of suffering humanity in every calamity that might arise, not only in great conflagrations, or when contagion sheds its blighting influence over city and town to such an extent as to awaken the sympathy and the willing aid of even distant cities and States.

It was the writer's privilege to cooperate with Miss Barton for one month, during the great flood on the Ohio some fourteen years ago, as a member of the Chicago branch of the Red Cross Society. With her he went down the Ohio on the first steamer that ever floated the Red Cross flag; a boat chartered by Miss Barton at Evansville, Ind., and laden with liberal contributions of clothing, fuel and money, sent by many of the Western cities and towns for the relief of the destitute and suffering ones.

In that service the writer saw the wisdom of personal effort, guided by careful judgment, in the distribution of relief to the needy. While it dealt relief with no niggardly hand, it avoided the great evil of pauperizing the needy by thoughtless and over liberal giving. It is not marvelous to think that this noble woman, who has made the Red Cross movement so wide-embracing in its scope of sympathy, compassion and mercy, has had the endurance to extend her personal service over a period of thirty-seven years, in five different nations, through four wars, two Ohio floods, and also, the tragic flood of Johnstown, Pa., the pestilence of Florida, and that now she has just returned from her faithful ministry in Cuba to lend her aid in fitting out the first Red Cross hospital ship, that is about to follow in the wake of the American squadron, and serve as a ministering angel to the suffering and dying, whether American, Cuban or Spanish.

Well may our Sacramento women find inspiration in such a woman's life and useful career in joining their efforts, here in our own city, to organize an active branch of the American Red Cross Society. Let all our patriotic citizens lend a hand to this good movement, and may the brave men, who go forward from California cities and towns feel that they have left behind them warm and sympathetic hearts, ever ready to minister solace and aid in their hour of need.
